Erik Erickson And Freud

The New York Times magazine section had an article about a great contemporary psychiatrist and analyst - Erik Erickson. A prolific writer - provocative - stimulating and effective. A man who took Freud's work and up-dated it - modernized it, so to speak. Made it practical with innervating worth - unlike some of Freuds contemporaries who went on different paths only to get lost because of their detours.

Erik Erickson has been a professor of developmental psychology at Harvard. It was he who stressed the recognition of personality identity with its problems in modern man. The value of his work lies in the ability to look at our personality growth and development as a healthy, well person - not based on development from abnormalities. He also showed that other ages in our growth such as adolescence and even maturity can have an effect on our personalities - not just childhood. Although childhood undoubtedly is the most important. All this related to us as people in present day society.

The influence of Freud has been the most important evolvement in personality evaluation, and it has bothered me, no end, that he has been maligned and belittled, if not ignored. This is really impossible because his tenets are, in my opinion, truisms. No matter how avoided and camouflaged-the truths he taught us stand like beacons. Here Erickson has again emphasized the Ego and its place in psycho-social development.

This exciting article in the Times magazine section was written by David Elkin. Erickson's contributions and works are discussed. Let me here recommend that if you can't find this week's Times, that you take it upon yourself to learn and read of Erik Erickson. His latest works are "Young Man Luther", "Gandhis Truth", "Insight and Responsibility", "Youth: Change and Challenge", and "Childhood and Society".

In this last book, which I have and offer to you, if you are interested in what - I repeat - is truly exciting analysis and self recognition - he makes three major contributions to the study of the human ego:

Side by side with the stages of psycho sexual development [Freud] - the oral, anal, phallic, genital, oedipal and pubertal - were psychosocial stages of ego development in which the individual had to establish new basic orientations to himself and his social world. That personality development continues throughout the whole life cycle and that each stage had a positive as well as negative component.

To understand these three contributions better, Erickson divided the life cycle into eight stages in each of which there is a social interaction! We are always growing and are being influenced by our environment.

What his kind of contribution does is allow the analyst to work on personality failures as immediate problems and not blame everything on the parent or childhood or infantile frustrations. Society and the individual himself are involved in problems. The value of this lies in the fact that the weaknesses and strengthsof a given stage make rectification or corrections possible without going all the way back to the womb.

Read something by Erik Erickson for your own good and to understand better your children. Although the word "Hope" is no longer a part of me, it may be for you and he will enrich your acceptance of modern youth, who, though he pretends to discard you [above 30] he still needs you as he will need the kids he produces who will discard him as a parent.

Isn't it all so silly that as we grope along life's path, we think we stand alone?

Paul Righini, chairman of the St. Moritz Association Ball Park Committee, announced plans for the May 10 dedication of Robert Curry Little League Field. Several sponsors from the association have volunteered to outfit ball teams. More men are needed as coaches of the four teams to be organized among area children.

Ernest Coose of the City Dumping Committee will seek an early meeting with Chairman James Ricciuti to resolve dumping problems.

Coose will also ask the Commissioner of Public Works to have an abandoned truck removed at the entrance to the dump, and to replace present signs with a conspicuous sign at the entrance to the road to the dump.

Mrs. Paul Kelly, Recreation Committee chairman, will contact the MDC regarding a family picnic in the St. Moritz Pond groves this summer. She asked for suggestions for reviving the St. Moritz Winter Carnival on a smaller scale.

Trophies for the St. Moritz Horseshoe Tournament were voted.

Mr. Nourse announced that the semi-annual dance will be held at the Morrisette Post on June 12 with music by Nick Mascetta. A buffet breakfast will follow.

Edward Mackey, Katherine Good, Coose and Nourse were named to a nominating committee to present a slate of officers for election at the May meeting.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Q. What should I wear for jewelry with my wedding gown?

A. You have not told me what type of neckline your gown has. If it is the victorian style [high collar] that is the most popular in today's styles no neck jewelry is worn. You may wear small earrings usually pearl or if you are fortunate enough to have diamonds by all means wear them. With a scoop neckline a string of pearls or a dainty pendant may be worn.

Never wear rhinestones or costume jewelry. You must not wear a watch or bracelet. Your engagement ring is worn on the right hand until after the ceremony. Then it is placed on your left hand over the wedding ring.

Q. Must I wear gloves with long sleeves?

A. Gloves are never worn with a long sleeved wedding gown. In the case of shorter sleeves there should be an inch to an inch and a half space between the bottom of the sleeve and top of the glove. Be sure to slit the seam of the third finger left hand, tuck the glove finger into the palm of the glove and you're ready to receive the wedding band.

Q. I will be married in September. I keep putting off shopping for my gown because I don't know just what is expected of me by the bridal shops.

A. There is an excellent article in one of the current bride magazines on "How To Buy Your Dream Dress". This was written after asking bridal consultants all over the country for suggestions. I recommend every bride read it before she starts shopping.

Major League Scouts On Varney's Trail

Pete Varney, former North Quincy High standout, now a Harvard junior, has had big league baseball and football scouts after him ever since he graduated from high school but the baseball scouts are more enthused than ever about him following the Harvard baseball team's recent swing of Florida.

The Crimson swept all seven games in Florida and the big North Quincy slugger, who caught, played right field and made his debut at first base, batted .571, hit 5 home runs and drove in 20 runs.

Pete was drafted twice as a catcher while in high school and passed up a big bonus offer by the then Kansas City Athletics after peppering the left field wall one night at Fenway Park.

Billy Enos of Cohasset, then the A's chief New England scout, made a handsome offer but Varney told him, "I am going to Harvard and get my education. If you are still interested in me after I graduate, we can talk some more."

Varney is in the pro league's college pool and also is expected to be a prime football draft choice. Pete was an all-East end at Harvard and one of the top pass receivers in the East last fall. And he still has another year.

Queen Pins Hold Bowling Crown

The Queen Pins have retained their crown by winning the 15th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy.

The Queen Pins ousted the Rag Dolls 1572-1413 for their fifth tourney win, and second straight championship.

The defending champions captured all strings, building up to a runaway in the match by 159 pins. Betty Gagne fired a 353 for the Queen pins with strings of 116, 117 and 120 to lead her team. Bev Putnam followed with 314, while Joyce Agnew rolled 305; Mary Powell also hit 305; and Mal Adams chipped in with 295.

Josie Delgreco posted a 289 high three string total for the losing Rag Dolls.

Individual awards for Tourney honors went to Betty Gagne with a high tourney average of 107.8 for 15 strings. Noreen Mastroianni of the Eight O'clock Rollers held high three string total of 368. Celeste Maloney took the high string single for the Bowling Bugs with 154.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club, presented a $50. check to the winning team, and each member will receive a trophy at their League's bowling night at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

Five Teams Down To Wire In Quincy Little Loop

The Quincy Bowling Little Loop winds up the season Saturday with five teams in hot contention for the championship.

Action starts at 9 a.m. at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

Hennessy Plumbing Supply and Wollaston Bowladrome are tied for top spot at 59-33 but the Hennessy club with a total pinfall of 31,478 has a 57-pin edge.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett and Mayor James R. McIntyre teams are deadlocked in second place at 58-34. The Brett team has the league's top pinfall of 31,907 and is considered a serious threat.

The George F. Bryan VFW Post, with a 57-35 mark and only two points out of first place, could pull off an upset.

Paul Peckham, captain of the Brett team, is pacing the league with a 103.43 average–rolling a 300 or better the past 12 weeks. Behind Peckham are:

Mike Conroy, 97.47; Tom Joyce, 97.33; Mike Lorman, 97.2; Steve Levine, 96.42; Dick Hirtle, 96.24; Dick Magnarelli, 95.32; Frank Alibrandi, 94.62; Charles McCarthy, 94.48 and John Repoff, 93.48.

The Brett team racked up last week's high team three of 1,403 and high single of 503. Peckham bowled the high individual three of 341. Vin Durkin had the high individual string–a 132.

Mayor Names Three More To Ice Rink Committee

Three additional members have been named by Mayor James R. McIntyre to the Ice Skating Rink Investigating Committee which will study the possible location and feasibility of a self-paying rink in Quincy.

William F. Ryan, Quincy Recreation Director; Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Park and Recreation Board and Robert P. Hayes, active in ice hockey interests, will serve under chairman Carl Leone, Jr., director of athletics in Quincy.

New GD Soccer Team Recalls Past Glories

By TOM SULLIVAN

For many years, dating back to the 1890's, soccer thrived in Quincy thanks to the achievements of Fore River Shipyard teams.

Today, after a lapse of several years, Fore River Soccer is back in the news with another combine, under the colors of General Dynamics, entered in the newly-organized Commonwealth Soccer League, which opened its first year on Sunday.

The new General Dynamics team is coached by Fred Bridge, who learned his soccer in Britain and for years was one of Greater Boston's better players. He left England 18 years ago and announces for the third time that he has retired as an active player.

"Our team is comprised of people brought over by General Dynamics from the United Kingdom, mainly English and Scotch with a sprinkling of Irish thrown in," Bridge said.

"The team is being sponsored by the General Dynamics Recreation Association. We should have an excellent team in this fine new league which also includes Quincy Rangers, made up mainly of Quincy boys and headed up by Pete Gallagher, a local school teacher, and Weymouth Warriors, managed by Alan Grayson, Brandeis University coach and a sportswriter for the Christian Science Monitor.

"It will take a little time to organize our best possible team as there are approximately 240 United Kingdom boys to choose from. It appears we may have to share the high school field at the rear of Quincy Veterans' Memorial Stadium with the Rangers for home games."

Last Sunday's scheduled league openers were postponed because of the conditions of the fields following the heavy snow and rain. They included Revere at Quincy Rangers and General Dynamics at Norfolk Prison Shamrocks.

Next Sunday the Rangers will be home to Weymouth Warriors in a 2 p.m. game at the high school field and General Dynamics will play at Peabody.

Bridge has done much research on Quincy soccer and came up with the following facts:

In the early days of this century a number of Scottish soccer enthusiasts employed at Fore River Shipyard organized a team to compete against other clubs in Eastern Mass. Together with teams from Boston, Lynn, Lawrence, Lowell, Methuen and Andover, Fore River became a part of the Merrimac Valley League but in 1906 the Greater Boston teams decided to form their own association, the Boston and District League.

After a short sojourn with this league, the Shipbuilders shifted their allegiance to the semi-pro New England League, a strong group that included teams from Fall River, New Bedford and Pawtucket, R.I.

Before the advent of the United States Soccer Football Association in 1913, the Fore River club, through its Southern N. E. affiliations, was allied with American Football Association, a loosely knit organization that conducted the annual American Challenge Cup competition for soccer centers along the Atlantic Seaboard from New England to Maryland.

The inauguration of the National Challenge Cup in 1914 by the U. S. Soccer Football Association enabled the Quincy eleven to establish itself as one of the soccer powers of the East. In 1920 Fore River reached the final round of the National Competition only to meet defeat at St. Louis, 2-1.

Between World War I and World War II Fore River played in the Southern New England, the Industrial and the National Leagues but the depression days of the 30's hit the industrial complex and dealt a severe blow to soccer as company-sponsored sport. During this period the Fore River club ceased operations.

Over the years many prominent players and officials were members of the Fore River organization. Such names as Blair, Neil, Sinclair, Littlejohn, Meldrum, Lyons, Murray, McLachlin, MacGregor, Farqhar, Cummings, Clawson, Page, Daly, Fleming, Straden and Bradford come to mind. The team held a semi-pro status during most of its existence and many players from the major professional and junior professional leagues of Scotland and England were recruited to its ranks.

After World War II the Fore River CIO Union sponsored a team that made a strong effort to regain some of the past glory of Quincy soccer but this team passed out of the picture after several years. Players such as the Logans, McGuires, Quinns, Cosgroves, Jacks and others were in this group.

Now Quincy and Fore River will again be represented in national soccer competition and, with so many players from Scotland, England and Ireland playing, the General Dynamics team will revive fond memories of Fore River's past soccer glories.

Recreation Roundup

The first round eliminations of the Quincy Recreation Department's city-wide basketball tournament took place last Saturday at Broad Meadows Junior High School gymnasium.

All the teams are composed of players who are city boys and who have registered at a recreation center and have played during the regular recreation seasonal program, notes William F. Ryan, director of recreation. Only those boys who have played on a school varsity team are not eligible to participate.

In the first game, in the elementary division, Atherton Hough and Point Junior High had a close battle, with Atherton Hough one step ahead all the way. One minute before the final buzzer, Point tied it up at 20-20. But Atherton Hough's high scorer, Mike Bubois, scored his seventh and winning basket to give his team the victory, 22-20. High scorer for the losers was Dave Perdios, with nine points.

In the junior division, Brian Buckley's defending champs from Central bombed Broad Meadows 64-24. Central, led by Jim Evans [16 points] and Steve Miller [13 points] employed a devastating full court press with an alternating zone defense to attain the lopsided victory. John Ryan, with 12 points, was the sole bright spot for the defeated hosts.

Tournament director Lionel H. Buckley says this week's round two eliminations Saturday will present a full card. Games will be played in all three divisions.

Elementary, Junior and Senior at two different locations, starting at 9:30 a.m.

At Broad Meadows:

Atherton Hough vs. Central [Junior defending champs]

Sterling vs. Snug Harbor [Elementary defending champs]

At Atlantic Junior High School:

Beechwood Knoll vs. Wollaston [Senior defending champs]

Montclair vs. Atlantic

The third round eliminations will be held at the same locations, Saturday April 18, starting at 9:30 a.m., with the finals for all three divisions held Wednesday night, April 22, at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

FAMOUS New England Clippers Wheelchair basketball team will meet the North Quincy Red Raiders in a special exhibition game April 15, at 7:30 p.m. at North Quincy High gym., sponsored by the North Quincy Boosters Club. The team, comprised of paraplegic veterans of World War II, Korea and Vietnam, is in its 23rd season. From the left are Walt Sullivan, Coach Joe Villa, Ken Frank, Terry Van Meter, Tom O'Brien, Bill Frey, Greg Seymourian, Armond Thibotout and Don Riel. A "surprise" team will participate in the second half.

Skindivers Ready West Indies Safari

A group of Quincy area skindivers will get away from it all Saturday for a 10-day "Atlantic Safari" to the Cayman Islands in the British West Indies.

John Baldi, owner of the South Shore Skindiver Co., Washington St., Quincy Point, will head the party for the fourth year.

The group will fly from Logan Airport Saturday to Miami and then to the Cayman Islands for underwater exploring and to make a movie in a network of underwater caves discovered last year at Cayman Brac.

The group, which will use the cruiser Coral Queen as its headquarters, includes:

Rosemarie Guivens, Ned Crockett, Vicki Crockett, Greg Yacobian, Robert Harold, Edward Hultgren, Janos Laszlo, Howard White, Gordon Walker, Peter Beshara, Tim Hartnett, Kenneth Clark, Joseph Dugay, Jack Sullivan, Thomas McPhail, Harold Sharaf, Gloria Alpert and Kathleen Underwood.

Baldi is planning another safari to Haiti and to Greece in the near future.

Pitching Brightens QJC Baseball Picture

A year ago Quincy Junior College fielded its first baseball team and turned in several fine performances despite a 5-7 Mass. Junior College League record and a 5-8 overall mark.

Quincy lost some real heartbreakers and weak pitching was the big reason for the under .500 record. The first two games were lost on late inning home runs which broke tie games.

"The pitching was the real weakness last year and I expect it to be stronger this year," Coach Dave Burke, former North Quincy High and Bowdoin College ace, said. "We lacked pitching depth last spring and had as many as four games some weeks. Dick Volpe and Jim Mezzetti were the only pitchers to go the route and both are back this year."

Volpe, a resident of Braintree but a former Morrisette Legion star, and Mezzetti, a fine utility player who may fill in at several positions, head the hurlers together with Carl Lindgren, a former Quincy High standout.

Pitching hopefuls are Southpaw John Murphy, Joe Williams of Quincy and Walter Intron.

"This is a good looking group and I think Lindgren will help us a lot," Burke said. "I have no worries about Volpe and Mezzetti and some of the other boys are looking good."

Bill Osborne of Quincy, last year's starting catcher and a league all-star second team selection, is back and is being pushed by George Regan, a reserve last season.

Striving for the first base job are Mike Fermino and Art Coughlin, who batted .300 a year ago and who will play in the outfield if Fermino makes the grade at first.

George Schleicher of North Quincy and Brian Duran from Boston English are the second place hopes and Jim Broderick, a standout for North Quincy High last year, has the inside track on shortstop.

At third base Quincy's Jack Raymer and Allen Burke, who saw action last year, are battling it out.

Frank Driscoll, another veteran, Gary Timlin from Boston English, and Fermino or Coughlin are the likely outfield starters but there are several others fighting to make the grade.

"We have keener competition at most positions than a year ago and this should work to our advantage," the QJC coach said.

A year ago QJC's top batter was first baseman Dick Howe, who led the league in batting with a sparkling .545 average and was an all-star first team selection. Burke revealed he has made it as starting first baseman for Suffolk University this season.

QJC opens its season on April 17 against Newbury School in a 3 p.m. game at Fore River Field, home field again this season. The next morning the same teams meet at Newton and on the 21st Quincy will host Newton Junior College.

High School Baseball, Track Teams In Openers Next Week

The Quincy and North Quincy baseball and track teams, following practice games and meets this week, will open their Greater Boston League seasons next week.

Monday the cross-town rivals face each other in the baseball opener at Adams Field.

On Thursday the Quincy trackmen meet Revere and North meets Somerville at Medford. This year all league meets will be held at the same time. Quincy, Medford and Somerville will be the sites.

Ralph Frazier, who was North's head coach last year but gave up the position when named football coach, has been appointed assistant to head coach Bob Gentry.

'New Mass' In All Quincy Catholic Churches Sunday

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Quincy Roman Catholics, along with others in the Boston Archdiocese, will officially adopt the "New Mass" Sunday.

This is actually a revised Order of Service to allow for more participation by the people in a manner "more intelligible, practical, enjoyable and satisfying," in the words of Pope Paul VI.

Some Quincy churches have already had a preview of the new mass, with a view to making a smooth transition on the official Sunday.

At St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, parishioners began in early March to use the new order, one part at a time.

"There was no problem at all – we were very thrilled with it," Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor, said.

St. Joseph's parishioners in Quincy Point were introduced to the service on Passion Sunday, and at St. John the Baptist, Quincy Center, it has been in use since Palm Sunday.

Last Sunday, clergy of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Merrymount, and St. Boniface's parish in Germantown took the initial step. While there was perhaps a little confusion, no great problems are anticipated, and in general, parishioners accepted the changes with enthusiasm, according to the priests.

Sacred Heart Church in North Quincy and St. Ann's Church in Wollaston and Star of the Sea in Squantum will start on Sunday, using the new form at all masses. The same is true at Most Blessed Sacrament Church at Houghs Neck, where Rev. James F. Hart for the last month has used a part of each worship service to explain a section of the new order to familiarize his parishioners with the changes. Lectors were briefed on their roles Sunday night.

Liturgical experts emphasize that the new Mass does not include any great changes. The most obvious occurs at the opening of the mass when the priest, instead of giving a private prayer at the altar, goes quickly to his chair and leads the congregation in a penitential prayer.

Four changes are made in the revised Order of Service.

●--There are a number of minor adjustments in the order of events throughout the Mass, particularly that mentioned above.

●--It shortens and modifies many of the prayers said by the priest, some replaced by brief English blessings.

●--It modifies the participation of the people in that there are now several places where they may remain silent to reflect and pray as individuals. There are also more places where the parishioners enter into dialogue with the celebrant.

A few texts are revised, but without theological or doctrinal revision.

Scripture readings have been reorganized completely so that there are now three, one each from the Old Testament, the Epistles and the Gospels. This is planned to provide a fuller acquaintance with the scriptural sources of Christianity.

Perhaps most significant of all is the revised text of the Prayer for Peace:

"Deliver us, Lord, from every evil,
and grant us peace in our day.
In your mercy keep us free from sin and protect us from all anxiety as we wait in joyful hope for the coming of our Savior, Jesus Christ.
For the Kingdom, the power,
ant the glory are yours,
now and for ever. Amen"

Second Inter-Church Council Interchange To Be Held Sunday

Rev. Robert Bossdorf of Atlantic Methodist Church will conduct 10:45 a.m. worship at Memorial Congregational Church.

At 8 p.m. members of all churches are invited to Atlantic Methodist Church for an Inter-Church Council Communion Service using COCU liturgy in the Methodist manner.

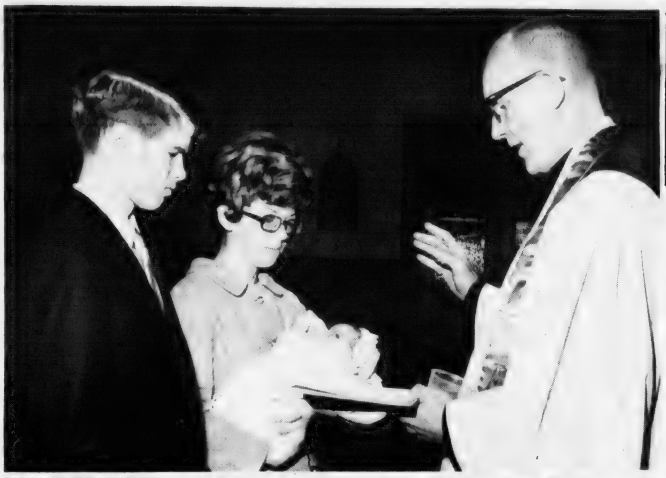
A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

People and nations have known good times and bad. No matter what the social, economic or physical status is or will be, a crisis or confusion will always exist somewhere for some people.

A crisis and confusion is a part of living. Each of us must face some sort of crisis or confusion sooner or later. To face a crisis requires courage - and courage is a personal matter. Courage can not be leased, borrowed or bought. It must be drawn from one's self, for one's self. And when courage is shown, it often draws out the courage in others. When courage is shown, confusion can and often does disappear.



Ever since time began, the greatest source for courage has been traced to a foundation on a faith. Faith creates hope. Without faith and hope, courage is difficult to come by. In spite of dark clouds faith, hope and courage will always be the means to let us see the rays of sunshine again.

'The Power Of A Woman'

The crowning work of God's creation is a woman. When a woman understands herself...her inward powers...how to BE a woman to her man, she is magnetic in her role. Notice the word BE...I didn't say DO.

I hear repeatedly from men..."She's a good mother...good cook...good housekeeper. But as a wife she's a blank." What's wrong? This kind of wife hasn't learned the power...the joy...the fulfillment of her womanhood.

Too many women are confused about their role. A wife is to be a "helpmate" to her husband. That means giving support...companionship...affection...sensitive to her man's needs. I know those are fighting words to some women. Whenever I say such words I get a whole flock of letters [often unsigned] charging that I want to see women submerged. Nothing could be further from the truth. When a woman is a true "helpmate" to her husband, she's not submerged...she is elevated to her highest position.

Recently I received a letter from a 71-year-old widow...she had lived alone since the death of her husband five years ago. Said she..."You are so right...what a man needs is warm affection from his wife to let him feel [get that word feel] that she is with him...sharing his burdens and successes. That's the way my husband and I lived together for 46 years...and now that he's gone part of me is gone too. I was everything I could BE to him. He always came first even before the children. We knew a lot of sorrow through the years...but he always knew I was with him." It seems sad that such a relationship has to be broken by death."

When a woman lives the virtues of warm adult womanhood...tenderness ...companionship... supportive praise...soft-spoken words...uninhibited sexual love...that man will get home to her after work as quickly as he can...he'll confide his innermost thoughts...he'll give her emotional and material security to the best of his ability. And what's more, he'll be more of a man because of her...for no man is as good a man as he can be without a loving woman by his side.

Of course...there are men who cannot appreciate this kind of woman...the alcoholic...the mama's boy...the workolic...the insecure fellow...those whose emotional development never got beyond the fifth grade...these males do not know how to treat a tender loving woman. They put her through hell...her powers of womanhood bounce off these guys like sleet from the windshield. Some men who are cold...hard...or milk-toast weaklings...untrusting...inattentive... nearly always the products of bad childhood experiences...are totally unequipped for marriage. It's next to impossible for any woman to get through to such a man, she'll probably ruin her life if she tries indefinitely. She'll have to learn when to quit him. Love can cease to be a virtue.

Fortunately...most men appreciate the qualities of a warm woman...and respond to their loving wives seeking in every way to match her goodness.

The traps that many women fall into which short-circuits their power are many. One is dominance...calling the shots...giving commands as a WAC Sergeant...making the plans so that the man feels he's just going along to pay the fare. Some men haven't a stick of furniture in the home that they've had a voice in selecting. This emasculates a man...makes him feel used...destroys his ego...and her own happiness.

Another trap which short circuits a woman's power is persistent nagging and complaining to get what she wants. It turns a man off...makes him ask..."Why did I ever get into this?"

The worst trap of all is resisting the man. If he's a good man...strong man...he doesn't need a competitor at home...he has that all day at work. The anti-male woman enters into sexual relations as a duty rather than a pleasure...gets pleasure from psychologically castrating her man...or by humiliating him in public. This woman has a serious deep-seated problem...usually stemming from childhood. The man who is her victim cannot be happy nor can he relate to the anti-male woman. Her only power is to hurt him...to destroy.

A woman's power rests in her femaleness...not when she acts like a man. She's phony when she does...she's really loathed by men when she does. She's unhappy when she does...may not even know why she's unhappy. I repeat..."The crowning work of God's creation is a woman". In a real woman there is magnetic power. The distortions of womanhood are making weak...sick men...misery for women...rebellion and weakness among their children.

SECTION 11 TITLE, PURPOSE AND SCOPE

1. This Ordinance, enacted pursuant to, and under the authority of, Chapter 40A of the General Laws of the Commonwealth and in addition, in the case of signs, in accord with the provisions of Section 29 of Chapter 93 of the General Laws, shall be known and may be cited as the "Quincy Zoning Ordinance."
2. The regulations and restrictions of this Ordinance controlling generally the development and use of land, and the height, size, location and use of buildings and structures thereon are intended to promote the health, safety, convenience and general welfare of the inhabitants of the City of Quincy. In their interpretation and application, the provisions of this Ordinance shall be held to be the minimum requirements adopted for the promotion of these purposes.
3. This Ordinance shall not nullify the more restrictive provisions of covenants, agreements, other ordinances or laws, but shall prevail notwithstanding such provisions which are less restrictive.

Section 12 ENFORCEMENT

1. The Building Inspector as designated under Section 206 of the Quincy Building Code shall administer and enforce this Ordinance, including the receiving of applications, the inspection of premises and the issuing of building permits for the construction, alteration or relocation of buildings and structures.
2. The Building inspector shall not grant a permit for the construction, alteration or relocation of any building or structure except where the provisions of this Ordinance have been complied with; nor shall any municipal officer issue any permit or license for a new use of a building, structure or land which use would be in violation of this Ordinance or amendment thereof. If the Building Inspector shall find that any of the provisions of this Ordinance are being violated, he shall notify in writing the person responsible for such violation, indicating the nature of the violation and ordering the action necessary to correct it. He shall order discontinuance of illegal use of land, buildings or structures, or work related thereto; removal of illegal buildings or structures or of illegal additions, alterations or structural changes; or shall take any other action authorized by this Ordinance to ensure compliance with its provisions.
3. No building or structure shall be erected, added to or structurally altered until a permit therefor has been issued by the Building Inspector. All applications for such permits shall be in accordance with the requirements of the Quincy Building Code, Section 207, and shall contain such written information, plans, specifications or other such data as shall be deemed necessary for a full and accurate exposition of the proposed construction, alteration or use with relation to the regulations of this Ordinance.
4. The Building Inspector shall return to the applicant one [1] set of the plans submitted for a building permit, after marking such copy either as approved or disapproved. Whenever such permit is refused, because of some provision of this Ordinance, the reason for such refusal shall be clearly stated in writing by the Building Inspector. In the event of doubt whether a building permit should be issued in any particular case, the Inspector shall deny the application therefor. If the Inspector fails to act within thirty [30] days after written request therefor by the applicant, the application shall be deemed denied.
5. Nothing in this Ordinance shall require any change in the construction, size or designated use of a building or structure for which a building permit has been legally granted before the effective date of this Ordinance and construction work under such permit is commenced within ninety [90] days after the issuance of such permit. In the event of a subsequent amendment to the Ordinance, such amendment shall not affect the construction work or use of land for which a permit has been legally issued before publication of the notice of hearing on such amendment by the Planning Board, provided that construction work shall have been started within six months after issuance of such permit. A permit shall remain valid if the work for which it was issued proceeds in good faith continuously to completion so far as is reasonable under the circumstances; but such permit shall expire if the work for which it was issued is suspended or abandoned for a period of six months.
6. Any person aggrieved by a violation of any portion of this Ordinance may formally request the Building Inspector in writing to enforce the Ordinance, and the Inspector shall act upon such request within ten [10] days hereafter by written notice to the person submitting the request and to the owner of each parcel of property specifically affected by the ruling. Written notice shall state whether the request to enforce the Ordinance is granted or not granted and specify the reasons thereto.
7. Any person aggrieved by any action taken or determination made by the Building Inspector in the administration of this Ordinance may appeal within thirty [30] days thereafter to the Board of Appeals by filing with the City Clerk a notice of appeal specifying the ground thereof and shall pay a fee of twenty-five dollars [25.00] at the time of filing.

SECTION 13 CERTIFICATE OF OCCUPANCY

1. No land shall be occupied or used and no building or structure, erected or structurally altered, shall be occupied or used in whole or in part for any purpose until a Certificate of Occupancy has been issued by the Building Inspector stating that all buildings and use of premises comply with the provisions of the Zoning Ordinance and the Building Code of the City of Quincy. A Certificate of Occupancy becomes void immediately upon termination of the use for which it was issued.
2. A record of all occupancy permits shall be kept on file by the Inspector and certified copies shall be furnished on request to any person having a proprietary or tenancy interest in the premises affected, upon payment of the required fee.

SECTION 14 BOARD OF APPEALS

1. There shall be a Board of Appeals as provided by the General Laws, Chapter 40A, and 14, as amended, which shall act on all matters within its jurisdiction under this chapter in the manner prescribed in such section, and shall have all powers granted by such section, subject always to the rule that it shall give due consideration to the promotion of public health, safety, convenience and welfare, encouraging the most proper use of land, and conserving property values, that it shall permit no building or use injurious, noxious, offensive or detrimental to a neighborhood and that it shall prescribe proper conditions and safeguards in each case.

   The board shall consist of three members to be appointed by the mayor. All members of the board shall be residents of the city; one member shall be an attorney at law, one shall be either an architect, engineer or master builder. The appointments first made shall be for one, two and three years respectively, so that the terms of one member shall expire each year and subsequent appointments shall be for a term of three years.

   Vacancies shall be filled for unexpired terms within sixty [60] days in the same manner as in case of original appointments and as hereinafter provided.

There shall at all times be three associate members of the Board of Appeals who shall be appointed in like manner and have the same qualifications as the regular members of the board. In case of an unfilled vacancy, inability to act, or interest on the part of the member of such board, the mayor shall designate one of the associate members to take the place of such member.

The Board of Appeals shall exercise the powers and perform the duties prescribed for a Board of Appeals under the provisions of the General Laws, Chapter 40A, or any amendments thereto. Any action of such board under such sections shall be in accordance with and subject to the terms thereof.

2. The Board of Appeals may request the written comments and recommendations of the Planning Department and any other municipal office it deems proper during its review of any petition.
3. General Laws, Chapter 40A, Section 20, as amended, shall regulate repetitive petitions to the Board of Appeals.

SECTION 15 SPECIAL PERMITS

1. By the terms of this Ordinance, the Board of Appeals is authorized to approve or disapprove certain uses [specified in the Table of Use Regulations, Section 42] for which a special permit is required. On acting on these matters, the Board shall take into consideration the general purpose and intent of this Ordinance and may impose such conditions and safeguards deemed necessary to preserve community values. The Board may grant a permit without finding of hardship, or for stated reasons, may deny the permit. In granting a permit, the Board may impose further restrictions on the property as are appropriate, but shall not waive or relax any applicable provision of this Ordinance.
2. The Board of Appeals shall not approve an application for a special permit, unless it finds that all of the following conditions are met:
   [a] The specific site is an appropriate location for such use or structure.
   [b] The use as developed will not adversely affect the neighborhood.
   [c] There will be no nuisance or serious hazard to vehicles or pedestrians.

   To assure that the foregoing conditions are met, the Board may impose any restrictions deemed necessary, such as, but not limited to, the following:

SECTION 16 VARIANCES

The Board of Appeals shall have the power to authorize upon appeal, or upon petition in cases where a particular use is sough' for which no permit is required, with respect to a particular parcel of land or existing building thereon, a variance from the terms of the Ordinance where, owing to conditions especially affecting such parcel or such building but not affecting generally the zoning district in which it is located, a literal enforcement of the provisions of the Ordinance or by-law would involve substantial hardship, financial or otherwise to the appellant, and where desirable relief may be granted without substantial detriment to the public good and without nullifying or substantially derogating from the intent or purpose of the Ordinance, but not otherwise.

In exercising the powers above, the Board may impose limitations both of time and use, and a continuation of the use permitted may be conditioned upon compliance with regulations to be made and amended from time to time thereafter.

SECTION 17 AMENDMENTS TO THE ORDINANCE

1. This Zoning Ordinance and the map attached thereto may be amended from time to time by the City Council, but only in accordance with the procedure specified in Chapter 40A of the General Laws and as herein provided.
2. Petitions for proposed changes in this Ordinance may be initiated by an individual or an official of the City or by the City Council on its own motion. In all cases the petition shall be forwarded from the City Council to the Planning Board, shall be in writing and shall identify the pertinent sections proposed for change and the manner in which they are proposed to be amended.
3. The General Laws, Chapter 40A, Section 8, as amended, shall regulate repetitive petitions to make changes in this Ordinance.

Within such planned communities, the location of all residential, commercial, industrial, and governmental uses, school sites, parks, playgrounds, recreation areas, parking areas and other open spaces shall be controlled in such a manner as to permit a variety of housing accomodations and land uses in orderly relationship to one another. Open spaces, including those between structures, shall be protected where necessary by adequate restrictions or covenants, running with land conveyances or dedications. Every single-family dwelling shall have access to a public street, court, walkway or other area dedicated to public use.
   [e] Ten [10] copies of a detailed plan, together with ten [10] copies of a written description of that plan, shall be submitted to the Planning Board. a two-thirds vote of all the members of the City Council within twenty [20] days of said approval by the Planning Board. The Planning Board or the City Council may also require sketch plans indicating future development of surrounding areas under the same unified ownership or control to insure compatability.

3. Open Space
   [a] The purpose of the Open Space district is to identify those areas dedicated or used for public or semi-public uses such as parks and recreation areas, cemeteries and open-space reservations. Within an Open Space district, no buildings or premises shall be used, and no building or structure shall be permitted for other than one of the following specified purposes:
      [i] Conservation of soil, water, plants and wildlife.
      [ii] Recreation, including play and sporting areas, education and nature study, golf, skating, boating, swimming and fishing where otherwise legally permitted.
      [iii] Forestry, including tree nurseries.
      [iv] Storage of materials and/or equipment for cemetery, parks or playground purposes.
   [b] Within an Open Space district, no structure or building shall be erected, altered or used by a public agency, except as permitted above.
   [c] Lands acquired and utilized for public or semi-public Open Space purposes by a private organization may be included in the Open Space district.
4. Flood Plain District
   [a] The purpose of the Flood Plain district is to preserve and maintain the ground water table; to protect the public health and safety, persons and property against the hazards of flood water inundation; for the protection of the community against the costs which may be incurred when unsuitable development occurs in swamps, marshes, along water courses, or in areas subject to floods; and to conserve natural conditions, wild life, and open spaces for the education, recreation, and general welfare of the public. The Flood Plain district shall be considered to be superimposed over the other districts shown on the Zoning Map as a recognition of the special hazards which exist in such areas.
   [b] Within a Flood Plain district, no structure or building shall be erected except by special permit of the Board of Appeals.
   [c] Any person desiring a special permit shall submit an application to the Board of Appeals, describing in detail the proposed use of the property and the work to be performed, accompanied by plans showing:
      [i] The location, boundaries and dimension of the lot, and existing and proposed structures, watercourses and drainage easements, fill, means of access, and sewerage disposal facilities.
      [ii] Mean sea level elevation, with five-foot or less contour separation, of the existing and proposed land surface, of cellar and first floors, and sewerage disposal facilities.
      [iii] Test borings of sufficient depth to show location of peat, hardpan and other impervious material.
      [iv] Copies of the application shall be delivered by the applicant to the Health Commissioner, the City Engineer, the Building Inspector, the Planning Director, and the Chairman of the Conservation Commission, who shall advise the Board of Appeals in writing.
   [d] The Board of Appeals may issue a special permit under this section if it finds that the use of such premises will not endanger the health and safety of the occupants of the development of the flood plain, or the general public, or it may issue a permit with such conditions as it deems necessary to protect health and safety, or it may deny such application. The burden of showing that the proposed development will not endanger health and safety and will be an appropriate use of the land shall rest upon the applicant. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Board of Appeals shall insure:
      [i] That the lowest floor level shall be at an elevation above mean low water level of at least thirteen [13] feet.
      [ii] That the proposed construction, use and/or change of grade will not obstruct or divert flood flow, reduce natural storage, or increase storm water run-off so that water levels on other land are substantially raised or danger from flooding is increased.
      [iii] That safe vehicular and pedestrian movement to, over and from such premises is provided in event of flooding.
      [iv] That the proposed methods of drainage and sewerage disposal will not cause pollution or endanger health, in event of flooding.
   [e] Nothing contained in this Section shall limit the authority of the Board of Health with respect to premises in the Flood Plain district or affect the applicability of the Building Code to any building in said Flood Plain district.

ARTICLE III ZONING DISTRICTS

   [d] Boundaries indicated as following railroad or rapid transit lines shall be construed to be midway between the main tracks.
   [e] Boundaries indicated as being approximately parellel to the center lines of streets or other features indicated in subsections [a] through [d] above shall be construed as being parellel thereto and at such distance therefrom as indicated on the Zoning Map. Distances, not specifically given on the Zoning Map, shall be determined by the scale of the Zoning Map.
   [f] Where a district boundary line divides any lot existing in single ownership at the time such line is adopted, the regulation for the less restricted portion of such lot shall be applicable to as much of the lot within the more restricted part of such lot as lies within thirty [30] feet of the district boundary.

3. For residential uses permitted in Residence and Business districts which are not divided into dwelling units, each one thousand [1000] square feet of gross floor area of the building shall be considered equivalent to one [1] dwelling unit for purposes of computing minimum lot area and requirements.

4. The minimum lot requirements shall not apply to any lot shown on a plan, deed or other instrument duly recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk or the Norfolk Registry District of the Land Court containing an area of at least 5000 square feet and a minimum lot frontage and width of fifty [50] feet; provided such lot on April 1, 1958 and on the effective date of this Ordinance was and is under the same ownership.

In a Residence B district, for a multi-family dwelling of between four [4] units and sixteen [16] units, no side yard shall be less than fifteen [15] feet. For a multi-family dwelling in excess of sixteen [16] units, each side yard shall be not less than twenty [20] feet.
   [b] In a Residence C or D district, any dwelling hereafter constructed with its frontage on a street forty [40] feet wide or less, the minimum front yard requirement shall be increased by one-half the distance as may be required to increase the width of such street to acceptable standards as defined by the Planning Board under Chapter 41, Section 81-J.
   [c] Where a wall of a building is not parallel with its corresponding lot line, the average width or depth of any yard or setback shall not be less than the dimension specified in Section 52 for the required width or depth, provided that said yard or setback shall not be less at any point than three-fourths the required width or depth.

SECTION 56 HEIGHT EXCEPTIONS

2. Open Space shall be deemed eligible for calculating the open space requirement as specified in Section 52 only if each dimension is at least fifteen [15] feet, except for patios and balconies, as defined in Section 21.
3. The minimum requirement for open space per each dwelling unit in Residence C and D districts having a patio or balcony as defined in Section 21 may be reduced by fifty [50] percent of the total area of such balcony, but in no case more than fifty [50] square feet.

ARTICLE VI SUPPLEMENTARY PROVISIONS

SECTION 61 EXISTING BUILDINGS

This Ordinance shall not apply to existing buildings or structures, nor to the existing use of any building or structure on any land, to the extent to which it is used at the time of first adoption of applicable provisions of this or any prior ordinance, but it shall apply to any change of use thereof and to any alteration of a building or structure, subject to Section 62 of this Article.

SECTION 62 NONCONFORMANCE

1. Any nonconforming building, structure or use which lawfully existed at the time of passage of the applicable provisions of this or any prior ordinance or amendment thereto, may be continued or changed to be conforming, but when so changed, it shall not be made nonconforming again.
2. This Ordinance shall apply to any change of use of an existing building or structure and to any alteration of a building or structure when the same would amount to reconstruction, extension or structural change, and to any alteration of a building or structure to provide for its use for a purpose or in a manner substantially different from the use to which it was put before alteration, or for its use for the same purpose to a substantially greater extent.
   No nonconforming structure or use shall be increased in area, volume, or extent by more than twenty-five [25] percent since it first became nonconforming.
3. Certificates of occupancy may be issued by the Building Inspector when the Board of Appeals authorizes the substitution of one nonconforming use for another. The Board may authorize such substitution if the new nonconforming use is substantially the same as the last former nonconforming use, such as one type of retail store for another type, a beauty parlor for a barber shop.
4. If a nonconforming structure or use shall have been damaged by fire, explosion, or other catastrophe to such an extent that the cost of restoration would be less than fifty [50] percent of the replacement value of the building at the time of the catastrophe as estimated by the Building Inspector, such building or use may be rebuilt or restored and used again as previously. Such building or restoring shall be completed within twelve [12] months after such catastrophe, and the building or use as restored shall not increase in area or degree the extent of nonconformity beyond the state existing prior to the catastrophe. If destroyed to such an extent that the cost of restoration would exceed fifty [50] percent of the replacement value of the building as determined by the Building Inspector, such building or use shall not be restored and may be replaced by a conforming building or use.
5. A nonconforming use of a building or land which has been discontinued or abandoned shall not thereafter be returned to such nonconforming use. A nonconforming use shall be considered discontinued or abandoned when the premises have been devoted to another use, when the intent of the owner to discontinue is apparent or when the characteristic equipment and the furnishings of the nonconforming use have been inoperative for one [1] year or removed from the premises and have not been replaced by similar equipment within one [1] year.
6. If a nonconforming building or a building containing a nonconforming use is declared unsafe by the Building Inspector, it shall not thereafter be restored, repaired or rebuilt except in conformity with the regulations of the district in which it is located.

SECTION 63 ACCESSORY USES

1. An accessory use shall be permitted only on the same lot as the building or use to which it is accessory, except as provided in Article VII, Section 73.
2. No use prohibited as a principal use in a less restricted district shall be allowed as an accessory use.
3. The total area of uses, except parking facilities, accessory to the principal use may not occupy more than twenty-five [25] percent of the floor area in a main building, and the total area of uses or buildings accessory to the principal use except parking facilities may not occupy more than twenty-five [25] percent of the unbuilt lot area.
4. No accessory use is permitted which involves the maintenance of a stock in trade or the use of signs, show windows, illumination or displays except as permitted in Section 81.
5. The Building Inspector may grant a temporary occupancy permit for temporary buildings and trailers during building construction where reasonably required for such construction. Such permit may be issued for an initial period of not more than one year. In the case of a building, the application shall be accompanied by a bond and bill of sale to the City, effective in case the building is not removed prior to the expiration of the permit. Permits may be renewed by the Building Inspector for successive periods of not more than one [1] year each, for a total of three [3] years.

3b Hospitals shall provide one space for each two and one-half [2-1/2] patient beds.
3c Hospitals, sanitariums, or convalescent homes primarily providing long-term custodial care for patients, need not provide more than one space for each five [5] patient beds.

SECTION 73 LOCATION AND LAYOUT OF PARKING FACILITIES

1. Required off-street parking facilities shall be provided on the same lot as the principal use they are required to serve with the following exceptions:
   [a] In the case of multi-family apartments having more than sixteen [16] dwelling units, the required parking facilities may be provided on lots not more than five hundred [500] feet away from an entrance to the building to be served.
   [b] In Industrial A and B districts and in the case of institutional uses in any district, the required parking facilities may be provided on lots not more than one thousand [1000] feet away from an entrance to the building to be served.

   [d] In a Business A or B district, the required parking facilities may be provided on lots not more than two hundred [200] feet away from the building to be served.
2. Off-street parking facilities shall be under the same ownership as the building or buildings which they serve. Where a certificate of occupancy has been issued conditional to the maintenance of off-street parking facilities, such certificate of occupancy shall lapse in the event of the sale or conveyance of the land used for such parking facilities for the required parking.
3. Parking required for two [2] or more buildings or uses under the same ownership may be provided in combined facilities on the same or adjacent lots, subject to approval by the Planning Board, where it is evident that such facilities will continue to be available for the several buildings or uses.
4. Required off-street parking facilities may be enclosed in a structure or may be open. Parking facilities shall be graded, surfaced with tar, asphalt, concrete, or other non-dusting paving, drained and suitably maintained to the satisfaction of the Building Inspector to the extent necessary to avoid the nuisances of dust, erosion, or excessive water flow onto public ways or adjoining property. Parking facilities for more than five [5] automobiles shall be screened, either by planting, which shall be maintained in a healthy growing condition, or by a screening device such as a fence or wall except as required in Section 85. Such planting or screening shall not be less than two and one-half [2-1/2] feet nor more than six [6] feet in height and shall not be less than fifty [50] percent opaque when viewed from directly in front. A bay need not be enclosed in a structure provided any yard used as a loading bay shall not infringe on front, side, and rear yard requirements as indicated in Article V. All such facilities shall be designed with appropriate means of vehicular access to a street as well as maneuvering area.
2. Required off-street loading bays may be enclosed in a structure and must be so enclosed if located within one hundred [100] feet of a Residence district where the use involves regular night operation, such as that of a bakery, restaurant, hotel, or similar uses. Any lighting provided shall be installed in a manner that will prevent direct light from shining onto any street or adjacent property.

ARTICLE VIII ENVIRONMENTAL CONTROLS

SECTION 81 SIGNS

1. In any Residence district no sign or other advertising device shall be permitted except as follows:
   [a] One sign displaying the street number or name of the occupant of the premises or both, not exceeding two [2] square feet in area. The sign may be attached to the building, or may be on a rod or post at least three [3] feet from the front lot line. Such signs may include identification of permitted accessory uses.
   [b] One bulletin or announcement board or identification sign for a permitted nonresidential building or use, not exceeding two [2] square feet in area. For churches and institutions, and multi-family residential developments of more than sixteen [16] units, bulletin or announcement boards or identification signs are permitted not exceeding fifteen [15] square feet in area. Such signs may be located within the required front yard.
   [c] One "For Sale" or "For Rent" sign not exceeding eight [8] square feet in area advertising the premises on which the sign is located.
   [d] One [1] sign in connection with a lawfully maintained Business or Industrial nonconforming use, not exceeding twenty [20] square feet in area.
   [e] Temporary signs in connection with the construction or development of a building or a lot, not exceeding seventy-two [72] square feet in area may be maintained on the premises while a building is under construction. Such signs shall be removed within sixty [60] days after the issuance of occupancy permit.
2. In any Business or Industrial district, signs or advertising devices shall be permitted only as follows:
   [a] Signs or other advertising devices visible from any street whether attached to a building or freestanding shall not exceed a total sign area for each lineal foot of the building frontage along a public or private way as follows:

District	Sign Area Per Lineal Ft. of Building Frontage
Business A	4 sq. ft.
Business B	6 sq. ft.
Business C	6 sq. ft.
Industrial	6 sq. ft.

   [b] Signs or advertising devices not attached to the building shall not exceed eighteen [18] feet in height or one hundred and eight [108] square feet in each face, exclusive of posts or other structural supports. Such signs shall not exceed thirty-two [32] feet in height including posts and other structural supports.
   [c] One [1] accessory sign whether attached or a ground sign on the rear or side lot line of a building not along a public or private way not to exceed forty-eight [48] square feet for each business located in the building or an aggregate total of ninety-six [96] square feet.
   [d] Temporary political signs, not exceeding thirty-two [32] square feet in area, may be erected no sooner than thirty [30] days before any primary election and must be removed by the property owner fourteen [14] days after the general election.
3. No sign shall project over the public way except by special permit from the Board of Appeals. No sign or advertising device so permitted shall project more than six [6] feet over the public way nor exceed seventy-two [72] square feet in area of each face. No sign projecting over the public way shall have more than two [2] faces of advertising.

SECTION 82 ILLUMINATION

1. In a Residence district, no outdoor flood lighting or decorative lighting shall be permitted except lighting primarily designed to illuminate walks, driveways, parking areas, doorways, outdoor living areas or outdoor recreational facilities and except temporary holiday lighting, and except decorative flood-lighting of institutions, public or historic buildings. Any permanent lighting permitted by the preceding sentence shall be continuous indirect light, installed in a manner that will prevent direct light from shining onto any street or adjacent property. No neon type or exposed illuminated gas tube type light shall be allowed.
2. No sign or other advertising device with visible or movable parts or with flashing, animated or intermittent illumination shall be erected or maintained. This prohibition shall not apply to hands and numerals of clocks and thermometers or signs erected to protect the safety of the people against dangerous conditions.

SECTION 83 EARTH REMOVAL

1. No soil, loam, sand, gravel or stone shall be removed from any lot not in public use in the City of Quincy without first obtaining a special permit from the Board of Appeals except as exempted in paragraph 6 [c] of this section.
2. Each application for a special permit for earth removal shall be accompanied by a plan, submitted in triplicate, prepared at the expense of the applicant by a registered Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer, showing [1] the existing contours of the land; [2] the contours as proposed after completion of the operation; [3] all public roads and private means of vehicular access; [4] proposed drainage; and [5] any other information as may be required by the Board of Appeals.
3. Before granting a permit, the Board of Appeals shall give special consideration to the general character of the neighborhood surrounding the location of the proposed earth removal and the effect of the proposed removal on such neighborhoods such as the amount of noise, dust and vibration likely to occur from the proposed removal, the general safety of the public on the public ways giving access to and in the immediate vicinity of such location, the use to which such location has been put prior to the application for a special permit, and to which it may be put after the expiration of the permit.
4. In granting a permit hereunder, the Board of Appeals shall impose reasonable conditions and restrictions as it deems to be in the public interest including but not limited to [1] method of removal; [2] type and location of temporary structures; [3] hours of operation; [4] operations of removal trucks; [5] area, depth and contours of excavations; [6] distance of excavation to street and lot lines; [7] re-establishment of ground lands and grades; [8] provisions for temporary and permanent drainage; [9] disposition of boulders and tree stumps; [10] replacement of loam over the area of removal; [11] planting of the area to suitable cover; and [12] cleaning, repair and/or resurfacing of streets used in removal activities which have been adversely affected by the removal activity.
5. No permit for removal shall be issued for a period of more than three [3] years, although such a permit may be renewed for additional periods in the same manner. The Board of Appeals shall require a bond or other security to insure compliance with its conditions of authorization unless in a particular case it specifically finds that such security is not warranted and so states in its decision, giving the reason for its finding.
6. This section shall not apply to the following:
   [a] The removal of less than ten [10] cubic yards of material in the aggregate in any year from any one premise.
   [b] The transfer of material from one part of a premise to another part of the same premise for immediate use in such other part of the premise.
   [c] The removal of material necessarily excavated in connection with the lawful construction of a building or structure, driveway, parking area, sidewalk or path incidental to any such building or structure, as indicated on plans and profiles prepared by a registered engineer and approved by the Building Inspector.

SECTION 84 FENCING AND SCREENING

1. In an Industrial or Business district, the outdoor storage of goods, products, materials or equipment shall, if visible at normal eye level from any point beyond the boundaries of the premises and less than five hundred [500] feet distant, be screened from such view. Screening, as defined herein, shall be an ornamental lattice, opaque fence, plantings or sight-obscuring screening which shall not be less than six [6] nor more than ten [10] feet high and not less than fifty [50] percent opaque. Plantings shall be at least ten [10] feet in width and contain at least two [2] rows of alternate live decidious and evergreen trees. Said trees shall not be more than five [5] feet apart, have an original planting height of at least six [6] feet, be able to attain a height of at least ten [10] feet, and shall be maintained in a healthy growing condition by the property owner. Any existing open storage of junk in any district shall within three [3] years of the effective date of this Ordinance be properly screened or removed.

2. Where an Industrial district or Business district is located adjacent to a Residence district, a public park or playground and is not separated therefrom by a public way, a compact planting screen as defined in paragraph 1 above along the property or lot line adjoining said district boundary shall be provided and maintained by the owners of said premises. Said screening area shall contain no structures or parking or be devoted to any other use or purpose, and shall be maintained in a healthy growing condition by the property owner.
3. The Board of Appeals may vary requirements of this section when such requirements cause a hardship to the affected property, or where conditions are such that fencing and screening will not serve a useful purpose.

SECTION 85 TRAFFIC VISIBILITY ACROSS CORNERS
In any district where a front setback is required, no structure, fence, or sign shall be constructed and no vegetation shall be planted or maintained between a plane two and one-half [2-1/2] feet above curb level and a plane ten [10] feet above curb level, so as to interfere with traffic visibility across the corner within that part of the lot which is within a triangle formed by the street lines and a third line joining points on the street lot lines twenty-five [25] feet from their intersection.

ARTICLE IX VALIDITY
SECTION 91 PRIOR LAW
Chapter 24 of the Ordinances of the City of Quincy is hereby repealed. Otherwise, nothing contained in this Ordinance shall be construed as repealing or modifying any existing ordinance or regulation of the City, but shall be in addition thereto; provided that, whenever this Ordinance imposes greater restrictions upon the construction, alteration, enlargement, reconstruction, moving, raising up, or use of buildings or structures than other ordinances or provisions of law, such greater restrictions shall prevail.

Sixth Graders, Parents To See What Junior High Is All About

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Parents as well as sixth grade students this year will have a chance to find out in advance what it's all about at two junior high schools in Quincy.

As part of a program to acquaint sixth grade pupils with new experiences at junior high school, for the first time meetings are being scheduled for their parents at Atlantic and Sterling Junior High Schools.

Tuesday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. Atlantic Junior High School will have as guests parents of sixth grade pupils at Massachusetts Fields, Montclair, Francis W. Parker, Quincy, Squantum and Myles Standish Schools.

Stephen J. DelRosso, head counselor, will show slides of student activities at Atlantic. John A. Evans, principal, will welcome the group and talk about the expectations at junior high school.

Charles L. Munson, Quincy school psychologist, will discuss "Fears and Feelings Upon Entering Junior High School." Miss Louise B. Forsyth of the Headquarters Guidance Staff will share with parents the program, "What Is A Junior High School?" presented to all sixth grade pupils earlier this year as a first step in an orientation process developed in Quincy by the guidance staff. There will be a question period.

Thursday, April 16, Reay E. Sterling Junior High School will invite parents of sixth grade students at Adams, Gridley Bryant, John Hancock, Lincoln and Willard Schools to meet in their auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Arnold A. Rubin, principal, will greet the parents. Francis L. Mullen, head counselor, will discuss guidance and counseling services at the school. Miss Forsyth will again present her introductory program.

Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, director of pupil personnel services for Quincy Public Schools, will discuss what parents might expect to be normal fears and feelings of their children entering junior high school. Again, a question period will conclude the program.

The city-side orientation program will culminate on May 19 when every sixth grader in Quincy will visit the junior high school he will attend in September. Plans for visiting day in each of the five schools are being made by the guidance staff.

Between Us Girls

By Pat Ridlen

My Goodness

I will admit, here and now, that I am an avid reader of Gossip Columns. I love to read about what the Movie and TV stars do in their spare time. [Boy!] Who that best selling author used as the hero for his latest book. What all the "Beautiful" people are doing this year on the Riviera.

I have been alternately fascinated and shocked by things I read in the newspapers. About how many marriages Lana and Liz have gone through. How many affairs this one has had etc.

I shake my head over my morning cup of coffee as I read about Rock Hard's latest escapade and Liz's latest affair. The Queen of England can really throw a swinging party. I "tsk, tsk" when I read that DM was drunk again; or that Miss Tery has not decided if she will marry the father of her twins now or as their first birthday present.

I wonder if Jackie is really happy.

There is a write-up on the goings on of the newest starlet and the oldest star.

Even though I do read about all the goings on of the famous and infamous, I felt superior to these people, because I knew that living as these people do, it would begin to show in their faces, that all those parties were bound to take their toll. [It ain't necessarily so].

I watch the Late Show two nights in a row and the next morning, I have circles under my eyes, stagger around getting breakfast ready, looking like something the cat dragged in, and forgot to drag out again.

I tell you it just isn't fair. I wouldn't mind looking like death warmed over if I could have the memories instead of just the Late Show.

And another thing, when I read articles about those suburbs, where they have parties and at the end of the evening, all the keys are thrown in the middle of the room and you pick up one of the keys and go home with whomever the key belongs to - well, I'm horrified when I read things like that. How can men and women do awful things like that. Its disgusting! And how come the only parties I get invited to are supperware parties?

Now another thing, when I read in the paper about Joe Bloe running off with Cleem Clippers wife, I'm shocked. How can any woman do that? Then one day I decided to "judge not lest ye be judged".

Because I got to talking to myself [I do this quite often] I said to myself "now be truthful, if Paul Newman came through that door right now and said "COME FLY WITH ME". "Would You?"

Are you kidding? The mood I'm in, some days if that Dirty Old Man from Laugh-In said "Come Fly With Me," I'd say "Wait till I get my coat!"

Fair Haven Auction Success

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The benefit Auction Sale for Fair Haven's Rest Home in Middleboro, on April 4 at the U. K. Temperance Hall was a tremendous success.

Proceeds from the auction and generous money donations brought in a total of $1,750. This money will be used for the purchase of a badly needed walk-in cooler for the Rest Home. There will also be money available for other needs of the Home.

The co-chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Toivo Tuori and the members of the Committee thank you for the support and publicity your paper gave us during this worthy cause. We feel your cooperation was a very important factor in the success of the Auction Sale.

'My Wish And Yours'

by Ida F. Kelley

Have you ever wished for something
With all your heart and soul
Trying hard with all your might
To reach this longed for goal?

They say that if you want success
And really want it bad
Be yourself and don't pretend
You'll never be a cad

An education seems so needed
In this busy world today
But sometimes people can't afford
The costs you have to pay

Believe in yourself and don't lose faith
Hang on with all your might
Because this wish you want so bad
Could happen overnight.

If you wish for something long enough
They say it could come true
So try real hard and don't give in
It's entirely up to you.

The evaluation relates to Part D of Public Law 9576 concerning amendments to the exemplary programs section of the act. After the first meeting, evaluation will be on a continuing basis with work being done in both Quincy and in Washington.

Sunbeams

City Solicitor Harry Pavan, in Washington, D.C. last week for an honor and civic business, came back with an interesting observation and an amusing White House anecdote.

Pavan was admitted to practice law before the U. S. Supreme Court, taking his oath from Chief Justice Warren E. Berger.

While there, he and city solicitors from throughout the nation attended a Seminar On Urban Violence with U. S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell as keynote speaker.

Afterwards, the solicitors were invited to the White House by President Nixon.

Buses were sent to take the group to the White House.

Pavan, who was accompanied by his wife, Elmyra, reports: "The security was very tight. Names of all the solicitors were checked off as we got on the bus.

"When we pulled into the South Lawn at the White House, we weren't allowed off the bus until the Security Guard arrived to check off our names again.

"And, there were Secret Service men on the roof of the East Wing where the President's office is."

Nixon met with the group outside his office, shook hands and chatted with each one and recalled that he was an assistant city solicitor for five years in his native Whittier, Calif.

Pavan said he was impressed by the tight security and:

"The President looked real good and looked like a man in complete charge."

As the group gathered around him the eight-year-old son of a solicitor made his way to the President to air a complaint.

It seems that his class wrote letters to the President recently.

"You answered the letter that the girl who sits next to me wrote you," the lad said, "but you didn't answer mine."

The President apologized.

And, as someone remarked: "You can't win them all. Even if you're President."

CITY HALL has a new [and attractive] face: Miss Janet Wilson of Bromfield St. began her duties this week as secretary to the City Council. She was associated with the Boston law firm of Foley, Hoag and Elliot.

CITY COUNCILLOR-County Commr. George B. McDonald is at Quincy City Hospital to undergo a little surgery.

MILESTONE: Mrs. Russell [Adams] Sears who recently marked her 100th birthday, is a former First Lady of Quincy. Her husband served as Mayor in 1898.

Did you know also that he served as best man at the wedding of former Mayor Thomas A. Burgin's mother and father?

Mrs. Sears, who now lives in Waltham was made an Honorary Citizen of Quincy by present Mayor James R. McIntyre.

SEN. PRESIDENT Maurice A. Donahue hasn't yet officially declared his candidacy for Governor, but there was no doubt he is running at a reception held Sunday for him at the Charter House, Braintree. Among the estimated 300 to 400 turnout were Democratic ward and town committee chairmen from throughout Norfolk County. Donahue was introduced by Mayor McIntyre.

AMONG THOSE attending the dedication of the Adams Shore branch library Sunday was Mrs. Walter S. MacNeil now of 461 Sea St. For her it was like "coming home."

For more than 19 years, she and her late husband lived in a house on the site of the present library. She is a member of the Germantown Garden Club. Her front yard, now the library's parking area, was annually nearly completely covered with rose bushes.

ALSO at the dedication was Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham, looking fit but still moving with a bit of stiffness, from his recent back surgery. His comment: "The library was well worth waiting for."

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist, wonders if you heard about the woman who never lies about her age. She simply says she's as old as her husband. Then she lies about his age.

'Bad News' For Quincy Taxpayers Due By April 30

Quincy taxpayers will know the "bad news" by April 30.

Mayor James R. McIntyre said last night he expects the 1970 tax rate to be set by then.

McIntyre declined to forecast what the figure will be but, said he: "It will be a substantial increase."

Other City Hall sources, however, think the 1970 rate could hit the $130 or more plateau.

They see a hike of "around $15 or $16".

But they expect an all-out effort to be made to keep the rate from hitting the $130 mark. But they still think it will be "very close" to it--if not over it.

The 1969 rate was $116.40--a $17.50 jump over 1968.

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, chairman of the City Council's Finance Committee, has already predicted that this year's record-high $39.9 million municipal budget alone will mean at least a $10 rate hike.

And, he noted, his forecast is not taking into consideration other factors such as increased county, MBTA and MDC assessments and a cut in state aid to the city.

This year's tax bills will be based on the present assessment formula. The city, for the third time, has won a one-year reprieve in implementing court enforced 100 per cent fair market valuation on all property.

Mayor McIntyre slashed $3 million from original department requests before submitting this year's budget to the City Council.

The Council's Finance Committee pruned another $127,000 before final passage.

The budget, as passed, was $39.9 million. But the actual operating costs--including earlier appropriations--run over $40 million.

Biggest budget increases were for the school, hospital, police, fire and public works departments.

GRADUATION DAY -- Adeline Pompeo, 45, completing 1,000 hours training, receives her diploma from instructors Joanne Cirrole and Anita McKeen at the Quincy Beauty Academy, 30 Franklin St., while younger classmates gather in the background.

A Diploma And A Poem

Adeline Graduates At 45, Leaves Classmates In Tears

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Miss Adeline Pompeo of 15 Watson Rd., Quincy Point, graduated last week from the Quincy Beauty Academy.

She was first in her class to complete the required 1,000 hours training. She graduated with all A's and B's.

There are two big differences between Adeline and the 26 girls who began the course with her Sept. 8, 1969.

Adeline, at 45 years, is among the oldest student to graduate from the Academy. Her classmates were teenagers, 18 and 19 years old. -- And, Adeline never went to high school.

"I was a little late coming to class the first day," she smiled. "When I came in, all the girls thought I was the supervisor. Later on, even the patrons thought so. But those girls were all wonderful to me. They listened to me. They were real good to me."

"I was a rough, tough kid," she recalled of her earlier school years, "Not fresh like kids are today, but a rough, tough kid that wouldn't study. With this training course, I was up until 1 and 2 a.m. in the morning studying."

In the 30-odd years between school days, Adeline was a shipper-packer in a factory; she worked at Raytheon. And she helped her father, Domenic Pompeo, build a house.

"I built a house with my father on Lake St. in Weymouth," she recalls. "The building inspectors used to come around and laugh to see me in dungarees and apron pounding nails. We sold the house. We made a boodle!"

Adeline had some help with her school work this time.

"The Nuns [Sisters of St. Joseph] encouraged me, and my nieces and nephews helped me to understand the textbooks," she confides. "Now they are all proud of Auntie Adeline -- and they take a little credit for it, too!"

The nieces and nephews add up to 31. Adeline, unmarried, has five brothers and four sisters.

Adeline's 80-year old father, helped, too. He works every day driving a truck for the City of Quincy.

"He gave me a little allowance because I wasn't working," she says. "Every Saturday he gave me ten dollars. So he is proud of me, too."

Studies interferred with social activities, so she stepped down as president of St. Ann's Club, a women's group affiliated with St. Joseph's Church. The club was founded by her mother, Secondina Pompeo, president for 30 years. At her death, Adeline was elected president and served 10 years.

Graduation from the Academy last week was an emotion-packed event. She wore the traditional cap, and a corsage. There were telegrams from Mayor James R. McIntyre, Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Councillor Clifford Marshall. There were gifts from her classmates -- a Kennedy half-dollar, a dollar bill, three pennies on a card.

The Academy had its first graduation party. Adeline gave it for her instructors and all the girls in her class. At the party, the former "rough, tough kid" read a poem she had composed herself for her classmates.

"I'd like to be the sort of friend
That you girls have been to me.
I'd like to mean as much to you
As you have meant to me.
I'd like to give you back the joy
That you have given me.
I've spent my thousand hours in the beauty of you all,
But in my heart there's a hunger
To spend a thousand more.
Learn from your humble poet whose songs come from her heart,
As showers from clouds of summer, tears from my eyelids start.
Wouldn't this world be better, if we didn't have to say 'Good-bye'?"

There were tears in everyone's eyes.

HN Library To Remain Open For 'At Least A Year'

Opening of the $600,000 Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library will not this year effect the closing of the Houghs Neck Branch Library.

"We are going to keep it open at least a year until we can see if the circulation has been maintained," Mayor James R. McIntyre told the Quincy Sun following dedication of the new branch on Sunday.

The Adams Shore Branch has been designed for use of the Adams Shore, Merrymount, Germantown [where the Snug Harbor Branch Library was closed some time ago], and Houghs Neck communities.

"If there is an interest as evidenced by circulation at the Houghs Neck Branch, then it will be kept open, as far as I am concerned," the Mayor said. "It is up to the community as far as use of the library facilities at Houghs Neck are concerned. There will be an appraisal at the end of the year to see if the facilities are being put to proper use. That is what we have always said."

The Houghs Neck Branch opened in December, 1966 at 1186 Sea St. This climaxed nine years of petitions by residents and civic groups following the closing of the Manet Branch at the Atherton Hough School in 1957. Miss Helen Boyajian is the librarian in charge.

Dedication ceremonies at the Adams Shore Branch of The Thomas Crane Public Library were held Sunday.

Several hundred residents heard Mayor James R. McIntyre term the circular building, "a thing of beauty, an architectural delight," four years in construction.

It was built at a cost of $600,000, including a $75,000 federal assistance grant, and a $20,000 Urban Beautification Grant for Landscaping.

Atty. Melvin Thorner, chairman of the board of trustee, presided at the ceremonies and accepted a plaque for the library from Paul A. Coletti, head of Coletti Brothers Architects of Hingham who designed the building.

Speaking briefly were Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham; and representing City Council President Arthur H. Tobin [called to California by a family emergency] were Mrs. Tobin and Harold J. McCarthy, president of the Adams Shore Improvement Association.

Rev. John J. Dacey of St. Boniface's Church gave the invocation; Rev. Franklin W. McGuire of Adams Shore Community Church, the benediction.

Quincy Pianist To Give Concert April 25 At Carnegie Hall

Clifford Boatner, professional pianist and Quincy mathematics teacher, will be presented in an Apr. 25 concert at Carnegie Hall by the Hammond Music Society of New York City.

Some 300 Quincy students and parents will leave that morning by bus to hear him at the concert that night.

The concert will climax recitals in Massachusetts on April 5 and 12, and at the four City Colleges of New York on April 20 through 23. In 1967 and 1968 he gave two piano recitals to aid the Quincy Education Association's Scholarship Fund, raising close to $1,300.

The 29-year old educator, a mathematics teacher at Central Junior High School for two years, practices daily at the school piano from 6:30 to 8:30 a.m., and another two to three hours nightly at home.

Boatner, who received his bachelor's degree from Brooklyn College, N.Y., and his master's degree from Boston State College, began his musical training at Roosevelt University. He has studied with pianists Sidney Foster, Jorge Bolet, Clarence Adler in New York and Jesus Maria Sanrema in Puerto Rico.

Also, he has written a book, "Introduction to Music Theory," now being revised and republished by Selective Educational Equipment, Inc., of Newton.

This firm will also market his newly created educational game "SET", based on geometry.

Savannah To Be Christened April 23

The U. S. Navy oiler-supply ship Savannah will be christened April 23 at the Quincy Shipbuilding division of General Dynamics in the first of five launching ceremonies scheduled by the shipyard for 1970.

Namesake of the city and river in Georgia, the new ship will be floated out of her building basin after the christening ceremony and brought to an outfitting pier for final work leading to delivery later this year.

Savannah is the fourth of six in a new class of Navy supply ships--replenishment fleet oilers--to be built by the Quincy Shipbuilding division. Her primary mission will be to provide combat ships with petroleum products and other supplies, using the most modern rapid-transfer-at-sea equipment, including helicopters.

In addition to nearly seven million gallons of cargo fuels, the 659-foot Savannah will carry refrigerated and non-refrigerated provisions, ammunition and missiles. She will displace 37,360 tons when fully loaded.

Savannah has been under construction since Jan. 22, 1969. In becoming part of the fleet later this year, she will join her Quincy-built sister ships Wichita and Milwaukee, delivered in 1969. Two other replenishment fleet oilers, Kansas City and Wabash, are also being built at the present time while the sixth, Kalamazoo, will be started in late Spring.

ENGAGED--The engagement of Miss Jean Margaret Morris to Robert A. Mercon is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Morris, Jr. of Braintree. Mr. Mercon, also a Braintree High School graduate, is serving with the Navy aboard the USS Cromwell based at Newport, R.I. There are no immediate wedding plans. [Miller Studio]

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Q. What is the correct way for a guest to go through the receiving line?

A. At a large formal wedding an usher should approach the guest, ask his or her name, and then introduce the guest to the mother of the bride who is first in line. The guest says a few words to the mother. [Ex. "The wedding was beautiful." "The bride looks lovely." etc.]

The guest never holds up the line for a lengthy conversation. After they have exchanged greetings the bride's mother turns to the groom's dad and very distinctly repeats the guests name to him. And so on right to the end of the line.

At a less formal wedding each guest may introduce herself and explain her relationship to the bride or groom. An example of this would be "Good afternoon Mrs. Smith, I'm Mary Jones, Bobs' next door neighbor. The wedding was lovely. Such beautiful colors!" Mrs. Smith says a few words. Mary Jones then passes on to the grooms' dad to whom she obviously does not need an introduction.

Q. I am having a large church wedding but not all the guests are invited to the reception. Should I have a receiving line at the church and another at the reception?

A. If you receive all guests at the church it would be unnecessary to have another at the reception. You really should have a receiving line at the church since this is the only time many of your church guests will have the opportunity to greet you. If you don't want a second receiving line at the reception have your ushers explain to the guests there will be only one line.

On the otherhand if you want a second one at the reception the ushers should notify these people. Doing this will avoid confusion and embarrassment. Also, your bridal party and family will know before hand the arrangement and can mention it to any guests they may be talking to before the wedding day.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

A fellow was asked, "How is the world treating you?" He replied, "The world treats me fine; the people in it don't."

There are those who say the world is worse than ever. Actually, what is means is SOME of the people treat other people worse than ever. However, if we will only look around us, we will see vast goodness also. We hear more of the bad things than of the good. Screaming headlines of crime, disaster, destruction and tragedy steal the front pages. Kind deeds and friendly thoughts receive less publicity because they lack the punch of emotional impact.

From time to time, we intend to point to the goodness we see from day to day - and it is abundant. These deeds on the local, national and international scene are bright rays of decency and goodness. These rays pierce the publicized dark clouds of people's neglect, oppression and disrespect for the dignity of man. It will be a pleasure to spotlight the goodness and decency of mankind as we see it...

Come . Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Love Isn't Enough'

One of the most dangerous attitudes of the unmarried is..."our love is sufficient to overcome any problem." I counsel many young people before marriage and hear optimistic appraisals of each other. When I ask..."What are your conflicts?...what problems do you forsee?...what do you quarrel about now?"...a typical answer to this is..."Oh, we never quarrel...we like all the same things...that's how we know we're in love." But in marriage they quickly learn that there are conflicts which rear their ugly heads...which create resentments...aloofness...emotional distress...loss of respect. One or both feel cheated...used...guilty ...trapped...and ask "how could I have been so blind?" "No problems" means we don't know each other very well yet. Love isn't enough.

Many couples wisely seek counseling before they are married [premarital counseling]. There they look at themselves and the problems which they have discovered in their courtship...find ways of resolving conflict. That's the real test of love...not the absence of problems but the willingness to resolve them

A chief cause of conflict is fuzziness about their true roles as a man and woman. Many have had a docile father or a dominating mother who are poor examples of manhood and womanhood. If the boy hasn't learned how to be a man...if the girl hasn't learned how to be a woman, they are certainly headed for trouble in marriage. Love isn't enough.

In spite of the supposed openness about sexuality there is still great sex ignorance...guilt feelings...holding back on the performance of our male/female roles. Those who are foolish enough to believe that in marriage sexual hang-ups and ignorance automatically disappear are mistaken. Oft they are more deeply entrenched. Marriage is not a reform school. Love isn't enough.

Furthermore...there just has to be communication between a couple. The evenings get terribly long...the auto trips awfully boring if one or both can't talk. The deadening silence will scream out "Love isn't enough."

Genuine affection needs to be outwardly expressed by the sense of touch as well as words...using the hands...hugs...kisses. A brother-sister arrangement doesn't work in most marriages. A young wife said recently..."My husband is my lover my sex partner and my best friend." I liked that. Unexpressed love isn't enough.

Responsibility calls for the coping with the knitty-gritty acts of shopping...housekeeping...wage-earning...fixing screen doors...caring for little children...making limited funds stretch...getting along with in-laws and neighbors...meeting emotional needs...making fun and laughter. You can love all you want...but if these factors aren't present...watch out! Love isn't enough.

Young people...you who are engaged...may I ask why are you getting married? Is it because it's the "thing" to do? Because others are doing it? Because he/she is your best prospect? Are you trying to get away from a sick home situation? Are you looking for security? Are you pregnant? I think you should be very clear on why you're marrying and what you expect to give and receive in the marriage. Love isn't enough.

Parents...you who are about to spend $1000 on a big church wedding and reception...are you confident that your daughter is prepared to be a wife? All the pretty clothes...the beautiful words of the clergyman...the finest caterer and orchestra...will not insure married happiness. Maybe the greatest wedding gift of all would be a few weeks of pre-marital counseling for the couple. Love isn't enough.

For participation in the Marriage Clinic call 545-5947.

Germantown

Snug Harbor Girls:

BOXING: We said that we would try anything once. Tuesday night was the once, for Boxing. Jan Peterson and Janet Campbell fought three rounds, while referee Mary Faherty looked on. Although both tried desperately for the win, the bout ended in a tie. [Well...what do girls know about boxing?]

The second step in our clothing drive was accomplished. The girls made rough drafts of the posters, which will be placed in local stores, to publicize our drive. We will be going door to door collecting, useable clothing [preferably children's clothing] which will be laundered and mended [if necessary.] We will then see that they are donated to worthy families in our neighborhood. This drive will be held April 21, at 7 p.m. Any contributions can be brought to the Snug Harbor gym between 7 and 9 p.m. on Tuesday evening. We are looking forward to great success with this project.

Snug Harbor Boys:

A new activity for the boys was implemented Friday night at Snug Harbor. Boxing matches were held and participated in eagerly by all the boys. Two, three minute, rounds were held for each bout. Standouts for the evening in the elementary level were Kevin O'Niel and John Conroy. Richard Hebit and Don Connors proved more than able in the ring in the Junior High matches. Also a standout for the evening was "Southpaw" Mike Long.

Germantown Youth Center:

In the plans at the Germantown Youth Center is a car wash to be held April 18, at the Housing Authority building and a bumper pool tournament for the open membership.

The Youth Council would like to thank the City Council for its vote of approval on the lower Germantown beach and playground proposal.

South West Quincy

Sterling Boys:

Under the direction of program leaders Bob Johnson and Vin Picardi a junior physical fitness competition for elementary school boys has been implemented. It consists of several events, at which each boy is given an opportunity to exploit his physical and athletic prowess. Competition will be climaxed on April 29, by an obstacle course event, at which time, boys who have amassed the highest total points for their grade, will be recipients of physical fitness Junior Merit Badges, to be presented by Pilot Project Director, Barry Welch. The finale is open to the public.

Leaders in total points after two events, which were the dash and running broad jump are:

Grade 6: Paul Lynch 8 points, Anthony Bruce, 5; Mark Maslauskas 3; Garry Prezioso, 2; Scott Boidi, 1; Eugene Ryder, 1 and Mark Sheehan 1 point.

Grade 5: Peter Pagnano 8 points, Jim Maze, 6; Paul Vallantini, 4; and Brian Kelly, 2 points.

Sterling Girls:

Sterling girls were very busy with kick ball, volley ball, and with the use of the ropes and rings. Quite a few people excell on theses. Susan Tosche and Cheryl Marini spot and help the girls work. Irene is very good on the rings as is Paula Daley. Things are looking up in hopes for a badminton game.

Good luck to Anna and Janice and all the other girls who make the semi-finals for cheering.

Houghs Neck

Atherton Hough Girls:

Exercising to music has opened a whole new and wonderful experience for the girls at Atherton Hough gym. The girls attempted successfully the art of creating their own original dance and exercising routines to music. Betty Maher and Helen Bernatonis combined a dancing and exercising routine to "Get Ready" by the Temptations. Mary Picard, Jean Lynch, and Janice Cussar performed a dance routine to, "The Way You Do The Things You Do," by the Temptations. Joanne cassette and Barbara Sullivan did an exercising routine in which dance movements of the arms combined to make a wonderful routine.

We all enjoyed two fun filled and action orientated volleyball games this week. In the first match: Patty Donovan, Susan Doyle, Julie Forrester, Rain Drohan and Theresa Iacavino stomped on Mary Picard, Judy McQuinn, Jean Lynch, Barbara Sullivan and Susan Doyle by a score of 21-0. In the second match the losing team came alive and finished in the winners circle with a 10-3 victory.

In badminton this week Judy McQuinn and Julie Forrester beat Stacy Doyle and Betty Maher with a victory score of 5-4. Betty Maher retaliated by becoming the winner in a match with Helen Bernatonis and Stacy Doyle victoried over Barbara Sullivan.

Karen McKenzie, Helen Bernatonis and Betty Maher armed with a dictionary played a brain teasing game of Scrabble. Helen was the final winner.

Pilot Project instructors, Mary Kenney and Roselyn Karil, wish to thank the girls for their devoted attendance and ever increasing interest in the area of recreation.

Our "Donkey of The Week" is - Betty Maher!!

Questions Answered

Presidents Veto North, 6-2

Quincy's baseball team, which lost its three top pitchers and had several big question marks going into the opener Monday with rival North Quincy, is off to a flying start toward what it hopes will be another berth in the Eastern Mass. Tourney.

Bob Basiliere's Presidents topped the Raiders, 6-2, in the Greater Boston League opener for both teams and the Quincy coach credited a lot of practice for the fine first day showing.

Yesterday Quincy played Somerville. It will play at Revere Friday and Monday morning will host Medford at Adams Field in a 10 a.m. game. Meanwhile the Raiders, who played at Revere yesterday, will be home to Malden Friday, host Hingham in a non-league game Saturday at 10 and play at Chelsea Monday at 1:30.

"Last weekend we went down to the Cape and stayed overnight," Basiliere said. "Four of the fathers went down with us and we played Harwich both days. It gave the kids a chance to get in a lot of hitting. We actually got out on the field at 11 in the morning and didn't get off until four in the afternoon. In addition to those games we also played Norwood, Milton, Braintree and Weymouth in practice games. The kids saw a lot of good pitching."

In contrast, Charlie Bunker's North team had only a practice game with Milton before its opening game last week against Abp. Williams, won by the Raiders, 3-1.

Quincy had eight hits against North, played excellent ball in the field and received fine pitching.

"Our fine defensive play was the key to the win," Basiliere pointed out. "Bruce Carlson in center field made a great play in the seventh inning that was a key play at the time with two North runners on with two outs. Paul Hand in left field also made a great running catch in the third inning and Pete Lucier at shortstop and Kevin Ryan at third made some terrific plays. It was a great defensive effort all around."

North had only four hits off Rich Brown, senior right-hander, and Jim Walker, a sophomore southpaw. "We are still not hitting," Bunker said. "We're a little bit behind on the breaking pitches and Brown was putting the ball right where he wanted it.

"Jack Flaherty, our third baseman, made a couple of good plays but it wasn't enough. Quincy made some outstanding plays."

Brown pitched five innings, struck out six, walked six and allowed only two singles, while Walker also gave up only two hits.

Craig Bogosian, veteran right-hander who was the winning hurler against Williams, pitched five and a third innings, shutting the Presidents out until the sixth and Bill Deshler, another veteran, finished up. Only two of Quincy's runs were earned.

Billy Maver had a triple and single for Quincy. Hand a double and single, Rick DeCristofaro, John Stevens, Cliff Mattson and Brown a single each.

For North Tim Flynn, Bob Langley, Dan Zink and Tony Kelly had a single apiece.

Bogosian went five innings instead of the planned three in beating Williams and Deshler finished up well.

Bogosian, veteran right-hander, gave up four hits, one run, struck out four and walked two during a five-inning stint. Bunker had planned to use him for only three but decided to let him go to more the way he was working. Bill Deshler, another veteran rightie, hurled well over the last two innings.

"I was very pleased with Bogosian's pitching," Bunker said. "He was real sharp. I was impressed with his control and the way he moved the ball around. The hitting is a little slow now but it will come. It will take a few games before we really start hitting. This game and a scrimmage with Milton the day before were the first times we had a look at breaking stuff."

In the third inning Jack Flaherty reached on an infield hit, Tim Flynn's wind-blown fly dropped in for a hit and Steve Tomasetti's line single to left loaded the bases with no outs.

Bob Graham forced Flaherty at the plate but Dan Zink's sacrifice fly to center scored Flynn to tie the score at 1-1. The other runners moved up and scored on Bob Langley's line single.

Tomasetti and Langley had two hits apiece. Flaherty and Flynn one each.

Williams is being coached this year by Connie Carolozzi, who resigned as Morrisette Legion coach following last season's Zone 6 championship season after several successful seasons.

Hennessy Takes Little Title

The Hennessy Plumbing Supply team edged out a fast closing Brett team by one point to win the Quincy Bowling Little Loop League championship.

The Bowladrome finished third, although tied in points with the Brett team but lost the second spot by total pinfall. Mayor McIntyre's club took fourth place by pinfall over George F. Bryan VFW team.

Paul Peckham with a 104.33 average won top individual honors second only to George Habel's 107.1 mark set during the 1964-65 season. His final three string total of 374 equalled the 1961-62 record set by Dick Quinn. The 14-year old lefty established an unbelievable record by bowling 300 or better for the final 13 weeks.

Following Peckham were Mike Conroy with a 98.27 average, Tom Joyce, 97.43 and Mike Lorman, 97.38. Others in the top 10 were Dick Hirtle, 96.36; Steve Levine, 96.28; Dick Magnarelli, 95.69; Charles McCarthy, 94.55; Frank Alibrandi, 94.45; and John Repoff, 93.22.

Charles Desserres' 141 was individual high single string.

The Brett team rolled the high team three of 1,455 and the Morrissey team the high team single of 513.

Junior and Senior teams and 20 singles entries will represent the Little Loop in the State Championships at the Fairway Sports World, Natick, on Monday.

Former Little Loop members are being asked to help by loaning their bowling shirts to boys taking part in the tournament. They may be brought to Wollaston Bowladrom Saturday morning, or dropped off at the home of League President Joe Gildea, 45 Division St., North Quincy. [Tel. 479-5515.]

The annual banquet will be held May 13 at the Elks Home. Boys who have not received tickets for their fathers may do so Saturday.

North Golfers Drop Opener To Weymouth

Jack Donahue's North Quincy golf team, which made another of its many state tourney appearances a year ago, dropped a 5½-3½ decision to Weymouth in its opener this week.

The Raiders' first team of Jack Meehan and Mike Zakrzewski took two points but Wayne Fick and Brian Killeen dropped three points.

North's final duo of Jeff Burrell and Mike Tobin split their match, taking 1½ points.

Recreation Dept. Basketball In Third Round Saturday

Third round eliminations of the Quincy Recreation Department's city-wide basketball tournament are scheduled for Saturday at Broad Meadows and Atlantic Junior High Schools starting at 9:30 a.m.

The finals will be held April 23 in the evening at Quincy Vocational-Technical School gymnasium, announces tournament director Lionel H. Buckley.

The program is under general supervision of William F. Ryan, Quincy recreation director.

In the second round eliminations on Saturday, defending junior champs from Central were defeated by a strong Quincy Point team, 66-62. At one point, down by 12, Central tied it up with a minute to go. But Point refused to knuckle under and gained the win on a three point play by Dennis Sullivan, high scorer with 16 points.

Other winners in the junior division were Snug Harbor over Sterling, 60-38. Don Conners with 30 points and John Dayette with 25 were high for Snug Harbor; Tom McKinnon and Rick Griffin scored 14 points each for Sterling.

Montclair defeated Atlantic, 36-29, with Guy Sanderson netting 11 points for Montclair. Wollaston won over Broad Meadows, 58-36; John Flynn with 18 points; Dan Minto, 16 points, for Wollaston.

In the elementary Division, defending champs from Snug Harbor continued their course to a second year championship by defeating Sterling 18-13. Mike Rooney and Paul Ferris each had six points for Snug Harbor, while Tony Bruce scored 11 for Sterling.

Beechwood Knoll thumped Wollaston, 46-27, with Pete Fallon and Mike Halleran compiling 16 points each. Atherton Hough trounced Central, 33-10, while Atlantic outdistanced Montclair 39-23. Warren Jordan cinched the game by collecting 22 points for Atlantic.

In the Senior Division, Broad Meadows upset defending champs from Wollaston, 77-55. Mike Petrucci and Bob Eggershime led the attack with 19 points each. Phil Kenneally was outstanding for Wollaston with a high score of 33 points.

Two close games completed the second round of eliminations. Sterling and Snug Harbor battled neck and neck until Snug Harbor got the last bucket with one second to go to get the win, 47-45. Bill Herbert led the victors with 16 points, while Mike Orlando shone for Sterling with 20 points.

Central's seniors outlasted Point by two points to gain a 52-50 win. Bill Burke shot 16 points for Central. Steve Pasquale had 18 for the losers.

Finally, Atlantic proved too much for Montclair, netting 72 points to Montclair's 40. Dave Mahoney scored 19 and Dave Haight 17 points for Atlantic, while Bill McCall had 11 for Montclair.

Awards Highlight Dinner For Quincy High Basketball Team

Several award presentations highlighted the annual breakup dinner of the Quincy High basketball squad last week at the Vocational-Technical School cafeteria.

Coach Marty Finnegan presented jackets to the varsity players and Coach Fran Conroy jackets to the junior varsity players.

The following special awards were made:

–Tony Malvesti of the sponsoring Basketball Boosters Club presented the varsity high scoring trophy to junior Bob Pike.

–Jerry Ryan of the Boosters Club gave the Players Award to senior Rick DeCristofaro.

–Mrs. John Coughlin, mother of Marine John Coughlin, killed in action in Vietnam, presented the John Coughlin Memorial Award for Outstanding Desire to senior Jim Furfari.

Bill Bertrand of the Boosters Club presented the Dr. Joseph A. Broderick Memorial Award for Most Improved Player to Rick DeCristofaro.

–Coach Finnegan presented the Michael C. Finnegan Memorial Award for Outstanding Achievement to Bob Uhlar.

President Ted DeCristofaro of the Boosters Club was toastmaster and introduced the principal speaker, Boston University Basketball Coach Charlie Luce.

Luce stressed that even professional coaches now put greater emphasis on attitude as well as ability.

"Some established stars who think they are bigger than the game are going to find themselves replaced by eager young rookies with the proper attitude," he said.

Coach Finnegan said, "I am not so concerned with won and lost records as I am with what a boy does with his future and we are proud to say that Quincy High School basketball graduates have turned out to be winners in this area."

Mayor James R. McIntyre, Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Principal Lloyd Creighton, Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone and Coordinator of Physical Education Ken Rickson expressed their appreciation for the spirit demonstrated throughout the year and complimented the team members on their gentlemanly appearance and attitude in representing Quincy High School.

The head table guests were Creighton, Mrs. Coughlin and her daughter, Mary Herman; Rickson, Dr. Creedon, Luce, Mayor and Mrs. McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. DeCristofaro, Mr. and Mrs. Conroy, Mr. and Mrs. Leone, Mr. and Mrs. Finnegan and Deacon Daniel Flaherty of St. Johns.

More than 100 friends of the basketball team attended the event.

Quincy Track Team

Sophomore Pete Dailey, junior Joe Goguen and senior Mike Paluzzi have been elected tri-captains of the Quincy High track team.

Dailey and Goguen are both 220-yard and long jump specialists. Goguen, also a football player, placed fourth in the state championships in the long jump last year.

Paluzzi, also a football player, will compete in the discus and low hurdles.

ENC Wins Opener

Eastern Nazarene College baseball coach Carroll Bradley had said this year's young team had a lot of questions to be answered but the Crusaders must have answered many of these when they opened their season with a resounding 11-0 win over Nasson College.

ENC will seek its second straight win Friday when it hosts Ricker College of Houlton, Me., at Alumni Field.

"This was a pleasant surprise," the veteran coach admitted. "Nasson really didn't test us but when your team is young like ours is this year, it always helps to have a good game the first time out. We had good pitching, solid hitting and tough defense and this game should give the boys a lot of confidence."

ENC scored once in the first, four times in the second, twice in the fourth, twice in the sixth and twice in the eighth.

Ron Bradley, who set all kinds of basketball scoring records this winter and gained numerous honors, got off to a great start with three hits. Sorenson had two doubles and John Whitman, who pitched brilliantly, had two singles.

Whitman pitched six strong innings, hurling hitless ball for six innings, then yielding two. Bob Rose, a sophomore, pitched the next two innings, giving up a hit, and Jim Andrews struck out the side during his one inning.

Paper Plates

When I was very young and newly married, the most inexpensive entertainment, at least during summer months was a cook-out. Now many people used paper plates for their outdoor meals. Not I!

It really didn't seem the proper thing to do. But after awhile, when I saw that everyone was using them, I decided I shouldn't be a holdout for elegant outdoor living any longer, and started using paper plates. But only the finest paper plates would do, you know the kind I mean, they have a plastic look and feel to them, and they're decorated with flowers etc. Of course, they cost as much as a real plate, and you throw them away after the meal, but I was still living graciously.

My next encounter with paper plates came when I visited a friend and stayed for lunch. She used paper plates. Inside! I didn't want to sit there with my mouth hanging open, so I put a hamburger in it. But I couldn't help thinking - is this the way Amy Vanderbilt serves hamburger? Later I found it necessary to use paper plates INSIDE when my son invited his Cub Scout Den for lunch, and I didn't have enough unbreakable plates.

Oh well, I thought, no eight year old kid is going to go home squealing about Jimmy's mother using paper plates. Next I used paper plates for my oldest son's Birthday Party, then for late evening snacks. This was the turning point. I started going downhill from then on.

Whenever we had hamburgers or hot dogs for supper, I used Paper Plates, and since I was now using paper plates more and more, we had to stop buying those beautiful plastic coated ones and buy them where you got 500 for 89 cents.

Sometimes the beans would slide off the sides of the plates when we had hot dogs, and a few times the beans melted the paper and got mixed in with the beans. I told the kids not to worry, you're supposed to eat a peck of paper before you die anyway.

My husband would make a few comments, not to be repeated here.

A kind of madness took possession of me. I thought of other foods I could use paper plates with, such as sandwiches at lunch. Of course, I will admit the days we had soup and sandwiches were rather messy. I used paper plates for breakfast. Bacon and eggs taste just as good on paper plates. Oatmeal - only fair. If you eat the corn flakes real fast, they won't get soggy and won't go through the plate either. I found if I spent a little more money and bought real tender meat, the knife wouldn't cut through the paper plate so much.

I tell you my days were spent thinking of new ways to use paper plates. My nights were spent listening to my husband scream about my using paper plates. Our grocery bill had gone up, I will admit, although I can't understand why he took on so, instead of spending $15. a week on cigarettes, liquor and newspapers, I spent it on paper plates.

But one night it got too much for him for as he sat down at the table for our evening meal, he looked down at his coffee in a paper cup, soup in a paper bowl, salad in a paper dish, plastic knife, fork and spoon, the tablecloth beginning to turn red from the spaghetti sauce dripping through the paper plates.

He smiled a strange smile, took out his matches, lit up the whole match book and threw it on the table.

But I really don't care that much. Those paper plates were starting to look terrible coming out of the dishwasher.

Adams Birthplaces Open April 19, All Ready For 10,000 Visitors

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Shining with fresh paint and with spring house cleaning completed, the Franklin St. birthplaces of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams will reopen April 19 to the public.

And if yearly attendance continues to increase, a hoped-for 10,000 tourist and local visitors will inspect the two red saltbox cottages before the October closing.

Quincy is unique in having two native sons become President of the United States -- in having the only father and son to attain that position -- and in having the distinction of two Presidential birthplaces side-by-side.

This year, as in the past, the cottages will be open daily during the season, except Monday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. However, because the Patriot's Day holiday will be observed officially on Monday, the birthplaces will be open that day also for the regular hours. Fees will remain approximately the same.

Mrs. Florence Gamins will be the hostess-in-residence at the John Adams house. Mrs. John B. Ames will be permanent hostess at the "John Q." birthplace, and Mrs. John J. Manning, as she has for five years, will also be a hostess, announces Mrs. Bradford E. Gale, House Committee Chairman for the Quincy Historical Society.

There is a dual partnership between the City of Quincy which owns and maintains the homes, and the Quincy Historical Society which provides personnel and keeps the cottages clean, according to Mrs. Gale.

City Historian Williams C. Edwards, represents the City in decisions affecting the birthplaces, and often is a volunteer guide for groups visiting not only the homes but Quincy's other historic sites.

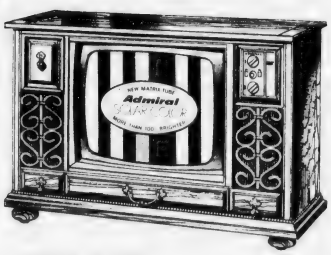
Last year tourists came from virtually every state in the nation and from 30 foreign countries to see the homes where the second President was born in 1735 and the sixth President in 1767.

The cottages, built in 1681 and 1716, are in good condition. So are the grounds, maintained by the Forestry Division.

Wollaston Mothers Club To Hold Two-Day Rummage Sale

The Wollaston Mothers Club will hold a rummage sale Thursday and Friday at the Wollaston Methodist Church Parish Hall, Beale St.

Hours on Thursday will be from 7 to 9 p.m. and on Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.



Mrs. Arthur Senter is chairman and Mrs. Charles O'Connell co-chairman.

Those wishing "pick up" service for rummage to be sold may call Mrs. Senter at 773-4255 or Mrs. O'Connell at 479-4811.

SECTION 11 TITLE, PURPOSE AND SCOPE

1. This Ordinance, enacted pursuant to, and under the authority of, Chapter 40A of the General Laws of the Commonwealth and in addition, in the case of signs, in accord with the provisions of Section 29 of Chapter 93 of the General Laws, shall be known and may be cited as the "Quincy Zoning Ordinance."
2. The regulations and restrictions of this Ordinance controlling generally the development and use of land, and the height, size, location and use of buildings and structures thereon are intended to promote the health, safety, convenience and general welfare of the inhabitants of the City of Quincy. In their interpretation and application, the provisions of this Ordinance shall be held to be the minimum requirements adopted for the promotion of these purposes.
3. This Ordinance shall not nullify the more restrictive provisions of covenants, agreements, other ordinances or laws, but shall prevail notwithstanding such provisions which are less restrictive.

Section 12 ENFORCEMENT

1. The Building Inspector as designated under Section 206 of the Quincy Building Code shall administer and enforce this Ordinance, including the receiving of applications, the inspection of premises and the issuing of building permits for the construction, alteration or relocation of buildings and structures.
2. The Building Inspector shall not grant a permit for the construction, alteration or relocation of any building or structure except where the provisions of this Ordinance have been complied with; nor shall any municipal officer issue any permit or license for a new use of a building, structure or land which use would be in violation of this Ordinance or amendment thereof. If the Building Inspector shall find that any of the provisions of this Ordinance are being violated, he shall notify in writing the person responsible for such violation, indicating the nature of the violation and ordering the action necessary to correct it. He shall order discontinuance of illegal use of land, buildings or structures, or work related thereto; removal of illegal buildings or structures or of illegal additions, alterations or structural changes; or shall take any other action authorized by this Ordinance to ensure compliance with its provisions.
3. No building or structure shall be erected, added to or structurally altered until a permit therefor has been issued by the Building Inspector. All applications for such permits shall be in accordance with the requirements of the Quincy Building Code, Section 207, and shall contain such written information, plans, specifications or other such data as shall be deemed necessary for a full and accurate exposition of the proposed construction, alteration or use with relation to the regulations of this Ordinance.
4. The Building Inspector shall return to the applicant one [1] set of the plans submitted for a building permit, after marking such copy either as approved or disapproved. Whenever such permit is refused, because of some provision of this Ordinance, the reason for such refusal shall be clearly stated in writing by the Building Inspector. In the event of doubt whether a building permit should be issued in any particular case, the Inspector shall deny the application therefor. If the Inspector fails to act within thirty [30] days after written request therefor by the applicant, the application shall be deemed denied.
5. Nothing in this Ordinance shall require any change in the construction, size or designated use of a building or structure for which a building permit has been legally granted before the effective date of this Ordinance and construction work under such permit is commenced within ninety [90] days after the issuance of such permit. In the event of a subsequent amendment to the Ordinance, such amendment shall not affect the construction work or use of land for which a permit has been legally issued before publication of the notice of hearing on such amendment by the Planning Board, provided that construction work shall have been started within six months after issuance of such permit. A permit shall remain valid if the work for which it was issued proceeds in good faith continuously to completion so far as is reasonable under the circumstances; but such permit shall expire if the work for which it was issued is suspended or abandoned for a period of six months.
6. Any person aggrieved by a violation of any portion of this Ordinance may formally request the Building Inspector in writing to enforce the Ordinance, and the Inspector shall act upon such request within ten [10] days thereafter by written notice to the person submitting the request and to the owner of each parcel of property specifically affected by the ruling. Written notice shall state whether the request to enforce the Ordinance is granted or not granted and specify the reasons thereto.
7. Any person aggrieved by any action taken or determination made by the Building Inspector in the administration of this Ordinance may appeal within thirty [30] days thereafter to the Board of Appeals by filing with the City Clerk a notice of appeal specifying the ground thereof and shall pay a fee of twenty-five dollars [25.00] at the time of filing.

SECTION 13 CERTIFICATE OF OCCUPANCY

1. No land shall be occupied or used and no building or structure, erected or structurally altered, shall be occupied or used in whole or in part for any purpose until a Certificate of Occupancy has been issued by the Building Inspector stating that all buildings and use of premises comply with the provisions of the Zoning Ordinance and the Building Code of the City of Quincy. A Certificate of Occupancy becomes void immediately upon termination of the use for which it was issued.
2. A record of all occupancy permits shall be kept on file by the Inspector and certified copies shall be furnished on request to any person having a proprietary or tenancy interest in the premises affected, upon payment of the required fee.

SECTION 14 BOARD OF APPEALS

1. There shall be a Board of Appeals as provided by the General Laws, Chapter 40A, and 14, as amended, which shall act on all matters within its jurisdiction under this chapter in the manner prescribed in such section, and shall have all powers granted by such section, subject always to the rule that it shall give due consideration to the promotion of public health, safety, convenience and welfare, encouraging the most proper use of land, and conserving property values, that it shall permit no building or use injurious, noxious, offensive or detrimental to a neighborhood and that it shall prescribe proper conditions and safeguards in each case.

The board shall consist of three members to be appointed by the mayor. All members of the board shall be residents of the city; one member shall be an attorney at law, one shall be either an architect, engineer or master builder. The appointments first made shall be for one, two and three years respectively, so that the terms of one member shall expire each year and subsequent appointments shall be for a term of three years.

Vacancies shall be filled for unexpired terms within sixty [60] days in the same manner as in case of original appointments and as hereinafter provided.

There shall at all times be three associate members of the Board of Appeals who shall be appointed in like manner and have the same qualifications as the regular members of the board. In case of an unfilled vacancy, inability to act, or interest on the part of the member of such board, the mayor shall designate one of the associate members to take the place of such member.

The Board of Appeals shall exercise the powers and perform the duties prescribed for a Board of Appeals under the provisions of the General Laws, Chapter 40A, or any amendments thereto. Any action of such board under such sections shall be in accordance with and subject to the terms thereof.

2. The Board of Appeals may request the written comments and recommendations of the Planning Department and any other municipal office it deems proper during its review of any petition.
3. General Laws, Chapter 40A, Section 20, as amended, shall regulate repetitive petitions to the Board of Appeals.

SECTION 15 SPECIAL PERMITS

1. By the terms of this Ordinance, the Board of Appeals is authorized to approve or disapprove certain uses [specified in the Table of Use Regulations, Section 42] for which a special permit is required. On acting on these matters, the Board shall take into consideration the general purpose and intent of this Ordinance and may impose such conditions and safeguards deemed necessary to preserve community values. The Board may grant a permit without finding of hardship, or for stated reasons, may deny the permit. In granting a permit the Board may impose further restrictions on the property as are appropriate, but shall not waive or relax any applicable provision of this Ordinance.
2. The Board of Appeals shall not approve an application for a special permit, unless it finds that all of the following conditions are met:
   [a] The specific site is an appropriate location for such use or structure.
   [b] The use as developed will not adversely affect the neighborhood.
   [c] There will be no nuisance or serious hazard to vehicles or pedestrians.
   [d] Adequate and appropriate facilities will be provided for the proper operation of the proposed use.

   To assure that the foregoing conditions are met, the Board may impose any restrictions deemed necessary, such as, but not limited to, the following:
   [aa] Greater than minimum yard requirements.
   [cc] Regulation of traffic and site plan features; additional off-street parking requirements.
   [dd] Place a maximum time limit on the special permit.
   [ee] Control of the number, location, size and lighting of signs.

SECTION 16 VARIANCES

The Board of Appeals shall have the power to authorize upon appeal, or upon petition in cases where a particular use is sought which no permit is required, with respect to a particular parcel of land or an existing building thereon, a variance from the terms of the Ordinance where owing to conditions especially affecting such parcel or such building but not affecting generally the zoning district in which it is located, a literal enforcement of the provisions of the Ordinance or by-law would involve substantial hardship, financial or otherwise to the appellant, and where desirable relief may be granted without substantial detriment to the public good and without nullifying or substantially derogating from the intent or purpose of the Ordinance, but not otherwise.

In exercising the powers above, the Board may impose limitations both of time and use, and a continuation of the use permitted may be conditioned upon compliance with regulations to be made and amended from time to time thereafter.

SECTION 17 AMENDMENTS TO THE ORDINANCE

1. This Zoning Ordinance and the map attached thereto may be amended from time to time by the City Council, but only in accordance with the procedure specified in Chapter 40A of the General Laws and as herein provided.
2. Petitions for proposed changes in this Ordinance may be initiated by an individual an official of the City or by the City Council on its own motion. In all cases the petition shall be forwarded from the City Council to the Planning Board, shall be in writing and shall identify the pertinent sections proposed for change and the manner in which they are proposed to be amended.
3. The General Laws, Chapter 40A, Section 8, as amended, shall regulate repetitive petitions to make changes in this Ordinance.

ARTICLE II DEFINITIONS

   [a] Words used in the present tense include the future; the singular noun includes the plural and the plural, the singular.
   [b] The word "building" includes "structure" and shall be construed as being followed by the words "or part thereof"; the word "occupied" includes the words "designed, arranged or intended to be occupied." Within such planned communities, the location of all residential, commercial, industrial, and governmental uses, school sites, parks, playgrounds, recreation areas, parking areas and other open spaces shall be controlled in such a manner as to permit a variety of housing accomodations and land uses in orderly relationship to one another. Such planned communities, when approved, shall constitute a part of the comprehensive plan for the City, as a whole, and the preliminary consideration of such planned communities by the Planning Board shall be based on this requirement.

   [d] The proposed location and arrangement of structures, in the opinion of the Planning Board, shall not be detrimental to existing or prospective adjacent dwellings or to the existing or prospective development of the neighborhood. Open spaces, including those between structures, shall be protected where necessary by adequate restrictions or covenants, running with land conveyances or dedications. Every single-family dwelling shall have access to a public street, court, walkway or other area dedicated to public use.
   [e] Ten [10] copies of a detailed plan, together with ten [10] copies of a written description of that plan, shall be submitted to the Planning Board. Said plan or plans and descriptions, when approved by the Planning Board and the City Council, as set forth in Chapter 40A, Section 6, of the General Laws, shall constitute the controls placed on the district. a two-thirds vote of all the members of the City Council within twenty [20] days of said approval by the Planning Board. The Planning Board or the City Council may also require sketch plans indicating future development of surrounding areas under the same unified ownership or control to insure compatability.

3. Open Space
   - [a] The purpose of the Open Space district is to identify those areas dedicated or used for public or semi-public uses such as parks and recreation areas, cemeteries and open-space reservations. Within an Open Space district, no buildings or premises shall be used, and no building or structure shall be permitted for other than one of the following specified purposes:
     - [i] Conservation of soil, water, plants and wildlife.
     - [ii] Recreation, including play and sporting areas, education and nature study, golf, skating, boating, swimming and fishing where otherwise legally permitted.
     - [iii] Forestry, including tree nurseries.
     - [iv] Storage of materials and/or equipment for cemetery, parks or playground purposes.
   - [b] Within an Open Space district, no structure or building shall be erected, altered or used by a public agency, except as permitted above.
   - [c] Lands acquired and utilized for public or semi-public Open Space purposes by a private organization may be included in the Open Space district.
4. Flood Plain District
   - [a] The purpose of the Flood Plain district is to preserve and maintain the ground water table; to protect the public health and safety, persons and property against the hazards of flood water inundation; for the protection of the community against the costs which may be incurred when unsuitable development occurs in swamps, marshes, along water courses, or in areas subject to floods; and to conserve natural conditions, wild life, and open spaces for the education, recreation, and general welfare of the public. The Flood Plain district shall be considered to be superimposed over the other districts shown on the Zoning Map as a recognition of the special hazards which exist in such areas.
   - [b] Within a Flood Plain district, no structure or building shall be erected except by special permit of the Board of Appeals.
   - [c] Any person desiring a special permit shall submit an application to the Board of Appeals, describing in detail the proposed use of the property and the work to be performed, accompanied by plans showing:
     - [i] The location, boundaries and dimension of the lot, and existing and proposed structures, watercourses and drainage easements, fill, means of access, and sewerage disposal facilities.
     - [ii] Mean sea level elevation, with five-foot or less contour separation, of the existing and proposed land surface, of cellar and first floors, and sewerage disposal facilities.
     - [iii] Test borings of sufficient depth to show location of peat, hardpan and other impervious material.
     - [iv] Copies of the application shall be delivered by the applicant to the Health Commissioner, the City Engineer, the Building Inspector, the Planning Director, and the Chairman of the Conservation Commission, who shall advise the Board of Appeals in writing.
   - [d] The Board of Appeals may issue a special permit under this section if it finds that the use of such premises will not endanger the health and safety of the occupants of the development of the flood plain, or the general public, or it may issue a permit with such conditions as it deems necessary to protect health and safety, or it may deny such application. The burden of showing that the proposed development will not endanger health and safety and will be an appropriate use of the land shall rest upon the applicant. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Board of Appeals shall insure:
     - [i] That the lowest floor level shall be at an elevation above mean low water level of at least thirteen [13] feet.
     - [ii] That the proposed construction, use and/or change of grade will not obstruct or divert flood flow, reduce natural storage, or increase storm water run-off so that water levels on other land are substantially raised or danger from flooding is increased.
     - [iii] That safe vehicular and pedestrian movement to, over and from such premises is provided in event of flooding.
     - [iv] That the proposed methods of drainage and sewerage disposal will not cause pollution or endanger health, in event of flooding.
   - [e] Nothing contained in this Section shall limit the authority of the Board of Health with respect to premises in the Flood Plain district or affect the applicability of the Building Code to any building in said Flood Plain district.

ARTICLE III ZONING DISTRICTS

   - [e] Boundaries indicated as being approximately parellel to the center lines of streets or other features indicated in subsections [a] through [d] above shall be construed as being parellel thereto and at such distance therefrom as indicated on the Zoning Map. Distances, not specifically given on the Zoning Map, shall be determined by the scale of the Zoning Map.
   - [f] Where a district boundary line divides any lot existing in single ownership at the time such line is adopted, the regulation for the less restricted portion of such lot shall be applicable to as much of the lot within the more restricted part of such lot as lies within thirty [30] feet of the district boundary.
   - [g] Where physical or cultural features existing on the ground differ from those shown on the Zoning Map, or in other circumstances not covered by subsections [a] through [f] above, the Board of Appeals shall interpret the district boundaries.

ARTICLE V DIMENSIONAL REQUIREMENTS

SECTION 51 DISTRICT APPLICATIONS

1. No building or structure shall be built nor shall any existing building or structure be enlarged which does not conform to the regulations as to maximum ratio of floor area to lot areas, minimum lot sizes, minimum lot area for each dwelling unit or equivalent, minimum lot width, minimum dimensions of front, side and rear yards, and maximum height of structures, in the several districts as set forth in Section 52 of this Article, except as herinafter provided.
2. The lot or yard areas required for any new building or use may not include any part of a lot that is required by any other building or use to comply with any requirements of this Ordinance, nor may these areas include any property of which the ownership has been transferred subsequent to the effective date of this Ordinance if such property was a part of the area required for compliance with the dimensional requirements applicable to the lot from which such transfer was made.
3. For residential uses permitted in Residence and Business districts which are not divided into dwelling units, each one thousand [1000] square feet of gross floor area of the building shall be considered equivalent to one [1] dwelling unit for purposes of computing minimum lot area and requirements.

1. In Residence D and Business C districts, no multi-family dwelling shall be less than eight stories in height.
2. Multi-family residences and mixed use of building and/or premises are permitted within Business A, B and C districts provided such multi-family residences and residential portions of such mixed use buildings and/or premises conform to all the requirements of Residence B, C and D districts, respectively, as specified above and in accordance with Sections 53 through 57, following. The site plans of all such buildings containing 12 dwelling units or more must be approved by the Planning Board.
3. Any building hereafter erected shall have minimum yards of not less than 25 feet.

SECTION 53 BUILDING BULK

1. For any building or group of buildings on a lot, the ratio of gross floor area to lot area shall not exceed the maximum specified in Section 52, except that for a multi-family dwelling in Residence C and D and Business B and C districts, with any part of its lot situated within fifteen hundred [1500] linear feet of an entrance to a rapid transit station, the maximum floor area of any such multi-family dwelling may be increased by ten [10] percent and the lot area required per dwelling unit may be reduced by 10 [10] percent.
2. Where a lot in a Residence C and D or Business B and C district abuts on a street and/or public open space more than seventy [70] feet wide, one-quarter of the excess over seventy [70] feet, but not more in any case than forty [40] feet may be added to the actual depth of the lot for the distance such lot abuts such street and/or public open space in calculating the lot area for the F.A.R. and minimum lot size per dwelling unit. Where such lot abuts such streets and/or open spaces on more than one [1] lot line, the provisions of the paragraph shall apply only to the larger such abutting lot line.
3. For a corner lot in Residence C and D, and in Business B and C districts, one-half the width of the narrower abutting street for a distance of one hundred [100] feet may be added to the actual area of the lot in calculating the lot area for the F.A.R. and minimum lot size per dwelling unit.

SECTION 54 LOT SIZE, AREA AND WIDTH

1. Where minimum lot requirements are established in Section 52, no building or use shall be erected or established on any lot of less size, except that in Residence A districts a detached dwelling erected for not more than one family may be converted to a dwelling of not more than two [2] families, provided that such one-family dwelling is located on a lot having a minimum lot size of 6,750 square feet and that not less than three [3] parking spaces are provided.
2. For each multi-family dwelling unit providing its parking requirements as set forth in Section 52 within the principal structure or within an accessory parking structure the floor area required for one [1] dwelling unit may be reduced by ten [10] percent upon approval of the Planning Board.
3. Where a minimum lot frontage and lot width is specified in Section 52, no principal structure shall be erected on any part of a lot which has a width less than is specified in said section.
4. The minimum lot requirements shall not apply to any lot shown on a plan, deed or other instrument duly recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk or the Norfolk Registry District of the Land Court containing an area of at least 5000 square feet and a minimum lot frontage and width of fifty [50] feet; provided such lot on April 1, 1958 and on the effective date of this Ordinance was and is under the same ownership.

SECTION 55 YARDS

1. Where a minimum front, side and rear yard is specified in Section 52, an open area of at least the specified dimension shall be provided between the front, side and rear lot lines and the nearest point of any building or structure except as may be permitted hereafter. Every part of the required yard shall be open to the sky and unobstructed except for ordinary projection of the belt courses, sills, skylights, and ornamental features projecting from the building not more than twelve [12] inches, and of cornices and gutters projecting from the building not more than twenty-four [24] inches. Awnings, arbors, fences, flagpoles, recreational and laundry drying equipment and similar objects shall not be considered obstructions when located within a required yard.
2. Projecting eaves, chimneys, bay windows, balconies, open fire escapes and like projections which do not project more than three [3] feet, and which are part of a building not more than four [4] stories in height, and unenclosed steps, unroofed porches and the like which do not project more than six [6] feet beyond the line of the foundation wall and which are not over four [4] feet above the average level of the adjoining ground, may extend into the minimum yard otherwise required for the district in which the structure is built.
3. On lots abutting streets on more than one side, the front yard requirement of each of the abutting streets shall apply regardless of designated front lot lines. The remaining sides shall be subject to side yard requirements.
4. Exceptions to the yard regulations set forth in Section 52 are as follows:
   [a] In a Residence A or B district, the minimum side yard width shall be eight [8] feet increased by two [2] feet for each story over one [1]; provided that the sum of the width of both side yards shall be at least twenty [20] feet increased by five [5] feet for each story over one [1]. In a Residence B district, for a multi-family dwelling of between four [4] units and sixteen [16] units, no side yard shall be less than fifteen [15] feet. For a multi-family dwelling in excess of sixteen [16] units, each side yard shall be not less than twenty [20] feet.
   [b] In a Residence C or D district, any dwelling hereafter constructed with its frontage on a street forty [40] feet wide or less, the minimum front yard requirement shall be increased by one-half the distance as may be required to increase the width of such street to acceptable standards as defined by the Planning Board under Chapter 41, Section 81-J.
   [c] Where a wall of a building is not parallel with its corresponding lot line, the average width or depth of any yard or setback shall not be less than the dimension specified in Section 52 for the required width or depth, provided that said yard or setback shall not be less at any point than three-fourths the required width or depth.

SECTION 56 HEIGHT EXCEPTIONS

1. The provisions of this Ordinance governing the height of buildings and structures in all districts shall not apply to chimneys, water towers, air conditioning equipment, elevator bulkheads, skylights, ventilators and other necessary features appurtenant to buildings which are usually carried above roofs and are not used for human occupancy, provided these features are located or screened so as to be not visible from any point on grade within five hundred [500] feet of a lot line of a building so equipped; nor to domes, towers or spires above buildings if such features are not used for human occupancy; nor to wireless or broadcasting towers and other like unenclosed structures, nor to accessory under-ground or above-grade garage structure or part of a main building for accessory garage use, not used for human occupancy.

SECTION 57 OPEN SPACE

1. Every lot in a Residence B, C and D district shall include landscaped and usable open space having not less than the minimum area for each such residence district as specified in Section 52.
2. Open Space shall be deemed eligible for calculating the open space requirement as specified in Section 52 only if each dimension is at least fifteen [15] feet, except for patios and balconies, as defined in Section 21.
3. The minimum requirement for open space per each dwelling unit in Residence C and D districts having a patio or balcony as defined in Section 21 may be reduced by fifty [50] percent of the total area of such balcony, but in no case more than fifty [50] square feet.

ARTICLE VI SUPPLEMENTARY PROVISIONS

SECTION 61 EXISTING BUILDINGS

This Ordinance shall not apply to existing buildings or structures, nor to the existing use of any building or structure on any land, to the extent to which it is used at the time of first adoption of applicable provisions of this or any prior ordinance, but it shall apply to any change of use thereof and to any alteration of a building or structure, subject to Section 62 of this Article.

SECTION 62 NONCONFORMANCE

1. Any nonconforming building, structure or use which lawfully existed at the time of passage of the applicable provisions of this or any prior ordinance or amendment thereto, may be continued or changed to be conforming, but when so changed, it shall not be made nonconforming again.
2. This Ordinance shall apply to any change of use of an existing building or structure and to any alteration of a building or structure when the same would amount to reconstruction, extension or structural change, and to any alteration of a building or structure to provide for its use for a purpose or in a manner substantially different from the use to which it was put before alteration, or for its use for the same purpose to a substantially greater extent.
   No nonconforming structure or use shall be increased in area, volume, or extent by more than twenty-five [25] percent since it first became nonconforming.
3. Certificates of occupancy may be issued by the Building Inspector when the Board of Appeals authorizes the substitution of one nonconforming use for another. The Board may authorize such substitution if the new nonconforming use is substantially the same as the last former nonconforming use, such as one type of retail store for another type, a beauty parlor for a barber shop.
4. If a nonconforming structure or use shall have been damaged by fire, explosion, or other catastrophe to such an extent that the cost of restoration would be less than fifty [50] percent of the replacement value of the building at the time of the catastrophe as estimated by the Building Inspector, such building or use may be rebuilt or restored and used again as previously. Such building or restoring shall be completed within twelve [12] months after such catastrophe, and the building or use as restored shall not increase in area or degree the extent of nonconformity beyond the state existing prior to the catastrophe. If destroyed to such an extent that the cost of restoration would exceed fifty [50] percent of the replacement value of the building as determined by the Building Inspector, such building or use shall not be restored and may be replaced by a conforming building or use.
5. A nonconforming use of a building or land which has been discontinued or abandoned shall not thereafter be returned to such nonconforming use. A nonconforming use shall be considered discontinued or abandoned when the premises have been devoted to another use, when the intent of the owner to discontinue is apparent or when the characteristic equipment and the furnishings of the nonconforming use have been inoperative for one [1] year or removed from the premises and have not been replaced by similar equipment within one [1] year.
6. If a nonconforming building or a building containing a nonconforming use is declared unsafe by the Building Inspector, it shall not thereafter be restored, repaired or rebuilt except in conformity with the regulations of the district in which it is located.

SECTION 63 ACCESSORY USES

1. An accessory use shall be permitted only on the same lot as the building or use to which it is accessory, except as provided in Article VII, Section 73.
2. No use prohibited as a principal use in a less restricted district shall be allowed as an accessory use.
3. The total area of uses, except parking facilities, accessory to the principal use may not occupy more than twenty-five [25] percent of the floor area in a main building, and the total area of uses or buildings accessory to the principal use except parking facilities may not occupy more than twenty-five [25] percent of the unbuilt lot area.
4. No accessory use is permitted which involves the maintenance of a stock in trade or the use of signs, show windows, illumination or displays except as permitted in Section 81.
5. The Building Inspector may grant a temporary occupancy permit for temporary buildings and trailers during building construction where reasonably required for such construction. Such permit may be issued for an initial period of not more than one year. In the case of a building, the application shall be accompanied by a bond and bill of sale to the City, effective in case the building is not removed prior to the expiration of the permit. Permits may be renewed by the Building Inspector for successive periods of not more than one [1] year each, for a total of three [3] years.

SECTION 64 AUTOMOBILE SERVICE STATIONS

1. Automobile service stations shall conform to the following dimensional requirements:
   [a] The minimum lot area shall be twelve thousand [12,000] square feet.
   [b] The minimum frontage on a street shall be one hundred and twenty [120] feet.
   [c] The maximum width of driveways and sidewalk openings measured at the street lot line shall be thirty [30] feet and the minimum shall be twenty [20] feet.
   [d] The minimum distance of driveways measured at lot line shall be as follows:
      [i] From corner lot line, twenty [20] feet.
      [ii] From interior side of lot line, ten [10] feet.
      [iii] From other driveway on same lot, twenty [20] feet.
   [e] The minimum setback of any building from all street lot lines shall be forty [40] feet.
   [f] The minimum setback of gasoline pumps and service appliances shall be fifteen [15] feet from all street lines.
   [g] A raised curb at least six [6] inches in height shall be constructed along all street frontage except at driveway openings.
   [h] No driveway to or from any filling station shall be within fifty [50] feet [measured along the street line on that side of the street which such driveway would cross] of any public or private school, church, playground, hospital, public library or institution for dependents or children.
2. Automobile service stations shall conform to the following characteristics:
   [a] All illumination shall be shielded so as not to shine on any adjacent property.
   [b] No driveway shall be permitted to any street that carries traffic at such speed or in such quantity that the Planning Board deems that access or egress from a gasoline station at such location will create hazardous conditions.

[c] All washing, lubricating and repairing shall be carried on inside the building.

[d] The area of the lot not landscaped shall be graded, surfaced with asphalt or other suitable material and drained to the satisfaction of the Building Inspector, to the extent necessary to prevent nuisances of erosion or excessive water flow across public ways.

[f] Signs and other advertising devices shall conform to Section 81 of this Ordinance.

Such plantings shall be maintained in good condition at all times, and shall not be permitted to exceed seven [7] feet in height. Such screening or barrier may be interrupted by normal entrances or exits, and shall have no signs or other advertising devices hung or attached thereto.

3. Parking required for two [2] or more buildings or uses under the same ownership may be provided in combined facilities on the same or adjacent lots, subject to approval by the Planning Board, where it is evident that such facilities will continue to be available for the several buildings or uses.

Parking facilities shall be graded, surfaced with tar, asphalt, concrete, or other non-dusting paving, drained and suitably maintained to the satisfaction of the Building Inspector to the extent necessary to avoid the nuisances of dust, erosion, or excessive water flow onto public ways or adjoining property. Parking facilities for more than five [5] automobiles shall be screened, either by planting, which shall be maintained in a healthy growing condition, or by a screening device such as a fence or wall except as required in Section 85. Such planting or screening shall not be less than two and one-half [2-1/2] feet nor more than six [6] feet in height and shall not be less than fifty [50] percent opaque when viewed from directly in front. 2. No sign or other advertising device with visible or movable parts or with flashing, animated or intermittent illumination shall be erected or maintained. This prohibition shall not apply to hands and numerals of clocks and thermometers or signs erected to protect the safety of the people against dangerous conditions.

1. No soil, loam, sand, gravel or stone shall be removed from any lot not in public use in the City of Quincy without first obtaining a special permit from the Board of Appeals except as exempted in paragraph 6 [c] of this section.
2. Each application for a special permit for earth removal shall be accompanied by a plan, submitted in triplicate, prepared at the expense of the applicant by a registered Land Surveyor or Civil Engineer, showing [1] the existing contours of the land; [2] the contours as proposed after completion of the operation; [3] all public roads and private means of vehicular access; [4] proposed drainage and [5] any other information as may be required by the Board of Appeals.
3. Before granting a permit, the Board of Appeals shall give special consideration to the general character of the neighborhood surrounding the location of the proposed earth removal and the effect of the proposed removal on such neighborhoods such as the amount of noise, dust and vibration likely to occur from the proposed removal, the general safety of the public on the public ways giving access to and in the immediate vicinity of such location, the use to which such location has been put prior to the application for a special permit, and to which it may be put after the operation of the permit.
4. In granting a permit hereunder, the Board of Appeal shall impose reasonable conditions and restrictions as it deems to be in the public interest including but not limited to [1] method of removal; [2] type and location of temporary structures; [3] hours of operation; [4] operations of removal trucks; [5] area, depth and contours of excavations; [6] distance of excavation to street and lot lines; [7] re-establishment of ground lands and grades; [8] provisions for temporary and permanent drainage; [9] disposition of boulders and tree stumps; [10] replacement of loam over the area of removal; [11] planting of the area to suitable cover; and [12] cleaning, repair and/or resurfacing of streets used in removal activities which have been adversely affected by the removal activity.
5. No permit for removal shall be issued for a period of more than three [3] years, although such a permit may be renewed for additional periods in the same manner. The Board of Appeals shall require a bond or other security to insure compliance with its conditions of authorization unless in a particular case it specifically finds that such security is not warranted and so states in its decision, giving the reason for its finding.
6. This section shall not apply to the following:
   [a] The removal of less than ten [10] cubic yards of material in the aggregate in any year from any one premise.
   [b] The transfer of material from one part of a premise to another part of the same premise for immediate use in such other part of the premise.

Plantings shall be at least ten [10] feet in width and contain at least two [2] rows of alternate live deciduous and evergreen trees. Said trees shall not be more than five [5] feet apart, have an original planting height of at least six [6] feet, be able to attain a height of at least ten [10] feet, and shall be maintained in a healthy growing condition by the property owner. Any existing open storage of junk in any district shall within three [3] years of the effective date of this Ordinance be properly screened or removed.

Where an Industrial district or Business district is located adjacent to a Residence district, a public park or playground and is not separated therefrom by a public way, a compact planting screen as defined in paragraph 1 above along the property or lot line adjoining said district boundary shall be provided and maintained by the owners of said premises. Said screening area shall contain no structures or parking or be devoted to any other use or purpose, and shall be maintained in a healthy growing condition by the property owner.
3. The Board of Appeals may vary requirements of this section when such requirements cause a hardship to the affected property, or where conditions are such that fencing and screening will not serve a useful purpose.

SECTION 85 TRAFFIC VISIBILITY ACROSS CORNERS
In any district where a front setback is required, no structure, fence, or sign shall be constructed and no vegetation shall be planted or maintained between a plane two and one-half [2-1/2] feet above curb level and a plane ten [10] feet above curb level, so as to interfere with traffic visibility across the corner within that part of the lot which is within a triangle formed by the street lines and a third line joining points on the street lot lines twenty-five [25] feet from their intersection.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

They Shot A Horse, Didn't They?

[Today's column is written by Dr. Robert Mann, an associate of Dr. Charles Djerf]

Recently, a family acquaintance in northern Vermont wanted to have his driveway plowed. As he backed his car out in preparation the family pet horse approached the car. [She was a mare, 12 years old, and a real pet].

As the man stepped from the car, the horse bit into his left arm at the elbow. [His right arm was in a sling from a previous injury.] The horse proceeded to pick him up, and shake him in the air, like a rag doll. When the horse finally dropped him, he ran to the truck that was there to plow. As the man climbed in, the horse jumped up on the truck. The man and his friend drove away, and the mare returned to the barnyard.

When they returned, with another snow plow and a gun, they found the horse on the porch, trying to gain entrance to the house. She quickly came down from the porch, tried to get to the man she had injured, as he attempted to turn his car motor off. She then attacked the snowplow. After a conference with a local veterinarian, they proceeded to shoot the horse. Studies done at the University of Vermont proved their suspicions, that the horse had Rabies [hydrophobia].

Seems like rather harsh punishment, I suppose, but that's what needs to be done when Rabies is involved. We have quite a number of young hoods in our town, some from wealthy homes, some from poorer ones, who do more bodily harm to citizens, than the old she-horse, yet are not punished by the courts.

There are some emotionally disturbed, sadistic teens in Quincy, as there are in other towns, that never even appear in court for their deeds, and those that do appear in court get that proverbial "slap on the wrist", and go out and don't learn a lesson.

It would seem that there would be some punishment that could stop the crimes once and for all. While I, in no way, advocate shooting the common punk, nor even execute the murderer, one has to admit that these farmers got results from their actions -- the horse never did bite anyone again.

But I digress...Rabies, like sex and the common cold, death and taxes, is here to stay. It has spread across our country from west to east, and from south to north. It is particularly prevalent in forest animals, such as foxes, skunks and other small rodents. I even saw a drunk appearing grey squirrel that bit a little girl who tried to feed it, climbed and fell out of three trees in a row and finally staggered into the street and was hit by a car. An autopsy proved Rabies here too.

Rabies is a viral disease that is transmitted by the saliva of an animal that already has the disease. We generally associate this with a bite of a dog, but the skin need not be broken by the bite. In fact, a family pet that has been bitten by a rabid fox or skunk, may transmit this disease to the owner, or a child, simply by licking the person, and having the saliva get in the tiniest break in the skin.

The saliva of a rabid animal, even if dry, is very infectious for at least 12 to 18 hours.

Even more terrifying is the fact that Rabies, untreated, is 100% fatal in humans. Our one salvation is the rarity of the disease in domestic animals. It is, however, getting more common as the disease spreads among wild life.

Some of the signs indicative of Rabies are:

--Unusual friendliness in a pet or wild animal
--A choking animal
--An animal that "bites at" any moving object
--An animal that slinks away and hides
--An animal showing difficulty in swallowing which may cause saliva to drip from the mouth
--Dogs often appear to be blind
--An animal that bites and attacks

All pets, eg. - cats, dogs and skunks, and any other pet or pet rodent that comes in contact with wild animals should be vaccinated against Rabies at best once yearly. Anyone who does not have his pet vaccinated for Rabies, and which passes the disease on to humans should be held liable for the damage done. Non-vaccinated animals should be inoculated, or put away.

A further note...rushing a child to your doctor or the hospital for a DPT, D-T or Tetanus shot, after a pet bite only helps prevent the development of Tetanus, another disease in itself. There is no protection against Rabies in these shots. Thus, don't have any false illusion about the lack of danger to yourself or your child if you get the Tetanus shot.

Any animal that bites a human should be isolated [chained or caged] for at least a week, to watch for signs of rabies. If the animal dies, the brain should be studied. If a person refuses to isolate his "pet", then the animal should be impounded by the community, observed during the incubation period, then destroyed. If the animal is proven rabid, the person bitten must undergo a series of 14 painful, daily shots to prevent the disease. Otherwise they will suffer the fatal consequence.

Enuff 'bout Rabies. I'm still intrigued by the crime prevention methods of the rural Vermonters.

McIntyre Seeks Local Man As Next MBTA Manager

The next general manager of the MBTA should be a Massachusetts man with a "capacity of leadership", recommends Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre.

McIntyre said he firmly believes "we cannot afford the luxury of an apprenticeship training period for a general manager" from outside the state to get acquainted with the MBTA system.

He noted that the last three general managers--Rush Lincoln, Thomas McLernan and Leo J. Cusick--were all picked from outside the state.

He said a Massachusetts man should be considered because of the present leadership and transportation "crisis".

McIntyre, a member of the MBTA Advisory Board, made his recommendations in a letter this week to Dr. Robert Wood, chairman of the MBTA Board of Directors.

In it, he declared:

"It is necessary in the position of General Manager not only to find a man possessed of great talent and an appreciation of day to day operations of a transit system, but also to be able to inspire the men with whom he will work to put forth their extra capacity and effort so that the particular job responsibility gets done on time and in a quality fashion.

"It is essential in my estimation that the most important character attribute of the next General Manager should be "capacity of Leadership" so that the public image of the MBTA can be substantially enhanced.

"The last three General Managers of the MBTA have been men who have not been familiar with Massachusetts transportation in recent years and were not residents of the Commonwealth when they were appointed to the position of General Manager. It has been fashionable to go outside the Commonwealth in search of talent for this position.

"Consequently, once a General Manager was appointed, months of indoctrination and at times a difficult learning process for him were necessary to appreciate the methods of operation of the MBTA both internally and externally.

"In the midst of this present transportation crisis in which we find ourselves, not only am I of the firm belief that we cannot afford the luxury of an apprenticeship training period for a General Manager, but I am also firmly convinced that we have in Massachusetts many men who have the character, ability, talent, but most of all, quality of leadership to be responsible for the completion of the awe-inspiring programs which have been initiated by the Commonwealth in the transportation field in the MBTA.

LOCAL MEMBERS of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony who will appear in an April 19 Symphony Hall Benefit Concert are [seated] Alex Randall and Eileen McBournie, both of North Quincy High and [standing] Jeffery Dill, Central Junior; Rodney Dill, Quincy High; Steven Guiney, Boston Latin and John Hunt, Cohasset High School. Auditions for the orchestra will be held May 9 and 16 at Boston University from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Instrumentalists in Grades 7 to 12 are eligible.

After 51 Arrests

Drugs Meeting A 'Must' For City Parents

Arrests of 51 young persons in South Shore raids over the weekend makes a planned open Quincy meeting on drugs "a must" for concerned parents, says Mayor James R. McIntyre.

The special program called "Let's Face It" will be held next Monday at 7 p.m. in the Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

Mayor McIntyre, who is co-sponsoring the open discussion with School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon said:

"The sad events last weekend make this meeting, I believe, a must for concerned Quincy parents," the Mayor declared.

In a leaflet distributed to parents inviting them to participate in the discussion, Mayor McIntyre and Dr. Creedon said:

"Let's Face It is our hope that as an interested and concerned Quincy parent and citizen you may contribute additional thoughts on how to best attack this menace."

The weekend raids in which an estimated 120 law enforcement officials participated, were staged in Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Hull.

Forty-one persons were arraigned in Quincy and Hingham District Courts following the round-up and their cases were continued.

Dr. Creedon, will be the moderator at the Monday meeting. Speakers will include Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, director of pupil personnel services for Quincy Public Schools; Mrs. Maureen O'Brien and Martin Finnegan, drug research assistants for the schools. Police Chief Francis X. Finn has also been invited to take part in the program which is being coordinated by Mrs. O'Brien.

At the close of the program, Quincy teachers who have completed the in-service drug education program, and interested students from Quincy, North and Quincy Vocational-Technical High Schools will meet with small groups for discussion.

Educators taking part are: Peter Chrisom, Theodore Eliott, Thomas Hall, James Roche, Mrs. Catherine Smith, Miss Ellen McDonough, Miss Muriel Goudey, Mrs. Jeanne Fay, John Harrington and Miss Sherry Shaw, from Quincy High School; Miss Agnes Berry, North Quincy High School; Bernard Dodd, Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

Quincy High Girls In Europe For Pilgrims Anniversary

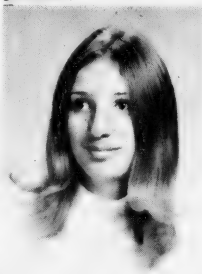
By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Three Quincy High School students are among 47 from Massachusetts who will take part April 29 in festivities in Leiden, The Netherlands, inaugurating the 350th anniversary of the departure of the Pilgrim Fathers.

GAIL MC QUINN

On their return, they will participate in programs at Plymouth, in observance of the 350th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims from the Mayflower in 1620.

Pamela Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fisher of 209 Winthrop St.; Gail McQuinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis McQuinn of 45 Wall St.; both seniors, and Rosemary Mainero, a junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Mainero of 64 Ames St., are now spending the first of their three-week European tour in Germany.



Each girl is living for the week with a different German family in Munich. With their host family, they will visit high schools, attend church services, visit museums and go on sightseeing tours.

A similar program is planned for their stay in The Netherlands, where their headquarters will be at Amersfoort. Here, in addition to the 350th Leiden anniversary, the girls will be guests at the Royal Palace in a procession honoring Queen Juliana, on her birthday, April 30.

A two-day stay in London will conclude the itinerary. The girls will return to Boston by airliner.

The girls were selected as members of the United Church European Study Tour, arranged by International Christian Youthcontacts of Amersfoort.

Students are selected on the basis of their own written applications backed up by letters from school counselors, ministers and their parents.

Dr. Djerf Volunteers Service In Honduras

Dr. Charles Djerf, Quincy pediatrician, and Quincy Sun columnist, leaves April 29, for a month-long volunteer professional stint in the Honduras.

He will be working at a two-year old hospital sponsored by CARE at Santa Rosa DeCopans, a community about 30 miles from El Salvador in northwest Honduras.

"I volunteered to go down after reading an advertisement in the pediatrics journal," Dr. Djerf explained. "They are encouraging specialists and general practitioners to come down and offer their services."

CARE establishes medical facilities which work in cooperation with local doctors. They try to help by training technicians for lab work and x-rays and provide them with materials and up-to-date techniques. CARE stays in the area long enough to have the people carry on without help, then moves to some other point.

Dr. Djerf, at the invitation of the Honduran government, will spend the month of May at his non-compensating task at the established hospital where there are 30 children's beds.

There are also dental facilities. He expects malnutrition to be the most prevalent problem.

Dr. Djerf will report on his experiences in articles in the Quincy Sun upon his return.

Their Kind Of Music

By
Ida F. Kelley

The old songs seem to be coming back
Sounding better and better each day
They bring back lots of memories
No matter what young folks say

These kids have their own kind of music
Which we can't seem to understand
We can't even hear the words they sing
They seem to drown out the band

As parents we try to go along
We have to show them we care
"Cause if we start to disagree
Right away they call us a "square"

You've got to admit we were kids ourselves
And things sure were different then
So let yourself go and swing along
We'll have peace forever, Amen.

Spring Clean-Up For Wollaston Youngsters

Spring Clean-Up time arrived this week at Wollaston for the small fry.

Twenty-four youngsters, most of them 12 years or under, conducted a do-it-yourself cleanup at a small park opposite the Wollaston School. While the spring sprucing chore is usually completed later in the year by the City of Quincy, the children got a headstart on the job with a view to opening of the sandlot baseball season.

This year all the City had to do was send around trucks to pick up the 50 or so plastic bags and containers filled with debris from the lot by the youngsters. Permission had been received from the Wollaston Garden Club, which cares for the shrubbery there, for the youngsters to use the park if they cleaned it up.

Comic Book To Be New Drugs Weapon

The "comic book" will be Quincy's newest weapon in the battle against drugs use by youngsters.

The booklet, hardly comic, is cartoon illustrated with a plain message aimed at both the junior high and elementary school levels.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon and City Council President Arthur Tobin plan to have 10,000 copies printed for distribution in the city's junior high and elementary schools.

It will be a reprint of one brought back from California by Tobin. It is entitled "Users Are Losers".

"It really reaches down into the elementary and junior high levels with an easy-to-understand dramatic message," said Tobin.

Tobin came across the comic book last week while in Ventura and Anaheim, Calif. where he was called because of a family emergency.

His three-year old nephew, son of his brother, Edward J. Tobin, suffered a serious injury, in Ventura.

Tobin stayed at the Anaheim home of another brother, Deputy Sheriff Thomas Tobin.

While there, Tobin was asked to address the Anaheim City Council to discuss mutual municipal problems such as taxes, bond issues, education and narcotics.

He was also invited by the Orange County Board of Supervisors [County Commissioners] to inspect the jail and court systems.

The drugs problem there was accented during Tobin's stay by the tragic death of a little girl who was given a candy coated narcotics pill by two teen-agers.

It was then that Tobin learned of the comic book which is being used by schools there to help win the battle for the minds of young people against narcotics pushers.

"I think it will deliver the message for us–to win over our youngsters before they start experimenting with drugs," said Tobin.

The program is planned to provide information to residents of the north end of Quincy, and particularly concerned parents who may be unaware of the measures being taken in Quincy to minimize drug abuse in the schools.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Q. Why is it when I go to some weddings the bride's father is in the receiving line and at others he is not? Is there no set ruling on this?

A. It is completely up to the bride and her dad whether he stands in line or not. However, if he does not stand in line he must either circulate among the guests, making sure they are having an enjoyable time, or he should stand near the line to greet guests as they leave the line and direct them to the refreshment area. This may be done by the ushers if dad prefers to stand in line.

To be in the receiving line is a very special privilege, and in my opinion, this is where dad belongs with the other parents and bridal party.

Q. Is it necessary to include the mates of my bridal party at the head table?

A. It is courteous to include them providing there is space without overcrowding the table. With the size of most bridal parties today it would be an impossible situation. The best way to overcome this difficulty is to have a special table, just for husbands and wives close to the head table.

Also, in the case of large bridal parties, you should have a separate parents table. The four parents, the clergyman and his wife, and close relatives would sit here. This table, too, is placedclose to the head table.

Q. When does the father of the bride dance with the bride?

A. He dances the second dance with the bride. He may cut in on the bridegroom late in his dance. He then dances with the bridegrooms mother and then his wife.

Q. On which arm does the bride's father escort her down the aisle?

A. Usually the right arm. Be sure, dad, to hold your arm horizontally. You walk near the pews so the bride can walk down the center of the aisle. Don't forget to give her that smile of encouragement and approval as you release her arm and turn her over to her almost husband.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

Piece and peace. Two simple words. They sound alike. They're spelled differently, have different meaning.

Consider for example, "piece of mind" as it is commonly used and "peace of mind" as it too is commonly understood. "Piece of mind" is common. "Peace of mind" is all too uncommon.

Telling some one off with a "piece of mind" is one thing. Possessing "peace of mind" is different. "Piece of mind" even at its best provides only a TEMPORARY feeling of satisfaction. Once attained, "peace of mind" can be maintained - it gives PERMANENT satisfaction.

Wouldn't it be a wonderful world if people would practice less "piece of mind" and possess more "peace of mind"...?...

Quincy City Hospital has received an electrocardiograph machine as a "thank you" for the kind treatment of a patient.

Hospital director Harlan L. Paine, Jr., said the gift came from Norman L. Sacks of Forest Hills, the service given to his father, the late David Sacks, who lived in Framingham when he was a patient at the Quincy Hospital.

"According to Mr. Sacks," said Paine, "his father expressed great appreciation for the kind treatment given him by all those concerned in his care while a patient at the hospital."

Recreation Roundup

The Pilot Project in recreation continues to show innovative programs. The fitness program for boys is going well in the South-West Quincy area. In Germantown the girls, having given up in their attempt to start a girls boxing program will now move outside in what is being billed as a "Joy For Fitness." The girls plan to jog to keep slim. Why not join them?

Barry Welch, director of the Pilot Project sends the following wrap-up from the four project areas:

Quincy Point

POINT JUNIOR HIGH:

Highlight of the junior program was the final soccer game of the night, with three overtimes. A team captained by Dave Goguen pulled out a thrilling 6-5 victory. Mike Varrasso led the scoring for the winners with three goals, Ronnie Butt, Bob Petzolt and Dave Goguen scored the others. For the losers, captained by Tom Ford, Jackie Daley scored three goals while Ricky Palumbo had the other two.

All the junior boys are looking forward to next week when the new indoor hockey game will be introduced. Anyone interested, the time is 6-8 p.m. on Monday night, at Point Junior High.

SENIOR HIGH PROGRAM:

The policy is to keep the winning team from the previous week together if possible. So after a record seven wins, the Ray Papile team challenged all comers this week. After running their streak to 10 straight they were finally defeated by the Jim Walker team. Walker led his team to victory with brilliant shooting. Other team members were: Jack Marini, Mike Crosson, Dave Coletti and Tom Daley.

Germantown

GERMANTOWN YOUTH COUNCIL:

The Germantown Youth Council has lined up several interesting programs for the near future. Definitely planned is a lecture with film slides on this year's "Walk For Development", in Quincy. A lecture on plans for this year's walk will be given by Sandra Jabeily, one of the program planners. Slides of last years' walk will also be shown. This will be May 2, at 7 p.m. in the Youth Center.

Plans are also in the making for the showing of Quincy high school football films and for a dance. The Center welcomes the council's new member, Terrence Watts, and thanks Maria Saunders for printing the new stationary.

SNUG HARBOR GIRLS:

Enthusiasm is picking up for the clothing drive now underway. Publicity chairman Dailene Bugstrom aided by Linda Fishel are getting flyers out and some beautiful posters will soon be displayed throughout the area.

The girls plan to do some jogging along the streets on Tuesday nights to keep in shape.

Janet Campell is still the big winner at the ping pong table.

SNUG HARBOR BOYS:

Again the boxing matches proved a success at the Snug Harbor gym. The bout between Michael Rooney and Paul Mathieson was the highlight of the night. Mathieson's effective use of the "left jab" and Rooney's equally skillful right were the big factors in this fast moving bout at the elementary grade level.

Steve O'Rourke, who has been consistently winning the ping pong matches overcame all comers again. He remains the undisputed champ in the Junior High Division.

Jeffrey Steenson took the championship for the night in chess.

South West Quincy

STERLING JUNIOR HIGH:

Almost 50 entries have been received for the AAHPER youth fitness test held at Sterling Junior High School. The test was administered to the boys in the third through the sixth grades during the past two weeks of the program.

Scoring high in the events with eight points or better are: Paul Lynch, Peter Pagnano, Fred Sheppard, Chris Fanara, Louie Avitable, Brian Boidi, and Mathew Fanara and Robert Marshall. Peter Pagnano took top honors in three events and has a total of 12 points.

The running broad jump was won by Paul Lynch, Peter Pagnano, Fred Sheppard, Chris Fanara and Brian Boidi.

Big plans for the coming weeks feature a softball throw, shuttle run and obstacle course. On April 29, awards will be presented to the highest total scorers in each grade.

Houghs Neck

ATHERTON HOUGH BOYS:

Monday night a soccer game was initiated into the program at Atherton Hough. In a tight match the Macey gang out-lasted the Pump House Rollers 10-8. Big scorers were the MacNally Brothers, Dumbo Cotter, Tom Grady and Bob Forrester. Plans for future soccer matches are in the works.

ATHERTON HOUGH GIRLS:

Those who enjoyed the labor of exercising to music this week were: Susan Doyle, Patty Donovan, Theresa Iacavino, Barbara Sullivan, Janice Cussar, Jean Lynch and Mary Picard.

Judy McQuinn, Julie Forrester and Stacy Doyle were busy practicing for future badminton matches.

Quincy, 7-0

Basiliere Gets Nice Pitching Surprise

When the baseball season opened Quincy High Coach Bob Basiliere was concerned about his pitching and rightfully so, with the top three 1969 hurlers having graduated.

However, an unexpected discovery who looms as the season's most pleasant surprise, has brightened the picture tremendously and after four Greater Boston League games the Presidents had three wins and a tie.

The discovery is Mark Whelton, junior right-hander pitching his first high school ball. He was unable to report last year as a sophomore because of an injury but has made an auspicious debut.

After pitching 11 scoreless innings [one-hit over nine] in a 14-inning marathon scoreless tie with Somerville, Whelton pitched a two-hitter Monday in hurling Quincy to a 7-0 victory over Medford at Adams Field.

In 20 innings he has given up six hits and no runs. In the Medford game he struck out 10 but was a little bit wild as he walked six and hit three batters.

"He throws a lot of breaking stuff and has a tendency to be a bit wild but he keeps the batters loose and is hard to hit," said a pleased Basiliere. "With him doing so well as a starter, Rich Brown also doing very well in a starting role and sophomore Jimmy Walker, a fine lefty, excelling in relief, our picture is much brighter now." Walker made excellent relief appearances in the first three games.

Quincy's defense continued to be outstanding against Medford and Basiliere feels this is one of the major factors in his team's unexpectedly fast start.

"The boys have done a wonderful job in the field and the pitchers know they don't have to strike the batters out," Bob said. "The boys are very heady, have good baseball instinct and they have a winning attitude which has been developed during the past few years."

Basiliere was also tickled to see Kevin Ryan snap out of a prolonged slump Monday with a triple and two singles and three runs scored for his finest day by far.

Richie DeCristofaro had a double and single and Billy Maver and Whelton one hit each.

Quincy's outlook is further brightened by a fine junior varsity team coached by Bud Mosher. The jayvees topped Medford, 8-5, Monday to make their record two wins, a tie and a loss. They also defeated Somerville, 5-1, tied Revere and lost to North Quincy.

Quincy played at Malden yesterday, hosts Everett Friday at 10 a.m. at Adams Field, goes to Chelsea Monday and is home to Boston Tech in a non-league game next Wednesday.

Last week the Presidents topped Revere, 6-3, as Rick Brown started, went six innings for his second win and Jimmy Walker again came in to pitch shutout ball over the last three innings.

Quincy pounded out 13 hits including two doubles by Paul Hand and Frank Stevens, a double and single by Pete Lucier, two singles each by Rick DeCristofaro, Bruce Carlson and Billy Maver, and a double by Cliff Mattson.

Earlier in the week Quincy and Somerville battled to a 14-inning scoreless tie called because of darkness in what Basiliere called "one of the finest high school games I've seen and an extremely well-played game for so early in the season."

Quincy came up with some sparkling defensive plays. In the third inning with a runner on third and one out, Stevens took a fly in right field and rifled a strike to the plate to catch the runner. Later DeCristofaro saved two runs with a spectacular play at second base.

Mark Whelton pitched brilliantly for 11 innings and Walker again finished up in flawless fashion.

It was Whelton's first game ever pitching for a high school team and he pitched one-hit ball over nine innings. He gave up three more in the 10th and 11th and Walker allowed only one hit over the next three innings.

Quincy Baseball Team 'Scores' In Behavior

Quincy Schools Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon has received a letter from Verne W. Carey, owner of the Bass River Motel, Cape Cod, commending the Quincy High School baseball team for its behavior there recently.

He wrote:

"On April 4 the Quincy High School baseball team occupied rooms at the Bass River Motel.

"As owner of the motel, I was so impressed with their obvious pride in personal appearance and their self-discipline that I thought you should be informed. Their dignity of demeanor reflects the fine leadership of their coaches. Quincy High School should be very proud of their baseball ambassadors.

"The Bass River Motel caters to an older clientele and it was gratifying to hear our older guests comment so favorably on the behavior of your young ball players.

"The Quincy High School baseball team is always welcome at my motel."

Two Postponements

Weatherman Gives North Busy Schedule

North Quincy's scheduled baseball game at Chelsea was postponed twice this week, giving the Raiders four games in as many days.

The busy schedule didn't bother Coach Charlie Bunker too much, however, as two of the games are non-league games which go only seven innings and he will get a chance to use some of his younger pitchers.

North yesterday was home to Abp. Williams in a non-league game, will play at Chelsea today at 1:30, go to Somerville Friday for a 10 a.m. game and play at Hingham in a non-leaguer Saturday at 10. Monday the Raiders host Medford and Wednesday play at Everett.

North took a 1-2 Greater Boston League record and 3-2 overall mark into yesterday's Williams game. The Raiders had topped Revere in the league, Williams and Hingham in non-league games and bowed to Quincy and Malden in the league.

Last Saturday the Raiders thumped Hingham of the Old Colony League, 8-1, as junior Dave Murphy made his first pitching start and held the Harbormen to three hits in his six innings, struck out seven and walked two. Manson finished up in fine fashion.

"Murphy did an excellent job and also had two hits," Bunker said. "The entire team hit well and every starter had at least one hit."

The previous day North lost a nightmarish 12-9 decision to Malden as it fell apart in the field and committed eight errors.

"The pitching wasn't nearly as bad as the score indicates," Bunker explained. "If we had played our usual game in the field we could have won about 9-4."

North again hit well with Dan Zink, Tom Burke, Jack Flaherty and Steve Thomasetti, who along with Bob Langley, was elected co-captain for the year, pacing the attack.

Earlier in the week North edged Revere, 3-2, with Manson sparkling on the mound and his mates shining both at bat and in the field.

It was the first varsity appearance for Manson and he gave up only three hits, struck out six and walked two until running into trouble in the sixth when Bill Deshler made another excellent relief appearance.

North's double play combination of second baseman Tim Flynn and shortstop Langley, turned in some excellent defensive plays.

Ted Williams In Special Tribute To Lin Raymond

Ted Williams has paid a special tribute to the late Lin Raymond, Patriot Ledger baseball writer for 30 years, who died April 5.

The Washington Senators manager and former long-time Red Sox slugging star paid the tribute in a note to Quincy Sun Sportswriter Tom Sullivan, who had written Ted to inform him of Lin's death. Sullivan was a long-time friend of Raymond and is also friendly with Williams.

In the note to Sullivan, Williams wrote:

"Thank you very much for your letter, I was sorry to hear the sad news about Lin. He was a wonderful guy and I always felt he was a real friend.

"I have written to his wife, Helen, and want you to know I appreciate your letting me know and giving me the address so that I could express my sympathy."

Lin was a close friend of the Hall of Famer, who was known not to get along with a number of Boston writers.

Rangers Seek First

GD Explodes For 12-2 Win

The new General Dynamics soccer team, stocked with Scottish, British and Irish players brought over to work at the Quincy shipyard, exploded for a 12-2 win over Glengarry of Boston last Sunday.

Next Sunday the team will be at home to Revere in a Commonwealth League game at the Quincy High field at the rear of Veterans Memorial Stadium. Game time will be 2 p.m.

The Quincy Rangers, made up almost entirely of former Quincy High players and one of the youngest teams in the league, make another try for their first win Sunday when they visit the Norfolk Shamrocks. The Rangers bowed to St. John's of Boston, one of the league's top clubs, 4-0, last Sunday.

The Rangers were forced to play without five starters, Ron Martin, Al Lavoie, Dan Roach, Jim McGuire and Russ Barry. Carlos Ferro, tall center forward, played an excellent game and he and Rick Melder were selected the game stars.

"Our players finally got into shape and we had no trouble against a much younger and less experienced team," GD Coach Fred Bridge said. "Although the game was one-sided, those kids stayed in there and kept trying. They are a fine young group of ex-high school players and will come along like the other young clubs in our league."

The General Dynamics team was sparked by Rhodi's four goals, Lucas and McLaughlin had three apiece and Haslem one. Glengarry scored one against themselves in a scramble.

"We played a lot better than in our opening day loss to Weymouth but St. John's was just the better team," said Ranger manager Peter Gallagher. "We are young and will come along and give everyone a battle."

In its opening game GD had lost to Peabody, 3-0, and Bridge put the blame on the failure of his players to get in shape.

"We were all over them in the first period but faded," he had said. "The fellows just weren't in shape and as soon as we get in condition and I get a set lineup [he has 240 General Dynamics workers from whom to choose] they will do all right." His words were borne out last Sunday.

The young Rangers were defeated by Weymouth Warriors, 5-3, in their opener but showed lots of promise.

"The boys played an excellent game and showed they will have to be reckoned with," Gallagher said.

"We kept the ball in the Weymouth end throughout the game and were never really out of it."

Al Lavoie scored the first Quincy goal and Roque Acosta, one of three natives of Urugay, Montivideo, on the roster, scored the second, with Vin Bertrand assisting.

Jim McGuire, Sr., father of Jim, Jr., one of the many former Quincy High standouts on the squad, was named coach of the Rangers.

North Trackmen Open With Victory

Bob Gentry's North Quincy winter track team had a winning season in the Met League and the veteran coach, back at the spring track reins, had much to smile about last week as the Raiders opened their Greater Boston League season with a 71-50 win over Somerville at Medford.

Saturday North will participate in Class B of the Eastern Mass. Relays at Andover and Tuesday will seek its second GBL win in a row against Revere at Somerville.

"This was a very encouraging start and the boys did a wonderful job," Gentry said. "We had some unusually fine efforts for the first meet and the highlight of the meet was little Kevin Henry's performance in the two-mile run."

In this event runners from all eight schools run together instead of pairing up in dual meets as in the other events. Not only did Henry give North the win but his excellent time of 10:07 was better than anyone else from the eight schools.

Paul Affsa, hampered by a sprained ankle, won the 220, Bob Hale won the 440 and Chris Kennedy placed third, just being nipped for second place; Jeff Strungis overcame a 30-yard deficit to win the half mile in the good time of 12:08, and Pat McCormack, a two-miler last year, won his mile debut in 4:55.

North also did well in the field events with sophomore Dave Mahoney winning the high jump at 5-6, John Panarelli setting a school record in the shot put, winning with a 49-7 toss. John Graceffi won the discus, his first victory ever and the relay team of Lee Davis, Affsa, Richie Yee and Rich Sanderson won.

Sanderson was second in the 100 and John Hemphill placed third in the javelin, although only one foot behind the winner.

QJC Nine Hopes To Rebound

The Quincy Junior College baseball team, which had opened with two runaway wins, will try to bounce back Friday from a heartbreaking loss when it plays Wentworth in a Mass. Jr. College League game at Fore River Field.

Monday QJC will host Franklin and next Wednesday will be home to Grahm. All will start at 3 p.m.

Tuesday Dave Burke's Collejuns were nipped by Newton Junior College, 2-1, at Fore River Field.

The only Quincy run was scored in the fourth inning when Carl Lindgren walked, stole second and scored on Dick Volpe's single.

QJC had runners on first and second with one out in the sixth but couldn't score and in the seventh and final inning had the tying run on third with one out but Brian Duran was thrown out at the plate on a grounder to second.

Volpe, Bill Osborne, Jack Raymer and Duran had the only Quincy hits, all singles.

Volpe pitched six innings, giving up five hits, striking out nine and walking two. He gave up both runs. Lindgren hurled the seventh.

Last weekend QJC clobbered Newbury School on successive days, breezing, 17-1, on Saturday after a 13-1 walkaway on Friday.

In the second meeting Carl Lindgren, former Quincy High star, pitched one-hit ball while he and his mates pounded out 13 hits and scored five runs in the first, two in the second, six in the fourth and four in the fifth.

Lindgren aided his own cause with a home run and two singles, while Jim Broderick had three singles, Gary Timlin a double and single, Bill Osborne, Dick Volpe, Jack Raymer, Bruce Duran and Art Coughlin one single each.

In the previous game Volpe also turned in a one-hitter with the lone Newbury hit coming in the first inning for its only run.

Volpe also helped his own cause with a double and single, while Mike Fermino had two singles and a double and scored three runs and Lindgren, Osborne and Duran each had a double and single and Raymer belted a long triple.

Quincy Track Team In Flying Start

The Quincy track team got off to a flying start last week with an easy win over Revere and the Presidents will seek their second straight Greater Boston League win Tuesday when they meet Somerville at the Somerville track.

Saturday Quincy competes in Class A of the Eastern Mass. relays at Brandeis University.

Tom Hall's team romped over Revere, 83-39, as sophomore Bobby Ciano came within seven seconds of the school record with an excellent 4:35 mile, unusually good for so early in the season.

Quincy won nine events, sweeping the long jump, high jump and shot put.

Larry Finneran won the 100, Fred Antoon the 220, Pete Daley the 440, Steve Shapiro the shot put, Steve Pasquale the high jump, Rick Menchi the javelin, Pete Laing the two-mile and Joe Goguen the long jump with an excellent 20½-foot leap.

"I was extremely pleased with this opening effort because most of the top performances were turned in by underclass men," Hall said. "The win was also very encouraging in view of the fact Quincy didn't win a meet in the indoor track season."

Germantown All-Stars In Win

The Germantown Junior Soccer League All-Star team, made up of pupils from Snug Harbor School, defeated Winchester last weekend at Winchester, 3-0.

Late in the first period Pat Moriarty, Germantown's top scorer, smashed home a pass from Ken Donovan. John Conroy also picked up an assist on the goal.

In the second period Germantown's superior strength and physical condition proved too much for Winchester which began to tire. Conroy scored the second goal with Scott Straughn and Mike Rooney assisting.

In the closing moments of the game Moriarty took a pass from Rooney and let loose with a devastating shot which the Winchester goalie never saw.

The starting team for Germantown comprised Joe McEachearn, a standout in his first game in goal; Paul Ferris, Mike Renzi, Bob Pringle, Joe Long, Tom Connolly, Moriarty, Rooney, Donovan, Straughn and Conroy.

Also playing were Mike McLaughlin, Steve Kressler, Jim Quigley, Stephen Sylva, Tom Park, Stephen Melzord, Mark Burke, Robert Dacey and Mike Goldrick. Moriarty was selected as the game's best player.

Mahoney Wins Marathon (Houghs Neck Version)

Jake Mahoney of 60 Shawmut St. a member of the Morrissette Legion Post, ran away with the fifth annual Patriot's Day marathon conducted by the Houghs Neck Legion Post.

Following him in the field of four were Stan Picarski of 34 Hawthorne St., Bob Tilley of 59 Manet Ave., and John Picarski of 105 Edgewater Dr.

Leading the quartet of runners was the Houghs Neck Post's antique fire engine manned by Paul Shaw, past commander. The two-mile route wound through streets adjoining Sea St. in Houghs Neck.

Prizes were awarded to all contestants.

Commander Paul McKeon and Raymond LaRue were co-chairmen, with Past Commander Tom Hurlebaus, Ernest Fitzgibbon, Ronald Allsop and Stanley Bovill in charge of refreshments.

New Era For Girls Sports Opens At Quincy, North

A new era in Quincy and North Quincy High school sports will begin next week with the start of the first interscholastic schedules for girls' softball and tennis.

The Quincy girls' softball team, under Mary Pratt, opens at home Wednesday against Braintree, while the North girls, under coach Gale Palmer, open against Quincy at the North field on May 1.

Other Quincy opponents will be Wakefield, Milton Academy, Weymouth and Malden, while North will face Malden, Weymouth and Braintree.

Quincy girls' tennis team with Bob Sylvia as interim coach opens Tuesday at home against Abp. Williams. The North girls, coached by Eileen Rowbothan, open against Quincy at home on May 1.

Quincy also plays Hanover and Malden and North will face Malden, Weymouth, Thayer Academy and Braintree.

Quincy Tennis Team Loses, Raiders Rolling Along

Bill Mitchell's Quincy High tennis team dropped its opening match to Weymouth, 4-1, with Ron Rund scoring the Presidents' only win.

Also playing for Quincy were Stewart Miller and Dick Levitt in singles, Bob Barra, Steve Raser, Don Shaw and Jay Wye in doubles.

Meanwhile, Bill Willoughby's North Quincy tennis team continues to roll merrily along with three straight victories, all by shutouts.

The Raiders followed up an opening day win over Norwell with wins over Hanover and Abp. Williams.

Playing for the Raiders were Jim Machado, Steve Starfiak, Tom BeHenna, Ray Doherty, Tom Quinn, Kevin McGinley, Tom O'Malley and Pete Davis.

Carrera Belts Two Homers For Providence College

Steve Carrera, outstanding slugging star for Quincy High and Morrisette Legion the past two years and now a freshman at Providence College, is off to a fast start for the Friars' varsity baseball team.

Carrera, playing right field, hit two long home runs and drove in three runs last weekend in a 10-4 romp over Fairfield College.

Despite being only a freshman, he is rated one of the Friars' best hitting prospects.

Yesterday And Tomorrow

Yesterday, a group of Quincy citizens interested in doing something about our local drug problem visited a nearby city, Lawrence, which has an advanced, dedicated program of treatment and education relative to narcotics.

In that community Dr. James O'Shea approached the local problem with devoted intensity. Two years were spent in research, interviews, visits to other experienced clinics and programs before Reality, Inc. was born. He stirred up the local Medical Society, fired up the Industrial organizations and business men. He cooperated with the police and the local newspapers, the superintendent of schools and more important - they cooperated with him.

He is now attempting to have legislation passed to allow juveniles to receive treatment without parental consent. Why? Most of the children who became "hooked" experimented with benign products which gradually led to more potent stimulants and finally to the intravenous and addiction.

They reach a point of fear and desperation and would like to appeal to some understanding source for help - be it a doctor [and certainly the medical profession has not been up to it as a group at least in a concentrated effort to help], or other agencies extending a helping hand.

Many of the younger addicts have hidden their condition from their parents who either were not interested or were too punitive. The law must be changed to allow early and immediate treatment and centers for continued protection while rehabilitation, reorientation and a new meaningful image of self importance and dignity is re-established.

A knowledgable addict who went through the mill with its anguish and degradation and now is actively involved in rescuing the young addicts stated that the average span of life of a main-liner is 10 years or less - just look at the statistics. Most diseases recognized early and vigorously treated have a far better survival rate and cure than the neglected or hidden.

Once "hooked", an individual's total commitment is to the appeasement of the habit and this is just a daily maintenance. This is solely for well being - not withstanding the degenerative effect it has on health - look at the scorn of society. Heaven knows that these drugs were never intended for normal human survival, yet this craving requires constant feeding of drugs while loneliness ever increases.

Chief Finn claims that the young addict in Quincy requires $50 to $400 a day to meet his daily subsistence. How many of us can afford a habit as costly as this? What about tomorrow? Every addict dreams of a cache he can resort to or put aside - do you think it can be done?

How many adolescents have talents to produce this kind of dough? At first it may be a lark and easy. All one has to do is seduce other innocent kids to get started. It takes about 10 new apprentices to feed one hooked pusher. It is profitable to dish out or feed a youngster free until he is addicted and who then must supply his own needs which compounds the above picture.

One young lady is convinced that it only takes three main-line injections of heroin to create an addict. How else but by theft, burglaries, handbag snatching, car stealing, etc., can a youth do it. Or even to prostitution. Chief Finn told us that in 1969 there were 200 burglaries in Quincy - but already in 1970 the number is close to 1000.

Where formerly I had disdain and admittedly a fear of the addict, I now admit to a better understanding and the need for commitment to improving the plight of the involved. This is a sickness - whether it is genetic, mental or whatever, it behooves me and every local citizen to cooperate - not necessarily punitively but compassionately.

Every healthy citizen, every business man, yes every intelligent, understanding child or adolescent can get involved in the solution of this disease. It will be a strain economically and educationally and a divorcement from our ridiculous need for entertainment. The fun is gone if your child or your neighbor's has become ill!

If our community had an epidemic in one year of 200 persons with tuberculosis, it would damn well cause action, and remember it is a lot easier to treat T.B. Why the figure 200? - That is the known number of main-line users in Quincy [bet it's 400]. Only one year ago there were five.

Every addict becomes a pusher - his very survival demands this. In his loneliness there is no room for compassion for others. His only companions become his junkie pals - they are not friends!

Here's the pitch! Dr. James O'Shea believes that there is hope. - He has shown in Lawrence that a sense of belonging to someone - as in his Challenge House - brothers and sisters devoted to the rekindling of identity, a new self image - personal respect for himself as an individual and his loved ones - new found and his parents and siblings. It can work.

You can help too - the Rotary, Lions, Probus, Kiwanis, Mason, K. of C., Knights of Pythias, Elks, The League of Women Voters and the Altrusa Club must jump on the treatment trail - not only with tolerance - compassion but personal involvement of time, services, teaching and, of course, money.

Among the essentials will be centers for long-time care. Such a building will be needed. Let us find it - Don't worry about the chronic noisy objectors who prevented our Mental Health Center or busing and of course the zoning champions. Help! Don't obstruct! The kid involved may be your own.

Pray if you like but act too and your prayer will be fulfilled. Call your Senator and Representative to help Dr. O'Shea.

Daniel Webster Sixth Graders Off To Washington Tuesday

Tuesday morning sixth graders of the Daniel Webster School, Quincy Point, will leave for a four-day trip to Washington, D.C.

This is fulfillment of a dream begun in first grade, substantiated by study – and funds raised from candy and submarine sandwich sales.

Teachers Arthur E. Foster and Miss Irma Salvucci, assistant principal, will accompany the group along with Mrs. Helen Pomarico, Mrs. Bea Baldi, Mrs. Carmela Hamilton, Mrs. Marie Clark and Alfred LaPointe.

Tours of government buildings and visits to Mount Vernon and Arlington National Cemetery are planned, along with an evening ballgame at Kennedy Memorial Stadium. They also have an appointment with Congressman James A. Burke.

Studies were made of the Legislative, Judicial and Executive Departments of the government, with each child also specializing in one subject that interested him. Books, audio-visual aids and equipment used were provided by the school's media center and the public library, in addition to supplies already in the classrooms.

Foster and some of the children will keep a photographic record of the trip. A large booklet will be assembled, and a report made to parents and schoolmates at an assembly program.

Quincy Seeks Helping Hands To Aid Youths In Jobs

Quincy is seeking participation in a financial aid program of the NLC/USCM Youth Transportation Project.

Help is needed in filling transportation needs of the city's summer employment and training activities for disadvantaged youth, according to Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Mayor McIntyre, in his letter to the Youth Transportation Project, lists five programs which he feels will qualify Quincy for the funds:

●--Youth programs including Head Start, Neighborhood Youth Corps, Title I programs of the Quincy School Department designed for disadvantaged youth.

●--Coordination of summer employment through local C.A.M.P.S. committee with the Mayor's representative on that board.

●--Increased funds for employing part-time summer help in city departments to cover vacations, etc.

●--Cooperation with local newspapers coordinated through C.A.M.P.S. for free advertising of summer work opportunities and individuals to work full-time on youth placement. [The Quincy Sun is cooperating in this venture.]

●--Entry into College Work-Study agreements with more than a dozen institutions to employ students with tuition needs.

A youth coordinator has been appointed to oversee summer efforts of the departments and agencies involved in Quincy Youth Summer Employment and Training Activities.

Paying Bills

This should actually be titled "Not Paying Bills", because as my creditors know, I can certainly discuss not paying bills with more authority than I can paying bills.

I do not know why I have so much trouble paying bills. No, that's not true. I know why I can't pay my bills. I do not have the money.

It isn't my fault I owe so many bills, it's all those stores that are so willing to give out charge account cards, who keep sending special invitations to JUST ME, to a sale. If they only knew what they were getting into they wouldn't try to tempt me.

You should see some of the letters I've received from them, begging me to use their cards, imploring me to drop in and charge to my heart's content. Why my husband never wrote me such enticing letters. But you know, they are fair weather friends. Within weeks after I have missed my first payment, I get a letter on a white form saying they know it's an oversight on my part, and that the money has probably crossed in the mails so please ignore this letter. So I do.

Then I get another form letter, this one on pink paper. But they're still friendly, saying if there is anything the matter - to please let them know. I let them know I don't have the money. The next letter comes on a green form. This one informs me I have 30 days to pay the "Balance Owed" or else.

I write back and inquire "Or Else What?" I then get a white letter, and it's not a form letter and its just for me. They tell me that "Or Else" means that if I don't get the money up, the Credit Bureau will be informed and I will have a black mark next to my name.

The next letter is from the collection agency. They say they have in their possession a file on me. I somehow feel that the next one to get my file will be the F.B.I.

The next letter starts to get threatening. I guess they're getting worried. They tell me this is my Final Notice. Boy, is that a relief! But you can't trust anybody these days. I get another letter.

The letters cease; and the telephone calls begin. "This is Mr. Grimly. I have before me a file that must be a mistake, it says its been four months since you made your last payment." I tell him it is a mistake, its been five months.

He tells me I should start taking things more seriously. I do. I start wailing and crying over the telephone. It or he goes dead. Three days later, the senior lawyer calls and is very nice. He says that he knows there must be a good reason for my not paying the bill and if I'll just tell him the whole story.....I tell him my husband has left me, the kids are holed up in Nixon's office, screaming "Let them eat cake" [I don't know what they're talking about these days, either] my mother and father are picketing the Russian Embassy - in Russia. My brother is a flag pole sitter in Alaska, and to top it all off, the milkman left two quarts of milk instead of three. I find I am disconnected. Although I think I do hear the sound of gnashing of teeth.

By now, I have come to recognize the voice, so the next time he calls and askes for me, I disguise my voice and say "I'm very sorry, shes joined the Peace Corps and will be in the jungles of Africa for three years, May I take a message?" Its really sad to hear a grown man cry like that.

The lawyers give my file back to the store. The original form letter comes again, requesting my money. I decided I'd had enough fun and send the money.

A letter just arrived. They are wondering if they have done something to offend me, as it has been weeks since I've charged anything.

Would I please come in to their Very Special Sale For Preferred Customers?"

Come Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Morning Sickness'

"Good morning!" I said as I walked into the dining room of the long week-end therapy group I was attending. Not a sound...except the occasional fork on a plate. No answer from anyone. It was almost as though everyone was waiting for the beginning of a funeral service.

It depressed me. I didn't like it. I tried again. I said to the fellow across from me..."That bacon's wonderful, isn't it? I figured that called for some response. All I got was..."Yeah"...as if to say "you like your bacon...eat it and keep quiet." I wasn't really asking for information about the bacon...I just wanted to be friendly. Being a persistent Taurus I tried again...this time to the lady to my left...she was just drinking coffee and smoking...and coughing. I said to her..."I hope you slept well?"...and sorta ended it with a question mark. To this moment I'm not sure whether her grunt meant she did or she didn't.

Makes one wonder "what's the matter with me...why won't they talk to me." I just went on...ate my bacon and eggs...toast and jelly...drank my coffee and orange juice. [Eating is one of the two things I do very well...the other is sleeping.] The main thing I remember about that breakfast was that it was a group of people who wouldn't talk...remained isolated...I call it "morning sickness."

The morning time for me is a happy time of the day...my mind is sharp...my body is rested...I jog my mile...shower and dress...then breakfast. I'm miserable all day if I start out the day bitter...cross ...silent...ugly.

Yet...I hear about many home situations where the day starts on the minor key...mothers staying in bed half the morning...fathers shoving off to work early...little children trying to get dressed...get their own breakfasts...if indeed they have any breakfast before going to school. Husbands complain about this a lot...but not many have had the guts to say..."Hey look...Let's get with it in the morning...I need a breakfast before going off to work...so do the kids before going off to school." It's no hardship for a mother/wife to get breakfast for her family. If that's old fashioned...then I'm old fashioned. Starting the day happily I don't think is old fashioned.

But what's the problem here? Why are so many homes started off on a sick tone each morning? Several reasons...one is that many people don't know when to go to bed at night. Millions of people can't turn off their television set until the pictures all change to the channel pattern. So they lose two or three hours of sleep which they really need.

Some people drink during the evening and they're so drugged that they make a slow start in the morning mentally and physically. Their dispositions are cross...curt...sour...sick just like their stomachs...and their minds. Hence the "morning sickness."

Some people are acting out the child that they were...mother calling...and calling...and calling..."You'll be late to school"..."I've called for the last time"...[of course, it never is]. So this child habit...and mother's pressure made you angry and cross...she let you get away with it...and now you're still doing it in your own home. Is that the cause of your "morning sickness?"

Habits are imprisoning things in our lives...they form walls...screens...barriers...they become monsters to which we succumb. Because it is difficult to change a habit, we often go on and on...day after day...year after year...acting like a spoiled brat every morning...at home...away at school...at a group therapy week-end...with our own families. Some of us would be amused...maybe ashamed...if we could see and hear ourselves on a candid camera in our condition which I call "morning sickness."

Earth Day, Quincy

Junior High Volunteers Aid Downtown Clean-Up

An estimated 30 junior high school students helped Quincy observe "Earth Day" yesterday–by getting down to earth in a downtown clean-up project.

Armed with rakes, brooms and shovels the Junior High school helpers from Central, Sterling and Point turned to at the Hancock and Ross municipal parking areas.

This is the first step of the year-round beautification program for the downtown area.

Bernard C. Moore, executive secretary of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce is coordinator. Mrs. Ethelynn Sacchetti, owner of Lynn's Card and Gift Shop, is chairman of the committee.

The Spring clean-up will tie in with the city's Anti-Litter and Operation Pride programs.

The ultimate goal is a pedestrian mall on Hancock St. with fountains, trees, flowers and benches.

Mrs. Sacchetti points out that the mall will not only beautify downtown Quincy but revitalize it as a modern shopping center.

The young junior high volunteers will be rewarded by Mrs. Sacchetti with tickets to a Red Sox baseball game.

Among those working on the "Earth Day" cleanup were:

Michael Long, Paul Kelly, Charles Gray, John Stevens, Michael Doukas, Charles DeEarnes, Karen Klasby, Meredith Robins, Renee Chalaine, Amy Matthews, Christian Poole, Marjorie Lander, Leslie Brennen, Blyth Berger.

Vincent Scarnic, Chris Nelson, James McKinnon, Joseph Connell, Steven Gerrard, Doug Glascox, Peter Simonelli and Wayne Sacchetti.

Student Nurses In Own Environmental Program

Senior students at the Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing participated in an environmental pollution program yesterday in observance of "Earth Day".

Joseph Paradise, head of hospital maintenance, took the students on a tour of the hospital showing them areas of interest.

At the receiving entrance, food, linen and garbage handling received special attention. A new cafeteria refrigerator and compression method for rubbish disposal installed within the past month, were noted.

One group visited the Mound St. beach armed with rakes and shovels. They were met by a city truck which removed the debris. Others made posters and displays placed outside the cafeteria emphasizing pollution controls to employees, guests and visitors.

Senior nursing students heading the projects included Maureen Young, Judy Tocchio, Michael Beckerman, Lillian Doogan, Linda Barafauldi, Carolyn Johnson and Janice Capasso.

Savannah Second Quincy Ship In Admiral's Life

Mrs. Ralph L. Shifley, wife of the deputy chief of naval operations [logistics], will sponsor the new U.S. Navy oiler-supply ship Savannah in a christening ceremony today [Thursday] at the Quincy Shipbuilding division of General Dynamics.

Vice Admiral Shifley will deliver the principal christening address minutes before his wife christens the 659-foot Savannah, named after the city and river in Georgia.

Their daughter, Mrs. Warren J. Cox of Washington, D.C. will be matron of honor at the ceremony, which will start at 11 a.m. and conclude 30 minutes later with Mrs. Shifley breaking a bottle of champagne against Savannah's bow.

For Admiral Shifley, the christening will have added significance. The new Savannah is the successor of the cruiser whose aviation unit was his first duty tour after completing pilot training in 1937. That Savannah was ultimately scrapped after playing an important role in North African and Italian invasions of World War II.

The new Savannah is the second Quincy-built ship to have importance in Admiral Shifley's life. During World War II he was a fighter plane pilot and air group commander based aboard the Quincy-built aircraft carrier Bunker Hill.

Following the christening, the new Savannah will be floated out of her building basin and moved to a shipyard out-fitting pier for completion. She will join the fleet later in 1970 and provide combat ships with petroleum products and other supplies.

Savannah is the fourth of six ships in the Navy's new replenishment fleet oiler class to be built at the Quincy Shipbuilding division. Her sister ship, Kansas City, returned to the shipyard April 14 after completing preliminary acceptance trials. Kansas City is now being readied for delivery next month.

$17-$18 Hike Seen In New Tax Rate

A possible $17-to-$18 tax rate hike is now seen for Quincy this year.

The 1970 rate expected to be set by today will not be known until the first or second week in May, according to Mayor James R. McIntyre.

A possible $17-to-$18 tax rate hike is now seen for Quincy this year.

The 1970 rate expected to be set by today will not be known until the first or second week in May, according to Mayor James R. McIntyre.

McIntyre said the rate cannot be set until the School Committee completes present salary negotiations with Quincy school teachers.

"The 1970 rate should be set within a week or so," he said.

McIntyre still declines to pin-point the new rate until "all the figures are in." He repeated his earlier prediction that "there will be a substantial increase".

The 1969 rate was $16.40--a $17.50 jump over 1968.

City Hall sources who earlier privately were predicting a $15-to-$16 jump now say it could be as high as $17-to-$18.

But they still expect an all-out effort by the Mayor to keep the new rate at or just below the $130 mark.

This year's tax bills will be based on the present assessment formula. The city, for the third time, won a one-year reprieve in implementing court enforced 100 percent fair market valuation on all property.

Despite the fact McIntyre slashed $3 million from original department requests and the City Council pruned an additional $127,000, the 1970 city budget is a record-high $39.9 million.

But the actual operating costs to run the city this year will be over $40 million.

Biggest budget increases were for the school, hospital, police, fire and public works departments.

Increased MBTA, MDC and county assessments and a dip in state aid to the city have also contributed to the city's ominous financial picture.

106 Risk Foreclosure For Tax Delinquency

Owners of 106 parcels of property risk foreclosure proceedings for not paying 1969 Quincy real estate taxes totalling $148,165.

City Treasurer-Tax Collector David R. Houston warns that the taxes--plus interest--must be paid by May 14 or a lien will be placed on the property at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds at Dedham.

The properties are being advertised by law by the city in today's Quincy Sun.

Houston said the advertising sets in motion the legal machinery which will lead to the loss of the properties, two years from now unless the taxes are paid.

He said he, by law, can initiate foreclosure proceedings on May 14, 1972. And, he said, he will.

"I sincerely hope these people will pay by May 14 of this year so that we will not have to resort to foreclosure proceedings," he said. "Not only that, but they will be helping their city by paying the taxes."

Houston estimated that the delinquent bills represent less than half of one per cent of the 23,000 tax bills sent out by the city in 1969. The 23,000 bills totalled $33 million.

"Some 99½ per cent of the 1969 bills have been paid," noted Houston. "There is no reason why these other few people shouldn't pay their taxes, too."

By May 14 of this year, the owners of the 106 delinquent pieces of property must pay their taxes, plus 8 per cent interest retroactive to Oct. 1, 1969, and charges for advertising to avoid a lien.

Property assessed at less than $2,500 may be foreclosed and auctioned off with permission of the Department of Corporations and Taxation.

Property assessed at more than $2,500 may be foreclosed through land court proceedings and sold by the City Council.

In the case of an auction, the owners have up until that very moment to redeem the property by meeting all the demands--including the retroactive 8 per cent interest and additional charges.

Houston said that some of the 106 delinquent owners paid their taxes at the 1968 valuation rate instead of the 1969 rate. Some of them have cases pending before the Appellate Tax Board.

"But if they lose these cases, they risk losing their property too," said Houston.

Houston noted that some of the delinquents are first-time offenders but others are "repeats".

He said the 106 represent the lowest number of delinquents since the beginning of the Mayor McIntyre administration. In 1967 there were 170 such cases.

British Are Coming!

Cranch School Awaits 29 Guests

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

"The British are coming!"

Every student at Cranch School knows that, and Miss Mary Lou Murdock's third and fourth grade class know it best of all.

For months they have been preparing for the landing on May 21 of 24 students and five adults from Leigh-on-Sea, Essex, England, for a 15-day visit.

It will be a reunion for Miss Murdock with former students whom she taught two years ago while an Exchange teacher in the West Leigh Junior School, on the Thames estuary, some 35 miles directly east of London.

For one Quincy family, it will mean direct contact with the family of a pen pal. Eleven-year old Brian Taylor, a Quincy Sun paperboy, has been corresponding with 12-year old Alistair Fraser for two or three years.

Ross Fraser, Alistair's 10-year old brother, will be making his American visit with the family of Mrs. Billy J. Taylor at 27 Dixwell Ave.

"We couldn't resist asking to have Ross when we saw his name on the list," Mrs. Taylor says, "and we are looking forward very much to his visit!"

"We can't wait!" Miss Murdock exclaims. "I presented the question to the PTA, and they were more than helpful. Parents volunteered to take the children into their homes, and it was just a matter of matching the families up with a child of their own sex and within a year or so of the same age."

Free time has been allowed in the busy schedule. Quincy families are planning cookouts and other pleasures for their guests.

"They will spend maybe a couple of days in school," Miss Murdock says. "The rest of the time they will be sightseeing and 'living the American life!'"

Remember George Turkanis?

Do you remember George Turkanis?

George, who with a brother operated a Norfolk Downs drugstore from about 1940 to 1950, is now in an Elgin, Ill. nursing home.

He is a double amputee with no known relatives. And, he is lonely.

Comdr. George Swartz of Quincy Post 193, Jewish War Veterans, and other members of the post have appealed to the Quincy Sun for help in trying to locate former friends to drop him a card or a few words of cheer.

Turkanis served in the Army from 1942 to 1944 with service at Ft. Preble Me. and at Sta. Hospital Lape Terrance, Calif., as a pharmacist.

He is about 65 now and formerly worked as a pharmacist in Cleveland Circle and Lynn about 10 to 15 years ago.

If you remember him, you could help cheer him by writing him in care of:

Marshall Urges Year 'Earth Day'

City Councillor Clifford H. Marshall urges Quincy residents to observe "Earth Day" 365 days a year.

The chairman of Quincy's Environmental Control Commission declared:

"Let us continue to work 365 days a year on this very serious problem of pollution. Now is the time to consolidate our total community resources toward this end."

He pointed out that the younger generation has followed the lead of Sen. Edward Muskee of Maine, originator of "Earth Day 1970", and Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Michigan, in moving ahead with studies and action to help eliminate all types of pollution.

Quincy's junior and senior high school students have taken samples from Quincy brooks and beaches, tested the air with pollution devices and visited sewerage disposal plants, dumps, health departments and the State House as well as City Hall, he noted.

Many have helped clean areas of the city and will continue to help during Saturdays in May.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Thomas Sheehan visited "Project Score" [Student Committee on Reviewing Environment] this week to discuss the suit brought by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts against the Weymouth plant of Boston Edison for allegedly polluting the air.

Proctor & Gamble has appropriated approximately $200,000 to combat pollution along Town River, and Quincy Oil Co. has made many improvements to its Town River facility to improve safety and sanitation, Marshall said.

"Environmental Control has become a politically popular topic, this can be a constructive force if it leads to a genuine national commitment for action to end dispoilation and waste rather than partisan lip service," he continued.

Bi-partisan cooperation is needed in developing and financing sound local, state and national programs, he said.

Hospital Civil Service Exam May 9

A Civil Service examination will be held May 9 for the position of laboratory technician at Quincy City Hospital.

The examination is held to establish six eligible lists, one for general technician, and one for each of the special fields of bacteriology, biochemistry, blood bank, hematology and histology. Only one application is necessary. Minimum salary is $140.00 a week; maximum, $159.33 a week.

Read the Quincy Sun - it's informative fun
It's a paper with pictures galore -
It's small in size, witty and wise

Couldn't we have it more often than weekly?

Quincy Area Items Sought For Ch. 2 TV Auction

Items and services to go on the block for the annual Channel 2 television auction are being sought in the Quincy area.

The week long auction, May 30 through June 6, will help raise unrestricted operating funds for WGBH Educational Foundation which operates two television stations and one FM radio station.

More information may be obtained from Mrs. Richard Aramian of 50 Moffat Rd., Quincy committee member.

Dr. MacDonald Returns From Education Meeting

Dr. Douglas MacDonald, principal of Furnace Brook School, has returned from a meeting of the National Association of Elementary School principals at Philadelphia, Pa.

James E. Allen, Jr., U. S. Commissioner of Education, announced plans for the formation of a National Reading Council as part of the Right to Read Program, backed by "substantial" federal funds.

Sunbeams

The boys waiting in the wings to run for mayor next year may be in for a high-voltage jolt.

Political observers and prospective candidates--most of them, anyway--are quite certain Mayor James R. McIntyre will step down after completing his present [third] term.

But sources very close to him think he's going to fool them and do an "FDR"--seek a fourth term.

The way they see it, His Honor will stay on to see to completion some of the big projects launched during his administration.

If so, its doubtful that any of the boys now waiting in the wings, will run against him. In fact all of them are considering running only if he doesn't.

None apparently want to challenge him. They want to succeed him.

INCIDENTALLY, it seems just like yesterday that Mayor McIntyre was a 29-year-old youngster running against Amelio Della Chiesa. But he's pushing 40 [May 25] and will be honored at a big birthday party May 29th at Monticello's, in Framingham.

Quincy District Court Clerk Dennis F. Ryan is committee chairman. And Sam Mele, former Red Sox star and Minnesota Twins manager now a Sox executive, is honorary chairman.

SPEAKING of George McDonald, did you know that his wife, Sheila, was once a fashion model in Boston? She modeled clothing purchased by Judy Garland, Lucille Ball, Gene Tierney and Ginny Simms. Remember Ginny Simms? She was the gal singer with the Kay Kyser band. Ginny was among Sheila's favorite customers and she still fondly remembers Ginny presenting her with a bottle of perfume after modeling clothes for her.

MILESTONE: Eddie Scolamiero, the "Yankee Clipper" is 69 but hardly looks it. Eddie, now in his 44th year as a tonsorial artist, expects a visit this summer from Billy DeWolfe. The pair have been close friends since the days when they ushered together at the old Quincy Theater back in the mid-20's.

EARLY BIRD: Louis J. Caruso, city cemetery department employee who came close to being elected Ward 3 councillor a few years back, is announcing his candidacy for state representative in the Wards 2-3 district.

OBSERVATION: One of the last holdouts in the hair department is City Clerk John Gillis. While others are letting their locks grow and grow, Gillis still sports a good looking crew-cut.

WHATEVER the season, there's a gyp artist to look out for. Right now, it's the con man posing as an IRS representative trying to extort money on the pretense of satisfying unpaid taxes.

William E. Williams, District Director of Internal Revenue for Massachusetts, advises taxpayers to be very careful.

All bonafide employees of the IRS who contact the public regarding taxes carry distinctive identification, he notes.

"Ask to see these credentials if the person who claims to be an IRS employee approaches you and does not identify himself," Williams advises.

"If you still have doubts after seeing the credentials, contact the nearest IRS office."

[Williams didn't say it, but we will: It's tough enough paying taxes without giving your money to some crook. So, be careful.]

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist, says he knows a guy who's such a lousy golfer, he lost his ball last week--in the washer.

Curtin: 'More Study Needed'

Ward 3 To Have Its Say On Proposed Re-Zoning May 5

Ward 3 residents will have their say on the proposed rezoning of the South Quincy area May 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall when the hearing reconvenes.

Council President Arthur H. Tobin presided Monday when the councillors met as members of the Ordinance Committee to consider Ward 2 changes. About 75 persons heard eight residents comment on Quincy Point rezoning.

City Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson gave a 15-minute resume of residential and business changes proposed.

Nicholas Trifone of 15 Spence Ave., a former member of the Quincy planning Board for three years, challenged the rezoning of land off Quincy Ave. to a Business B classification.

He said that lots at the back of homes on side streets such as Spence, Craig, Charlesmont and Richards St. would be affected, should a motel or other establishment of that type be built. A buffer zone was suggested by Davidson, or a possible rezoning to Residence C.

Mrs. Natalie Baroud of 24 Chase St., and her son, George Baroud, asked that zoning not be changed from Residence B category set up three years ago.

Residents, she said, thought the change might interfere with an agreement with General Dynamics under which the company would set up a parking lot with a buffer zone.

Anthony DiFazio, also speaking on this point, asked: "How long are we going to fight? Do we have to give it back to the Yard? General Dynamics wants to put an office building there."

Ward 2 Councillor Clifford Marshall said that a parking lot had been scheduled for the site, and he could not understand why it had never been created.

Mrs. Sylvia Gordon of 71 Circuit Rd. referred to the homes in her area as a residential island in a business zone. She spoke of 10 months of "absolute misery" when granite blasting took place nearby, and added that Residential A zoning was all that saved residents.

The only spokesman favoring the proposed new zoning was James W. Lyons, president of the Ward 2 Civic Association, who said it was "endorsed in principle" and as being better than what now exists.

Laurence J. Curtin, president of the Quincy Citizens Association, cited insufficient time for study of the proposals. He read a letter from Mayor James R. McIntyre in response to a petition signed by representatives of more than 20 civic organizations asking that a committee be created to consider the new zoning.

Mayor McIntyre has established the new committee comprising representatives from civic organizations. It will meet to study the zoning map and ordinance and report to the City Council.

"We are not opposed to progress," Curtin said, "But the City of Quincy has always been a city of homes, and we want to keep it this way. Business and industry should not drive old time residents out of the community.

"This committee is making a survey and a detailed study of this proposed zoning ordinance and before you gentlemen complete the hearing on this subject, it is expected that this committee will send or present to you a brief with at least some changes, some recommendations coming from this committee which will definitely be a committee representing the grass roots, ordinary home owners, taxpayers in the City of Quincy."

Several persons were heard from other sections of the city, Wards 4, 5 and 6.

Brett Asks Study Of MBTA Bus Service

A study to provide MBTA bus service for commuters north of the proposed new North Quincy station is proposed by Rep. Joseph E. Brett.

Brett noted in a letter to Forrest I. Neal, Jr., MBTA director, that bus route changes when the rapid transit line is completed in Quincy may cause some difficulty to a part of North Quincy residents, since no service is to be provided north of the new station.

A large segment of population lives north of the Hancock St. Bridge in the Atlantic section, Brett pointed out. He said that those living in the Walnut St. and Quincy Shore Drive areas should not be left without bus service.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Q. When is the correct time to cut the wedding cake?

A. Correctly, the wedding cake is cut just before the dessert is served. However, as I have said before, different areas of the country vary in their customs. In this section of the country it is usually cut after the bride and groom have mingled with the guests for a while. Probably about an hour after the meal has ended.

Q. I have seen wedding cake given to the guests in plastic bags, small boxes, and sometimes wrapped in luncheon sized monogrammed napkins. Which is correct?

A. It is usually only at very formal weddings that the small boxes are used. Dark fruit cake is prepackaged and stacked on a table near the door for the guests to help themselves. The decorated wedding cake is served to the guests and eaten at the reception.

At a less formal wedding the glassine bags are used. These are usually monogrammed. When the waitress takes over cutting the cake she slips a piece into each bag and another waitress or a friend may serve these. The paper napkins are used at an informal wedding. They are made available for the guests to wrap their cake in if they wish to. Regardless of the type used the cake is always served to the attendants. This is done after the top of the cake has been removed and placed on the table centered between where the bridal couple have been seated.

Q. What is the procedure for cutting the wedding cake?

A. Before the reception a sterling silver knife decorated with white ribbon has been placed beside the cake. This may be a special cake knife bought or given for this occasion or it may be an heirloom or it might be from the brides silver set. She stands to the right of the groom and with his hand placed over hers they cut the first slice from the bottom layer.

She then breaks the slice in half and shares it with the groom as a symbol of their sharing through life. He then cuts a piece and shares it with his wife. The remainder of the cake is cut by a friend or waitress.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK
By Charles H. Wickens

WITNESS! Lets think about the word, not necessarily in a religious sense, but from an earthly view of human reaction. All of us witness things every day. We see varying circumstances, situations and attitudes all around us, both good and bad.

As we witness these things in other people, wouldn't it be a good idea for us to ponder what other people see or witness in us? Each of us individually set a standard of behavior, thought and expression linked to outselves. In doing this, we naturally provide a scene or knowledge for others to witness. The things we do and the things we say cause people to talk about us favorably or gossip about us unfavorably.

We create our own image, good or bad. We control the destinies of our image in the minds and thoughts of others. When we can be rightfully proud of what others witness in us, we gain an inner gladness that automatically portrays a better, more likeable image.

The Protestant Social Service Bureau has received $54,450, or 90 percent of its goal, for Donner House, a group home for boys at 776 Hancock St., Wollaston, it was announced at the annual meeting at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

An Aug. 1 opening is the goal for remodeling the building into a one-family home for eight boys who cannot remain in their own homes.

While the building is to be named for the late Ward Donner, president of PSSB at the time of his death in 1968, it will have no designating sign but will be like others in the area.

Mrs. Jean Schaefer, director of Tirrell House in Manchester, N.H., a half-way house for alcoholics, discussed group living in a home.

Re-elected officers were George W. MacDonald, president; Richard R. Porteus, and Mrs. Maurice R. Gurney, vice presidents; Miss Charlotte Stanley, secretary.

Roy L. Wooldridge was elected new treasurer; Mrs. Robert A. Butler, assistant treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Rev. Francis C. Anderson, Rev. Dean E. Benedict, Rev. Robert L. Campbell, Mrs. William Champion, Major Walter Douglas, Miss M. Ena Fredette, Paul A. Gifford, Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, George F. Hartshorn, Paud Hedly, Miss Ruth V. Johnstone.

Brooks Robbie, Mrs. Michael Roffo, Mrs. Morgan Sargent, Miss Florabel Stevens, Rev. Allen W. Swain, Mrs. H. Wallace Sylvester and Mrs. Hubert Wagner.

Furniture and housewares are needed for the new boys' home, and it has been suggested that women's groups take on as a project the furnishing and decorating of a specific room, or that "showers" be held to provide items for Donner House.

Items needed include a dishwasher [portable], large refrigerator with freezer compartment, oval dining room table to seat 12, 12 dining room chairs, one small sofa, one large sofa, living room chairs, end tables, lamp table, gas dryer, washing machine, five single beds, two bunk bed sets, nine chests of drawers, nine bedroom chairs, wall shelves, and a compact refrigerator.

'Trying To Get Turned On?'

One of the most common ailments of people today is dullness...not badness...not prejudice...not violence...just plain gray...insipid.. lukewarm...dullness. People are really suffering from this ailment. It shows itself in boredom ..non-involvement ...depression...non-enthusiasm...criticism of others...physical maladies...a dismal outlook on everything. And all this right in the most affluent...most enlightened...most revolutionary...most explosive time in human history. We are a bored...dull...generation.

Not everyone. Many people are anxious to do something about the dullness. Many people both young and old want to get "turned on"...turned on to life. They believe that this life has more to offer than they are now experiencing. Business men feel this need...so do married couples...young people.

I personally find this the most challenging and exciting time in my life...the time when I would rather be living and involved in life than any time in human history [and I was a history major]...but everyday I work with people who are seeking...yearning... reaching out for relief from the dull, depressing life they lead. Vicariously I feel the pain of dullness...and share the eagerness to get "turned on."

How are people trying to get "turned on"? One way is through religion. There is today a real smorgasbord of religious diet...starting with the "brother are you saved?" variety with its threat of eternity in hell and accompanying fear-ridden codes of conduct. which if obeyed destroy one's humanity...if not obeyed, leave one so filled with guilt and fear of an angry God: This kind of religion is as phony as a $3.00 bill. That kind of god is phony.

Then there is institutional religion where the institution is really the god...support of the institution and paying homage to its procedures, no matter how obsolete they are...no matter how ridiculous. Cloaked in the name of the religion they become sacrosanct...they aren't to be questioned. Millions of people are under the "spell" of obsolete...authoritarian...institutional religion...in tune to the institution but not to real life. They seek fulfillment in life...but can never "do institutionally" enough to overcome the dullness...still a slave...not a buoyant person.

Some people are getting their "turn on" from drugs... pot smoking...a little LSD...some heroin. But most of the drug use...I should say misuse...is from legitimate prescriptions...from the home medicine cabinet and liquor closet...by people whose lives are so dull that they resort to sleep pills...laxative pills... tranquilizers...pills to reduce obesity which came on because one ate for kicks.

The most devastating drug of all is alcohol. Millions of people have trouble with alcohol. Business people struggle with it...homes are destroyed by it...people filled with fears, guilt and dullness. People are overdrinking trying to escape real life only to find that this drug...like the others...is a "turner off-er" not a "turner on-er."

I could mention other ways people try to get "turned on"...through music...from classical to psychadelic. Through trying to control other people as some women try to control their children and husbands...as some men try to satisfy their power hunger in the business world or in the military set-up.

All these are candidates for counseling...victims of rigid religion...drugs...alcohol...power hunger...all crutches...but leaving the same dullnes..

I have come to believe that what most of us need to get "turned on" is to learn greater AWARENESS...first of ourselves and then the world around us...to become sensitive to the little things which most of us are missing. When we strip ourselves of our false defenses and fantasies we may find untapped reservoirs of challenge and excitement in the real world all around us...so our lives will not be dull.

Start looking around you...use your eyes. Start listening to sounds around you...use your ears. Lose some of the inhibitions which have walled you in so that you could not use the sense of touch. Use your "heart"...your life center...to feel the throbbing life realities in persons closest to you.

I really think this is why so many of our lives are dull...we are just out of touch with the world around us. Try looking... listening...touching. Unless you're "dead already" and have sealed yourself in your own tomb of avoiding everything risky...you just might still get "turned on" to life.

THE BEST WAY TO HAVE A FRIEND IS TO BE ONE

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

No Visits

How would you feel about the endless complaints of a divorced mother whose children, of either sex, have emotional problems? These problems are much greater among the older children.

Mr. and Mrs. X were quite aware of incompatibility which, as usual, finally reached the fractured state of necessary separation by divorce. The causes we won't get into, but if alcohol or extracurricular activity [usually on the male side] was the cause, it compounded the sequelae. A marriage counsellor may or may not have been consulted - and even if one were considered, the Father usually pooh-poohed or failed to cooperate.

With justifiable reasons, the court grants the divorce. Week-end privileges are given to the father for visits with the children, and a certain alimony [almost always inadequate for proper maintenance of the wife's needs too often requires supplement by ADC] is demanded.

Some degree of immaturity always exists with either party and usually both. Neither could or would admit that this is true nor could they recognize the term if demonstrated. In my opinion, this is probably the biggest single factor - especially so in the involvement of sexual excesses or alcohol.

In our society, the main culprit is the male - largely because his opportunities are greater and his detection more difficult. Our social attitude is much more critical for an aberrant mother. Fortunately, the sense of responsibility is more deeply impressed upon the mother who sticks by the children despite the disruption of her own emotional needs.

What happens as time goes on? Most mothers build up the estranged father as some kind of a prince - moral - strong - trustworthy, etc. He conversely undermines the image of the mother by belittling - telling the children how much more he loves them - what a sacrifice he is making - how he longs to be back home - most of it not supported by the facts or economics of support.

The children are torn - not only because of the Freudian allegiances - the girl for her father - the boy for his mother and the antagonism he may have for the father. - Add to this the loneliness compared to their peers, from intact homes, and the loss of companionship in a well-balanced home.

It is true that most children adjust but every one of them is hurt. The children rebel at home, why not? The father is built-up as a paragon while the mother struggles to fulfill both parental positions on a moderate income. Don't forget she has been deprived in the meantime for her own natural animal needs while carrying burdens - omnipresent - overwhelming and oppressive.

Maybe the courts know all this but I question the powers they have because the man gets away with murder. While all the previous open or overt undermining of the mother goes on - he may delay his alimony payments, leaving her to be behind in her daily payments. Often the courts force him. But who has suffered? -- mother and the kids! I am aware and sympathetic with our courts and their inability to enforce the law, but not enough is done to correct the condition. A recent pediatric book suggests that divorced fathers must be denied any visiting privileges. I would add - ought to be denied.

You perhaps think this a rather cruel and rigid statement. Not in the least! Children of broken homes are very rarely the cause of the rupture and should not be punished by becoming immature, mixed up and unhappy because we do not review our marriage laws or the courts to survey the social dilemma.

Do you think that our families structure might be enhanced if parents looked at the consequences of divorce? I doubt it because, to me divorce is a necessary institution.

A harder look at the entrance to marriage, better training and preparation for its continuance - more mature construction in the anticipation rather than our haphazard standard of puppy love and appearance. Some day we will have the contract renewal which I referred to before. Better sexual preparation and even a test of the ability of young people to survive marriage might become essential. Certainly food for thought!

Spring

When spring comes around, I think of the ocean settling down. I think of the trees and plants giving birth to fruits and flowers. Then I think of the April showers. I think of the high grass and pussy willows swaying in the cool breezy air, and leaves falling from trees everywhere. In the trees I think of the mother bird giving birth to baby birds. Also I think of Easter and things I want to do, like biking, fishing, camping, and boating too. These are the beauties of spring to me. I want to come visiting every year.

Flying Far Away

I am a paper kite. My sister flies me at the Plaza. I have fun there. On Sunday Grace let go of me. I flew far away and almost got caught in a telephone wire. I was so close I felt a shock. Then I saw my father and my sister trying to catch me. They did and Grace never flew me without my father again.

Divice Dice

I have a dice I always carry it with me. I made it into a divice dice. It's a chemical divice which I made in my laboratory one night when my family was sleeping. This is the way I did it: using wires of red and green and rainbow gas that is made up of two chemicals that contain explosives and gases. It helps me in every single way you could think of: school work, personality just about everything. It's great! It's white and has dot's on it just like real dice you play with in a game. I think it is good at rigging up things. I want to be a mad scientist someday. I just want to live in my own world all alone, because I want to explore a new world way beyond. I want to compare it with this World and bring thing's true that people have never believed in before.

The Eclipse

Though the eclipse was a fantastic sight for scientists and other interested people, I was disappointed. I thought it was going to be much more dark and more interesting. The one thing I thought was interesting was the eerie color of the slight darkness. Unless I travel to different places in the world at the right time, I'm going to have to wait for 54 years to see another eclipse in the East.

On Television

I was on television. I came on at the end of the show. The show was a half hour long, but it was almost over before I got on. Before I even got to guess the answer to the puzzle, the bell rang and it was all over. The show was "Concentration."

Let me tell you how and why I was there. First, I am a Webelos Scout. "Concentration" wanted scouts from around Boston to be on the show to celebrate Boy Scout Month. I was picked as a contestant from about eighty boys who tried out for the show.

I went to New York on February 12, 1970 to tape the show. I went on the bus with some Boy Scout Leaders and the other boys who had tried out for the show. It was a long trip.

We went into the studio in New York and we had a chance to see how television programs are put on. Then it was time for the show. The two boys who got on first used up most of the time. My opponent and I got on, but before we were finished, as I said, the bell rang and the show was over. The television station gave $1,000.00 in my name and my opponent's name to the Boy Scout Campership Fund to help boys go to camp.

When we started back, the bus driver took us sightseeing. We went past the United Nations building and the Empire State Building. We also went over the George Washington Bridge.

The Frontier

As the sun sets
And the moon rises
And the air becomes cool
Let us remember the men who founded this land.

They went through worry and danger
And sometimes died on the way
But kept on going until this land was settled in peace.

Quilting Bees

When you have friends as good as these,
You might have some fun at a Quilting Bee
You take little turns sewing in and out,
Then you end up sewing all about.
You make designs with different threads
They also make covers for very soft beds.

Is Spring Coming?

As I awoke to the gray brightness of dawn.
To my surprise I saw a blanket of white
Covering the countryside.
From this same window yesterday
I thought I saw a budding bush,
A robin on the wing.
What happened to the Spring?

So many beautiful things.

Deena With The Beautiful Hair

Deena is a girl that is moving her head very swiftly. She is very lonely and she is scared. She has rosey cheeks and great big blue eyes. Her hair is like a spider web. Her hair is fuzzy. She is lazy and bored. She loves tiny things. She is very clever. She is trapped in her lovely hair. She is lost in her hair, lovely hair. She is excited about everything she sees. She is proud of her hair.

Seasons

I love the seasons one and all.
Winter, summer, spring and fall.
It now is winter - that is so.
But soon the spring will melt the snow.

Then comes summer with its light.
It will make all things so bright.
The fall will come quick as a flash.
Then out it goes in a dash.
These seasons, yes, they come and go,
With the sun and also snow.
They come too fast, that's what I say,
An then they're quickly on their way.

Why I Like Spring

I like spring, because the winter ice is melting and the pleasant weather is here. Buds by the millions, and pussy willows are peeping forth. We can go camping, boating and fishing in the spring. We can play tennis, baseball and hopscotch. We will see the birds visiting one another. Grass will get green. We will also sit in the breezy, cool wind. All of a sudden it will start raining. The first spring shower of the year. We will go playing, and Mom will say come. I know what that means: SPRING CLEANING! Mom will plant tulips. What beautiful flowers. But sooner than we expect, the summer will be here. We'll have to wait a year before another spring will be here.

Other Days And Other Ways

Nowadays where things are frilly,
Along went wagons 'cross the wide and hilly.
Now, today we've lots of fun,
Then, their work was never done.
Where they had Indians and forges,
We have Red Sox and Dodgers.
Dan Boone's fort had a small population
Now today a large reputation.

The Eclipse

The Eclipse was Saturday, March 7th. Here in Quincy we had 96% darkness. In many places down south there was complete darkness. The next Eclipse that we will have won't be until the year 2024. An eclipse is very dangerous. I watched it on T.V. When the moon's shadow is over the sun the sun looks dark, but there are still invisible rays that are very harmful to the eye.

The Twin Dogs

One day I went to the pet shop to get a pet dog.

I went in and I saw lovely pets. I saw a dog in a bag. Then I saw two dogs. I said to myself, "I'll take the dogs." So I gave the man some money. When I got home I said, "I'll name this one Playful because he's playful. I'll name this one Curious because he's always curious.

When somebody says my name, Linda, they come to me. Or whenever somebody says one of their names, they come to them. One day the man from the pet shop came to tell me he wanted the dogs back. I said, "no!" Then I asked why. He said he wanted them for the circus. So I said O.K. The day came and the dogs went to the circus.

Cranch School To Host 29 English Guests

A welcoming dinner by the School Department is planned for Friday at Quincy Voc-Tech's dining room, with Voc-Tech student cooks whipping up the menu. The School Department is also providing a bus for the trips.

The visitors will have a tour of historic Quincy, Plymouth, visit the Natick laboratories, the Trailside Museum in Canton, tour Boston, ride on the Swan Boats, and also have a Saturday, May 30, boat trip with author Edward Rowe Snow.

The PTA will hold a picnic for them May 31. Visits to the Children's Museum, Science Museum and Planetarium, and the Aquarium are planned. On June 4, their final day, they will visit the Adams School in the morning, have the afternoon free with their American families, and leave that evening.

The Cranch School youngsters have had small fund-raising projects to provide for the trips and entertainment of their guests. "Buttons for Britain", made of cardboard, were sold, and there were candy sales, so that any money their British friends may bring can be used for souvenirs. The families provided the trip.

To bridge the language barrier, a six-page English-American Dictionary has been prepared, with more than 100 words listed. The British "brolly" is the equivalent of the American "umbrella"; "deputy headmaster" is the "assistant principal"; "dustbin" is a "wastebasket"; "plimsolls" are "sneakers"; "ta" is "thank you".

Frank Keevil, headmaster of the English School, is in charge of the arrangements. He will be staying with Miss Murdock's family. Mrs. Joan D. Bush, a teacher in the same borough, will be the guest of Miss Dorothea Hannon.

Mrs. Joyce Morgan and her daughter, Valerie Morgan, will be with the C. W. Jacob family at 118 President's Lane, while Mr. and Mrs. Colin Raggett and their children, Nicholas and Susan, will be with the Donald C. MacLeod family at 66 Dixwell Ave.

Rev. Paul E. Sparrman of Covenant Congregational Church and Mrs. Sparrman of 305 Whitwell St., will entertain Nigel Brearley. Deborah Bush will stay with Mr. and Mrs. James J. Cahill of 39 Roselin Ave., while Louise Cheser is with the Anthony A. Quintiliani family of 119 Cranch St.

Lorraine Cockburn will be the guest of the Archie Sanchez family at 117 Whitwell St.; Peter Cox, at the Russell S. Stranberg's of 147 Glendale Rd.; Julie Day, the Thomas E. Rice family at 50 President's Lane; David Elmer, at the Harold DelVecchio family of 233 President's Lane; and Gabrielle Gare with the Peter P. Raimondi's of 94 Cranch St.; Malcolm Tubby, the Peter F. MacDonald's of 102 President's Lane; and Ianto Watkins, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred A. Nolan at 65 Monroe Rd.

Ground To Be Broken Sunday For New Quincy Courthouse

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new East Norfolk District Courthouse in Quincy will take place Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Chestnut St. site.

The $2 million building will be built by Varrasso Brothers of Braintree, and is scheduled for completion in the summer of 1971.

A modern facility, it will have double the floor capacity of the present, nearly 50-year old, courthouse on Coddington St., with five courtrooms instead of the present three. There will also be a parking area.

"We expect it will take care of our needs for the next 50 years," a spokesman said.

It will serve, in addition to Quincy, the towns of Braintree, Cohasset, Weymouth, Milton, Randolph and Holbrook.

Taking part in the ceremonies will be Norfolk County Commissioners George B. McDonald of Quincy; James J. Collins of Milton and Thomas K. McManus of Norwood.

North Track Team Rolls Over Revere

Bob Gentry's North Quincy track team kept pace with rival Quincy Monday when it rolled over Revere, 91-31, for its second straight Greater Boston League win.

The Raiders meet Chelsea today at Medford and Tuesday will face Medford at Chelsea.

North won every event except the 880 and 100 and swept four in annihilating Revere.

Double winners were Lee Davis in the discus and low hurdles and Paul Affsa in the 220 and long jump. Most North winners were juniors and sophomores, making next year's outlook especially bright.

Jim Panarelli broke the North shot put record for the second week in a row with an excellent throw of 50 feet, 6½ inches.

John Hemphill was first and Jim DeVarennes second in the javelin, Davis first in the discus and low hurdles, Panarelli first, Paul Day second and Steve Leet third in the shot put, Affsa first, Dave Haight second and Dan Coughlin third in the long jump, Affsa first in the 220, Dave Mahoney first, and Bill McCall second in the high jump. Kevin Henry was first and Steve Little third in the two-mile, Pat McCormack first, George McCall second and Dan O'Malley third in the mile. Bill McCall won the high hurdles, finally beating Haight who was third. For the past two years McCall has been second to Haight.

Dick Sanderson was second in the 100. Affsa first and Ken Baker a close third in the 220. Bob Hale tied Chris Kennedy for first in the 440 and Sanderson was third. Jeff Strungis was second and Paul Salamaaa third in the 880. The North relay team of Davis, Coughlin, Sanderson and Bill McCall also won.

Last Saturday North scored 91½ points in Division Two of the Mass. State Relays. North's Hemphill, Panarelli, Davis and Baker won the javelin. The Raiders placed third in the long jump and tied for fifth in the 880.

North Golf Team Blanks Boston English, 9-0

Jack Donahue's North Quincy golf team blanked Boston English, 9-0, to even its record at 1-1.

Today North plays Hyde Park at George Wright Golf Club and Monday plays Boston Tech at the Wollaston Golf Club.

In the win over English all three North teams, Wayne Fick and Jack Meehan, Mike Zakrzewski and Jeff Burrell, Brian Kelleen and Mike Tracy, swept three points.

Quincy Chills Chelsea For 5th League Win

Quincy's baseball team, with a fine 5-1-1 record after the first round of Greater Boston League play, played Boston Tech in a non-league game yesterday and will be idle until Monday when it opens the second round against cross-town rival North Quincy at Adams Field.

Wednesday the Presidents play at Somerville.

Quincy topped North, 6-2, in their first meeting but the Raiders have come along fast since that game. Quincy and Somerville battled to a 14-inning 1-1 tie the first time around and there is a possibility this game will be replayed next Thursday at Adams Field.

Bob Basiliere's Quincy team ended the first round Monday with a 3-2 win at Chelsea.

Quincy received more good pitching from Rich Brown and its sensational reliever, sophomore lefty Jimmy Walker, while outfielders John Stevens and Bruce Carlson sparked the offense and defense. Stevens had two hits and scored twice while Carlson also had two hits and made the defensive play of the game, a grab in deep center field.

"Stevens is our only batter hitting over .300 and has been giving us big hits all along," Basiliere said. "He is a senior, is very dedicated and has a smooth swing, accounting for his average."

Brown went seven innings, gave up three hits and one earned run, struck out six and walked three for his third win. Walker relieved in the eighth and added two more scoreless innings. In 18 innings he has given up just one run.

Kevin Ryan also had two hits, while Pete Lucier and Bill Maver had one each.

Last Friday Quincy scored nine runs in the last two innings to topple Everett, 10-2, in a rain-shortened five-inning game.

Everett had scored four runs in the top of the sixth before the umpires called the game and the runs were washed away.

Mark Whelton, who had previously pitched 20 straight shutout innings, started and gave up a run in the second before he had to leave with a twisted ankle. Sophomore lefty Jim Walker finished up and got his first win.

The Presidents pounded out 12 hits in the five innings including a triple and single by Walker, a double and single by Cliff Mattson, two singles apiece by Kevin Ryan and Bruce Carlson and a single each by Rick DeCristofaro, John Stevens, Paul Hand and Pete Lucier.

Earlier in the week Quincy had suffered its first defeat at Malden, 5-0, when it was held to three hits by Steve Cuigazo, who struck out 11 Presidents.

The lone Quincy hits were singles by Ryan, Lucier and Carlson.

Despite the loss, Basiliere was given a chance to smile by Walker.

The young southpaw relieved starter Rich Brown and ran his runless streak to 14 innings, which later was stopped at 15 in the Everett game.

"This kid is just great," Basiliere said. "He's mature and challenges the batters all the time. He has a good curve and fast ball and he gets the ball over. His delivery is good and when he gets older we may be able to get more of a fast ball from him.

"Jimmy was the only bright spot today as we got a bad game out of our systems. "We'll be better next time out and if we can beat Everett and Chelsea to complete the first round of our schedule, we'll be in good shape."

Raiders Defeat Medford But Bow To Somerville

North Quincy's baseball team, which dropped a 13-3 decision at Somerville Tuesday, yesterday played at Everett.

Saturday at 10 a.m. the Raiders meet Boston Latin in a non-league game at Montclair Field, Monday meets Quincy in a return game at Adams field and Wednesday hosts Revere at Adams Field.

The loss at Somerville gave North a 2-3 Greater Boston League record and an overall 7-4 mark after it had defeated Medford, 7-2, on Monday.

North suffered one of its most frustrating days Tuesday when two pitchers gave up 11 walks and the Raiders came up with six errors to make things easy for Somerville.

Junior Dave Murphy started and Craig Bogosian relieved him. Both showed well at times but their control was way off.

Offensively North did well enough with seven hits to Somerville's eight, and the Raiders stole five bases.

Tim Flynn and Steve Tomasetti had two hits each, Jack Flaherty, Bob Graham and Tom Burke one each.

Monday Bunker received a fine pitching performance from Scott Manson, who hurled a five-hitter, struck out 10 and walked only one while not giving up an earned run against Medford.

"It felt good to win this one as Medford has a fine team," Bunker said. "Any time we get good pitching we play real well. Our defense has been good and we turned in 14 double plays in nine games. Manson did an excellent job in his first complete varsity game and was in complete command all the way."

North pounded out 11 hits including a home run and single by Flaherty, a double and single by Ed Monahan, two singles by Dan Zink, a double by Tomasetti and singles by Bob Langley, Burke, Graham and Manson.

Saturday Bunker did a lot of experimenting as the Raiders lost to Hingham's Old Colony Leaguers, 9-6.

"The result doesn't upset me because it was a non-league game and I used a lot of the reserves," Bunker said. "I brought Bob McKay up from the jayvees and he pitched very well. Tomasetti hit well and I learned a lot about our younger players in the game."

Earlier in the week North Walloped Chelsea, 10-4, in a league game to even its league mark at 2-2.

Veteran Craig Bogosian started and got the win and was relieved by Bill Deshler, another veteran. They combined to hold Chelsea to seven hits while the Raiders had their best hitting day with 12. North clinched the win with six runs in the third inning.

Bob Langley led the attack with three hits including a double, while Bogosian, Tom Burke and Bob Graham had two apiece and Jack Flaherty, Tomasetti and Dan Zink one each.

The day before North had beaten Abp. Williams for the second time, 4-2, in a non-league game.

Bunker used four pitchers, Scott Manson, Dave Murphy, Bogosian and Deshler with Manson getting the win.

Flaherty had a triple and single, Langley a triple, Tim Flynn, Tony Alibrandi, Zink, Graham and Manson a single apiece.

Quincy Trackmen Seek Third

Tom Hall's Quincy track team goes for its third straight Greater Boston League win today [Thursday] when it meets Everett at Medford and Tuesday will face Chelsea at Chelsea.

The Presidents won every event but the javelin Tuesday to whomp Somerville by a surprising 90-32 score.

Quincy swept the long jump with Larry Finneran, Jim Malvesti and Joe Goguen running 1-2-3, and the discus with Frank Aldoupolis winning in his try at this event. Mike Paluzzi second and Scott Brand third.

Steve Shapiro won the shot put with a good toss of 46-5 and Jim Bucchainari was third. Bob Laing won the two-mile with Paul Wahlberg third. Bobby Ciano took the mile with Tom Plante third. Pasquale won the high jump with Bob McDermott second. John Dempsey took the high hurdles with McDermott again second, Malvesti won the low hurdles with Larry Butler third. Finneran won the 100, Roy Smith the 220 with Antoon second, Goguen took the 440, Jim Dubois the half mile with Brian Feeney second. The relay team of Smith, Pete Daley, Malvesti and Finneran won.

Last Saturday Quincy broke the Division One long jump record in the Mass. State Relays with Finneran, Goguen and Malvesti taking part. The Presidents also placed fifth in the distance medley.

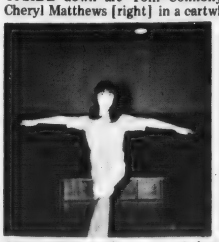
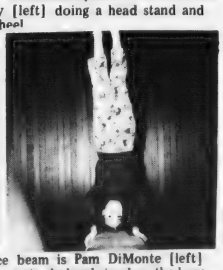
Snug Harbor Pupils Star In Gym Show

EXERCISING keeps Nancy Robertson and Darnel Pace nice and trim.





LOOK, MA, no hands, Kathy De Long seems to be saying as she hangs from trapeze.

The pupils at Snug Harbor elementary school have been involved in a unique gymnastics program since January under instructors Clare Valle and Peter Gallagher.

Highlight of the season was a gymnastics show in which all boys and girls participating in the program took part.

The show consisted of seven events, girls' exercises; vaulting, side horse and long horse; bamboo pole dance; boys' tumbling; girls' free exercise; girls' tube tumbling, and parachute tumbling.

It was so successful it will be repeated at the school May 4 for pupils from other schools.

The gym team comprises Patricia Austin, Paul Austin, Karen Coniff, John Chludzinski, Stephen Connolly, John Conroy, Maureen Craig, Pamela Cratty, Robert Dacey, Irene DiCroce, Marie Donahue, Ken Donovan, Laura Ducey, Deanna DuPont, Paul Ferris, Brian Flynn, Patrick Foley, Jeanette Foye, Mary Foye, Donna Gallinaro, Cheryl Hennessey, Stephen Kressler, Joe Long, Nancy Long, Linda Lydon, Rose Marie Maloney and Cheryl Matthews.

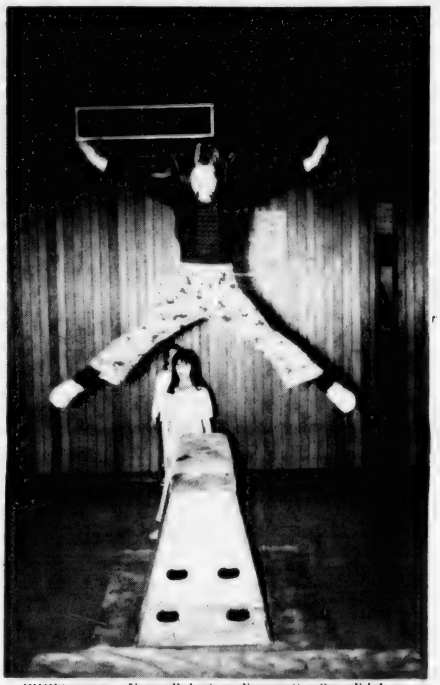
Also, Jean McCabe, Joe McEachearn, Ed McGowan, Mike McLaughlin, Cheryl McNelley, Stephen Melzard, Theresa Morrissey, Theresa Moscone, Carol Parelius, Jim Quigley, Mike Renzi, Michele Sachetti, Betty Ann Smith, Jeff Short, Janice Veno, Kathy Ventosi, Donna Verrier, Darlene Whitlow and Julie Whitman.

The students took part in a gymnastics exhibition at Quincy High recently during the dedication of the Munroe MacLean and Veterans plaques at the gymnasium.

Weekly competitions are held in the program and three points are awarded for first place, two for second place and one for third place in each event.

The program began in January and ends on April 28 with two competitions remaining.

Going into the final competition Ken Donovan is leading with 17 points, followed by Cheryl Matthews with 10, Darnel Pace, 9; Tom Connolly and Nancy Robertson, four each; Frank Shoemaker, two, and Cheryl McNelley, one.



"We expect to enter some of our girls in the New England AAU girls' and women's championships at Bridgewater State College on May 2," Gallagher said.

"The children have enjoyed the program very much and my only regret is that we were not able to include more students. Several of the boys and girls show great promise, and with the proper training during the next several years could be among the best in the nation."

Gallagher earlier instituted a soccer program at Snug Harbor which has proven extremely popular and several of the boys are expected to help the Quincy High teams in future years.

PRECISION partners are Tom Connolly doing head stand as Frank Shoemaker prepares a diving forward roll over him.

QJC Meets Newton Friday

Monday Dave Burke's team takes on Wentworth at 3 p.m. at Connolly Field, Roxbury, and next Thursday will be home to Bryant and Stratton at 3:30 at Fore River Field.

Monday QJC dropped a 4-1 decision to Franklin, which scored all four runs in the final inning to win it.

Carl Lindgren pitched outstanding ball for QJC, striking out 16 in a losing effort.

Jim Broderick had two hits including a triple and Mike Fermino had a double and single.

Recreation Roundup

Shot! Save! Rebound!! Goal! These were the sounds that echoed throughout the Pilot Project programs this week. After waiting five weeks, the new gym hockey games finally arrived. They have added a new dimension to the ever expanding recreation programs. The design of this hockey game allows it to be played without harm to the gymnasium floors. The small elementary school gyms have made an ideal area for the many future Bobby Orrs.

The car wash held by the Germantown Youth Center was a successful venture, and the elementary group is looking forward to crowning a champ in the AAHPER tests, at Sterling Junior High on Wednesday night. Barry Welch, director of the Pilot Project sends along this news from the four project areas:

Houghs Neck

ATHERTON HOUGH GIRLS:

This week the girls witnessed a gymnastic demonstration given by Debbie Congdon. Debbie demonstrated and explained the forward walkover, backward walkover, forward roll, and lunges. Susan Doyle, Diane Congdon and Patty Donovan practiced head stands and hand walking.

Gym hockey was introduced as a new activity. Girls experimenting with the new hockey set are: Cindy Clark, Terry Clard, Dottie Clark, Susan Canine, Diane Congdon, Debbie Congdon, Susan Doyle, Patty Donovan, Madeline Flynn, Janine Flynn and Gail Lynch. Germantown

The Youth Center thanks all who donated to the recent car wash. Total profit was $36. George Mathesion became the second player in the Center's brief history to break the 9,000 point barrier in pinball. George hit a score of 9,581. The soccer machine is also going big. Top team looks like John Eldrige and John Doyle. Pat Rinnela is an up and coming star on Bumper Pool.

GERMANTOWN:

SNUG HARBOR GIRLS:

The girls thank all those who made the clothing drive a success. Pat and Mary also thank the girls who collected the clothes for them. Next project will be the washing and mending of these clothes before distributing them to needy families.

Anyone for Hockey! The new fad is an indoor hockey game. Janet Campbell and Dailene Bergstrom showed off their talents while Linda Fishell proved to be an avid contender for Gerry Cheevers spot on the Bruins team.

SNUG HARBOR BOYS:

Both junior high and elementary levels eagerly made use of the new hockey equipment. Joe Magna and Mark Cardarelli played exceptionally well, each scoring two goals. John Duzette was the outstanding defenseman for the evening. A good performance was also turned in by John Smith, the goalie.

Quincy Point

POINT JUNIOR HIGH BOYS:

The new indoor Hockey game was introduced to members of the gymnasium program and was an instant hit. Leaders, Frank Brillo and Bill Myers instructed the boys in the rules and regulations. Upsets By Point, Central Highlight Basketball Tourney

Upsets by Point and Central highlighted the 18th annual city wide basketball tournament sponsored by the Quincy Park-Recreation Board at Quincy Vocational Technical High School.

The most dramatic finish was furnished by Point in the junior division. Trailing Wollaston 18-5 at the end of the first quarter, Point evened the score midway in the third quarter and then on excellent shooting of John Ford with 37 points steadily pulled away to win 74-54.

The event that seemed to ignite Point was the expulsion of Point Coach Paul Fitzpatrick who protested a call too strongly and was ejected by the officials. Also in double figures for Point were Dennis Sullivan, 16 points and Capt. John MacFarland with 14 points.

Carl Leone, the son of Quincy School Athletic Director was high for the losers with 20 pts. and John Flynn netted 17.

In another upset, pre-tournament favorite Atlantic fell behind 9-0 at the start and never did catch Central who survived a late rally by Atlantic to win 47-39. With Dave Mahoney getting 11 of his 18 points in a second half surge, Atlantic narrowed the big Central lead to 37-35.

However when 6-6 William Burke, Central's center who had sat out much of the fourth period with four fouls, reentered the game the winners built up a 10-point lead. Tom Flynn, older brother of John Flynn who played for the Wollaston juniors duplicated his brothers efforts by scoring 17 points. Joe Stirling who was instrumental in breaking the Atlantic press had 14 points. Joe Baironus and Burke.

The elementary game was a walk away for Atlantic over Atherton Hough 58-23. Warren Jordon of the winners dominated the game and would have doubled his 22 point performance if coach Ted Stevenson a former Boston State star had let him play more than a half.

Trophies and ribbons were presented to the players by Recreation Director William F. Ryan on behalf of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board.

The tournament climaxed a Fall-Winter-Spring program in which more than 1200 boys participated.

Houghs Neck Drops Plans For Legion Baseball Team

There will be only two American Legion baseball teams in Quincy again this summer after all.

Houghs Neck Post had planned to field its first team under Francis [Shorty] Donovan, a former South Shore League standout, but due to financial problems and other factors, it was decided not to have a team this season.

Morrisette, defending champion of Zone 6, will have a new coach in Ray Cattaneo, a Braves minor league player for five years, who played his high school ball at Boston College High. Ray succeeds Connie Carlozzi, another ex-South Shore League star, who resigned after seven highly successful years at Morrisette. Connie is coaching the Abp. Williams High team this spring.

Quincy Post will again have Doug Fleming as coach.

General Dynamics, Rangers In Soccer Clash Sunday

Quincy's two entries in the Commonwealth Soccer League, Quincy Rangers and General Dynamics, will collide for the first time Sunday in a 2:30 p.m. game at the high school field at the rear of Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Although the much more experienced GD team is a decided favorite, the younger Ranger players are confident they can upset the shipyard entry.

GD, made up of native British, Scottish and Irish players brought over to work at General Dynamics, rolled over Revere, 11-0, last Sunday for its second straight runaway win.

Meanwhile the Rangers, made up mainly of former Quincy High players, edged Norfolk Shamrocks, 2-0, for their first win of the season.

"Our men are now in shape and we had things all our own way," said GD coach Fred Bridge. "Several players joined in the scoring and I think, now that we are in condition and I now have a set lineup, we should do well the rest of the way. However, the Rangers, a fine young group of players, could give us trouble."

The Rangers received excellent goal tending from two former Quincy High stars, Dave D'Olympio, who played most of the way before being injured slightly, and Mike Del Grecco.

Walter Duque and Al Lavoie scored the Ranger goals with Nick Conderlos, Juan Varella and Vin Bertrand shining on the forward line and assisting in the goals.

"We are improving all the time and the players, especially our three South Americans, are confident of upsetting General Dynamics," Manager Peter Gallagher said. "But they are awfully strong and I can't see how they ever lost their first game.

"Our three South Americans, Roque Acosta, Carlos Ferro and Nick Conderlos, have a lot of experience and are really confident. They are sure we can win and I just hope we can hold them down. Their passing and teamwork are amazing and their wealth of experience makes them just about the best in our league."

One of the largest crowds ever to see a soccer game in Quincy is expected at Sunday's game.

Patriots Stars To Conduct Grid Clinic Here In July

Eleven members of the Boston Patriots will comprise the instructional staff for a series of seven football clinics to be held this summer in Quincy and six other Greater Boston communities.

Under the auspices of PRO INC., a newly formed management firm for professional athletes, the group will be in Quincy July 10-12 for a three day clinic featuring instruction on all aspects of football.

Veteran Charlie Long, an all league selection as both guard and tackle, will coordinate the instructional team that includes Jim Lee Hunt, Len St. Jean, "Rookie of the Year" Carl Garrett, Daryl Johnson, R. C. Gamble, Bill Bailey, Aaron Marsh, Art McMahon, Johnny Outlaw and Jim Cheyunski.

Enrollment is open to all young men between the ages of eight and 18.

Instruction will include offensive and defensive line play, as well as coaching in the various aspects of offensive and defensive backfield play, with special emphasis on quarterbacking. Youngsters will be separated by age and size for instructional purposes. Competition for trophies will be held in Quincy on July 12.

1,000 To March In Loyalty Day Parade Sunday

Quincy's annual Loyalty Day Parade on Sunday sponsored by the George F. Bryan VFW Post is expected to be the largest to date with more than 1,000 persons in the line of march. Several thousand are expected to witness the event.

Capt. W. J. Christensen of Boston, A Naval officer recently returned from Vietnam, will be the main speaker at 1:30 p.m. ceremonies. He will speak from the steps of the United First Parish Church. Quincy Sq. A. Warren Steward, Loyalty Day chairman, will introduce him.

Wreaths honoring Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams will be placed on their crypts in the church basement by Capt. Christensen and State VFW Commander Clarence Raymond.

Devotions will be led by Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue and Dr. Bradford F. Gale of United First Parish Church.

Mayor James R. McIntyre will bring the city's greetings.

Featured in the parade will be the Heritage Platoon from Fort Devens in its first Quincy appearance. The Platoon consists of 50 Army men each carrying a state flag from each state.

Army and Navy Bands will be among the 10 musical units.

Each of the 65 VFW units in Massachusetts will be represented either by a color guard, honor guard, drill team or band. In addition, all local American Legion Posts have been invited to participate.

Francis Hatch, Bryan Post quartermaster, will be marshall, and Edward Dunn, member board of directors, master of ceremonies. Henry Chiminiello will represent the State Department.

Flag-raising will be led by Manny Halter and James Malloy, with Joseph Burke noting his 25th year as officer-of-the day.

Among younger groups taking part will be the Braintree Drum and Bugle Corps; St. Thomas More, St. Joseph's, North and Quincy High School Bands, Holy Family Band from Rockland, North End Lancerettes from Boston, Dantis Drum and Bugle Corps from Hyde Park, and the Brockton Goldenaires, a drill team of young children.

"If you don't love our country then leave it," is to be the keynote of nation wide patriotic observances urged by Congress and the President on May 3rd.

Love of Flag and Country, willingness to defend our freedom heritage and denunciation of un-Americanism are the citizenship responsibilities to be emphasized in the Quincy observance, according to Paul K. Farmer, Post Commander.

The VFW combat veterans and the Ladies Auxiliary will be assisted by students and service clubs, also by representatives of labor, business and professional groups in the staging of the Loyalty Day parade and ceremonies.

Brett Flooding Bill Gets Favorable Report

House Bill No. 576, filed by Rep. Joseph F. Brett, to implement correcting measures to eliminate recurring flooding problems in the Furnace Brook and Black's Creek areas, has been given a favorable report by the Committee On Urban Affairs.

The bill is now pending before the Committee on Ways and Means.

"As this legislation is of vital importance to thousands of our fellow homeowners and taxpayers, it is earnestly suggested that that concerned citizens inform the Committee on Ways and Means of their views on the matter," Brett said.

Communications, he said, should be addressed to Rep. Anthony M. Scibelli, House Committee on Ways and Means, State House, Boston, Mass. 02133

Grace Kelly Wins Master's Degree

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Quincy's Grace Kelly wouldn't swap a seat in War Memorial Auditorium for all of Monaco.

Not on June 5, anyway.

That's the day and place that she will receive her master's degree in education from State College at Boston, climaxing six long years of night school.

"I am just thrilled. It represents six years of night school-- my 'nights out'," says the attractive wife of Quincy School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly, mother of three, homemaker and active civic worker.

There's as much--maybe more--excitement in the Kelly home at 93 Ames St. as there is on election night.

In 1955 Mrs. Kelly graduated from Boston State. Nine years later, after four years teaching third grade at Hull, marriage, and two children, she returned to college.

"I still hear from some of my children at Hull--just recently I had a letter from Vietnam from a boy in one of my third grade classes," she relates.

Classwork resumed in 1964, with an assist from Tom Sweeny, the son of neighbor and School Committeeman, Charles F. Sweeny of 49 Ames St. Tom took over as babysitter for Paul [now 10] and Mark [8 now] from 3:30 to 5 p.m. until her husband returned. Those were her only afternoon classes.

Little Grace Marie came along two years ago in February, and college classes resumed that September.

Sometimes Mrs. Kelly was discouraged, particularly with the required courses. She enjoyed the electives.

"I'm through! I'd tell Paul," she remembers. "Then he would say, 'You've gone this far, go ahead and finish up.'"

Then one night last April she came out from college to find her car stolen. That was recovered four days later, without too much damage to it.

She was not alone in working for her master's degree. She attended classes with Pat Lee of Waltham, mother of five children, who went to undergraduate school with her. She will receive her master's degree, too.

Mrs. Kelly has been active in the Willard School PTA. Last year she was co-chairman of the St. Moritz Association's recreation committee, and she has just been elected secretary.

"When the children are all in school I think I would probably substitute teach--take a class so that I could be home when the children were at home. Right now, I will put my diploma on the living room wall, catch up on reading--and learn how to sew buttons on!" she muses.

Today she's still up in the clouds--probably even happier than another Grace Kelly over in Monaco.

Do You Care - - Really?

HN Youth Center In Jeopardy For Lack Of Funds

By HENRY BOSWORTH
Publisher-Editor, Quincy Sun

Do you care--really?

The future of a Houghs Neck youth center--recreational-social focal point for area youngsters and a living memorial to a Vietnam hero--is in grave doubt.

Unless financial aid comes from the community, the Sgt. Lawrence Grenham Youth Center, named after the first Houghs Neck boy to give his life in Vietnam, will soon be gone.

For that to happen in this "Sad Seventies" era of drug abuse, riots and all the other assorted social problems when teen-agers need all the help they can get from adults, would be a community tragedy.

It doesn't have to happen. And, it won't--if you really care.

The youth center, located in a former bakery at 1213 Sea St. came into existence 16 months ago. It was born on the sweat, muscle and desire of 40 to 50 teen-agers and a few adults. And, $12.36.

They all pitched in, rolling up their sleeves to paint, scrub and bang nails to remodel the old bakery. They furnished it, too.

Because of them, it became a vital part of the Quincy Recreation Department's Pilot Recreation Project. Notes Project Director Barry J. Welch:

"James F. McCormick, Sr., chairman of the Park-Recreation Board and members of that board have on many occasions recognized the outstanding job being done by the volunteers who are serving the youth of the

Help Needed, Too

2,000 Sought For May 24 'Hunger Walk'

Telephone 471-5167, 471-5168 or 471-5169 if you want to help!

That's the number of the "Walk for Development" headquarters at Atlantic United Methodist Church, temporarily manned only after school hours weekdays and full time weekends. A full-time answering service will be scheduled as plans for the May 24 walk progress.

Fred DuFresne, Joyce Randall, Jack and Jean Gillis are co-directors of this year's 25-mile walk, with John J. Murphy, guidance counselor at North Quincy High School, as advisor.

Help is needed:

●--Walkers. Anyone may walk.

●--Sponsors to pledge sums of money based on distances individual walkers complete.

●--Check-point personnel to stamp cards provided the walkers.

●--Persons to provide - and distribute - sandwiches.

●--"Toe truck" drivers to pick up walkers when they wish to drop out.

●--A water bucket brigade - to provide buckets - pass out the water.

At least 2,000 walkers, with age no barrier, is the goal of this year's march. High school and junior high schools are being visited by speakers. A slide program showing "Hunger" and "Affluence" is being shown, with appropriate tape recordings - folk songs for hunger, gay music for affluence.

Buttons with the slogan "Hunger Hurts", with a picture of a foot, will again be available.

The Quincy School Department has consented to have the city's schools again used as checkpoints for the walkers.

Last year $26,000 was raised. Part of this was used by the Community Action Program for nutritional guidance training in Southwest Quincy.

This year $4,000 will be used to bring up to standard a child development and nutritional center at Trinity Lutheran Church. Another sum will go to the Headstart Program in Quincy which has a school breakfast program for children of low-income families. Funds will also be used to aid a program at Faxon Park training mothers in good nutritional practices.

Remainder of the proceeds will go to the Freedom From Hunger Foundation, sponsors for walks throughout the country, to be used for an agricultural training program in Togo, Africa, sponsored by the Unitarian-Universalist Association.

Quincy organizers, who earlier sponsored a workshop at First Baptist Church in Wollaston, have helped and taken part in walks this past weekend at Amherst and at Weymouth.

N. Quincy Seniors Ask To Leave School May 15 To Find Jobs

The North Quincy High School graduating class wants to leave school May 15 to get a three weeks' head start in trying to find jobs.

The Student Council has asked school officials to allow them to leave then instead of June 5.

School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon and members of the School Committee have agreed to meet in a special session Monday at 7:30 p.m. to consider the unique request.

It is expected that the Quincy High School graduating class will also ask for the same consideration.

The North Quincy students pointed out that this year jobs are harder to find. Some said they have found work but will lose the jobs if they cannot start earlier than June 5.

It was also noted that Quincy Vocational-Technical School graduates are allowed to leave school May 15 providing they have jobs in the occupational area in which they have been trained.

HN Youth Center In Jeopardy

Houghs Neck area.

"The Grenham Youth Center is very effectively striving to meet the challenges and problems of today's youths that many communities turn their backs on. For this they should be commended."

In its 16 months, the center has come a long way.

Now it is faced with a crisis--perhaps oblivion.

The building has been rented at $90 a month. The owner has now indicated he will sell it.

It means that if the center is to survive, the building will have to be purchased by the teen-agers or a new building constructed.

Either move will take money. The amount is not yet known.

But plans for a fund-raising drive are underway with Leo Kelly of 29 Charles St. as chairman. Letters of appeal have gone out to Houghs Neck residents and to city officials.

Working with Kelly are Jack Nigro, co-chairman; David MacMillan, center director and treasurer; David Blowers, assistant treasurer; William Mitchell, Theodore Johnson, Mrs. Ruth Barra and Mrs. Eleanor LeBel, members of the Adult Advisory Board.

In an appeal to Quincy residents and businessmen and other interested adults, they declared:

"In an age when youth is being criticized, condemned and distrusted, we point proudly to this group of teen-agers. But they have come upon a crisis. The building they have worked so hard on is to be sold.

"If someone besides these teen-agers purchases it, they will be evicted and the building razed to make way for apartment buildings. The Center will die.

"If this happens, a part of each teen-ager will die, along with their new growing faith in the adult world.

"We make an appeal to elected and appointed officials of the city to come out and speak in our behalf. Your support and word is respected.

"We make an appeal to the businessmen of our community and all communities. The businessman, who is always the first one to be 'hit' to sponsor all sorts of sports teams and all kinds of public services...we ask you to step forward once more and lend us your help.

"We make an appeal to all denominations and churches, to all civic organizations in and outside our city who also sponsor many teen-age activities already. Please have room for one more.

"We make an appeal to all adults of our community. The common working man and woman who may or may not have sons and daughters of their own, we ask for your help.

"We make an appeal to all the youth--teen-agers and younger--in our own community. Come to the aid of some of your own in a time of trouble.

"We have accomplished all our success up to this time without asking for any financial help outside of our immediate community. It would not be possible for our community to carry this burden by itself.

"If anyone cannot come to our aid financially, please send us a note of encouragement. We are not too proud to speak out for help in our time of need.

"Let no one write our epitaph."

Ken O'Donnell:

'It Had To Be Me'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Kenneth P. O'Donnell believes he is the one former President Johnson blames for "undermining" his administration after President Kennedy's assassination.

In a visit this week to the Quincy Sun office, the former top Kennedy aide now a Democratic contender for Massachusetts governor was asked to comment on Johnson's accusation made during a television interview Saturday.

Pointing to himself, O'Donnell said:

"It had to be me."

But, he added:

"I think what Johnson was unhappy about was what I did in 1968 at Chicago when I pushed for the Peace plank. I think that was an open, clear, honest confrontation upon policy.

"I think he was angry at what I did, in my judgment, because I was not a McCarthy man. It involved his policy, and I had opposed it from 1963 on. I gave it some authenticity which upset the President."

O'Donnell said he agrees with Pierre Salinger who served as press secretary for both Kennedy and Johnson that the latter was making "another unfortunate attempt to re-write history" by accusing holdover Kennedy staff members of undermining the Johnson administration.

O'Donnell recalled that Johnson offered him chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee but:

"I turned it down because John Bailey was my pal. I accepted the position of executive director and worked with John Bailey in the campaign of 1964 and ran the campaign as anyone will admit."

"I had a very fine relationship with the President as long as I was there. I disagreed with the course they [the administration] were engaged in in Vietnam and I felt that I couldn't be happy with that course."

O'Donnell said he thinks former President Johnson is confused over the undermining accusation. He said:

"I think the President confused his concern from the 1965-67-68 period which involved none of the Kennedy staff because they had all left with his troubles with the Cabinet. Some Kennedy aides left almost immediately and those that remained on, other than myself, were all placed in important positions.

As for reported hard feelings over Johnson returning to Washington aboard Air Force One from Dallas after the assassination, O'Donnell declared:

"He [Johnson] said under oath before the Warren Commission that I ordered him to take Air Force One. That was true testimony under oath."

In his visit to the Quincy Sun, O'Donnell also touched on these points:

●–He will by-pass the Democratic convention in his quest for the governorship because "In 1954 when they started the conventions, it was over the opposition of the whole party–John Kennedy, Paul Dever, Maurice Donahue, minority leader."

●–Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, he is sure, will be re-elected Senator, and "I accept the statement he will not be a candidate for anything but the U. S. Senate."

●–He is convinced President Nixon is a one-term President.

●–The "Chicago Seven" he insisted, went to the 1968 Democratic convention to disrupt it. "That is how the young sincere, devoted students became their followers. The kids are being used as a weapon."

●–Maurice Donahue and Francis X. Bellotti he feels will be his chief opponents for the Governor's office.

●–He will attempt to keep Kevin White out of the race by publicly reminding him of his [White's] campaign promise to serve a full four years as mayor of Boston.

●–The Democratic candidate in the primary will win the election, he predicted.

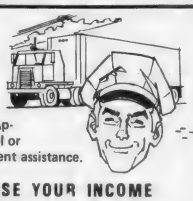
Rabies Clinic For Dogs, Cats May 16

Want to do your pet cat or dog a favor and obey the law, too?

May 16 from 2 to 4 p.m. a rabies immunization clinic for cats and dogs will be conducted at the Public Works Garage on Sea St. by Dr. Alan M. Morse, Health Department Veterinarian, announces Quincy Health Commissioner Dr. John T. Foley.

Under a 1969 law, all dogs six months of age or older must be vaccinated against rabies. In Quincy, this could mean 4,000 licensed dogs and roughly 4,000 unlicensed, City Clerk John Gillis estimates.

"I couldn't even guess the number of cats," he adds.



The Public Health Council has adopted rulings that:

–The owner of a dog six months of age or older must have him vaccinated against rabies by a licensed veterinarian using a vaccine approved by the department of public health.

–New dogs brought into the state must be vaccinated within 30 days or upon reaching the age of six months, whichever comes later.

In Quincy, all animals to be innoculated must be healthy and over three months old. A charge of $1.50 will be made for vaccine.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Q. I know I should have at least one usher for every 50 guests. This will mean I will have more ushers than bridesmaids. How will they walk in the recessional?

A. They may walk together in the recessional instead of escorting the bridesmaids. The extra ushers may remain at the back of the church during the ceremony. [Personally I don't like this but it is done according to etiquette] Probably the best solution is to pair off the bridesmaids and the remaining ushers bringing up the rear. If there is an even number they would walk in pairs. In the case of an uneven number then a single usher would be at the end. If you had fewer ushers then bridesmaids the ushers would walk alone and the bridesmaids unescorted.

Q. We do not have a single main aisle in our church. What do we do?

A. The wedding party would enter on the left side and leave on the right. This of course brings up the question of seating the guests. The center section of pews is divided in half by running a white satin ribbon from the front of the church pews to the back down the middle. The bride's family and friends sit on the left of the ribbon and the groom's on the right.

Q. Who gives the bachelor dinner?

A. Traditionally it is given by the groom for the men in the bridal party several nights before the wedding. Here again, I have found, in the South Shore area a deviation. Very often it is given by the best man and ushers for the groom. The bridegroom offers the first toast to his bride. Again, according to tradition, this is drunk in champagne. His gifts to his attendants are given at this time. These should be useful gifts in good taste. They should also be monogrammed with the wedding date if possible. The best man's gift is usually a little more elaborate.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

"Mommy, fix it, please." .. "Mother, help me, please." .. As children, we knew we could count on her, and we did. She understood us. She was our insulation against childish chills of fear and anxieties. As time goes on, many mothers hear different words; strange words of impatience, irritation, exasperation - yes, even rebellion. They hear, "Oh, mother, you just don't understand." In later years, if we will only admit it, we know many mothers did understand things that were beyond our understanding in former years. But, there are some things a mother should not be expected to understand at any time.

How can she understand why days and weeks go by with no word from those she likes to hear from? How can she understand why she is expected to be insensitive to indifference or neglect? How can she understand why expected phone calls don't come through? How can she understand why [unwritten] letters don't arrive? Incidentally, has anyone ever heard a mother tell a postman, "I don't want any mail today"...?

Yet, on Mother's Day, in spite of our thoughtlessness on other days, she understands. But, wouldn't it be more pleasant for her on other days, if demands for her understanding would be less on other days? ...

NATIONAL NURSING HOME WEEK

MAY 10TH THRU 17TH

Nursing Homes Join In Open House, May 10-17

Make Someone Happy

Mother's Day is May 10.

Would you like to do something of which you can be real proud?

Would you make a real lonely person happy? You can do it by visiting an aged person who has outlived all relatives and friends and has no one left to really care.

Visit someone in any one of the 620 Nursing Homes in the Bay State on May 10, or even on Sunday, May 17, during the state-wide Nursing Home Week observance, May 10-17.

Take a little gift with you. It doesn't have to be expensive. A small box of candy, a tiny bouquet, or a single flower. Or, maybe a little perfume.

Just say hello, smile your best, give a little handshake and a word of encouragement and you'd be amazed how much good it will do you as well as the elderly person in bed or chair.

You'll be honoring "Mom" on that day, of course, but unfortunately, there will be a lot of "Moms" who will be forgotten, unless you remember.

The Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Home has come up with an excellent idea. "Adopt" a nursing home patient for an hour, or less, on Mother's Day.

SPEAKERS--Edward Finn [left] and Lawrence Warner, both of Quincy, will be among the speakers at the 21st annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes May 13-14 at Sheraton Motor Inn, Hyannis. Warner is president of the South Shore-Cape Cod Chapter.

Quincy-South Shore nursing homes and extended care facilities will be among the more than 700 throughout the state holding Open House festivities during Nursing Home Week, May 10-17.

The public is invited to visit the facilities to help cheer lonely, aged patients.

The eight-day celebration is sponsored by the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, which represents a majority of the facilities, comprising more than 32,000 beds.

Morris Sibulkin, Jr., of Brookline, Federation President, said the theme for the fifth annual Nursing Home Week observance would be, "Working Together".

"We are joining with 7,400 member homes of the American Nursing Home Association in a gigantic nationwide effort to see that not a single patient is missed on Mother's Day and during the week," he said.

"Mother's Day is a significant day because two out of three nursing home patients are women. Thousands of these folks have outlived families and friends and feel that the community has passed them by and forgotten them. Let's change this by joining in a friendly visit to your local home," he added.

He said the theme, "Working Together" reflected the top priority of the Federation is seeking to work with local, state and federal agencies, and all community health groups to develop more effective health care systems.

"We are willing to work together with all others to achieve benefits for the ill and aged," Sibulkin said.

Some of the nursing homes participating in the Open House observance are listed below as sponsors of this public service page.

Proclamation

WHEREAS, Nursing homes in our community are dedicated to providing the finest possible care to many of our aged and ill, and

WHEREAS, These nursing homes have developed coordinated programs involving the services of physicians, nursing personnel, therapists and community volunteers, and

WHEREAS, Many nursing home patients need community understanding and concern as a vital part of long-term care, and

WHEREAS, Member homes of the American Nursing Home Association and the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, Inc. in this city are working together for the patients as exemplified by the theme, "Nursing Homes: Working Together for Today and Tomorrow," which has been chosen for the eight days of National Nursing Home Week, May 10-17, and

WHEREAS, Many of these homes are holding open house on Mother's Day, May 10

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JAMES R. MCINTYRE, as Mayor of this City of Quincy, urge all residents to work with nursing homes for the benefit of patients and to visit a nursing home on Mother's Day.

Read A Good Book Lately?

By MARGARET DeANGELO

"There simply isn't enough time to read." How many times have you heard that complaint?

I know I have heard it many, many times. But if you would like some assurance that you will never be bored, depressed, vacant minded or a conversational dropout, make the time.

Take some part of a few evenings a week to take that book from the shelf and for even a small part of an hour become a member of the richest club in the world, the clerisy.

The most wonderful thing about reading is that you are bound to acquire some knowledge of something you've never known before. An 80-year old woman once told me that she would like to live one more day to learn just one more thing. What better way to learn one more thing than to read it? You can store up many treasures in your mind.

Young mothers are among the majority who "simply haven't time to read." These young mothers are really missing the boat - the boat to undeveloped areas tucked in far corners of their minds, and the minds of non-readers go dry.

In the days before television a young mother was almost obliged to read to her children, mostly to preserve peace and quiet. Now she can set them in front of a television set and get peace and quiet she needs from time to time.

Today's television programs for children are mostly very good and when mother chooses the programs to be watched children should be given their time for television viewing. If one really misses reading, now is the time for a young mother to sit back and read a few chapters in a book or maybe a short story in a magazine.

Then there are nights when the day has been a little off its axle and a need to unwind is at hand. That's the night to bring a book to bed, one to suit your mood. Why, even bringing the evening paper to read at bedtime will not only relax you but also keep you informed of current affairs.

In families where literature is a part of common talk and ideas and books are discussed along with every day goings on, you may be sure that the children do better in school.

No time to read? Bring a book with you when you go to the hairdressers, the dentist or just anywhere when you have to spend some time waiting. People who love to read discover early in life that time that could be spent in reading is never wasted time.

It is never too late to start to enjoy all the fruits you can gather from the tree of words. Parents who encourage their children to read are repaid many times over by the joy and experience gained from within the pages of a book.

Poet's Corner

'Unanswered'

By
Ida F. Kelley

Would you say that life's just a dream
And we're all make believe?
Would you say that we're still searching
For things we've never seen?

Do you kind of sit and wonder
How and when and why?
Then find yourself just staring
Up at that big blue sky?

Try to sit and visualize
What's up there in that sky
Your thoughts can almost run away
And almost pass you by

It's quite allright to sit and say
What is life all about
The sun, the moon, the clouds, the sky
But still you're quite in doubt

God made this earth for all of us
His plans he drew out well
And one thing we are certain of
There is a heaven and hell

I'd say we're not supposed to find
The answers, pro and con
God hadn't planned it quite that way
Since the day that we were born

Let the unknown remain untouched
It's not for us to see
Let's leave things as they are
How much happier we will be.

On The Screen
By
Vincent Puleo

For some time television talk shows have been instrumental in showcasing new and different talent. The exposure the home screen gives an individual is too enormously influential to break down into dollars and cents. Needless to say the publicity value is overwhelming. And as such the media has more recently given that "big break" to the exhibitionist-prone duo labeled ABBIE HOFFMAN and JERRY RUBIN.

I am not taking sides as to the validity of their combined political [?] philosophy. What I am questioning is their lack of propriety in presenting their ideas, or should I say product.

The Tonight, Merv Griffin, Dick Cavett and David Frosts talk shows, have each been all too influential in spoon feeding to a rather fed up viewing audience the obnoxious, third rate exhibitions of the Hoffman-Rubin duo. The two aforementioned leaders of "the bright New World" have continually defied simple logic, good taste and common sense by lashing out with verbal and visual excesses... And as such the talk shows are failing the public by allowing the home screen in becoming a sewerage dispenser for crackpots and outrageously erratic fools who are not the least bit qualified to express their beliefs in rational conversation.

The ratings hungry talk shows are serving no socially constructive purpose in allowing the likes of Hoffman and Rubin airing time to strew their own personal venom and emotional frustrations on the home viewer. No constructive purpose that is except to boost their own ratings and personal stock in show business.

Granted, television can not ignore the injustices and turbulent conditions in our present society. However, by catering to a select few individuals, who in the long run speak only for themselves, the media, and talk shows in particular, are doing themselves and the home audience a grave disservice.

What these late evening show cases need is balance in the form of another voice. How pleasant it would be to hear someone talk about the good in AMERICA; of how his nation still has the intellectual resources at its' command to alleviate and remedy the prevailing ills which are so many. But no, Carson, Griffin, Cavett, Frost, and all the rest are content to exhibit what they surely must consider "discoveries", rather than add a semblance of rational balance to their programs by allowing a more evenly tempered voice to be heard.

Freedom of speech is not the point in question here Rather it revolves precariously around Hoffman's and Rubin's illicit perpetration of this freedom. And it also revolves around the media's lack of intent in allowing this freedom to be over abused and flaunted.

Television owes it to the home audience, to be aired, an element of feasible credibility and dignity on talk shows by having on them those individuals with opposing points of view. Like, there must be somebody out there in this land of over 200 million who do not agree with the philosophy of the Abbie Hoffman's and Jerry Rubin's. Why not let them be heard? Not only would it prove enlightening, but at the same time, add as it were, a refreshing whiff of intellectual atomizers to the air of stodginess that so clouds the home screen...

MIKIS THEODORAKIS, Greece's most famous modern composer, was recently freed from a three year "detention" in a Greek prison. If MIKIS THODORAKIS isn't as yet a household word, the fame of his musical scores definitely are. He is the writer for the scores of the film successes, "Never On Sunday," "Zorba the Greek," and last years Best Foreign Film of the Year "Z."... Actress Melina Mercouri, of "Never On Sunday" fame, was influential in helping obtain his release from the dictatorial, military junta... At this writing she is considered persona non grata in her homeland. Her setting foot in the well-spring of democracy would result in her being jailed. The present administration feels she is too outspoken against their policies... Woody Allen is peeling away some of his "Take the Money and Run" film money for the start of his new motion picture "Bananas." Like his previous success, he will star in and direct his newest film project. Mickey Rose will co-script the screenplay with him. Production is slated for this summer, to be shot on locale in picturesque Puerto Rico...

CAPE COD has been the spawning ground for many a great thespian. Away back in the twenties two young actors by the name of JAMES STEWART and HENRY FONDA were appearing on stage in Falmouth while working with the University Players. Directing them was a gentleman by the name of Joshua Logan.. Yale University recently held a two-day RUSS MEYER Film Festival under the auspices of the University's Law School film society. The occasion was to raise much needed capital for the film society's program of grants to new filmmakers at Yale...who's RUSS MEYER you ask? None other than the now-legendary "King of Nude Films." Since 1959 he has directed 16 successful, low budgeted, independent pornographic movies. More recently Meyer has been in complete charge of production of the Twentieth Century-Fox film. "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls." Times definitely do change... Ten years ago it was considered bad for Hollywood's corporative image to give MEYER quasi-legitimacy by having him handle a production the size and expense of "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls." However, with the change in filmdom's moral code, RICHARD ZANUCK, the production head at Fox, decided to take a chance on Meyer. Probably more importantly, Zanuck needed someone with Meyer's "know-how" to pull the film together. The script was badly in need of an overhauling; the cast were at each other's throat; and the entire production, which is costing Zanuck millions, was in complete chaos...

A Society Of Sick Cats

[Today's guest column is written by Dr. Robert Mann, an associate of Dr. Charles Djerf]

"Pussy-Cat, Pussy-Cat, Where Have You Been?"
"I've Been To London To Visit The Queen."
"Pussy-Cat, Pussy-Cat, What Did You There?"
"I Frightened A Little Mouse Under The Chair."

A delightful little ditty that I sing along with my kids. But, have you ever stopped to think what benefit there was, either to the cat, or the Queen? Was there anything socially redeeming, in the act of pursuing a rodent around the furniture?

This is, apparently, the guideline we have to use to judge an act in our society, not the rightness or wrongness of the act itself. Who cares if it is considered improper to chase mice, [or take off ones clothes, for that matter] in the presence of the Queen, as long as there is something socially redeeming in the act.

Sorry, my simple mind just can't compete with the intellectual "wonders" who make such decisions. Truly we are a society of "sick cats." And then, some feline-type cats are also "sick". One never really knows just what disease is being carried by our domesticated animals. And we all assume that because our own pet is "clean" and "wormed", that all other pets running around our neighborhood, frolicking with our children, are just as clean. 'Tain't necessarily so.

A recent article in the Journal of The American Medical Association states that the common house cat has been implicated as a reservoir for human toxoplasmosis. "So what?", someone says. We don't hear much about toxoplasmosis but it is caused by a protozoan that can be transmitted to humans, and, if a pregnant woman gets the disease, she can pass it on to the fetus. It can cause convulsions, mental retardation, speech difficulties, hydrocephalus, and defective vision in the newborn infant. This is similar to some of the complications of German Measles in the fetus and newborn [Rubella].

Until recently, the animal host for toxoplasmosis has not been known. The JAMA article points out that studies by three separate groups, in the United States and Europe, have discovered that the cat, after eating infected mice and birds, can transmit the egg of this protozoan in its fecal material.

Now this would be the end of the story, if all of the cat feces went into that neat little hole in the ground. However, some stay on the cats fur, and can then be transmitted to a persons hands. Thus, the spread of disease. And since some people insist on the nauseating practice of storing cat excrement in sand boxes in kitchens and back halls, one can see how a diseased cat could spread a disorder around.

But cat lovers, rejoice, for the dog can also carry disease, also in the fur. I once saw a group of dogs, picked at random from the Montreal Pound. Half of them were excreting living dog tape worms in their stools. All the others had microscopic evidence of worms/parasites in their feces. These were just strays, and Montreal dogs are no better or worse than Quincy dogs [maybe smarter, though, because they understand French].

I'll never understand why some store owners allow dogs to run, willy-nilly, up and down the aisles, some rubbing their fur or tails against the produce. And then little Jimmy eats an apple from that store, without washing it. I will not buy produce at a grocery store that allows dogs, even "clean pets", inside. [You wouldn't allow a dog in your refrigerator, or on the table, would you, even Aunt Zelda's pet Pekenese?]

I plan to show this article to the storekeeper in my neighborhood. Why don't you?

Actually, the pets couldn't pass these diseases to humans, even good old itchy, scratchy pinworms, if every person would wash their hands before they eat, and wash produce when he returns from the store. This is also true for such fecal passes diseases as hepatitis, typhoid, and dysentery.

Yes, boys and girls, wash your hands, wash your hands! If one catches one of the above diseases, I can only offer my congratulations. One knows what one had to eat to get it.

Also, don't rush to get rid of your cat. I don't know why I say this, except that I don't want every cat lover on the East Coast after my hide. Cat lovers have better public relations than the Germans. We make such a to-do about German Measles, but don't hear a thing about cat-caused diseases [remember how the report about cats carrying leukemia was hushed up?]

Maybe when we have fought two World Wars against cat lovers, things will change.

Dieting

I suppose you have all been told that the first three letters in the words Diet are DIE. This is not true. I mean no one ever died from dieting. They may have felt like they were dying, they may have wished they were dead, they may have looked like they were dead; but they never do. No one ever dies from dieting.

I am an authority on dieting. I may not look it, [that's for sure] but I can tell you to the decimal point how many calories are in a kumquat. A small Kum has 11 calories, a large quat has 16 calories. Did you ever go on a kumquat diet? Did anyone ever go on a kumquat diet? I'm thinking of trying it. Anything that contains 11 calories a piece is for me.

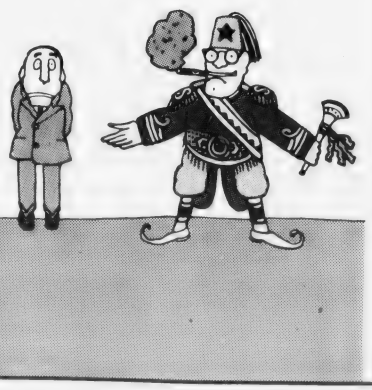
I wonder who decided centuries ago, that the delicious, lip smacking, mouthwatering food would contain one million calories, and the icky,eek, crummy food would contain 25 calories.

It isn't fair. I think someone should get up a petition, have it made into a law, and make it a federal offense to disobey it. All foods that taste delicious must contain no more than 33 calories. All the rotten, lousy food could contain as many calories as it wanted.

During the past 15 years, I have gone on about 57 diets, and over 15 years, I have probably lost 300 pounds. Of course, I must hasten to add, I have gained 322 pounds over the past 15 years. I'm really not sure if I've lost or gained 22 pounds. Mathematicians can figure it out. I'm too busy counting calories.

I must admit I cheat just a little. When the calorie book says an average serving of potatoe is 145 calories, I remember a book I once read that told of some place in Afghanistan, the people consume an average of four pounds of potatoes a meal. Well, I know I am certainly not going to eat four pounds of potatoes. Maybe a pound. So I divide 145 calories by four and get....uh, four into 14 is, uh three, carry the, uh, two, four into 25 doesn't come out even so I forget about it and just use the three.

My average serving of potatoes is now three calories. Usually by the end of the day I have eaten about 67 calories, [by my figuring] and by the end of the week I have eaten about 389 calories.



And I've gained a pound! I can't understand it. But I know what makes me feel better, a hot fudge sundae with whipped cream and nuts. That's 13½ Calories by my figuring.

Recreation Roundup

The girls of the Snug Harbor Program, under the direction of Patricia Foye and Mary Faherty of the Pilot Project staff, are now in the process of cleaning and ironing over 200 pounds of clothing.

The clothing was collected by participants in the girls recreation program, who plan to see that it is distributed to needy families in their own area. The girls have been working on this project for four weeks and are doing a fine job.

Barry Welch, director of the Pilot Project sends this news from the four project areas:

Germantown

SNUG HARBOR GIRLS:

Sincerest thanks are extended to all who contributed to the clothing drive. Much more was collected than expected. We are in the process now of cleaning and ironing these clothes. The success of the collection is due to the generosity of the people in our neighborhood. Cheryl McHellie, Cheryl Mathews, Nancy Robertson, and Rosemarie Maloney were the first to bring their contributions. All of the girls did a wonderful job.

Final score of the hockey game was 10-2. Both teams played spirited games: Janet Campbell, Joyce Galinaro, Carol, Darlene Bouchard, and Mary Clair King were among the outstanding players for the evenings game.

Thanks to Sharon McLean for helping us Tuesday night. We enjoyed having her and hope she enjoyed herself.

SNUG HARBOR BOYS:

Both elementary and junior levels eagerly participated in hockey games. Three games were played and the winner in each was decided by a single goal.

Elementary standout was John Durosia, winning goal tender, who made a great many saves. On the junior high level Rockey Connelly, and Bill Dacy were standouts scoring a goal each. Bob Lineau, however, scored the winning goal in the final game.

Houghs Neck

ATHERTON HOUGH GIRLS:

The girls once again enjoyed practicing hockey. Girls who worked at increasing their hockey skills are: Janine Flynn, Stacey Doyle, Madeline Flynn, Julie Forrester, Patty Luggelle, Judy McQuinn, Jannette Robichaud, Gail Forrester and Barbara Sullivan.

Stacey Doyle was the winner in a badminton match with Gail Forrester, 20-17. Patty Luggelle defeated Stacey Doyle 25-24.

In a somewhat "Adapted" game of basketball, Jannette Robichaud won with a score of 29. Her competitors were: Yvette Harthorn, 15 points; Madeline Flynn, 10; and Kim Hartshorn, 4.

ATHERTON HOUGH BOYS:

This week's hockey game was marked by brilliant goal keeping by Zero Vecchione. The hot trick was scored by Dereck McNally, assisted by his brother Rocket. The senior high basketball game saw outstanding plays by Monk Ryan, Russ Hodges and Joe MacGinness.

GERMANTOWN YOUTH CENTER:

The Germantown Youth Council has voted to donate $25. to the community action program's summer campership. This money will send one Germantown youth to a selected summer camp for one week.

The council has also decided to sponsor five walkers in the Walk For Development May 24. A slide-tape show will outline the walk May 7, at the Community Service Center, 9 Bicknell St., at 7 p.m.

John [Lefty] Walsh, has regained his shuffleboard championship. He is also the youth council's first prospect for a walker in the Walk For Development. The youth council has 8 to 1 odds that he won't finish!!!

South West Quincy

STERLING GIRLS:

The girls are rolling along with their hockey sticks into the cup finals with the Bruins. Recent goalies were Susan Ruta and Maura Carroll. Players included: Eileen DiBona, Donna Reed and Linda Cirillo. Relay races and the gym session with the junior high girls will be held later.

STERLING BOYS:

Climaxing six weeks of events at Sterling Junior High School, Chris Fanara and Brian Boidi were crowned winners of a modified fitness program. This event was held under the direction of Robert Johnson and Vincent Picardi of the Quincy Recreation Pilot Project staff. The testing included softball throws, shuttle runs, basketball shooting, 100 yard dash, and concluded with an obstacle course.

Award winners in the sixth grade were: Peter Bassett, 10 points; Bruce Aristide, 8 points and Alan Boidi, 7 points. Fifth grade winners were: Peter Pagnano and Jim Vallantini, 14 points each. Jim Maze totaled 13 points for second place. Grade four winners were Robert Marshall, 13 points and Fred Sheppard, 10 points. For grade three, Chris Fanara scored 19 points; Louie Avitable, 13 and Tom McKay, 12. In grade two Brian Boidi scored 19 points, Matthew Fanara, 14 and Joe Bassett 9.

Quincy Point

POINT BOYS:

The junior high school boys have their first round in the floor hockey tourney. The Bruins defeated the Red Wings 9-8 in overtime, Michael Cullen scored the winning goal. Also playing for the winning team were: Robert Petzolot, John Rand, Jackie Daley, Ricky Palumbo, Ronnie Butt. Johnny Rand had 5 goals and 3 assists for the Red Wings.

In the senior floor hockey tourney four games were played with the Rockets dividing stars. Starting for the Rockets were: James Prowley, Doug Rand, Michael Crosson, Anthony Trubiano, Dave Coletti and Paul Hanratty. Playing just as well for the Stars were: Jacky Marini, Jack Coletti, Ken Silva, Billy Breen, Joe Calarusso, Jim Walker, Joe Marini and Mark Walker.

Quincy Trackmen Breeze Along, 95-27

Quincy's winter track team failed to win a meet but Tom Hall's spring team is rolling along unbeaten with a 4-0 record and is pointing for the big one with rival North Quincy, also unbeaten, in the meet which could decide the Greater Boston League title.

The Presidents won every event but the javelin Tuesday to trample Chelsea, 95-27, at Chelsea.

Quincy will run in the Boston relays Saturday at White Stadium, will meet Medford at Medford Tuesday and will run at Milton Academy next Thursday.

Joe Goguen was the only double winner Tuesday, taking the long jump and 440. Sophomore Bobby Ciano continued unbeaten with a win in the two-mile. Pete Laing stayed unbeaten, winning the mile. John Dempsey won the high hurdles, Larry Finneran the 100, unbeaten Steve Shapiro the shot put, Frank Aldoupolis the discus, undefeated Roy Smith the 220, Steve Pasquale the high jump, Tom Plante the 880. The relay team of Smith, Goguen, Fred Antoon and Finneran also won.

Quincy swept the high jump and shot put.

Last week the Presidents rolled over Everett, 85-37, winning every running event except the low hurdles, although Everett picked up three wins in the field events.

Quincy's only double winner was Finneran, who took the 220 and long jump.

The outstanding performance was turned in by Ciano, who won the two-mile in 10:02, only seven seconds off the league record. Earlier this year the classy sophomore had turned in a 4:30 mile.

Other winning Presidents were Roy Smith, 100; Joe Goguen, 440; Jim Dubois, 880; Peter Laing, mile; Steve Shapiro, shot put; John Dempsey, high hurdles and the relay team of Smith, Jim Malvesti, Antoon and Finneran also won.

Raiders Keep Pace

It appears the Greater Boston League track championship will be decided on the final day May 21 when North Quincy meets Quincy.

Bob Gentry's North team kept pace with the Presidents Tuesday with its fourth win in a row, 70-52, over Medford which was bolstered by several baseball players. Medford and Somerville allow boys to compete in both track and baseball.

Tuesday the Raiders meet Malden at Medford.

Going into the 880, the final running event, North had 57 points and needed 62 for the win. Paul Affsa, unbeaten just as he was in winter track, won the event to clinch the win.

Dave Mahoney and Don Gilliland placed 2-3 in the high jump.

Little Kevin Henry broke the school and league two-mile record with a great 9:45.7. The old North mark was 9:56.

Lee Davis won the low hurdles again, Ken Baker won the 220 in his best time, 23.1., Bob Hale won the 440 in his best time, 54.6, Jim DeVarennes took the javelin, John Panarelli again won the shot put with sophomore Steve Leet second and the relay team of Dick Sanderson, Davis, Dan Coughlin and Affsa also won.

"For several of our boys, led by Affsa, one of the outstanding track-men in North history, this is their third successive winning season," Gentry said. "They were on the winning cross country and winter track teams."

Last week the Raiders breezed over Chelsea, 83-39, as they won every event but the javelin, discus and 880.

Affsa was the only double winner, copping the 100 and long jump while running anchor for the winning relay team.

Baker won the 220, Hale the 440, McCormack the mile, Davis the low hurdles in 21.9, just nine seconds off the league record, Henry the two-mile, Panarelli the shot put, Dave Mahoney the high jump and Bill McCall the high hurdles. The relay team of Davis, Rick Sanderson, Bill McCall and Affsa won. Jeff Strungis was second by inches in the 880, John Hemphill second in the javelin and John Graceffa third in the discus.

Netmen's Win Streak Snapped

Bill Willoughby's North Quincy tennis team had its win streak snapped at seven in a row Monday when it was edged by Boston College High, 3-2.

The Raiders will try to return to the win path Monday at Norwell and next Wednesday will again host B. C. High.

B. C. High swept the three singles matches to end the Raider streak as North took both doubles matches. The match was decided in the third singles when North's Tom BeHenna lost to John Pucci, 8-6, 4-6, 8-6, in the day's most exciting match. North's Steve Starsiak and Jim Machado also lost in singles while the doubles teams of Kevin McGinley and Tom O'Malley, Pete Davis and Tom Quinn both won.

Earlier North had defeated Quincy, 5-0, and also blanked Abp. Williams, 5-0.

Meanwhile Bill Mitchell's Quincy netmen continue to find the going rough and in addition to the 5-0 loss to North, the Presidents bowed to B. C. High, 5-0.

The Presidents will play at Weymouth Friday, at Hanover Monday and host Abp. Williams next Wednesday.

Quincy's baseball team, off to one of its finest starts in years, remained on top of the Greater Boston League Monday with its second win over North Quincy, 4-2, as the second half of the league schedule got underway.

The win gave Bob Basiliere's club a 6-1 league record [a tie with Somerville has yet to be replayed and a 7-1 overall. Yesterday the Presidents played at Somerville, the team which held Quincy to a 14-inning 1-1 tie. Friday Quincy is home to Revere. Monday plays at Medford and next Wednesday hosts Malden.

Meanwhile, Charlie Bunker's North nine, which dropped to a 3-5 league mark [6-6 overall], plays at Malden Friday and is host to Chelsea Monday.

Rich Brown, with help again from sophomore lefty Jimmy Walker, held North to two hits while the Presidents collected only five off Scott Manson.

Brown had everything under control until he faltered in the ninth and Basiliere called on his ace reliever, Walker.

"Brown pitched a great game and looked very sharp but all of a sudden he lost it in the ninth," Basiliere said. "But Walker came in and ended it again."

Manson, junior rightie, also pitched well for North, striking out nine and not giving up a walk. "He has so much confidence in his breaking stuff that four or five times he came in with a curve on a three-and-one pitch and did real well," Bunker said. "But Quincy made the plays and we didn't."

North scored in the first inning when Jack Flaherty's fly to right was misjudged, Flaherty landing on second and scoring on Dan Zink's double.

Quincy salted it away with three in the fourth. John Stevens reached on an error and went to third on Paul Hand's single. Hand taking second on the throw to third. After Pete Lucier grounded out, Bruce Carlson bunted between the mound and first. The throw to the plate was low and both runners scored and Carlson moved to second. Cliff Mattson reached on another error and Bill Maver's sacrifice fly brought in Carlson.

The Presidents added one in the seventh when Mattson singled, went to second on a wild pitch, to third on an infield out and scored on Kevin Ryan's single.

North added a run in the ninth when Bob Graham was hit by a pitch, pinchhitter Bobby Bell walked, Flaherty walked to fill the bases and Tomasetti also walked to force in a run. Walker came on and threw out Bob Langley to end the game.

QJC Nine Over .500 Mark

Quincy Junior College's baseball team, after losing three in a row, won its last two to go back over .500 with a 5-3 mark.

QJC will host Bryant and Stratton today at Fore River Field and will end the regular season Monday at Fore River against Burdett. Games times are 3:30.

Dave Burke's club has hopes of qualifying for the Mass. Junior College League playoffs which get underway on May 16.

Monday QJC blanked Wentworth, 6-0, with a five-run surge in the sixth inning while Carl Lindren pitched all the way and helped his own cause with three runs batted in.

Also outstanding was Jim Broderick, who had a double and single and had six assists at shortstop.

In its previous game QJC had romped over Newton Jr. College, 11-1, to avenge one of its losses. Lindgren, former Quincy High star, again went the distance and again helped his own cause with a double which started the Collejuns on their way.

Dick Volpe and Bill Osborne also drove in runs as Volpe stretched his hitting streak to five games.

Raiderette's In Debut Tennis Win Over Quincy

The Quincy and North Quincy girls have started their first varsity tennis schedules and North got the jump on its cross-town rivals with a 5-0 win over Quincy in the Raiderettes' debut.

Previously the Quincy lassies, coached by Bob Sylvia, had dropped a 5-0 decision to Abp. Williams.

"I was very pleased with our girls' showing," said Mrs. Eileen Rowbotham, the North coach. "Our number one and two singles players, Kristine Eramo and Priscilla Manning, our outstanding players and the other girls show great promise. There is considerable interest with 22 girls turning out, and I think we will do well."

The number three singles player is Sue Regele. The number one doubles team comprises Rita Histen and Sue Cramer and the second team has Debbie Cobb and Paula Chiminiello.

Most of these players are seniors but the North coach has many fine looking underclassmen. They include Fran Strazzuli, Terry Giordano, Pauline Antonatis, Debbie Thornley, Nancy Cohen, Marie Leonard, Margaret O'Donnell and Lorraine Burns.

"We have seven ninth graders on the squad but I don't intend to use them in regular matches," Mrs. Rowbotham said. "But they are practicing all the time and they should help us in the future. We must keep interest up among the younger players now that we have a program started."

The ninth graders are Chris Madden, Judy McCormack, Patty Penzo, Marilyn Bione, Jackie Bangs, Annette Lawlor and Pat Koelesh.

Despite the Quincy girls' two straight losses, Sylvia is enthused by the spirit and desire and sees better things ahead.

"We'll get better as the season wears on as these girls really want to play and their enthusiasm is tremendous," he said.

His number one singles player is Jane LaFavre, June Rickson, daughter of Ken Rickson, Quincy's Coordinator of Physical Education, is number two and Janine Corwin number three.

Two sophomores, Kathy Keany and Sheree Tripp, make up the first doubles team and Priscilla Lee and Debbie Mattar the number two doubles.

Other players include Maureen Larson, Caryn Silva and Kerry Dacey.

Today the North girls play at Weymouth and Monday play at Thayer Academy.

The Quincy girls will be home to Hanover Monday and will host Abp. Williams next Thursday.

North plays six games, home and home with Quincy and single matches with Malden, Weymouth, Thayer and Braintree.

Quincy has a seven-match schedule, home and home with North, Williams and Hanover and one match with Malden.

Mrs. Rowbotham has one lament, the lack of courts in North Quincy. "We have to use courts at Atlantic Junior High and Welcome Young Field and not only have to share them with the boys but adults also use them," she said. "We really do need courts in this part of the city."

Synchronized Swimming Club To Present Show May 12-13

"Something Old, Something New" is this year's presentation by the Synchronized Swimming Club of the Quincy YMCA scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. at the "Y" pool.

Women from teenagers through the 50's are bridging the generation gap for the 14th annual show, with the theme "Love and Brotherhood." Mrs. Martin Finnegan is director.

Part of the proceeds will be used for scholarships to send members of the Junior Leaders Club to Springfield College for leadership training.

North Golfers Win Third; Quincy Notches Second

Jack Donahue's North Quincy golf team ran its Mass. Coast League record to 3-1 Monday with a 9-0 romp over Boston Tech.

The Raiders will be home to Hyde Park Monday at Wollaston, will play at Braintree Wednesday and at Boston English next Thursday.

In the win over Tech, the number one pair of Jack Meehan and Mike Zakrweski started with a three-point sweep, Wayne Fick and Brian Killeen followed suit and Mike Tracey and Dave Quinn completed the sweep.

Bob Breagy's Quincy golfers won their second in a row, 9-0, over Boston English in a league match.

Tim Thorne and Brad Buckley took the first shutout, Ron Cardarelli and Carl Green swept the second match and Don Connolly and Mike McEvoy won the third.

The Presidents will be home to Tech Friday and will play at Boston English Tuesday.

Quincy Girls First Softball Team Off To Romping Start

The Quincy High School girls have their first varsity softball team coached by Mary Pratt, who has played for many outstanding teams and formerly starred in the All-American Girls' League in the midwest.

Mary's team is off to a fast start with a 15-8 win over Braintree and a 20-4 romp over North Quincy, also with its first varsity team this spring.

"Most of the girls are strangers to me and never played any organized softball before," Mary said. "Since returning from Salem State I have gone on the elementary school level here in Quincy and am just coaching on the high school level.

"However, these girls are eager and have a lot of spirit. Softball on the high school level can be very sloppy at times, expecially when girls are just getting started in the sport but I think things will improve and we will have some interesting games."

Mary is expecially high on her number one battery, pitcher Regina Pestilli and catcher Patricia Thomas.

Regina pitched both wins, holding Braintree to eight hits while her mates pounded out 20, and holding rival North to four.

"Regina will handle our pitching," Mary said. "She is a senior and a southpaw who has better than an average fast ball. If she comes along with her control, she should do very well. She is a better than average fielder and hits a long ball. She is our only pitching candidate so will have to carry the burden.

"Her batterymate, Patricia Thomas, is also a senior, and, although she never caught before last year, she shows great potential. In fact if it were not an absolute must to use her catching, she could play just about anywhere and do a good job. She has a very strong throwing arm and bats cleanup."

Quincy has Sandra Sachetti, a senior, at first base; Karen Fruzzetti, a junior, at second; senior Jan LaFavre at shortstop andjunior Lois MacLean at third. Karen, Jane and Lois all have good arms and give the team the potential for a strong infield. Sandra, who throws lefty, usually plays outfield but is doing a fine job at first.

Rounding out the squad are utility infielders Marsha Ingegneri, Nancy Cappadona and outfielders Sheena Giggey, Debbie Hobson, Debbie Hensley, Hedy Sheehman and Dorothy Simmons.

In the opener against Braintree Pat Thomas and Miss Fruzzetti hit long home runs over the fence at Faxon Field and Patricia also starred on defense. Miss Pestilli struck out eight.

"It wasn't much of a game against North Quincy," Miss Pratt said. "At least we had the benefit of one previous game and this was their first game ever."

Misses Carella and Lydia Thomas led the powerful Quincy offensive against their cross-town rivals. Miss Pestilli gave up only four hits and fanned 16.

Quincy plays an eight-game schedule with home and home North Quincy and Weymouth games and single contests against Braintree, Milton Academy, Wakefield and Malden. Its next game is Monday at home against Weymouth.

The No[illegible] girls, coached by Gail Pal[illegible] play six games, home and [illegible]me against Quincy and Weymouth and single games with Braintree and Malden. They play at Weymouth today and entertain Weymouth next Thursday.

GD Strong For Soccer League Title

The General Dynamics soccer team won the first game of the "City Championship" in no uncertain terms and now is a strong favorite to win the first championship of the new Commonwealth Soccer League.

The GD team, with probably the most experienced lineup in the league, ran over the young Quincy Rangers, 11-0, lst Sunday and Peter Gallagher, Rangers' manager, is convinced no one will touch the shipyard team the rest of the way.

Next Sunday General Dynamics will be home to the strong Weymouth Warriors in a 2:30 game at Quincy High field while the Rangers play at Peabody.

"They were just too much for us and I've seldom seen such terrifice passing," Gallagher said. "We have one of the youngest teams in the league but held them for 15 minutes. After that they had everything their own way and their flawless passing was too much for us. They were always in the right spot at the right time.

"However, despite the score, our goalie, Dave D'Olympio, one of the several former Quincy High stars in our lineup, was really outstanding and if it wasn't for his many fantastic stops, they would have had 25 goals."

Gallagher also had words of praise for Al Lavoie, another ex-President, and Nick Condorlos, for their efforts.

GD Coach Fred Bridge agreed that D'Olympio was brilliant in the Rangers' goal.

"He made a lot of amazing saves," he said. "It was just a case of too much experience on our part. Whereas, most of our players have had years of experience in Britain, Scotland and Ireland, the Rangers are a young group with only high school experience for the most part. They will come along and give most teams a lot of trouble."

Since being blanked in its opening game when, according to Bridge, "the boys were just out of shape," GD has rolled to four straight wins and scored 34 goals in the last three games.

Sunday Lucas had five goals, Haslam three, Olithant two and Rhodie one.

"I don't think anyone in our League will touch them the rest of the way," Gallagher said. "In a few months they are playing the Norwood Kickers, one of the top clubs in New England, at the Scottish Games at the Stadium and I think Norwood is one of the very few teams who might beat them."

Come Let Us Reason Together

'The Risk Of Breakthrough'

I appreciate all the letters I receive from readers...I try to answer every one...I do get behind. One reader wrote recently..."I'll have to stick it out...but I'm glad to have more light on what I have to face." Another wrote of her situation now after divorce..."my whole being screams out 'No more'...the last dregs of my will power are being drained out of me." What these people are saying is..."I'm in a situation which is most difficult...I'm not satisfied to go along indefinitely this way...I must do something."

Everyone has three alternatives to a dull or difficult situation: 1. Remain in the present situation and do nothing. 2. Find compensations and little adjustments to make it tolerable. 3. Break through...or break out...into a fuller life. You can apply those three choices to most situations...your marriage...your job...your school program...your troublesome car...your financial situation... your smoking...your drinking...your temper problem...your immaturity...every one has these three choices in each of our problems.

You may ask..."How did I ever get into this situation?" Probably some previous decisions led to the present situation...the job you chose...the man/woman you married...or your decision to remain single...your own inability to break from your mother...your own decision not to go to school. Each decision calls for other decisions ...and we cannot know in advance how each will come out. There are no once-and-for-all decisions. So now you are at another decision point...in fact, great pressure may be building for a decision.

Your immediate reaction is somehow to AVOID having to make a decision. You would like to back off...you look for an easy way to make an adjustment. Don't feel abnormal if you feel like avoiding...Jesus did the night before his crucifixion...remember his prayer..."If it be possible let this cup pass from me." Fear grips you...you feel confused...perhaps you feel resentment at the one pressuring you...you want to AVOID the suffering ahead if you can. If this is you...you are acting very normally. Many feel this way about impending change. Nevertheless...you still must decide...regardless of all these negative feelings.

Some people go so far as to try to manipulate other people to make the situation more palatable and thus avoid a decision. Some people whine...thus they get sympathy. Some people by being nice control others to do for them what they want. Some people project blame to others rather than accepting the responsibility for their own actions...another delaying tactic to a decision. One woman expressed the feeling that her mother had dominated her all her life..."When my mother dies" she assures me..."then I'll get going on my own." My feeling is that she'll find another delaying tactic when her mother dies...she doesn't want the risk of BREAKTHROUGH.

With all the AVOIDANCE techniques tried...you still have to decide. How do you do it? First, accept the problem ..it's part of you...your temper...your anger...your habit...even your dream...this is YOU...accept yourself.

Second...recognize that whatever decision you make there's risk...every BREAKTHROUGH demands the release of inward powers and feelings which you have been thwarting. This is not easy to let go of the old habits...old patterns...safe ways of the past. But once you have tasted new freedom to be a full man...a real woman...you can never fall back into the "safe" shell of the past.

Finally...you must see that you must do it yourself. Your therapist can support you...your friend or relative can stand by your side...but YOU must make your own BREAKTHROUGH.

Which will it be...stay as you are...adjust to your "sick situation"...or BREAKTHROUGH to new life? The choice is yours.

Champagne-Egg Christening

USS Pensacola To Hit Water With 1 1/2 Pound Splash

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

The USS Pensacola [LSD 28] will slide down the ways Sunday-hitting the water with a one and a half-pound splash.

The vessel will be christened with traditional champagne. Not in a bottle though. But in an egg which will be broken tenderly on its bow.

Ceremonies are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. at the LeClair Model Shipbuilding Company, 264 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Charles F. LeClair, Jr., president of the model shipbuilding firm, and a working crew of five fellow students, completed in a little more than two months the small-scale namesake of the USS Pensacola [LSD-38] scheduled for June 13 christening by General Dynamics, Quincy Division.

New 'Survival ' Center

Drugs 'Hot Line' For Youth

"Survival, Inc.", a unique professional program to help Quincy's young people with drug problems, is expected to be underway within a month.

The three-prong program planned and to be carried out by doctors, police, school and mental health officials concerned with the drugs situation in the city will include:

●–A walk-in center where young people may receive professional help.

●–A telephone "hot line" to provide information to those with drug problems.

●–A residential home where addicts can live while receiving treatment.

Plans for the program will be put in motion Friday night at a meeting of those voluntarily working together to establish the program.

Dr. Charles Djerf, Quincy pediatrician and former member of the Quincy school committee, has donated the use of his old office at 44 Faxon Ave., Quincy Center, as the "Survival, Inc." center.

Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, director of pupil personnel services for the Quincy Public Schools, credits Dr. Djerf as being "the motivating force behind the whole thing."

First phase in the three-step program, she said, will be establishment of the "hot line".

"Then, there will be the center with a 'counter' corps for a group therapy type of treatment", she said.

Sponsors of the curative program hope to be able to announce opening of the Center within the next month, she said.

Third step, she said, will be a residential home where addicts can live while undergoing treatment.

"That will be a long time coming," Dr. Griffin estimated.

In addition to Dr. Djerf and Dr. Griffin, those working actively to promote the program are:

Dr. William Ridder and Dr. Russell of the medical community, Chief Francis X. Finn and Lt. Frank Vallier of the Quincy Police Department, Dr. Stanley Sagon of the South Shore Mental Health Center, Atty. Edward Joyce, Schools Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, and Charles L. Munson of the Quincy School headquarters guidance staff.

Quincy Teachers Get New $7,125 - To - $14,108 Salary

The Quincy School Committee last night was expected to approve a new $7,125 minimum and $14,108 maximum salary for the city's approximate 900 public school teachers.

The minimum had been $6,600 and the maximum, $13,068.

The new schedule–an index system based on experience and educational levels--represents an approximate 7.8 per cent increase.

Under the new system, teachers with bachelor's degrees will start at $7,125. Those with master's degrees and 10 years teaching experience will get $14,108.

It is estimated the increases will mean about $1.50 on the 1970 tax rate.

The new schedule climaxes nearly six months of negotiations between the Quincy Education Association and the School Committee. The new figures were reached with the aid of William Fallon, former chairman of the State Board of Mediation and Conciliation, serving as fact-finder.

Other school personnel including clerks, carpenters, school nurses and maintenance men, were also expected to receive increases last night.

Germantown Beach Endorsed

Development of a 9.7-acre playground and beach in Germantown has received the approval of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

An application for $77,500 in federal assistance was made by Mayor James R. McIntyre to the Department of Housing and Urban Development under the Parks-in-Cities Program.

In a letter to McIntyre, Richard M. Doherty, executive director of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, said the project was consistent with the objectives, policies and recommendations of the Council on public control of riverbanks and coastal areas for open space purposes and development of new recreational areas.

The project includes the acquisition of waterfront land and development of a beach on Weymouth Fore River near Weymouth Harbor.

Doherty also said:

"The project is to be commended because of the size of the site, its location adjacent to a large public housing project, the diversity of facilities to be provided, and the variety of age groups to be served."

Have You Seen Heidi?

Heidi is Tom Sullivan's pet, constant companion and–his "eyes".

The seeing-eye sable color, German shepherd vanished from the Sullivan home at 17 Marr Crest Ave., East Milton, near the Quincy line last Saturday.

Tom, a blind entertainer, is appealing to readers of the Quincy Sun to help find her.

Heidi has never been a wanderer and Tom fears she may have fallen into the hands of a "dogknapper" or may be injured somewhere.

Heidi disappeared shortly after 8 a.m., after being let out for her usual early morning romp.

Since she rarely leaves the neighborhood and is gone for no more than 40 minutes at most, she was not wearing her usual collar and harness.

A woman reported she saw a man with three children trying to lure a dog of Heidi's discription into a car on Canton Ave., Milton.

If you have any information as to Heidi's whereabouts, call Tom at 698-2716.

He needs her very much.

'A Great Challenge To Remain Loyal'

[Ed. Note: The following essay written by Ann Franklin, a junior at Quincy High School, won first place for the high school category in a contest sponsored by the George F. Bryan VFW Post. Title of the essay is: "Why I Should Be Loyal To My Flag and Country".]

By ANN FRANKLIN

Because I was fortunate enough to be born in the greatest country in the world, I feel I owe my flag and country loyalty. Loyalty to me, is remaining faithful through good times as well as bad. Remaining faithful to my country does not suggest that I think my country can do no wrong, it suggests that I take pride in its greatness and I raise a voice when I foresee its downfall.

The history of our country shows that all our battles were won by men who fought for what they believed. By fighting for their belief, believing their country was right, they proved their loyalty. I think the greatest display of loyalty was shown by George Washington and his men at Valley Forge, Washington and his men were suffering from complete physical exhaustion, hunger and freezing temperatures, yet they went on, on to conquer at Yorktown. The obstacles were great, yet not great enough to defeat the belief.

I should be loyal to my flag because it is a symbol of my country, and when I burn and abuse a symbol, I reject what it represents.

Being loyal to my country just isn't being loyal to those who govern it, but to the people and the principles for which it stands.

It is a great challenge to remain loyal in a time of rebellion, when burning a flag is frequent and wearing one is not so unheard of.

In past times our flag was held as a relic. After achieving victory the first thing done was to raise the flag. This act showed great loyalty and patriotism and was also the symbol of success.

As long as I believe and work for my country's goals, it shall conquer any obstacle, and once again our flag shall be raised, a flag never to be defeated.

wife of retired Marine Corps Master Sergeant LeClair, will be the sponsor. Miss Railine LeClair, their daughter, will be the maid of honor.

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth will be the principal speaker. Rev. Jerome W. Doyle of Sacred Heart Parish will give the invocation.

To christen the model, Mrs. LeClair will break a champagne-filled egg on the Pensacola's bow. With scissors, she will cut a line releasing the model to slide down the ways into the "Quincy Basin", an eight-foot long, foot wide and eight-inch deep trough.

The USS Pensacola [LSD-28] is the 14th ship to be built by LeClair Model Shipbuilding Company, the second of five LSD's of a new class to be built for the United States Model Navy. She has an overall length of 17 inches, a beam of four inches, and will weigh about three pounds fully loaded.

Guests invited to the christening include Mayor James R. McIntyre, who serves as secretary to the Model Shipbuilding Company, and his wife; Capt. John M. Duke, Jr., in charge of Naval shipbuilding for the Quincy General Dynamics Division, Lloyd Bergeson, general manager; and a person representing the city of Pensacola, Florida.

The model Pensacola will join the United States Model Navy later this year after sea trials. A model of the USS Quincy, an oiler, was given to Mayor McIntyre for his office.

The president of the LeClair Model Shipbuilding Company is the son of Charles E. LeClair, Sr., employed for 30 years at the Fore River Shipyard.

STATE OF THE STATE

by Governor Francis W. Sargent

A MONTHLY REPORT TO THE PEOPLE OF THE COMMONWEALTH

I share with everyone a common concern, translated into active commitment by my Administration, with the state of our economy. I'd like to inform you of the positive direction in which I have attempted to chart the economic development of our state.

Commerce and development of Massachusetts translates into bread and butter. And this means money. . .this means jobs. No subject is more important than the state of the state's economy.

There are two major stages upon which the drama of progressive state government unfolds. And in each, leadership must be dynamic and constant.

The first of these involves the renewal process--the reorganization and renewal--of the worn out fabric of state government. This renewal process is one upon which I have based my entire legislative program, from reform of civil service. . .to the unscrambling of our welfare system.

Here, in this battle to bring about true renewal of the machinery of state government, is where we must win the reward of efficient and responsive state government.

The second stage for the unfolding of a viable economy is not so visible. It involves often subtle, occasionally dramatic developments in the state's economic development and outlook.

The same quality of leadership is needed here as in the renewal process.

Less than 3 weeks ago, I submitted legislation providing a 1% tax credit for corporations which invest in a new plant and machinery for manufacturing purposes in the Commonwealth.

Known as the tax incentive, this most recent step will make the financial climate in the state conducive to the creation of new job opportunities.

Unlike a bill passed by the Legislature last year, which gave tax credits across the board to all manufacturing firms, my proposal rewards only those manufacturers whose firms make a contribution to our economy by expanding their facilities and thereby creating new jobs.

From Cape Cod to the Berkshires, the economic progress of our state is advancing steadily.

Our Massachusetts manufacturers intend to spend over $500,000,000. in 1970 for new plants and equipment.

In southeastern Massachusetts, the New Bedford Industrial Park - ranking as the largest construction program of recent years in that part of the state - now approaches the $100,000,000. construction mark.

The Greater Worcester area is experiencing a new record in industrial construction. Later this year, the New York Envelope Company will locate in Worcester a new facility which eventually will employ upwards of 300 people.

Several hundred new jobs will soon be available in the Franklin area where the Honeywell Corp. is to build a new plant.

Officially completed at my direction late last year, the perimeter of Interstate Route 495 is now encompassed by more than 100 business enterprises employing thousands of persons.

Upwards of 70,000 Massachusetts people are now employed in our tourism industry which in this year will bring to our state more than $1,500,000,000.

Our Commonwealth's economic future is full of promise. I shall continue to do all I can to assure the fulfillment of that promise.

"Our state's economic future is full of promise. . .I shall continue to do all I can to assure the fulfillment of that promise. . ."

After 'Near Tragedy'

Move To Keep Sand Trucks Off North Quincy Streets

Efforts are underway to keep heavy MDC sand trucks off North Quincy streets as the result of a "near tragic" accident in which one flipped over at East Squantum St. and Newbury Ave. Monday.

"If the accident had happened two hours earlier, North Quincy and Atlantic Junior High School students would have been congregating at that very corner," commented Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth. "We could have had a real tragedy."

Both Smyth and Mayor James R. McIntyre have fired off demands to MDC Commr. John Sears to have the trucks use Quincy Shore Drive instead.

The fleet of trucks is hauling an estimated 50,000 tons of sand to Wollaston Beach to improve that area after winter erosion.

An empty 10-ton truck's dump body accidentally elevated at about 4:45 p.m. cutting overhead utility wires and over-turning, leaving an estimated 600 North Quincy homes without telephone service and another 400 without electric power. A utility pole was snapped in half and one section tossed 40 feet.

Power was restored after three hours but telephones were disrupted for the remainder of the night.

Donald Jenness, 27, of Taunton, identified as the truck driver, said he was returning to Bridgewater after dumping a load of sand at at the beach. He escaped unharmed.

Lone known casualty was Mrs. Mary J. Riley, 59, of 99 East Squantum St., who was treated at Quincy City Hospital for leg bruises suffered when she was struck by one of the slashed cable wires.

"It was just by the grace of God that the accident happened when it did," Smyth declared. "Were it to have happened at 2:30 p.m. when North Quincy as well as Atlantic Junior High School students are dismissed for the day, we could have had a real tragedy with possible loss of life. Children usually congregate at that corner where the truck turned over.

"Fortunately, no one was seriously injured, and only one automobile had a slight dent in it. Fortunately also, traffic was not heavy at that particular moment because that is a very heavily traveled junction.

Smyth condemned the use of Quincy's streets by trucks assigned by the MDC when roads maintained by the MDC are available.

"The most disturbing element of this was the fact that these trucks were engaged to deliver sand for Wollaston Beach which is under the jurisdiction of the MDC," Smyth continued. "I think it is very unfair for the MDC to prohibit the use of their boulevard at any time by trucks, engaged in an MDC project.

Smyth praised city and utility crews for their promptness in responding to the emergency.

"I have nothing but the highest praise for the Massachusetts Electric, and the Telephone Company," he said. "Electricity was restored within three hours, and men continued work Tuesday morning to restore telephone service. An alarm signal box was completely destroyed.

"Jack Smock and his crew from the Quincy Signal Alarm Division were here immediately, and at midnight I went by and they were still on duty. I want to commend them for their efforts as well as the Civilian Defense personnel who responded."

Houghs Neck Youth Saves 5-Year Old From Drowning

Sixteen-year old John Neilson of 54 Hooper St., Houghs Neck is credited with saving the life of a five-year old neighbor, Kevin Murphy.

Kevin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Murphy of 33 Pawsey St., lost his balance while leaning over the low stone wall on the Rockland St. bridge to look into the water below, at approaching high tide.

John, fully clothed, plunged into the water and pulled the youngster to shore. Beyond a good soaking, neither suffered any ill affects.

John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Neilson, is a high honor roll student in the junior class at Quincy High School.

Dr. Edmund Fitzgerald To Be Honored By Medical Society

They will receive gold badges in recognition of their 50 years of membership in the Society, at a meeting at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Boston.

Presentations will be made by Dr. Jacob H. Fine, President of the Society.

Dr. FitzGerald graduated from Harvard Medical School, and is a retired pediatrician.

He is one of the founders of the Quincy Child Guidance Clinic and served as Quincy Health Commissioner for over six years.

Finnish American Assn. May Festival On Sunday

The Finnish American Association of Quincy will hold a May Festival Sunday May 17 from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Temperance Hall, 2 Nelson St., West Quincy.

On display will be exhibits of Finnish arts and crafts, Finnish movies, and fashions from Finland. Finnish style sandwiches and pastries will be sold along with coffee, the national beverage, and the traditional May Day drink "sima". There will also be a sale of gift items and plants, as well as "white elephants".

It is hoped that Quincy residents with Finnish costumes will wear them that day to add a touch of color to the occasion. Donations of all kinds will be gratefully accepted to aid the cause, according to Miss Helen Heikkila.

Proceeds from the festival will be used for a scholarship to a Quincy High School student of Finnish extraction and also to make a donation to the Save the Children Foundation. This is the third time the group has given such a scholarship, and it is their hope that the May Festival will be so successful that the offer of scholarships may be expanded to students of the entire South Shore.

Planning the Festival are Mrs. Edmund Vaino, chairman; Miss Heikkila, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hourula, Mr. and Mrs. Tauno Rapo, Mrs. Kari Malkki, Mrs. Pentti Koistinen, Mrs. Niilo Kiirikki and Mauri Porkola.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

A new season is about to start in the bridal field. It is known as the fall-winter season.

With it comes a whole new array of styles and fabrics and a new group of brides. More and more brides are aware of the importance of early shopping.

For this reason I am going to write again on the bride buying her wedding gown.

Choosing your bridal gown is one of the biggest thrills of your life. Go to a bridal salon where the selection of a wedding gown suited exactly to your personality, figure and budget limitations is one of the important services offered.

In a reliable shop all personnel is trained in style, line, color, etc. You are treated as a bride and not just another sale. And, just as important you are never pressured or rushed.

The bridal costume will naturally be influenced to the greatest degree by:

--The type and style of wedding.
--Your financial position.
--The season of the year.

The basic silhouettes are:

--The sheath. This line adds height and subtracts width.
--The A line. The most flattering for the majority. This line makes the hips and thighs appear smaller.
--The controlled line. Good for any type figure with the exception of the girl with a large waistline.
--Bouffant. Very good for the average or tall girl. Particularly good for the girl with small waist and large hips.
--Cage look. Straight from the shoulder look. Best for the slender small busted bride.
--The skimmer - The best all around look. This is excellent for all girls who want to look thinner.

It's necklines, sleeves, fabrics, trims etc. that make the many variations in gowns. Due to the assortment of styles today, a wedding gown does not have to be expensive to be beautiful. Proper fit is the most important consideration.

A word of caution--Don't attempt to try on every bridal gown in every shop. You will find you are a very confused and exhausted bride. The pleasure has become an ordeal and you will choose any gown and regret it ever after.

The best dressed bride will always combine modest simplicity with dignity and good taste.

NATIONAL NURSING HOME WEEK

MAY 10TH THRU 17TH

Nursing Homes Convention, Open House Continue

MRS. FLORENCE LOGAN

Area Speakers At Convention

Several South Shore area speakers at the 21st annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Home leaders which opened yesterday and is continuing through today at the Sheraton Motor Inn, Hyannis. Among them are Lawrence Warner of Quincy, President South Shore and Cape Cod Chapter; Edward J. Finn also of Quincy, a member of the Board; and Mrs. Florence E. Logan of Braintree, Federation Clerk and Chairman of the Education Committee.

Mrs. Florence F. Logan of Braintree, Chairman of the Education Committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, said today that "21st century medical technology is often shackled to 19th century organization patterns."

Mrs. Logan, a former Quincy resident, was one of the speakers at the two-day 21st annual convention of the Federation being held at the Sheraton Motor Inn, Hyannis, and attended by several hundred Nursing Home leaders. More than a score of national and state private and public agency officials are participating.

The health care system of today is in a condition of crisis and seems to be continuing worsening, she added:

"Some of the problems are shortages of manpower and facilities and the rapidly rising costs of labor and supplies.

"Community ambulatory care centers need to be created to provide special services to people in local communities when doctors are not available.

"Nursing homes and extended care facilities could do much to provide such neighborhood health service.

"Nursing homes could serve thousands of elderly patients in the community.

"Such centers serving the elderly could help the older person to understand that what is happening to him is natural. These people need correct information about to keep well so they will know that when they have a pain they do not need to be frightened.

"As people become older, it doesn't mean that they have to become more difficult. They probably only become more of what they are.

"They need to know how to live with their problems and look for someone to give them help and information.

"The popular attitude in nursing homes is that older persons are difficult to work with. Working with them in a healthy setting will prove that the reverse can be true."

Proclamation

WHEREAS, Nursing homes in our community are dedicated to providing the finest possible care to many of our aged and ill, and

WHEREAS, These nursing homes have developed coordinated programs involving the services of physicians, nursing personnel, therapists and community volunteers, and

WHEREAS, Many nursing home patients need community understanding and concern as a vital part of long-term care, and

WHEREAS, Member homes of the American Nursing Home Association and the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, Inc. in this city are working together for the patients as exemplified by the theme, "Nursing Homes: Working Together for Today and Tomorrow," which has been chosen for the eight days of National Nursing Home Week, May 10-17, and

WHEREAS, Many of these homes are holding open house on Mother's Day, May 10

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JAMES R. MCINTYRE, as Mayor of this City of Quincy, urge all residents to work with nursing homes for the benefit of patients and to visit a nursing home on Mother's Day or through May 17th.

Catholics To Be Asked Views On Cardinal Cushing Successor

Quincy Catholics, along with lay Catholics throughout the Archdiocese of Boston, will be asked on Sunday to express their feelings about the selection of the next Archbishop of Boston.

Cardinal Richard J. Cushing has said he wishes to retire on his 75th birthday in August.

A questionnaire has been drawn up by the Boston Lay Caucus, a group of area Catholic men and women, to measure lay opinion as to the succession in the Archibishop's office. Thomas M. Simmons, chairman of the Archdiocesan Commission for the Promotion of Parish Councils, is also Chairman of the Boston Lay Caucus.

Questions include: "Do you think Lay Catholics should have something to say about who the next Archbishop of Boston should be? Should he serve for a specific number of years or for life?

Persons replying are asked to check major issues with which they feel the Archbishop should be concerned: youth, poverty, racial justice, world peace, lay participation in Church decisions, family planning, Catholic Schools, CCD.

Should the Archbishop make complete annual reports on operation of the Archdiocese to all Church members? The roll of the next Archbishop should be as administrator, fund raiser, spiritual leader, social activist, or theologian? He should be classified as conservative, moderate, or liberal?

Ballots which are being distributed at churches Pentecost Sunday, are to be returned to Boston Lay Caucus, P. O. Box 8370, J.F.K. Station, Boston, Mass. 02114

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

Victory vs. defeat. Victory is not always commendable. And surely, defeat need not be disgraceful.

In human experience, there are levels in both victory and defeat. For example, when we see a bewildered man defeated because he lacked the courage to win, we pity his pathetic picture. But, when we see a courageous man going down to defeat after trying his best to win, we glory him in defeat. At times it can even be a tragic defeat. This is especially true if a principle of justice, integrity, fair play or personal honor is involved.

None of us can win every time. How we lose is often more important than how we win. To succumb or be subdued because we lack the courage for the struggle to win is the only time disgrace can be linked to defeat. Actually, it is possible to win when one loses...

The Ladder To Success

By
Margaret DeAngelo
29 Deldorf St.
Quincy

They say that when you start to climb
The ladder to success,
That you are reaching for the road
To Health and happiness.

Although, sometime it's easy-
And sometime hard to climb,
You are far better off to try it
One step at the time.

But if you get too eager
And the ladder starts to rock,
Just fight to keep it steady,
And you're sure to reach the top.

Two Budget Balancers

Young marrieds with limited incomes often look to hamburger to balance the food budget. But when it comes time to entertain, the lowly hamburger needs dressing up. So take your favorite meat loaf recipe and turn it into company fare by adding crunchy chopped water chestnuts and a topping of crushed pineapple for interesting texture and flavor.

To serve with this meal we suggest tall glasses of iced tea. Yes, iced tea even at this time of year. Many young people are taking to drinking this refreshing beverage all year round because it goes so well with all kinds of food, because it's non-fattening, and because it's inexpensive, too. Directions for making a big 2-quart pitcherful—enough for 10 servings—follow:

Iced Tea by the Pitcherful

1. Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan.
2. Remove from the heat and immediately add 15 teabags or ½ measuring cup of loose tea.
3. Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes.
4. Stir again and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of freshly drawn cold water.
5. When ready to serve, pour into ice-filled glasses and serve with lemon and sugar to taste.

Note: If using instant tea, allow 4 rounded tablespoons to two quarts of cold water.

Students Whip Up Super Menu

YVONNE SINES

Student cooks at Quincy Vocational-Technical School recently had an opportunity to demonstrate just how well they have learned their lessons, to a group who are interested in lessons.

A menu of French onion soup, tossed green salad, Swiss steaks jandernier, whipped potatoes, finger pastries and beverage was whipped up in the Voc-Tech kitchen for 128 persons attending a meeting of the Massachusetts Association for Public School Adult Educators.

To whip up the menu the Culinary Arts Department students used 120 pounds of beef, eight gallons of soup, 40 pounds of potatoes and seven gallons of coffee.

Eleven youngsters who provided the manpower necessary were Albert Martell, Paul Purpora, Paul Dunn, Carol McPhee, Lynn McCanary, Betty-anne Perruzzi, Karen Matheson, Judy Trubiano, Yvonne Sines, Susan Curry and Gale McKenzie.

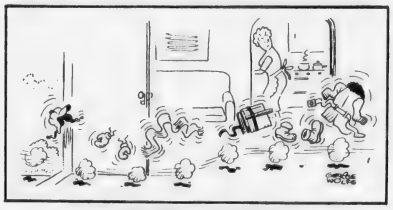
On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

MY LOVER, MY SON

The sensitively, fragile story of a mother [Romy Schneider] who sexually prefers her son [Dennis Waterman] to her self-centered egotistical husband [Donald Houston], is without a doubt not a G-rated family motion picture.

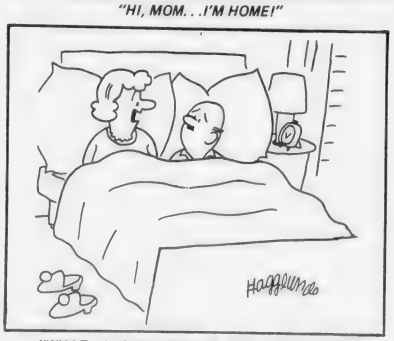
Of course, by the same token, a film dealing with a mother incestuously hung up, as it were, on a son who, as it developes, is sexually impotent due to his growing awareness of his mother's infatuation, can not necessarily be indiscriminately categorized as perversion. It can not because director John Newland presented this showcase with a minimum of bedding down scenes, and handled a delicate situation in a most conventional, well balanced manner.

As a film MY LOVER, MY SON is not a great movie. To be blunt it is a passe excursion in boredom. This is caused primarily by a script that doesn't psychologically probe in depth into the whys and why-nots of the situation at hand...the drowning out of character development due to the richly lavish background setting of the English jet set...and the aged miscasting of the principles involved.



Donald Houston looks old enough to pass as Miss Schneider's father; she in turn looks young enough to be Waterman's sister, and or girl friend; and Waterman has a too greyish thirty-I've-done-it-all expression to be physically believable in the role of a 19-year old.

The most meaningful part of the film has to be the last five minutes where the mother anguishly confesses to the son who did what to whom; and that he is not the son of whom he thought, but merely the illegitimate product of her deceased Latin lover. As he flees through flower-filled fields to the houseboat of his playmate [Patricia Brake] one is given an image of a tormented individual who has freed himself from the psychological fetters of his mothers roving eyes and outrageous advances. In this respect the viewer is given the answer to the building riddle of the plot-will it be his mother or his girl?



There is a courtroom scene that should have been the high point of the film, but unfortunately wasn't. It doesn't possess the overall dramatic punch one would expect...and leaves those individuals brainwashed on "Perry Mason" who-done-its, with a bad case of the blahs.

However, the actors save the picture. Donald Houston is emphatically dynamic as the hard as nails establishment businessman who sees life as an accumulation of money and power...Romy Schneider, despite her youthfulness, comes across convincingly as the sex disoriented [and as one discovers, murderous] mother. Her every sensual movement and anguished expression enthralls..Waterman as a novice in the art of love lends sympathy to his portrayal and gives a remarkably candid performance... Miss Brake is sufficient as his love interest, although she may have done a great deal better as a pin-up model in Playboy-the script leaves her with nothing to do but look beautiful and occasionally disrobe.

The screenplay was adapted from a third-rate novel "A Reputation For A Song," which probably explains in part the listless script. Too bad the screenplay didn't possess the enchantment and sensitive illusions of the musical backdrop. It would have made for a far better finished product.

The band and chapel choir will perform and tours of the building will be conducted by seventh grade boys and girls. Miss Mary Catherine Iannoni, head counselor, and Richard K. Chrystal, principal, will also address the sixth grade pupils.

At Broad Meadows Junior High School, Miss Althea P. Sawyer, head counselor, with the assistance of students, has arranged an auditorium program and tours of the building. David Tenney, principal, will greet the sixth graders.

Eighty-six students at Atlantic Junior High School are involved in the visiting day program with 12 serving as hosts and hostesses, 33 participating in demonstrations and explanations from the stage, and 41 as guides for tours of the building.

In addition, other students will be playing in the band led by Francis Rull. John A. Evans, principal, will welcome the boys and girls to Atlantic.

A series of slides showing activities at Atlantic will be projected and narrated to half of the group of sixth graders while the other half is on tour of the building. Responsible for planning the activities at Atlantic is Stephen J. Del Rosso, head counselor.

The visiting day is the culminating activity of a series of programs carried on in the city's schools during the spring to inform boys and girls and their parents about what they can expect of junior high school.

Most of the city's 22 elementary schools scheduled the program, "What is a Junior High School" presented by Miss Louise B. Forsyth of the headquarters guidance staff which describes the similarities and the differences found in comparing elementary school and junior high school.

Groups of seventh grade boys and girls visited their former elementary schools and talked informally with sixth grade pupils about their concerns and fears and tried to answer questions which troubled them.

In some areas of the city, evening programs were held for the parents of the sixth grade pupils to give them an overview of the information being given to pupils and to discuss the normal fears and feelings of children entering seventh grade.

'The Deadly Sin Of Failure'

Twelve years ago I was raising chinchillas. The objective was to build a college fund for my two daughters. I bought two pair at a cost of $1500. and within two years had a herd of 17 animals. It was a family project and it seemed to be going great. Then, on a hot August day of 1955 we moved and while en route on the moving van, the beautiful, delicate little animals died. Failure! I was sick about it. I had tried and failed.

The fear of failure stalks the lives of many people. When we fail, we usually rationalize. I tried to...I needed someone to blame...the movers...the people who were waiting to receive the animals. But there was no one to blame but myself...my own stupidity. Chinchillas just cannot stand 100 degree heat. There are circumstances which may not be our fault, but at the root is usually our own human frailty.

One of those human frailties is the negative attitude. You see this in others all the time. Throw out an idea in a committee meeting and you will hear 40 reasons why it won't work before you hear one why it might. Success belongs to those who have a daring spirit and who are willing to risk failure. The so-called "positive thinking" is not naive unless it reaches a point of the ridiculous. Jesus used to say, "Your faith has made you well," to people who just wouldn't give up that they could find help. He seemed to approve the positive attitude and could do nothing with the negative thinkers.

Another reason why people fail is personal rigidity. The old "tried and true" slogans which used to work so beautifully in a former generation may no longer be valid. In fact, they can be deadly. Military power is supposed to win wars, but it sure isn't winning in Vietnam, is it? And is what we are doing there the best for us...for them...for anybody? I don't think it is. Or, take our economic picture...my father taught me "Pay as you go and when you can't pay, don't go". Well that sure does sound good but it would grind our whole economy to a halt in our industrialized society. The fellow who can only think and act in one rigid pattern is flirting with failure. Versatility is better than rigidity.

On the other side of the coin...one of the most vital antidotes against failure is believing in oneself and having someone believe in you. They go together. Recently I was talking with a man who was trying to lift himself by his own bootstraps. He had had job trouble, a drink problem and domestic trouble. He said to me, "All I wanted and needed was encouragement...someone to believe in me. All I got was insults...called names like 'stupid', 'dumb' and 'drunkard'. I was told if I got a job I would fail. I wanted to be so much more than I am." He was not just rationalizing...he was admitting human need...he was really saying, "I need someone to believe in me."

Jesus was always meeting people like this and when he showed his faith in them, they sprang to new life. Like the 38-year-old cripple who said, "Sir, I have no one to help me." Jesus answered, "Rise to your feet, take up your bed and walk." Jesus gave him no rebuke...he just believed in him.

I am told that 75 per cent of the patients in the mental hospitals have no visitors...forgotten people. No one to believe in them. So they stay there looking at blank walls. Failures! This is a deadly sin. Could be that we are responsible for many of those failing people at this moment? And there are a lot of people not yet hospitalized who are just as much in need of someone to believe in them...show them a little encouragement...even a little affection. Maybe you need it yourself.

Peace

Peace is a wide green meadow
Peace is a bubbling stream
Peace is alone and quiet
To some Peace is only a dream.

Peace is beauty
Watching a bird soar and fly,
Peace is the sound of a lone gull's cry.
Peace is not war to fight and kill,
Peace is friendship, loyalty & will.

Peace is togetherness to love and to share,
Peace is really everywhere.
If only we would stop the war
We'd have Peace forever more.

Recipe For Spring

Do you know why Spring is the best?
Because there is never time to rest.
There is always something to do.
Whether it be for me or you.
Take the robin, never has time to crow,
For it is always on the go.
The girls are never the same,
For they are always playing a game.
All the boys and I mean all!
Are always playing some kind of ball.
Put all these things together and you have

April

April showers bring May flowers. The birds will sing and I will get my lucky wish for a ring.

In April bees come out and they zing, zing around you. But then they sting, sting you, too.

April is a beautiful time of the year, thanks to the showers because they brought us spring flowers.

The Flea And The Fly

Once there was a fly that knew a flea
They were very good friends
But there was a bee
That was a devil
So he put the flea and the fly
In a bottle of glue,
So what could they do?
Said the fly, "Let us flee"
Said the flea, "Let us fly,"
So the flea flew away
And the fly fled
And they never saw each other again.

What Spring Is All About

Spring is happy, quick and snappy. When the flowers come out blooming, the children laughing, yelling, and screaming, the dogs barking, the birds singing. Those are some of the things that spring is all about. No more snow, no more coats, hats or gloves, boots or scarves, just shorts, sleeveless shirts, fishing and picnics Easter coming, kites flying, camping, bugs either flying or crawling the grass getting greener maybe smell showers and nice cool breezes. No more ice or snow, just plain old nice weather, small pussy willows with summer coming!

Gulls

If you look at a gull you can see that they have long narrow wings, which stretch about three feet from tip to tip. Their bodies are just a little more than a third as long. They have webbed feet which makes them good swimmers. Their backs are gray. There are black markings on the tip of each strong wing. They have glassy eyes and when you look at them very closely they shine like glass and it looks as if you are looking into glass.

If you see a gulls nest you can see that they are lined with grass, sticks, fluff, or feathers. Usually they use anything they could carry to the spot. In and around the nest there are small shells and cherry stones. When you look into a nest you will probably find three gray-brown eggs because most gulls lay three eggs. They are spotted, a dark brown that is almost a purple.

The parent gulls eat fish, bugs, worms, and nearly anything they can find. The baby gulls eat cherries, and all the other things their parents bring back to them. All gulls eat bread, but all gulls don't like oranges.

HOUSE CALL

Let There Be Light

[Today's guest column is written by Dr. Robert Mann, an associate of Dr. Charles Djerf]

Light is an entity that we take for granted. We awake each morning and never bother to even consider that it might not be "light". And our's is a society that extolls the benefits of sunlight.

Witness the sun-worshipers that flock to the beaches, and those that flock to the nudist camps - [they say they, too, are sun-worshipers, but I have my own ideas, don't you?]. And also note the individuals, mostly women, but occasionally the Mr. America - "He-man" types too, that sit for hours in the sun, with a reflector under their chin to reflect extra rays into their faces.

Sure makes them look nice now. Too bad that 10 or 15 years from now that beautifully tanned skin will be as leathery and wrinkly as that of a farmer or fisherman. For temporary beauty, one certainly gives up a lot.

In addition to being harmful in this way, sunlight in too large quantities over a long period of time, can lead to skin cancer. This is often found on the faces of fishermen. It can also happen to an ardent sun-bather, who doesn't know when to stop.

Besides the harm of sunlight, one can find a few benefits. We can all name scores of these benefits. One way in which sunlight or artificial fluorescent light is useful is in the treatment of jaundice in newborn infants.

What is jaundice? Jaundice is a yellow staining of the skin, caused by an increase in the chemical "bilirubin" in the blood. Bilirubin builds up in a baby with Rh disease, or in a patient with a poorly functioning liver [an immature liver]. These liver immaturity problems nearly always clear up in a few days, but the baby gets yellow in the meantime.

If the jaundice gets deep enough, [eg. the bilirubin high enough] brain damage can result. This is especially true in premature infants, but also true in full term infants. The only treatment in the past for highly jaundiced infants has been the exchange transfusion, in which the infant's blood is removed, and replaced with fresh blood. In the best hands, this procedure has a mortality of 1%. It is worth the risk, however, if one considers the problems of a brain damaged child.

A few years ago a British nurse wrote as to how infants placed near the windows had less jaundice thanthose in other parts of the nursery. Subsequent studies on the continent and in South America revealed that infants placed influorescent lights had less jaundice than those not. This proof was, in the usual style, ignored by the Academic Medical Community, until a New Englander, Dr. Jerold Lucey of the University of Vermont, pioneered the use of fluorescent lights in the prevention of jaundice in premature infants.

These "Lucey Lights" have caught on all across the country, and countless exchange transfusions have been made unnecessary. "Lucey Lights" are of only a little help in babies with Rh disease, although some exchange transfusions in these babies have also been escaped.

The latest studies out, indicate that if a nursery is adequately lighted, with increased fluorescent lights [for baby treatment, rather than staff comfort] then the "Lucey Lights" will not be necessary.

These lights cause a chemical reaction, that breaks the bilirubin molecule down into smaller, non-toxic chemicals.

So, if you have a juandiced baby, "Let There Be Light".

Quincy Riding High

Quincy's baseball team, which stayed atop the Greater Boston League Monday with a 7-3 win over Medford, will play at Everett Friday, entertain Chelsea Monday and then finish up Tuesday with a big makeup game with second place Somerville at Adams Field.

Monday's win gave the Presidents an 8-2-1 league record [9-2-1 overall] and yesterday they had a big one against Malden, one of the two teams to upset Quincy.

Quincy had a 3-1 lead over Medford, was tied up at 3-3, then exploded for four runs in the ninth inning to win it.

Mark Whelton was the starting pitcher and got his fourth win and Jimmy Walker, sophomore southpaw, earned his seventh save. Walker has been involved in every game but one this year.

"It was a fine win and the whole team played a very, very good game," Coach Bob Basiliere said. "We made no errors and the team is very solid."

In the big ninth Cliff Mattson walked, moved up on a bunt single by Billy Maver. Whelton also bunted safely to fill the bases. Kevin Ryan singled home the two winning runs, Rich DeCristofaro was hit by a pitch and a fielder's choice turned into two more runs.

"Ryan has really looked good at the plate and had three hits today," Basiliere said. "He drove in four runs. He's our top batter with a .330 average and also has looked good at third base."

North For Rebound

North Quincy's baseball team, which had received three straight route-going jobs by its pitchers and won its previous two games, hit a snag Monday and dropped an 8-2 decision to Chelsea in a Greater Boston League game.

Charlie Bunker's Raiders, with a 5-6 league record and a 9-7 overall mark, will be host to second place Somerville Friday and could give rival Quincy a big break with a win. Monday they play at Medford and wind up the year Wednesday with a home game against Everett.

North's pitching faltered in the loss to Chelsea. "The batters were really connecting but all their hard line drives and long flies were caught and the Chelsea pitcher had a two-hitter," Bunker said.

Tuesday North edged Boston College High, 4-3, in a non-league game as Dave Murphy went all the way and pitched excellent ball.

Last week the Raiders received their second and third straight route-going jobs by their pitchers and North won a big one, 8-1, over Malden as Craig Bogosian held the Golden Tornado to five hits while he and his mates collected 12 and started off with a four-run surge in the second inning.

Bogosian, veteran right-hander, struck out 12 and walked five and had things under control all the way.

"We finally put everything together and we fielded, hit and got excellent pitching," Bunker said.

Tim Flynn, Tom Burke, Ed Monti, Jim Driscoll and Steve Tomasetti had two hits each. One of Driscoll's was a booming three-run double in his first varsity start after being promoted from the jayvees. Both of Tomasetti's were doubles and Flynn also had one.

Earlier North had rallied with single runs in the eighth and ninth to edge Revere, 5-4, as Bill Deshler went all the way with a six-hitter.

In the eighth hits by Steve Langley, Monti and Burke brought in the tying run and in the ninth four walks handed North the winning run.

Monti and Burke had saved the day with outstanding plays in the top of the ninth. Monti chased a line drive that went over his head in center field and threw the runner out at second with a perfect throw. Burke made a diving catch of a line drive to left.

QJC Ends With 5th In Row

Dave Burke's Quincy Junior College baseball team completed its regular season Monday with its fifth victory in a row, a 4-1 decision over Burdett and appears certain of making the Mass. Jr. College League playoffs which get underway Saturday.

The final victory gave the Collejuns a 7-3 record for the season and pitcher Carl Lindgren struck out 14 in making his record 4-1.

Quincy scored once in each of the first and third innings and added two runs in the fifth. Dick Volpe was three for three, running his hitting streak to 10 games and his triple was the big blow. Mike Geramino singled home two runs.

Last week QJC topped Bryant and Stratton, 5-0, as Volpe hurled a three-hitter while striking out 13 and not issuing a walk for his best performance of the year.

Volpe also had two hits including a triple. Quincy scored twice in the first inning when Jim Broderick singled, Gary Timlin doubled and Lindgren singled.

7 Girls Turn Out For Boy's Track Team At Central Junior

By TOM SULLIVAN

When the Central Junior High track team reported for practice, Coach Gerry Hurley took a double take.

He looked over the names of the candidates--Bob, Fred, Charlie, Karen, Kathy--

Karen and Kathy?

Yes, seven of the candidates were girls who wanted to try out for the boys-only team or maybe start a girls' track team.

"Since that time, after obtaining permission slips from their parents and with Mr. Chrystal's approval, the girls have been working out at our regular practice sessions," Hurley said. "Some of the events they have tried are dashes, long jump, high jump and relay.

"Their attendance has been as good as, if not better than, that of the boys. The interest in pursuing this is obvious because, at the present time, they are preparing a letter requesting the establishment of a girls' competitive track team [or teams] in the city. Their intention is to send this letter through the proper channels with the hope of precipitating some action in this direction."

Hurley approached other coaches in the city in regard to letting the girls compete with the boy's team but, as he put it, "They didn't want to touch it with a 10-foot pole."

Seven girls have been working out with others also showing interest. Hurley explained that attempts are being made to have one of the women teachers help to supervise their practice sessions.

The girls are Karen Clasby, Cathy Ilacqua, Sue Stamos, Sara Kane, Rhonda Randall, Kristin Poole and Joanne O'Brien.

So, thanks to the interest shown by these Central girls, some form of track competition for the girls of the city may be forthcoming in the not-too-distant future.

North Track Team In High Gear

Coach Bob Gentry's undefeated North Quincy track team rolled to its fifth straight win Tuesday, 67-55, over strong Malden in the Greater Boston League and Tuesday will face Everett at Somerville.

The league title is expected to be decided by next Thursday's North-Quincy meet which will probably be held in Quincy. Quincy is also 5-0 in the league. Gentry hopes to hold the meet at Cavanagh Stadium.

Paul Affsa and Lee Davis were double winners Tuesday, Affsa winning the long jump and 880 and Davis the discus and low hurdles.

John Graceffa finished third in the discus and Dave Haight second in the long jump. John Panarelli again won the shot put, Dave Mahoney took the high jump with Don Gilliland third.

Kevin Henry won another two-mile with George McCall third, Pat McCormack took third in the mile, Bill McCall won the high hurdles with Haight third.

Jim DeVarennes was third in the low hurdles, Rich Sanderson second in the 100, Ken Baker won the 220 with Al Moscaritola third. Bob Hale was second in the 440 and Jeff Strungis was third in the 880, giving North the point which actually won the meet.

"I planned to use my number two relay team with the meet already won but we haven't been beaten all year, winter or spring, in the relay and the boys wanted to keep the string going," Gentry said.

The relay team of Davis, Bill McCall, Sanderson and Affsa won to run the streak to 12 meets in a row.

North Netmen Win, Presidents Bow

Bill Willoughby's North Quincy tennis team continued its fine performances Monday with a 4-1 win over Norwell to make its record 7-1.

North lost the first singles as Steve Starsiak bowed to Ted Anderson but the Raiders won everything else. In singles Jim Machado and Tom BeHenna won their matches and in doubles Kevin McGinley and Tom O'Malley, Tom Quinn and Phil Swan won.

North yesterday faced B. C. High, which handed the Raiders their only loss. Friday the Raiders play at Thayer Academy, are home to Weymouth Monday and play at Quincy next Thursday.

Meanwhile Bill Mitchell's Quincy netmen continue to find the going rough and Monday were surprised by Hanover, 3-2.

In singles, Quincy's Stu Miller got the only win as Don Shaw lost a hard fought match and Ron Lund also bowed. In doubles Quincy's Jay Wye and Bob Barra won but Steve Raser and Dick Leavitt lost to give Hanover the match.

Monday, Quincy is home to B. C. High and hosts North Quincy next Thursday.

Germantown All - Stars Blank Hudson 2 -0

The Germantown Junior Soccer League all-star team defeated the Hudson Portuguese Soccer Club, 2-0, to establish itself as one of the top junior clubs in Eastern Massachusetts.

The Germantown team had previously defeated Winchester and will play other Eastern Mass. teams in coming weeks.

The local team controlled play throughout the game and, despite the close score, the outcome never seemed in doubt. Germantown opened the scoring when Mike Rooney took a high pass from Joe Long in front of the goal and headed the ball into the left side of the Hudson net.

"Rooney's header was one of the hardest I have ever seen," Coach Peter Gallagher said. "He really worked hard during the game and deserved that one."

Stephen Melzard smashed home a pass from Rooney and Stephen Sylva for the second goal.

The halfback line of Tom Connolly, Joe Long and Frank Shoemaker played a key role in the victory. Their superior speed and endurance enabled them to control the play almost at will.

Quincy Trackmen Roll

Tom Hall's Quincy track team continued to roll along unbeaten in Greater Boston League competition Tuesday with an easy 74-48 win over Medford to make its league mark 5-0.

The Presidents will meet Malden at Somerville Tuesday and the league crown is expected to be decided by the meet with unbeaten North Quincy next Thursday, probably at North's Cavanagh Stadium.

The meet scheduled today, a non-leaguer at Milton Academy, has been postponed until May 27 and the scheduled meet with Weymouth Saturday has been cancelled.

Quincy's Pete Laing remained undefeated with a win in the two-mile Tuesday, and Bobby Ciano stayed unbeaten with another mile victory. Quincy swept the discus with Mike Paluzzi winning, Frank Aldoupolis second and Scott Brand third. Bob McDermott won the high hurdles.

Quincy swept the long jump with Larry Finneran first, Joe Goguen second and Jim Malvesti third. Rich Menchi gave the Presidents their first win of the year in the javelin, Steve Shapiro won the shot put with Jim Bucchianari third, Malvesti won the low hurdles with John Dempsey second. Pete Daley won the 100 with Dave Coull second and in the 220 Fred Antoon, an up and coming junior, scored an upset by handing Finneran his first defeat.

Goguen won the 440 to remain undefeated in that event, and McDermott tied for first in the high jump with Steve Pasquale third.

Last week Quincy met powerful Abp. Williams, the state Class D champion in a non-league meet and was unable to contain undefeated Tom Magee, who again won three events to spark the Bishops to a 70½-50½ win.

Ironically, Magee, who won both the low and high hurdles for the 15th straight dual meet, 10 indoors and five outdoors, is a resident of Quincy. He also won the javelin to contribute 15 points to the win.

Magee, won the Student-Athlete award last winter in the Tri-County League.

Quincy's Finneran continued unbeaten in the 100 and 220 as he won both and also was second to teammate Goguen in the long jump. Other Quincy winners Steve Pasquale in the high jump and the relay team of Fred Antoon, Pete Daley, Jim Malvesti and Goguen.

Williams won nine events while Quincy won five including the relay.

N.Q. Girls Softball Team Looking On Bright Side

The North Quincy girls are in the midst of their first varsity softball season and, despite a slow start, Coach Gale Palmer feels things look bright and expects her young team to improve steadily.

"We lost our first game to Quincy, 20-4, but suffered greatly from careless errors which experienced players never would have made," she said. "Most of these girls have never played softball before. We have only six seniors and I think the future looks bright."

The lone seniors are Cheryl Burke, Marcia Chartier, Rita Monash, Denise Morrison, Danielle Paulsen and Denise Runge.

The other North players are Donna Couth, Nancy Fales, Dawne Gillespie, Virginia Kelly, Lisa Kowlick, Jane McGrath, Diane Mollica, Mildred Nestor, Gina Poole, Elaine Pujaltey, Jean Ricciuti, Jean Riley, Leslie Runge, Cheryl Smith, Linda Starr, Stephanie Wallace and Norma White.

Miss Kowlick, a sophomore, and Miss McGrath, a ninth grader, joined the team after the opening game and show promise.

"In our second game against Malden we trailed only 5-3 after three innings but then our inexperience ruined us again as we began to throw the ball around and we were bombed again," Gale said.

"We hit the ball a little better. That Quincy pitcher, Regina Pestelli, is tremendous and we didn't have a chance against her. While this is our first attempt at softball, Quincy did have a team last year that played a few games and I think Regina pitched during the summer in the recreation program. We even had to borrow some of their equipment to get started.

"In tennis, it is the opposite. We had girls' tennis on a limited scale a year ago while this is Quincy's first team ever and North opened with a 5-0 win over them."

The north coach noted that North is strapped for facilities in softball as in other sports.

"Quincy has a nice green diamond on which to practice and play, while we must practice on the triangle in front of the school and play on the stones and dirt known as Welcome Young Field," she said.

"Our opening game with Quincy must have been halted at least 15 times because the players were blinded by the blowing dirt."

GD Eyes Fifth Win At Norfolk

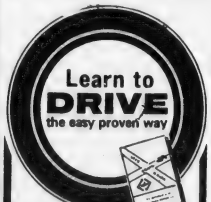
The General Dynamics soccer team will try to stay on top of the new Commonwealth League Sunday when it plays the Norfolk Shamrocks at Norfolk Prison Colony.

The Quincy Rangers, seeking their second win, will entertain Revere at 2:30 at the Quincy High Field at the rear of Veterans Memorial Statium. The game was originally scheduled for Revere.

Fred Bridge's GD team raced to its fourth straight easy win after an opening day loss when it walloped Weymouth Warriors, 8-2, last Sunday.

Although tied for first place in points, Peabody and St. John's are both unbeaten while GD has the one loss. However, the shipyard powerhouse, made up of experienced players from England, Scotland and Ireland, is favored to win the league's first championship. GD has scored more than twice as many goals as any other team.

Meanwhile, the Rangers, one of the league's youngest clubs, played the strong Peabody CLC team virtually to a standstill but was edged, 2-1.



Quincy took an early lead on Al LaVoie's goal but the Peabody team seemed to get stronger as the game progressed and its greater experience paid off.

Their halfbacks continually turned back Quincy's forwards. Quincy controlled play for the final 15 minutes but the Peabody goalie rose to the occasion with some fine saves.

Carlos Ferror nearly tied the score as his free kick sailed over the goalie's head but was inches too high and hit the cross bar.

Rick Melder's outstanding play at halfback earned him the game star award.

Regina Hurls Perfect Game For Quincy High Girls

Mary Pratt's Quincy High girls softball team continue to roll merrily along undefeated.

Following up their easy wins over Braintree and North, the Quincy girls bombed Wakefield, 20-0, as Regina Pestelli, who pitches all the team's games, hurled a perfect game. Not a single Wakefield batter reached first base and Regina struck out nine.

Karen Fruzzetti and Pat Thomas each had a home run to spark a 23-hit attack. Miss Pestelli chipped in with a triple and three singles.

Quincy then walloped Milton Academy, 16-3, with Miss Pestelli allowing seven hits and again striking out nine.

In their first four games the Quincy girls scored 71 runs to 17 for the opposition.

Monday Quincy plays at Weymouth. North is home to Weymouth today and plays at Braintree Friday.

Mayor's Disposal Solution

Pike's Peak Area New Refuse Site

Mayor James R. McIntyre will recommend moving Quincy's rubbish disposal to the non-residential, multi-acre Pike's Peak area in West Quincy, the Quincy Sun learned last night.

The Mayor, according to informed sources, is considering using the area for one of three disposal methods:

- Incineration.
- Sanitary land-fill.
- Compaction.

He will make his recommendation--with the three options--to the City Council at its next meeting June 1.

The sources said the Pike's Peak area is definitely the site he has picked as the solution to Quincy's nagging refuse disposal headache "for the next decade or longer."

The Mayor earlier this week announced he had the solution but declined to reveal it.

The sources believe he will recommend either a sanitary land-fill or compaction operation first with an incinerator to be constructed there ultimately.

A sanitary land-fill or compaction operation, they said, would serve the city's disposal needs "into the 1980's at least".

The several hundred acre area--a sprawling ravine--is located off Willard St. near the Blue Hills reservation and the Milton line.

A partial access road is now there. It would require extending this road.

According to the sources, the site is "the furthest point from residential areas in Quincy".

Earlier this week, the Mayor disclosed that Cashman's Quarry--present disposal site--will be filled much sooner than next spring, as originally estimated.

It will be filled far ahead of schedule, he said, because of considerable demolition work in the city and the state ban on residential rubbish burning that will go into effect July 1.

Public Works Commr. John M. Browne noted that the city averages $500 a day in dumping fees at Cashman's.

It is expected the dumping fees will be continued at the Pike's Peak area.

2,500 To March In Memorial Day Parade Monday

An estimated 2,500 marchers--including 29 guests from England--will participate in the Quincy Veterans Council Memorial Day parade and ceremonies May 25.

The three-division, 35-unit parade, will start at 10:30 a.m. from School St., proceeding up Hancock St. through Quincy Sq. to Mount Wollaston Cemetery for the ceremonies.

Keynote speaker will be U.S. Army Col. Clarence L. O'Brien.

Twenty-four children and five adults from Leigh-on-Sea, Essex, England, scheduled to arrive today [Thursday] for a 15-day stay with families in the Cranch School area, have been invited to take part in the parade.

The parade, enroute to Mount Wollaston Cemetery will pause at historic First Parish Church in Quincy Sq. for the placing of wreaths on the tombs of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams.

City Clerk John M. Gillis is chairman of the Memorial Day observance. Thomas McDonald, commander Quincy Veterans Council, is chief marshal.

Anthony M. Famigletti, junior vice-commander, is chief of staff; Roy Miller, senior vice-commander, aide and Arthur McLean of the Veterans Council, adjutant.

Leading the three parade divisions will be:

First: Lawrence Carnali, graves registration officer, marshall; Irving Isaacson, past commander Jewish War Veterans, adjutant.

Second: Allen Kofman, past commander Veterans Council, marshal; Walter Johnson, Finance Officer, Veterans Council, adjutant.

Third: Roger B. Whitcomb, Sr., vice-commander Quincy Amvets Post 7, marshal; Albert McKinnon, past commander Cavanagh Chapter 79, DAV, adjutant.

At the Mount Wollaston Cemetery ceremonies, Rabbi Jacob Mann will give the invocation; Rev. John J. McMahon the Memorial Day Prayer and Rev. Frank J. Bauer the benediction.

In addition to Colonel O'Brien's keynote address, there will be brief remarks by Mayor James R. McIntyre, Chairman Gillis and Commander McDonald. Adjutant McLean will deliver the Gettysburg Address, and the roll call of deceased comrades will be read.

Commander McDonald and Gold Star Mothers will present wreaths in honor of the dead of all wars. Mayor McIntyre will

Donahue Reportedly Has 18 Of 21 Delegates

Sen. President Maurice Donahue who officially announced his candidacy for Governor this week, reportedly has 18 of Quincy's 21 Democratic convention delegates in his camp.

Political sources close to the delegate scene estimate Donahue has 18, former Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti two and Boston Mayor Kevin White, one.

According to the sources, Donahue will also carry the Braintree and Randolph delegations. Braintree has six delegates and Randolph five.

The Democratic convention convenes June 12 at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst.

But despite who is nominated there, several of the other candidates for the gubernatorial nomination are expected to carry their campaign to the voters in the Democratic primary in the fall.

The Quincy delegates, by wards, are:

WARD 1: Thomas Brownell, City Councillor Edward S. Graham, Robert Hurney, Vincent Murray and State Rep.-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

WARD 2: City Clerk John M. Gillis, George McCall and Robert Page.

WARD 3: Richard Palmer and Frank Rusconi.

WARD 4: Henry Bertolon, School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly and Joseph P. Shea.

WARD 5: Francis X. Bellotti, Lawrence F. Fallon, School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., and Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre.

WARD 6: Christopher Delaney, Joseph N. Gildea, Richard J. Koch and Joseph Lydon.

The Braintree delegates are: Robert Breen, Joseph Hurley, John Keefe, William McRae, Leo Murray and Selectman Carl R. Johnson.

The Randolph delegates are: Edward Colbeth, George Kiley, John McCarthy, Rep. Joseph Semensi and Joseph Welch.

Quincy Has 56,196 Residents In 20 Years And Older Bracket

Quincy has 56,196 residents who are 20 years and older, according to the latest official head count.

City Clerk John M. Gillis reports the tabulation from a city-wide census completed in January and carried out by women poll workers assigned by his office.

This is an increase of 472 over those in that age bracket in 1969.

The census is taken annually to prepare voter eligibility lists and does not include residents under the age of 20.

The 1965 state census, the city's last official population figure, shows 87,158 persons of all ages living in Quincy. But it is believed the city's present population is actually 90,000-plus.

Gillis said it will be some time yet before his office will be able to breakdown the new poll taking census figures to determine how many of those 20 and older are male and how many are female.

In 1969, there were 4,750 more females 20 and older than there were men. Females numbered 30,237 to 25,487 males.

Women in this age bracket, no doubt still far outnumber men.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'I Am Deeply Concerned'

Like a lot of Americans I am deeply concerned...concerned about what's happening to our homes as a result of the Vietnam and now the Cambodian wars. I will leave to the economists what it is doing to our economy...this every housewife, stockholder and working man knows is not good. What concerns me is the alienation between members of families...especially the pitting of parents against young people.

When our national leaders refuse to listen to young people who are studying our national involvement in Vietnam...and who are asked to fight what they believe to be an illegal war...when their protests are met with name calling..."bums"..."wierdos"... "revolutionaries"...and when parents side with them against their children's views...these serve only to ignite resentment and demonstrations of anger. I'm against the violence but it is born of utter frustration...not a "communist plot".

We have educated young people as never before in human history. As I talk with young people I find that they no longer are satisfied with the cliches which we used to justify wars...to subjugate minority people...to keep a strata of poor in our society. The kids are concerned with the elimination of war...poverty... pollution of the air and earth...over-population. When I was a kid in college we were swallowing gold fish and packing ourselves into telephone booths. Today's kids are taking hold of the real issues of life...we educated them for just this. They are involved. They want a voice in what involves them. We decried apathy...we condemned ignorance. We built a great educational system to educate the young. Now...they want to put into effect the better ideas they've learned.

It would be nice to be able to blame a communist conspiracy for the demonstrations. More understanding demands that we open our eyes to see that we are reaping what we adults have sown...a dependence upon old patterns of thinking and acting which the kids reject. From the President to parent we need to start listening to our children. I see this as our only hope to regain their confidence and a working relationship.

The loss of confidence at the level of national government has caused an erosion of trust of parents and other adults at the grassroots. Only history will be able to say whether or not our military operation in Vietnam and Cambodia is wise. To young people today...right down into the elementary school levels...the war is wrong...yet adults support it by taxation...our draft laws...and party affiliations. This...they say...is hypocrisy. If we are hypocritical in this, we adults are tagged as hypocritical about other things. The kids say we don't think..we just go on and on..."business as usual"...trying to get "ahead"...seeking to maintain old principles which no longer apply nor work in the 1970's. It's little wonder that authorities at every level are being defied...that adults are not respected.

Young people think more broadly than most adults...and when adults will not listen to their ideas...when some adults call kids names because they dress differently...have different living styles...different ideas than our 50-year-old ideas...we are only "waving a red flag at a bull."

I am concerned...because I believe it will be years before this wide generation gap is closed...probably we will not see it closed in our times.

The power of leadership is fast passing from the older people to younger people. Our experience of years which we have said was our badge of wisdom is no longer valid. We are unadaptable. We have not built a better world for young people...we have built a world which faces extinction within five decades...unless we change our ways and do it quickly. I doubt that much will be done about war...poverty...pollution...over-population and other threats to human life until some of the rigid adult power structure gives way to more sane thinking for our times.

Meanwhile...back at home...listen to your kids with open minds...support their right to vote at 18...have discussions about the issues of our times...elevate your thinking to the big issues instead of the routine "business as usual" pettiness which young people don't respect. Cut out the ugly arguments...you and your husband/wife...the kids feel only fear...disgust...and confusion by your verbal fighting.

It may not be too late at your house.

Red Carpet For West Quincy's 'Mother Of Year'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Mrs. Noel Vient of 55 Willard St., West Quincy, has 13 children, 34 grandchildren and a very special honor as "Mother of the Year".

The latter designation was proclaimed by Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] during her recent visit to Washington.

She made the trip with a long-time friend, Mrs. Catherine Mooney of 162 Governors Rd., West Quincy, Mother of five.

"We were given the red carpet treatment by Congressman Burke," reports Mrs. Vient.

He treated them to dinner, introduced them to House Speaker John McCormack and other members of Congress, set up a tour of the White House for them and assisted them in sight-seeing trips.

Mrs. Vient and her husband, owner of the Quincy Rubber Stamp Company, have lived in West Quincy 37 years.

Their children--11 girls and two boys--range in age from 21 to 44.

"They are all fine children and we are proud of them," she smiled.

All of the children, attended Gridley Bryant, Central Junior High and graduated from Quincy High School.

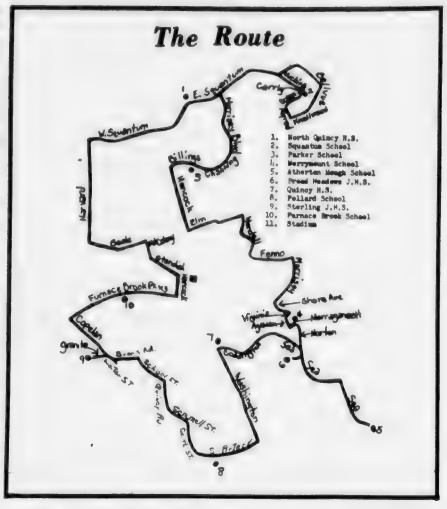
Mrs. Vient met Congressman Burke while in Washington to visit her son, Walter, now employed there.

He was a first lieutenant in the Army Signal Corps in Vietnam and was a varsity hockey player at Quincy High. He graduated in 1962 with a half-scholarship because of his sports talents.

In addition to Walter, who lives in Alexandria, Va., the other children are:

William, now of Bourne; Mrs. Jean Laquidara of Ashland; Mrs. Phyllis Pray of Niantic, Conn.; Mrs. Madelyn Donohue of Scituate; Mrs. Nona Cordella of Burlington; Mrs. Alice Shannon of Watertown, Mrs. Mary Lou Banda a graduate of Quincy Hospital School of Nursing and Mrs. Marjorie DiLorenzo, both of Medfield; . Mrs. Kathleen Girard of West Haverstraw, N.Y.; Mrs. Bernice Conway of Braintree; Mrs. Carolyn Sondeen of East Weymouth and Miss Suzanne Vient now at home, but who plans to marry soon.

13,000 Sponsors For Walk



With 13,000 sponsors cards now in circulation, Quincy's Walk for Development on Sunday is expected to draw some 3,000 to 4,000 walkers.

Volunteers, most of them young people with sponsors who have pledged from one cent up for each of the 25 miles completed, will register between 7 and 8 a.m. at Quincy Memorial Stadium on Hancock St.

Church groups are manning the 10 checkpoints at schools along the route, and peanut butter sandwiches will be made for refreshments.

Bill West of Cornell University, Ithaca, will return to Quincy to take part in the walk here, along with other representatives of the Freedom from Hunger Foundation.

Mayor James R. McIntyre will be on hand to greet walkers as they leave, along with School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, who took part in last year's walk. School Committeeman Paul Kelley will be among the walkers.

Alexander Smith To Receive DeMolay Legion Of Honor

City Auditor Alexander Smith, has been elected to receive the DeMolay Legion of Honor, announces George M. Saunders, Grand Secretary of the International Supreme Council of the Order of DeMolay in Kansas City, Missouri.

This is the highest award the International Supreme Council can bestow on a former DeMolay member "in recognition of his splendid leadership and outstanding career in worthy humane endeavors."

Smith, who has been city auditor 20 years, lives at 25 Muirhead St., Wollaston, and is a former member and recent Advisory Council member of Old Colony Chapter Order of DeMolay.

He is a Past Worshipful Master of Manet Lodge of Masons and served as an officer for 25 years. Treasurer for the past 12 years of the Quincy Lions Club, he is presently Deputy District Governor and will serve as President for 1970 and 1971.

Investiture into the Massachusetts Court of DeMolay Legion of Honor will take place in early fall, according to Alexander Harding, president.

Retail Stores To Be Closed Monday For Memorial Day

Retail stores and most businesses in Quincy will be closed Monday, May 25, in observance of Memorial Day.

"Any store that is not normally open on a Sunday has to close," Bernard C. Moore of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce said. "Banks, offices, city and state offices will be closed."

This is the second year in which Massachusetts has observed the fourth Monday in May as a full legal holiday. In 1971, federal departments will conform also, Moore says.

George K. Walker, officer in charge of the Boston Postal District, has announced that regular carrier deliveries will be made Monday in residential areas. In business areas, one-carrier delivery will be made to firms that are open. Normal window service will be maintained consistent with needs.

Special Delivery service will be on a regular weekday schedule, and morning collections will be made in stations and branches. Evening collections will be limited to star boxes, beginning at 4 p.m.

Saturday, May 30, Post Offices will observe regular holiday schedules. No delivery or window service will be provided other than normal box holder service provided on holidays by stations and branches from 8 to 10 a.m. Collections will be limited to the box in front of the local post offices only at 3 p.m.

Bus Commuters To Get Quincy Sq. Shelter

MBTA bus commuters will soon have a temporary waiting shelter in Quincy Sq.

At the request of Ward 4 City Councillor Albert R. Barilaro, Mayor James R. McIntyre has requested the MBTA to open a vacant store in the old Waldorf restaurant block next to City Hall.

McIntyre said Col. Warren Higgins, in charge of Planning and Construction for the MBTA, has promised to open the store in the immediate future.

The Waldorf and the old Eastern Mass. bus waiting room were razed recently to make way for the new MBTA station parking area.

The vacant store in the same block will stand until the station is ready.

Barilaro said a number of West Quincy residents had complained to him that there was no shelter for them while waiting for buses in Quincy Sq.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Toasts And The Wedding Cake

It is traditional for guests to toast the bride and groom at the reception.

The first toast offered, by the best man, is uaually performed shortly after the bridal couple have been seated at the head table. By custom the last is drunk in champagne.

The orchestra plays a musical fanfare at a signal from the best man. He stands at the table and in his own words wishes the couple health, happiness and prosperity.

A toast taken from a book never is as effective as a few sincere words straight from the heart. He could say for example, "To Mary and Bob, health, happiness, and prosperity always." The brides name is always mentioned first.

If he wishes to make a longer more personal toast he may do so providing it is in good taste and is sincere. Every one stands to drink the toast except the bride and groom.

It is customary for the groom to rise and thank the best man and then to offer a toast to his bride. More toasts may be offered by the ushers or fathers. Every one except the person toasted should drink to each one. When the toasts are over the best man stands and reads any telegrams sent by friends or relatives.

THE WEDDING CAKE

The wedding cake has been part of the wedding traditions since ancient Roman days when the cake was broken over the bride's head and guests fought each other to get crumbs for good luck tokens.

Today's wedding cake is a beautiful creation as compared to the hard thin loaf used then. The bride cuts the first piece of wedding cake starting at the bottom layer assisted by the groom whose hand is placed over hers' as they cut together.

They share the first piece together and then a waiter or attendant cuts and serves the remainder. The top layer is saved for the new husband and wife.

Happiness

By
Margaret DeAngelo

The world is full of happiness,
For those who want to find it.
It may be in the glowing sun
Or hiding right behind it.

It's pressed in every handshake,
And shown in every smile.
It lingers in a letter
And in the eyes of every child.

It can be a part of giving,
No matter how big or small,
And in a cheery welcome,
When someone comes to call.

It needs no special season,
Or time to come to you,
So find a bit of happiness
In every thing you do.

Hostess Aid

Barbecuing For Formal Dining

Hostesses everywhere are discovering that covered kettle barbecuing is the perfect companion to a formal dinner party, allowing them maximum time with their guests. And, when ease of preparation is desired, the chefs who created the original Weber covered barbecue kettle suggest whole beef tenderloin with baked mushroom caps as the entre. No cut compares in flavor, texture and pure eating pleasure, and none requires so little attention.

Select a five to six-pound tenderloin and allow it to warm to room temperature. Rub it vigorously with a garlic clove and then baste well with peanut oil before putting on the kettle's grill over medium, indirect heat. Cover and allow one hour for pink-in-the-middle medium done.

For a melt-in-the-mouth garnish prepare two or three large two-inch mushroom caps for each guest as follows. Wash the caps under cool running water, remove stems, then dry the caps thoroughly. Place the caps underside up in a greased, shallow baking dish, add a pat of butter to each cap and lightly sprinkle in salt, seasoned pepper, and grated Parmesan cheese. Cook alongside the tenderloin during the last 15 minutes.

When serving, arrange the mushroom caps around the meat, topping the tenderloin with a single row of french fried onion rings.

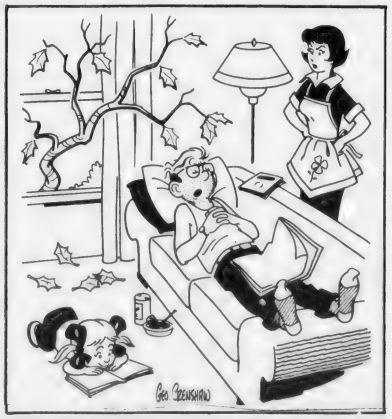
WOMEN IN LOVE

Love?...is it such a multi-faceted expression as to be almost unapproachable...to be fully appreciated does an individual have to compartmentalize it into the physical, spiritual, and intellectual...and then as it were, rip down the wafer-thin walls of enclosure so that all three are invisibly interwoven in unison?

"Women In Love" is a poignant, searching, passionate and highly sensitive filmed artistic achievement. And yet, it is even more than luminous entertainment. Under the probing direction of Ken Russell, the motion picture microscopically dissects the emotional involvement of four sensual individuals, who in their desperate search for love, are entangled in the labyrinth of their own misconceptions and false delusions.

"Women In Love" is taken directly from D. H. Lawrence's superlative masterpiece of a novel; and is a story about the Brangwen sisters, Ursula [Jennie Linden] and Gudrun [Glenda Jackson] and of the men they fall in love with, Rupert Birkin [Alan Bates] and Gerald Crich [Oliver Reed].



The sisters are as emotionally different as the social background and temperament of the two men they love. Ursula is more of a country girl, domestic type desiring only the absolute devotion of one man. Gudrun is a tormented, and at the same time tormenting feminist, craving every physical pleasure, but at the same time seeking for so much more...no sexual excess satisfies her. Rupert is more complex than Ursula, whom he is physically attracted to. He also wants the love of one woman, but desires more in a higher relationship with a man. His hunger is not of a homosexual nature, but more of an intellectual thirst for fulfillment that he finds only with Gerald. And where Rupert is a school teacher of a limited social background, a man who finds happiness in rolling around in the nude in sun drenched fields, his counterpart Gerald is a person fenced in by his inherited position of scion of a mining industry, and strangled by his incapacity to love.

Odd how he and Gudrun should be so mutually attracted. Their love is destructive...and leads the soul-anguished Gerald to his destiny high upon a freezing, snow capped, Swiss mountain...where Rupert is pure spontaniety, Gerald is stiff and wooden...unable to come to grasp with his being human; a man who can not respond instinctively, but only like his machines...in an automated fashion. Where Ursula is singularly pure as her outer glow of virgin innocence, Gudrun is a taunting nymph...a bitch-goddess who will go to any extreme to come to grips with Gerald's brutal lovemaking...even to the excess of having a relation with a homosexual artist in order to flaunt and degrade Gerald's masculinity.

Like the novel, the film has the nude wrestling scene in it between Gerald and Rupert. The image of the entangled bodies is startling at first...the dripping sweat on their bare gleaming bodies is highlighted by the jumping flames in the shadowy glow of a hearth fire...the principles are in physical combat, but at the same time they aren't. The scene is symbolic of Rupert's involvement with a man and man relationship. But not in the homosexual sense. More so, in a complete relationship bringing together the spiritual, intellectual and physical which is his quest for BLUTBRUDERSCHAFT [bloodbrotherhood].

However, Gerald is not able to comprehend Rupert's total commitment for brotherly satisfaction...Gerald wants more...maybe too much more...and it is this wanting that leaves the viewer a little puzzled as to Gerald's true motivations...was his a search for a truth that he wasn't able to face? Was it Gudrun's rejection, or his not coming to grips with who he was that led to his disillusioned death?

As such "Women In Love" poses many questions that only the individual viewer can answer.

"OKAY, OKAY, OKAY...I SAID I'D PRUNE IT, DIDN'T I?"

Jaycees Seek Volunteers To Clean Pine Island

Do you care about Quincy's environment?

On Sunday May 31 at 9 a.m. the Quincy Jaycees, headed by Arnold Bennett, committee chairman and President William J. Griffin, will join forces with Richard J. Koch and the Quincy Park Department to clean up Pine Island at Merrymount Park.

It has been Koch's hope for some time to turn the area into a camping site for Quincy residents. However, because park areas now in existence must be maintained, it has not been possible to secure the necessary manpower to clear the area.

The Jaycees have offered the services of their membership to aid in the clean-up project.

Any citizen interested in seeing a neglected area of the city become useful may call Mr. Griffin at 773-0500, Mr. Bennett at 472-5870 or Mr. Koch at 479-3160.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

"What can I do to help you" .. and .. "What's in it for me" .. are two opposing attitudes. "What's in it for me" is self centered demand, lacks every altruistic and lofty purpose.

The "What's in it for me" attitude has identified people in the past just as it labels people today. Judas received his infamous thirty pieces of dirty silver by dramatizing the thought in the lowest and crudest form.

Gradually and happily, it does seem at times that a better philosophy is taking hold. More and more we hear incidents, we see examples of "Can I help you"...Strangely enough, [or is it so strange?] the "Can I help you" attitude has a wonderful way to remove the fatal flaw of greed. More often than not, the "Can I help you" attitude provides us with an ample answer to "What's in it for me"...

Safford Park Dedication Re-scheduled For Sunday

Dedication ceremonies for the Safford Park memorial, postponed last week because of rain, will be held Sunday at 2 p.m.

Parade plans are still tentative.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, a life-long resident of Wollaston and Korean War veteran, will be the principal speaker.

Wollaston Legion Post is in charge of arrangements for dedication ceremonies with Past Commander Arthur I. Senter, chairman. Past Commander Albert H. Googins, is co-chairman and treasurer of the Park Memorial Committee. Commander Joseph A. Cunniff will be master of ceremonies. Past Commander Louis B. Eaton, William Campbell and Irving Badger are members of the parade committee.

Funds for the memorial dedicated to "those who served their country" were contributed by Wollaston citizens, business and professional men in a drive planned by the Wollaston Post.

The name of each contributor has been recorded on a master list which will be placed in a sealed tube, inserted in the memorial's base and made a permanent part of the memorial.

The memorial is an original design of Paul Riccardi of Wollaston who donated his professional services. It was constructed and erected by the Quincy Memorial Company at cost as its contribution to the community project.

A model of the memorial made by Herbert F. Cole, senior counselor of Wollaston Council United Commercial Travelers, was displayed for more than a year in the office of the late William F. Shea on Beale St., past president of Wollaston Business and Professional Association.

Quincy Park Department crews, under the direction of Richard J. Koch, executive secretary, have prepared the site for the memorial which will take the place of a World War I Howitzer. This was removed from the Park during the all-out metal salvage operations of World War II.

A flag pole made by Frank McCausland which originally stood at the front of the former Wollaston Post Home on Beale St., has been refinished and will be erected at Safford Park by the City as a further contribution to the community's memorial site.

Beautification of the park with shrubbery and flowers has been undertaken by the Wollaston Garden Club as its community service project.

Formal dedication ceremonies have been prepared by Rev. Frank Bauer of Wollaston Lutheran Church and Rev. Charles L. McEachern of First Baptist Church of Wollaston. Both are chaplains for Wollaston Post. Each religious denomination in the community has been invited to send representatives to the exercises, along with veteran, fraternal and social organizations of the community.

Ivar Nelson, director of music for the Quincy Public Schools, has been requested for participation by the Quincy and North Quincy High School Bands, many of whose members live in Wollaston.

Persons still desiring to assist with funds for the memorial and have their names listed for the tube may send their subscription to Wollaston American Legion Post, P. O. Box 56, Wollaston, Mass. 02170

Peace

Peace to me is a feeling,
A feeling you have inside.
With President Nixon a leader
And God the Father a guide.
When Peace comes over the world
A light will light in your head
The world will be brought together
And not be shambled apart.
This world was made to be happy,
Not fighting and killing each other
So love everyone in the country
So love your sisters and brothers.

Spring

Spring is a beautiful time of the year. There are many things to do. The thing I like most is horseback riding. You saddle your horse and ride. You ride through the fields of gold and green, letting the wind blow in your face, letting green grass whisp back and forth with the wind. Then you stop under a shady tree staring at the beautiful flowers with their trim of gold from the sun's reflection.
That's what I like!

Fable

One day as Mr. and Mrs. Cat walked along they met Mr. and Mrs. Rabbit. Mr. Rabbit couldn't wait to relate to the Cats what his wife had just told him.
But, while he was doing so, Mr. Cat fell into some quicksand. So Mr. Rabbit procured a rope and pulled him out. Then Mrs. Cat fell down and broke her leg. So Mrs. Rabbit put a splint on it for her.

What Spring Means To Me

I think spring means a lot of very pleasant weather. It means colorful, budding flowers. As you walk down the street you see little girls jumping rope, and boys playing either stickball or baseball.
In the country there's a certain stillness. The only sounds seem to be the birds chirping and the leaves rustling. You can see bees going from one flower to another.
As you walk down the road you can hear the distant humming of a motorboat. Then, as you turn the bend in the road you see a few motorboats and a few sail boats gliding over the water. The children too young to go boating are playing at the water's edge with toy boats or catching frogs and toads.
Then there is also the bad part of Spring. That's when you have spring cleaning to get done; dust flying, and furniture moving. I still love spring.

"Think", said Frank
"Think", said Paul
Sitting on chairs
In the little old hall.

Think about birds

They don't eat steaks

They don't grow hair
They don't ride planes

I know an old friend call Hungry Hog, who gulpped down some T.N.T. He was so hungry he ate some more. While crunching on another stick he blew up. The Lion And The Elephant

One day Sir Lion was walking through the jungle. As he walked, he came upon an elephant. Sir Lion said to the elephant, "I am of paramount importance to anyone in this jungle".
The elephant retorted, "You are not more important than your own kind". However, Sir Lion did not believe him. By the following year, there were so many lions that they could kill Sir Lion if he interferred with their affairs. So he had such misgivings that he ran away and starved himself to death.

Once there was an elephant named Elco. He liked to go to the beach. One day he went to the beach. He was playing in the sand when he fell asleep. He dreamed he had dig a hole to China. When he got to China he saw a rickshaw. He asked if he could have a ride in the rickshaw. The man said he could have a ride. Off they went. When Elco was looking around he saw some men robbing the bank. Elco ran to the bank and hid behind the wall and caught the men. The King and Queen of China gave Elco a party, and had a parade for him. When Elco woke up he was afraid that the men would get out of jail and kill him.

The Eclipse

This year the eclipse took place on the eastern coast of the United States, in other words about where we live. The way I saw it was with two pieces of cardboard a few feet away from each other, the first with a hole in it. In this manner you see a small version of the eclipse on the second piece of cardboard. When this is done you can see only part of the hole filled with light.
While the eclipse was going on the day was like late afternoon. It was starting to get darker, and shadows grew longer. Suddenly it started to grow light again, and was soon like early afternoon.

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

There are days when Ralph Marple must feel like twins.

First meet Ralph Marple, professional ten-pin bowler - the only active professional ten-pin bowler in this area, and one of six in New England.

And, now meet Ralph Marple, professional singer, classical and popular.

The Professional Bowlers Association is similar to the better known PGA [Professional Golfers Association]. Eligibility depends on competitive average, recommendations, etc. Entrance fees are required for tournaments, usually $125.

RALPH MARPLE

In the winter season just concluded, Marple bowled in professional tournaments at Milwaukee, Buffalo, New Orleans and Madison Square Garden, New York. That comprised one-third of the season's big tournaments. Of the 130 touring bowlers taking part, Ralph placed 17th in the first 20 with a 205.7 average.

"Each season requires about a $3,000 investment," Marple explains. "There are the entrance fees of $125 for each of the 12 tournaments, plus living and traveling expenses. But prize money is high – something like $250,000 a year for a top bowler."

Since ten-pins are only now coming into popularity here, few people know about the PBA, and few men are able without financial backing to attempt the tournament round, he says. It's expensive.

Marple works until he has sufficient money to finance his hobby [?], most recently as a sales representative. He has no trouble finding jobs, with his college background. Lacking only eight hours credit for a degree, he left Northwest Nazarene College in Hapa, Idaho, to pursue bowling.

"Of the four tournaments this winter, I broke even financially," Ralph claims. "The pressure is much greater when you are financing yourself than when you have a backer. I would like to locate a company. It's a very lucrative opportunity for a $3,000 investment."

Then there is the other "twin".

Ralph Marple, baritone soloist at the First Baptist Church of Wollaston, has cut a record album of sacred songs, now available to the public.

Also, teaming up with composer Ted Rosen of Talent, Inc. in Quincy, Marple has a release record, "I Climbed To The Top of the Mountain" and "Only He," a love ballad. They are seeking the right publisher for this.

In his role as singer of sacred songs, Ralph has taken part in radio programs with John deBrine of Ruggles Street Baptist Church in Boston. He sang the lead part in "Elijah" with the Quincy Symphony Orchestra; and with the British Choral Society in "Creation." He sang in high school and in college; he studied under Robert Hale.

On the other hand, Ralph traveled to California, donned handlebar moustache and waiter's costume for a singing role in "Hello, Dolly!"

"I've heard it has been cut from the film," he admits. "Some friends who saw the picture told me. I haven't seen it myself. There was some trouble with the union. I was non-union, but I got the part anyway."

April 14 it seemed for a few minutes Ralph Marple's talent might be limited to staying alive. In a spectacular accident on Route 128 while attempting to avoid another car, his own car went out of control and turned completely over. Ralph escaped with minor hand injurfes.

Now he's back to being twins in a talented "double life".

Study New 'Three R's' Sweeny Tells Honor Students

School Committeeman Charles T. Sweeny, guest speaker Monday at Quincy High School when 26 students were inducted into the National Honor Society, urged them to study new "Three R's".

By "Three R's", he said he meant, "resolution, respect and restraint" to replace "riot, revolution and rejection".

He gave as advice' "Don't cop out; don't quit the scene, don't give up the ship. Change what is wrong; change it for what is better."

Philip Hult introduced those participating in the program. Robin Rosen gave interpretations of service, scholarship, leadership and character. Music was by the Quincy High Concert Choir directed by Mrs. Gale Harrison.

Between Us Girls

By Pat Ridlen

This Is My Life

Since I started writing this column hundreds of people have inquired about me, perhaps not hundreds;but dozens, well, would you believe there is this little old lady in West Quincy who is very nosy.

Anyway, to satisfy your curiosity, I have decided to write an article describing myself, my family, where we live and what we do.

I am 36 years old, 5 foot 8 inches, am very skinny, and have naturally curly red hair. My husband is president of his company, and we have nine children ranging in age from 15 to 5 years. We live on a large farm in Quincy, where we raise race horses. My hobbies are sky diving and going on trail drives in Texas.

Our nine children are all on the Honor Roll and are shining examples to all the neighborhood children; why neighbors even ask my advice on how to bring up their children. My husband and I, in all our 16 years of marriage have never spoken a cross word to each other.

My happiest time of day is about 5:30 A.M. when I hop out of bed with a song on my lips and love in my heart for the entire world. I make a huge breakfast of ham, eggs, [4 kinds] bread [I've baked myself] and home made muffins [3 kinds]. I whirl through my morning chores, humming happily as I clean up my lovely home.

All my work is finished by 11 a.m., and I begin getting lunch ready for my nine adoreable children. As each child comes in, he tells me what he'd like for lunch, and within minutes, I set it before him. They happily skip off to school in the afternoon. But I do miss them so when they are gone. I can't wait for summer vacation when they will be home with me all day.

In the afternoon I whip up some dresses for the girls and shirts for the boys on my sewing machine; being a prize-winning seamstress I then have time to do any sewing that friends may have dropped off, because, as all my friends know, my sewing is almost as good as my knitting, crocheting, tatting and hooking rugs.

When the children come home from school, there are assorted cookies [Fresh Baked] and home made ice cream set out for them. The children immediately change into their play clothes; do their homework and their assigned chores before going out to play. Later, I hear their happy shouts at play. All their friends are shouting too. Oh, how I love to hear the shouts of happy children at play.

There are never any arguments or misunderstandings among the children, and of course, my own wonderfully behaved children speak to their brothers and sisters only words of brotherly love. My husband arrives home promptly at 5 every day. I meet him at the door with his favorite cocktail in one hand, and the mail for the day in the other. No bills, of course, we pay cash for everything, even our lovely Mansion. I have a beautiful hostess gown on, a new hairdo, and a rose in my teeth.

He says, "As always Darling, you look lovely." I say "Thank you dearest, and you look handsome too. Did you have a nice day, Sweetheart?" "A wonderful day, Dear, and yours? "Wonderful, too, My Love, I reply.

The children come in from play, still spotless. Our house is in its usual immaculate condition, ready for any unexpected company my husband might bring home to supper. I just love him bringing home his little friends from the office, and he knows he never has to call, because I love unexpected company; it's so-so wonderful.

We sit down to dinner by candlelight. Our usual gourmet meal is served. The children go off to bed after supper, and are fast asleep in their wee little beds before 8 p.m. My husband puts on some classical records and we dance in our ballroom.

Perhaps we may watch something on TV, the educational channel only, or read to each other from one of the classics. Before retiring, we watch the late news on TV. Nothing of special interest to us, "just another uneventful day" the TV announcer notes. The perfect end to another perfect day.

NOTE TO EDITOR: PLEASE PICK ONE OR MORE OF THE FOLLOWING ENDINGS TO END ABOVE STORY:

Now all my readers know all about MY WONDERFUL LIFE.

By now, anyone who knows me should be on the floor in hysterics.

By the way, you should all have realized by now that I am a pathological liar!

I must end this story now, because my attendant says its time to return to my room which is padded in a lovely shade of pink.

SOME OF THE ABOVE, I must admit is not true, but some is. I AM 36 years old!

Bowling Green Dedication Saturday

A ribbon cutting ceremony for a new building with lounge and restroom at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park, will be held Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

The building at the site of the Quincy Bowling Green marks a cooperative effort by city agencies and the staff and students of Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The building was constructed in sections at the school as part of its carpentry program. The sections were then assembled and completed at the Bowling Green site. The Park Department paid for the building materials and constructed the concrete slab foundation. The combined effort resulted in a cost of approximately $1,000 in materials, opposed to $3,000 for labor and materials had the work been done by an outside contractor.

"This project could not have been undertaken unless labor-saving cost by the Voc-Tech students of carpentry, plumbing and electricity was reflected," says Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Park-Recreation Board.

"This project has provided actual building construction experience for the Quincy Voc-Tech School students, a needed additional facility to the Quincy Bowling Green and a savings to the taxpayers."

Credited by Koch with rendering "invaluable assistance" to the project are School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon; Maurice J. Daly, assistant superintendent; and Laurence H. Babin, principal and director of the Vocational-Technical School.

Koch noted there are less than ten bowling greens throughout Massachusetts. The Bowling Green in Quincy provides hours of recreation for the Quincy Bowling Green Club members, many of whom are senior citizens.

Recreation Roundup

This weeks Pilot Project Activities were highlighted by the Open House held at the Quincy Point Youth Center. Mayor James R. McIntyre climaxed the event with a ribbon cutting ceremony.

The spaghetti supper held by the Grenham Youth Center was a huge success, with many enjoying the home style Italian food. Proceeds went to the Grenham Center Building Fund Drive.

Barry Welch, director of the Pilot Project reports this news from the other Project areas:

Houghs Neck

ATHERTON HOUGH BOYS

Indoor hockey has taken over the Atherton Hough gym. The unbreakable plastic sticks and plastic pucks have added a new twist to the hard fought games. Monday nights hockey activity is led by "Chief" Reardon, "Pie" Began, and Turk Grady. Rookie action has been monopolized by Jim Forrester Jack Crane and Ace Provost. Come on down and enjoy the "Stanley Cup Junior" action now in progress!

GRENHAM YOUTH CENTER:

The Grenham Youth Center has nominated the following for the Youth Council: Jack Maguire, Lu Ann Price, Rain Drohan, Jack Chennetto, Mike Clark, Jean Lynch, Vinnie Rhode, Terry Iacovino, Joe Picard, Paul Galligan, Mike Saccoach, Mary Picard and Mike Dunn. Voting is being held this week for the four positions.

During the past week Mike Dunn won the ping pong championship and Mike Saccoach the pool competition.

Germantown

SNUG HARBOR GIRLS

In hockey the Snigs battled gallantly only to fall to defeat at the hands of the Meadows by an 8-4 score. Tony Esposito and Gerry Cheevers would have been proud of goalies Mary Lou Bouchard and Linda Fishel.

Bombardment was next on the sports roster. Gail and Darlene Bergstrom were stars on the court. Teams were also helped greatly by Janet Campbell, Nancy Robertson, Cheryl Matthew, Michelle Sachetti, Mary Foye, Cathy Roche, Joyce Galliaro and Leslie Mitchell.

Next week we hope to get outside to play softball. Everyone interested in a softball team is welcome to come. Many positions still need to be filled.

SNUG HARBOR BOYS

Jim French and Bill Dacey were standouts in the hockey games held at the Snug Harbor gym Friday night. Defensively Frank Di Salvo was unmatched, as he continuously kept the puck on the oppositions ice, and was effective in killing the clock. In the ping pong matches Steve O'Rourke was undefeated, winning three straight matches. Next week Paul Craig will be pitted against Steve O'Rourke for the championship.

Quincy Point

QUINCY POINT YOUTH CENTER

Busy decorating the Youth Center are Debbie Isaac and Sheree Tripp. The girls are making bright flowered curtains to liven up our room. Mike Hanratty keeps our coke machine filled by running to and from grocers to insure members of cold refreshment.

Paul Zanowski and Carl Badmington make the best card playing team at the center. Beating either of these guys at a game of gin is an impossible feat. Pool champs this week are: Gordon Smith, Dave Maloney, Joe Marini, Paul Eklumb and Johnny Goguen. Meanwhile, the table hockey tournaments are being monopolized by the skill of Stevie Arnold, Mike Crosson, Judy Giglio and Rita Rice.

POINT JUNIOR HIGH:

Our Monday program at the Point still finds the hockey program going strong. Those enjoying this weeks games are: Mike Crosson, Dean Gambino, John Alfano, Dave Colltio, Jackie Daley and Tory Trubiano whose team is called the Crossons. Challenging them are the Rands: Mat Guest, Mike Rand, Mike Hanratty, Tom Ford, Jim Crowley and Steve Palucci.

Stage Set At Stadium

Quincy, North In Track Title Showdown Today

The first Greater Boston League track championship will be decided today at Quincy Veterans Stadium when Quincy and North Quincy, the only unbeaten teams, clash in one of four dual meets ending the league season.

Both Tom Hall's Presidents and Bob Gentry's Raiders take 6-0 league records into today's big meet. Quincy lost a non-league meet to powerful Abp. Williams.

"This is a great boost for Quincy track, having our two teams fighting it out for the championship," Hall said. "It should be a great meet and the times and distances in our meets have been very close."

Quincy defeated tough Malden, 71-51, Tuesday at Somerville with Bobby Ciano remaining undefeated in the mile and Larry Finneran staying unbeaten in the 100. Finneran lost only one race this year and that was to teammate Fred Antoon.

Brian Feeney placed third in the mile and Dave Coull third in the 100. Pete Laing was second and Tom Plante third in the two-mile, Frank Aldoupolis won the discus with Mike Paluzzi second, John Dempsey was second and Bobby McDermott third in the high hurdles, Joe Goguen won the long jump with Finneran second and Steve Shapiro was second in the shot put.

Rich Menchi placed third in the javelin, Jim Malvesti won the low hurdles in the fine time of 22.3 seconds and Larry Butler was third, Steve Pasquale won the high jump and McDermott was second, with a fine timing of 23.5 seconds. Antoon won the 220 with Pete Daley third, Goguen was second in the 440, Jim Dubois was second in the half mile with his best time, 2:09.9, only eight seconds behind the winner, and Quincy's relay team of Finneran, Goguen, Daley and Antoon won.

North raced over Everett, 91 1/3-32 2/3, winning 13 events. Paul Affsa and Lee Davis were again double winners, Affsa winning the long jump and 440, and Davis the javelin and low hurdles.

Jim DeVerennes was second in the javelin, Dave Haight second and Dan Coughlin third to complete a sweep of the long jump, and Ken Baker was second and Al Moscaritola third to complete a sweep in the 440.

John Panarelli won the discus with Jim Ziniti third, Steve Leet was first and Paul Day second in the shot put, Dave Mahoney won the high jump with Don Gilliland third, Kevin Henry again won the two mile in 10:10 and George McCall was third, and Pat McCormack was second in the mile.

Bill McCall won the high hurdles by inches over Haight in one of the closest races of the year, Rick Sanderson won the 100, Bob Hale the 220 and Chris Kennedy the half mile. The relay team won its 13th successive race winter and spring competition with Bill McCall, Hale, Sanderson and Affsa running.

Going into today's title-deciding meet Davis, Hale, Affsa, Henry, Panarelli and Mahoney were undefeated.

Saturday at White Stadium both teams will be trying to qualify for the state class meet a week from Saturday. Quincy is in Class A and North in B.

Make Tourney But--

Presidents' GBL Title Hopes Shattered

Quincy's baseball team has qualified for the Eastern Mass. tourney for the third time in four years but its chances of winning the Greater Boston League title were just about ended Tuesday when it dropped a 3-2 squeaker to first place Somerville.

The Presidents wound up their league season yesterday with a makeup game against Chelsea and the best they could do was finish with a 10-4 record.

Somerville's win Tuesday gave it a 9-2 record with three games to play but Quincy Coach Bob Basiliere admitted "they aren't apt to lose two more games."

Tuesday's game was a mound duel between Quincy's Rich Brown, going the route for the second game in a row, and 6-5 Bob Olson, Somerville's ace, who had been defeated by Quincy earlier at Somerville.

Olson gave up only four hits, struck out 12 and walked only one. Brown yielded six hits, fanned eight and walked four.

Somerville opened with two runs in the first inning but Quincy came right back to tie it up on singles by Russ MacDonald and Rick DiCristofaro, a balk and infield out.

That was Quincy's only thrust, however, as Olson handcuffed the Presidents the rest of the way. Somerville won it with a run in the third on a walk and a double.

Quincy's other two hits were collected by Bruce Carlson.

"This was another outstanding schoolboy game and all three of our games with Somerville were very well played," Basiliere said. "We played to a 14-inning 1-1 tie, then beat them, 4-1, out there. It was no disgrace to lose it and both teams played fine ball."

Last week, after qualifying for the tournament, the Presidents were knocked out of first place as cellar dwelling Everett shocked them, 8-1.

The Crimson Tide hopped on Jimmy Walker, brilliant reliever making his first start, for three runs in the first and added five off Bill Haddix before Bob Driscoll came in to blank the winners over the last three innings.

Quincy's seven hits were kept well-scattered by Ralph Young, who struck out nine and walked only two and the Presidents scored their only run in the ninth on back to back doubles by Pete Lucier and Russ McDonald.

"I think our boys learned an important lesson today," Basiliere said. "In this league you can't let up against anyone, even the last place team. Everett played a great game and Young pitched a tremendous game."

Kevin Ryan and John Stevens had two hits apiece for Quincy.

Earlier in the week a clutch hit by Ryan and courageous pitching by Rich Brown gave Quincy a big 3-2 win over Malden in 11 innings to put Quincy into the tournament.

Ryan waited until the 11th for his first hit of the game and his screeching drive over the left fielder's head brought in Cliff Mattson with the winner.

"Ryan has been playing real good, solid ball lately," Basiliere said. "He began the season slowly, going 0-for-12 but now is batting .320. And he's been playing good defense, in fact the whole team has played well defensively."

Brown, going the route for the first time, showed plenty of courage as he gave up seven hits and four walks and Malden left 13 men on base.

The Presidents won the game on only three hits, two by Billy Maver, who sacrificed Mattson to second in the 11th setting the stage for Ryan's game-winning and tourney-qualifier.

Medford Bombs North, 13-1

North Quincy's baseball team ended its season yesterday with a makeup game against Everett and Coach Charlie Bunker was hoping for a win to end with an overall 10-9 record.

A win would give the Raiders a 6-8 Greater Boston League mark.

North was bombed by Medford, 13-1, Tuesday at Medford but Bunker had a few things to smile about. Four of the five Raider hits were collected by sophomores as Ed Driscoll had two and Dave Nelson and Tom Burke one each. Jack Flaherty, a junior, had the other.

"I started a sophomore, Bob McKay, pitching and, although they got five runs off him in the first inning, they had only one real solid hit and only two runs were earned," Bunker said.

"I felt I should start the sophomores as we were going nowhere in particular and the game meant nothing. The future looks good with so many sophomores getting varsity experience and doing a good job."

Last week the Raiders made a gallant bid to aid Quincy's cause with one of their finest efforts of the year but bowed in the 12th inning to Somerville, 6-2.

Scott Manson shut the Highlanders out for eight innings and took a 1-0 lead into the ninth only to have the winners tie it up.

Somerville took the lead with a run in the 11th but North came back to tie it when Jim Driscoll singled, Tony Kelly ran for him and stole second and Dan Zink singled to tie it up.

But the Highlanders then erupted for four runs in the 12th for the victory.

"This was a tremendous game," Bunker said. "It had everything, pitching, hitting and defense until the last inning for us."

Manson gave up seven hits in his nine innings and Craig Bogosian was the loser. Steve Langley had a double and single and Manson had a triple.

The day before Bunker used 22 players including most of the junior varsity squad in losing a non-league game to Milton Academy, 7-3.

Milton, whose catcher is North Quincy's Paul Varney, brother of the renowned Harvard slugger, Pete, scored six runs in the fifth to win it.

Dave Watson, Ed Joyce and Joe McKay were the pitchers for North Quincy.

Robbin Rollers Young At Heart (And Real Sharp Shooters, Too)

Charles Kranfuss holds the high average of 101.6 in the Robbin Rollers bowling league.

Not bad--for a 74-year-old.

And some of the other members of the league--ranging in age from 67 to 85--are also pretty good sharp shooters.

They live at the Robbin House Convalescent Home, 205 Elm St., Quincy Center and are winding up their third year of league action at the "bowling alleys" there.

They use plastic pins and a softball.

But these amputees and wheelchair sportsmen whip up as much enthusiasm as bowlers in big league championship tournaments.

"We try to do the utmost to show these wonderful senior citizens that active life need not come to an end due to being in a nursing home," says Mrs. June Gibbons, activities director.

The league bowls three strings once a week. Monthly trophies are awarded to the high single bowler.

Kranfuss also holds the high single string of 129.

James Pye, 67, has a 93 average and John Tomonowick, 74, has an 89.6. Pye has also rolled a 122 single, Harry Zellner, 79, a 98 and Tomonowick, a 97.

Other active members of the two-team league include Seigfried Carlsen, 69; Ralph Billings, 79; Purcival Hutchinson, 73 and John Ferriter, 73, all of Quincy; Harry Pursey, 79, formerly of Cambridge and Paul Iorio, 84, formerly of Braintree.

The league held its banquet last week and has closed the season until fall.

It's not that the fellers are getting tired. It's just because, explains Mrs. Gibbons:

"Baseball is now on TV. And we can't compete with that!"

Montclair Women Present Awards

Awards were presented at the Montclair Women's Bowling League recent banquet at Montello's, along with "crying towels" for the captain.

Barbara Santry received an award for high average of 96; Fran Gilbert, high three of 330; Lucy Fair, high single, 126; Opal Gott, most spares, 102; Ruth Scalata, most strikes, 17.

Top 10 bowlers were Barbara Santry, Opal Gott, Rose Cunningham, Kay Shaughnessy, Fran Gilbert, Anne Leisher, Claire Mitchell, Ruth Scalata, Betty Williams and Patsy MacLellan.

Perfect attendance awards went to Lucy Fair, Isabel McIntyre, Miriam Sacry and Kay Shaughnessy.

New officers are Anne Leisher, chairman; Opal Gott, treasurer; Claire Kaczka, secretary; and Constance Durante, Sunshine girl. They succeed Isabel McIntyre, chairman; Miriam Sacry, secretary; Peachie Fitzgerald, treasurer; and Evelyn Foley, Sunshine girl.

Cris Fanara, Brian Boidi Fitness Winners

Climaxing six weeks of events held at Sterling Junior High School Cris Fanara and Brian Boidi were crowned the winners of a modified fitness program.

This event was held under the direction of Robert Johnson and Vincent Picardi of the Quincy Recreation Pilot Project staff. The testing included softball throws, shuttle runs, basketball shooting, 100 yard dash and concluded with an obstacle course. Points were awarded to those boys who scored highest in each of the individual categories.

Barry J. Welch, Pilot Project Director, presented awards to those who accumulated the highest point totals. All participants received a physical fitness package for having participated in the program.

The award winners were:

Sixth grade, Peter Bassett, 10 points, Bruce Aristide, 8 points, and Alan Boidi, 7 points.

Fifth grade: Peter Pagnano and Jim Vallatini both with 14 points. Jim Maze totaled 13 points for second place.

Grade Four: Robert Marshall, first place with 13 points. Fred Sheppard followed close behind with 10 points.

Grade Three: Chris Fanara 19 points for first place, Louie Avitable 13 for second and Tom McKay 12 for third.

Grade two: Brian Boidi 19 points, Matthew Fanara 14 and Joe Bassett 9 for second and third place winners.

QJC Ends Bright Season

Quincy Junior College ended its second baseball season, and a successful one, Tuesday when it was edged by Wentworth Institute, 2-1, at O'Rourke Field in the semifinals of the Mass. Junior College League playoffs.

Another excellent pitching job by Dick Volpe went for naught in a tight, well-played game.

Dave Burke's club had finished the regular season with a 7-3 record.

The league's annual banquet will be held tonight at Lombardo's in East Boston for the baseball, basketball and hockey teams.

All-Stars will be announced and several trophies will be presented for outstanding players in various categories.

Mayor Cuts Ribbon At Youth Center

The Quincy Point Youth Center at Fore River Clubhouse was officially opened to youth of the area Sunday when Mayor James R. McIntyre cut a ribbon opening the doors of the center.

Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall assisted. Other dignitaries present were Councillor John J. Quinn, Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue, Rev. Robert Tyrrell of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Recreation Director William F. Ryan and Pilot Project Director Barry Welch.

A room on the Harrison St. side of Fore River Clubhouse was made available for a Drop-In Center. Youth of Quincy Point area painted, redecorated and refurnished this room with the help of Bill Myers, Frank Brillo and Peggy O'Brien of the Recreation Department. A grant from the State Division of Youth Service provides funds for the project.

At the open house, Joseph Marini, chairman of the seven-member Youth Advisory Board, presented to Leo Kelly, chairman of the Houghs Neck Grenham Youth Center Building Fund, a check from the youth of Quincy Point.

The open house committee included Deborah Isaac, Sheree Tripp, Steven Arnold, Joseph Marini and Beth Hanratty.

Diarrhea

[Today's guest column is written by Dr. Jessica Etsten, an associate of Dr. Charles Djerf]

This unpleasant condition is ever-present, and flair-ups occur in almost epidemic forms, periodically. Actually, diarrhea is a combination of loose stools and frequent stools [over three or four a day]. Only if both conditions are present is it considered, medically, diarrhea.

There are many causes of diarrhea, and much of the fear of it is a hang-over from the stories of high mortality rates, at the turn of the century, from "summer-diarrhea" of the newborn or young infant. These babies died of dehydration and acidosis, which today is avoided if treatment is sought, by oral electrolyte treatment or intravenous feedings.

This was probably caused by the virus of the Coxsackie group and some bacteria. Crowded unsanitary conditions apparently contributed to the epidemic-like spread. The Boston Floating Hospital was founded as a treatment center for those babies affected by "summer diarrhea" from the slum areas of Boston. A ship anchored in Boston Harbor was used as a treatment center, and the babies did so well that it was then converted into a year-round hospital ship and finally, when the boat burned, a building replaced the ship, at the present site.

One of the simplest and perhaps oddest diarrhea causes occurs around the age of 18 months to 2½ years when the child tries to eat everything and chews poorly. Lumpy or course foods can start a diarrhea which is easily controlled by cutting food smaller or eliminating foods that are passed in their undigested state.

Apparently infections of the ears, nose and throat in childhood not only produce stomach-ache as a sympton, but often produces gastroenteritis so that vomiting or diarrhea can occur. This stops only by treatment of the underlying infection.

However, the real object of this report is "What is a Mother to Do?" With the first onset of diarrhea, household care may avoid serious prolongation of the problem. Stop all fruits and fruit juices. Offer small feedings of a soft nature - such as jello, junket, yogurt [no fruit variety] eggs [if usually tolerated], rice, cereal, soups or if severe diarrhea starts just give clear fluids [broth, tea, water, ginger ale or coke and skim milk] until you can reach the doctor. Since diarrhea can do little harm over a few hours period, it should not be necessary to call the doctor in the middle of the nite.

Kaopectate and such drugs can be usefull in prescribed doses if you have it in the medicine cabinet - they keep indefinitely. If you don't have any anti-diarrheal medicine, you have to wait until the drug store opens anyhow.

Unless the diarrhea is prolonged or extremely voluminous, don't panic. Just try the above mentioned measures. If these are instituted at the start, dehydration should not follow.

Takes Issue With Dr. Knox

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I read with interest, every week a column by Personal Counselor, Dr. William Knox, who writes "COME LET US REASON TOGETHER." May I make a few comments on his latest article "I Am Deeply Concerned."

Dr. Knox said, "WE HAVE EDUCATED YOUNG PEOPLE AS NEVER BEFORE IN HUMAN HISTORY." [Now that can be taken two ways.] "THEY WANT TO PUT INTO EFFECT THE BETTER IDEAS THEY'VE LEARNED." [Often by the worst methods.] "FROM THE PRESIDENT TO PARENT WE NEED TO START LISTENING TO OUR CHILDREN." [Do we have any choice? Gee, I remember in years past, people had the ridiculous notion that children should listen to parents.]

"YOUNG PEOPLE THINK MORE BROADLY THEN MOST ADULTS." [You have GOT to be kidding, Dr. Knox.]

"OUR EXPERIENCE OF YEARS IS NO LONGER VALID." [But their inexperience is?]

"WE ARE UNADAPTABLE" [Listen, Dr. Knox, if we OLD FOLKS [Anyone over 30] weren't adaptable during the past 30 years, we'd have died of shock by now; and are most young people so adaptable to ideas that do not agree with theirs]

It's people like you, Dr. Knox, trying to be "in" and "with it" that cause a generation gap.

I believe the majority of young people are the greatest, but I do not, for one moment believe that all the goodness, brains, decency, desire for change, and working toward a better world for generations yet unborn, are attributes ONLY of the young.

One final question - Who are these so called "uncaring" people who have built, fought, paid, died, loved, worked, prayed and taught so that this younger generation could afford the luxury of dissent?

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke of Quincy is being mentioned around political circles as a possible compromise candidate for governor if the Democratic convention winds up deadlocked next month.

Sen. President Maurice Donahue seems closest to putting the necessary number of delegates together to get the nomination.

But some sources think Boston Mayor Kevin White and former Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti of Quincy have enough delegates between them to keep Donahue from winning on the first ballot.

That could possibly set the stage for a deadlock and a brand new face in the gubernatorial picture.

Also being mentioned as a compromise candidate is Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn. Should he somehow wind up with the nomination, Burke might have a good shot at the attorney general nomination.

Burke, former Quincy City Council president, has become a well known state wide political figure since winning the Norfolk County district attorney's job four years ago. He's the first Democrat ever to hold the post.

His anti-drugs war since taking office has kept him in the spotlight. And, he has a good name for the Democratic ticket.

INCIDENTALLY, friends are honoring Burke today at a 5 to 7 p.m. reception at Pier 4, Boston.

This is the year he will be up for re-election. He'll run for re-election, naturally, if nothing materializes for him at Amherst next month.

And if nothing happens there, then, you could very well see him in the state limelight four years from now.

SPEAKING of politics, Marshall Bacherman of Grenwold Rd., is Norfolk County campaign coordinator for former President Kennedy aide Kenneth P. O'Donnell in his bid for governor. Bacherman is president of the United Remodeling Co. on Billings Rd., North Quincy.

SAD MEMORIAL DAY note: Veterans Services Director William Villone notes that "Taps" sounded for 194 Quincy veterans during 1969.

By wars, they include: Spanish-American, 4; World War I, 75; World War II, 97; Korean, 3 and VIETNAM, 15.

And a sadder note, for those who keep hoping that a war will be the last war: Forty-one Quincy men were lost during the Korean War. As of the end of 1969, 40 Quincy boys had alread been lost in the Vietnam War.

DID YOU KNOW that Bing Crosby is a descendant of William Brewster, one of the original Pilgrims who landed at Plymouth in 1620? He has also been a member of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants since 1954.

And Der Bingle is quite proud of his ancestry. In a recent letter to the Society, he observed:

"In these days of world-wide disregard for the moral law it is well to remember our God-fearing Pilgrims. They made it the hard way, with no idea that anyone owed them a living. Faith and ambition cannot be bought. We are justly proud of our Pilgrims!"

QUINCY'S E & D fund, had $88,791 in it as of the end of April, reports City Auditor Alexander Smith. That's the so-called "rainy day account" to be tapped for emergencies.

HERE'S ONE: On a recent rainy day at the Wollaston School, the kindergarten youngsters were being helped with their rain gear before leaving school.

Finally, there was one unclaimed raincoat left.

"Who's raincoat is this?", asked teacher Miss Mary Kenney. No response. Spotting little Tony without a coat, she asked: "Is this your coat, Tony?". "No, it's not mine," he replied.

And he kept insisting it wasn't his.

She asked again: "Tony, are you sure you didn't wear this coat to school today?" "Yes, I wore it to school," he said. "But it's not mine. It's my sister's. She let me wear it."

7 U-Mass Staff Members Visit Quincy Voc-Tech

The group, headed by Dr. Ray Johnson, director of the Occupational Education section at Amherst, visited with Maurice J. Daly, assistant superintendent of schools, and other Quincy Voc-Tech administrators along with educators involved in special projects at elementary, junior high and high schools.

The School of Education is attempting to work out cooperative programs of internship and externship to develop vocational and occupational education administrators.

City Expects To Win Low Rate Flood Insurance

Mayor James R. McIntyre expects Quincy to qualify for a federally subsidized program under which homeowners could obtain "extremely low rate" flood insurance.

"We are optimistic that Quincy will qualify," the Mayor said. "And we are hopeful that approval will come in the next couple of months before the hurricane season."

Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson said the program would allow Quincy homeowners to obtain flood financial protection at a rate of between 40 and 50 cents per $100 valuation.

Most single homes and up to four-family dwellings would be included in the program, he said. Personal property would also be covered, he noted.

"This is an extremely low rate of insurance," Mayor McIntyre said. "It would mean considerable financial protection in the event of future floods."

Quincy made application in April to the Federal Insurance Administration in Washington, D.C.

The city has been informed the application has been properly received with an indication that "there is every possible chance that it will be approved," according to Mayor McIntyre and Davidson.

A definite decision is expected in 60 to 90 days.

"It is safe to say," said Davidson, "that any private home subject to flood in the city will be eligible when the program is approved.

"The plan is made flexible enough to 'include'--not 'exclude'".

Mayor McIntyre, who is also state senator, has suggested that the towns of Braintree and Randolph also take advantage of the low rate insurance program by making applications.

McIntyre represents Quincy, Braintree and Randolph on Beacon Hill.

Retiring After 44 Years

Miss Nora Mullarkey: A Life Of Devotion

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

"I am ending 44 years of teaching and I'm as enthusiastic about my work today as I was the day I started to teach," says Miss Nora Mullarkey, retiring kindergarten teacher at Daniel Webster School in Quincy Point.

Miss Mullarkey spent the first six months of her career at Montclair School when Miss E. Dorothy Russell was principal. But for the past 43 years, Daniel Webster School has been her second "home."

Before kindergartens were added to the Quincy Public Schools in 1954, she taught first, second and third grade classes.

Not one for making changes, Miss Mullarkey and her sister, Miss Margaret Mullarkey, a retired legal secretary, live now as they have for more than 50 years in their large home at 98 Crescent St., West Quincy, across from St. Mary's Church. Their brother, Msgr. John E. Mullarkey, is pastor of St. Pius V parish in Lynn. Their father was a casualty of the Spanish-American War.

"Our mother bought this house more than 50 years ago because she wanted to stay at home so that we could have a home. It was always bursting with boarding school teachers," the sisters say. "We can look out our window and see the house where we were born."

The Mullarkey sisters are graduates of Woodward School for girls. Miss Nora Mullarkey graduated also from Lesley College in Cambridge, and has taken courses at Massachusetts School of Art and Boston University.

Love and devotion to children are the prime interests of Miss Mullarkey's life, she admits.

"When I started at Quincy Point, there were children there of 32 nationalities, or combinations of nationalities," she relates.

She lists families where she taught two and sometimes members of three generations: The DiTocco's, DiTullio's, Spadorcia's, Mariano's, the Pettinelli's among them.

Another family, the Papiles, she recalls as: "An example of a large family and family unity where the family helped one another – never problems because their parents brought them up to help one another – I think there were 16. I think I had all their boys and their families," Miss Mullarkey recalls.

Then there were the individual students whom she remembers with loving pride:

●--Bill Dana whose TV role of Jose Jimenez brought him fame, was a second grade pupil many years ago when he lived in Hancock Court and was then known as Bill Szathmary.

●--Richard Porteous, "an outstanding pupil", the son of Rev. and Mrs. Chester Porteous of Christ Church, a Harvard graduate, and now a lawyer.

●--Julian Cherubini, a third grade student, whose mother, Rose Cherubini a fashion designer, was PTA president.

●--Valerie Pepe, a 1954 student at Daniel Webster, daughter of Nicholas Pepe, and now an Emmanuel graduate.

●--Mary Ann Ricca, a specialist in children's work at Children's Hospital.

●--Paul Baharian, second grade pupil, son of Rev. and Mrs. Bedros Baharian of Quincy Point Congregational Church, now at South Shore National Bank.

Teachers at Quincy High School, all former students: William Pactovis, mathematics; Edward Nankin, guidance counselor; Pasquale Trifone, drafting instructor at Voc-Tech [Miss Mullarkey remembers him as "Patsy"].

A psychologist, Alberto DiMascio now of Randolph, was in one of her classes.

Among the businessmen are Remo DeNicola of South Shore Television; Richard Nourse and Robert Leo Eng, both photographers; George Cirillo, now owner of the Villa Rosa Restaurant -- and most of his children!

Last week at a Furnace Brook School kindergarten workshop, Miss Mullarkey was surprised with a "retirement" party. School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, presented her with a plaque. Also present to honor her were William Phinney, assistant superintendent; Morrie Hibbard, principal of John Hancock and Lincoln Schools, chairman; and Theodore Silva, of Daniel Webster School, whom Miss Mullarkey terms "the fairest of principals."

Miss Mullarkey expects to do some traveling – "But I can't say when." She and her sister have visited the continent and particularly Ireland, many times.

"There will be reading, music, sewing, we have so many hobbies. Right now we are looking forward to a visit from a relative coming to America for the first time," she confides.

Miss Mullarkey, true to her profession, adds a parting word of advice:

"Parents can be close to their children. When they are starting to school, give them love and affection; give them security, and be interested in your children. Everyone loves praise."

Youth Center(s) Planned For North Quincy

Plans for one or more youth centers in the North Quincy area were disclosed today by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Representatives of area organizations and interested residents are being invited to attend a meeting June 3 to discuss possible sites.

The meeting will be at 8:30 p.m. in the DAV Hall, 111 Newbury Ave.

McIntyre and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, said the planned center or centers would be "a cooperative effort between the city and the community".

"There is a real need for a youth center in North Quincy," McIntyre said. "It is the only major area in the city that now has no such center."

Montclair and Atlantic are pinpointed by Koch as the sections where the need is greatest. Another possible site, he said, is at the former Squantum Naval Air Station base.

Koch stressed the youth centers should be designed to "have an appeal to both the athletic and non-athletic youth."

McIntyre noted that youth centers in Germantown and Houghs Neck have worked out "very satisfactorily" for youth in those areas.

"I have a deep personal concern for the problems facing our youth of today," McIntyre said. "The need to understand and assist them in solving these perplexing situations is of great importance and they must be resolved by greater communication with our youth, not in a supervisory capacity, but rather in a mutual understanding between adults and youth, where we may discuss and respect each other's thinking."

Participation of community organizations, such as school, church, civic, fraternal and business is sought, as well as interested persons.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

What Does A 31-Year-Old Bride Wear?

Q. I am 31 years old. Am I too old to wear a traditional wedding gown?

A. If this is your first marriage then by all means wear the traditional wedding gown. You would naturally wear a more sophisticated type gown then a younger girl. This is the only place you will have to be a little cautious but with the help of a good bridal consultant you will have no problem.

You may find one of the light pastel tones more flattering then white, however.

Your wedding may be as formal and as large as you desire with all the fanfare that goes with any wedding. The bride in her late 30's or older would be more appropriately gowned in a floor length or short dress.

Q. My sister and I are planning a double wedding in the fall. Who goes first and who does dad walk with?

A. The older of the two sisters walks down the aisle first on her father's arm. The second sister follows escorted by her brother or closest relative.

The proper procedure for the entire party - for a double wedding is: the ushers of both wedding parties walk together first followed by the bridesmaids and honor attendant of the first bride, then the older bride on her father's arm. The next group of bridesmaids followed by the younger bride on her brother's arm.

In the recession the senior bride and her husband leave first followed by the younger bride and her husband. Then follow the older girl's honor attendant and bridesmaids and then the remaining honor attendant and bridesmaids. All the ushers bring up the rear. This procedure would also follow if two friends were having a double wedding.

To keep the effect harmonious both brides and bridal parties should be dressed very much alike and there should be the same number of attendants in each group.

The Cool Off Pitcher

Most men enjoy presiding over the barbecue grill . . . but it can be mighty thirsty work if he's cooking for a crowd. To keep him happy while he bastes and broils, provide the outdoor chef with a big pitcher of frosty iced tea which he can quaff while he works. Iced tea is truly thirst-quenching because it is non-sweet and non-sticky, and because it's low on the calorie scale, it won't spoil anyone's appetite for the barbecued treats. Here's an easy, foolproof way to make a 2-quart pitcherful, enough for 10 tall glasses.

Iced Tea by the Pitcherful

- Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan.
- Take from the heat and immediately add 15 teabags or ⅓ measuring cup loose tea.
- Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes.
- Stir again and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of cold water.
- When ready to serve, pour into ice-filled glasses.

Note: If using instant tea, allow 4 rounded tablespoons of powder to 2 quarts cold water.

DINING OUT . . . AT HOME

By Pam Parker

Half the fun of traveling around the country is the opportunity to eat in some of America's finest restaurants and discover recipes which you can cook yourself. One of the most delicious, yet easiest to prepare main dishes I've found, is sauteed breast of capon or chicken with sherry sauce as prepared by master chef Dennis Michalak of Chicago's Biggs, one of twelve "Best in Country" Mobil Travel Guide Five-Star rated restaurants. Here is Mr. Michalak's recipe:

Poitrine de Capon Vieux Carre a la Biggs

8 double breasts of capon or chicken
¼ cup Colman's Dry English Mustard
1 cup sherry wine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Mix ingredients together and dip capon or chicken breasts into it so that both sides are covered. Then dip capon or chicken in flour and sauté slowly in butter until golden brown, about 20 minutes on each side.

Sauce:

½ cup melted butter
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons paprika
¼ cup Colman's Dry English Mustard
¼ cup red wine vinegar
¼ cup sherry wine
5-6 shallots chopped fine
1 clove garlic—minced
Chicken stock or base (College Inn Chicken Broth—1 can) ¾ pint heavy cream
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 egg yolks

Blend ingredients together until smooth. Cook until thickened for about 15 minutes. Stir often.

Serve either with sauce on the side or over the capon or chicken. Garnish each dish with large mushroom head and shrimp, and sprinkle fresh chopped parsley over it.

Honest John

By Joseph Ciccolo

Here's to Honest John; a man so brave and true
He loved his wife and family, and other people too.
He lived a clean and Holy life and never drank or smoked,
But he certainly was witty and could really tell a joke.

He brought up all the Boy Scouts, so they could be great men.
But they'll never see another man like Honest John again.
I know we all will miss him and this is now the end.
I hate to a pal like John; a buddy and a friend

"TELLING IT LIKE IT WAS."

"A Man Called Horse" is the first motion picture of its' kind which sensitively treats the American Indian with forthright candor and biting accuracy. In pursuit of creative excellence director Elliot Silverstein has done away with the flim flam trappings of a Caucasians' biased prejudice and the cavalry in hot pursuit. What he has given us is that rarity in film art...an historic cinema achievement with a distinct definition of purpose all its' own.

Sharpened to a cutting edge with authenticity, "A Man Called Horse" is definitely a film of the 70's because it draws its' strength by "telling it like it was"...from an Indians' perspective, rather than a Whites!

Set in the American Dakotas of 1825, the story centers around an English nobleman, Lord John Morgan [Richard Harris], and his subsequent capture by the Sioux. While bathing naked in a stream his hunting camp is raided by a war party and he is claimed as a beast of burden by Chief Yellow Hand [Manu Tupou]. After being bound and dragged to their village, the chief gives the "horse" to his harridan mother, Buffalo Cow Head [Dame Judith Anderson]. Determined to be free, Lord Morgan attempts a futile escape and is brought back to the village by his rather bemused captors. While bound to a stake like an animal he is confronted by Batise [Jean Gascon], a crippled Frenchman captured five years previous, who explains to him the hopelessness of escape. Realizing he has no choice but to adapt to their culture, he then endeavors to prove himself a man in their tribe so that he can win the love of Yellow Hands' sister, Running Deer [Corinna Tsopei], and become a chief.

After surviving a bitter winter, the season slips into spring and at that time Morgan gains the Sioux' faith and trust by killing two Shoshone braves who were spying on their camp. Upon return to the village he offers the two Shoshone horses for Running Deer, and she accepts. However her brother, Yellow Hand, insists he take the Sun Vow in order to prove himself as a man and his worth as a chief.

What follows is one of the most realisticly, tortuous sequences ever depicted on film. After enduring a 24 hour span standing under the days broiling sun, and the nights sharp cold, he is made ready for the Sun Vow Rite by the camp's Medicine Man [Iron Eyes Cody]. In the ceremonial lodge the Medicine Man very carefully gouges holes in his chest with animal claws. Through the crimson holes he inserts buffalo bones, where upon horsehair ropes are attached to them, and Morgan is slowly hoisted twelve feet to a hole through the roof with the mid-days sun directly overhead. Needless to say the above scene is not for the weak of heart or the squeamish.

Silverstein included the Sun Vow Rite in his film to achieve total authenticity of his subjects to show us how the Indians lived in their pristine state prior to the advent of the white man. However his determination to capture complete reality extended much further than this one scene.

Except for the four principal stars, the entire cast is made up of "real" Indians from South Dakota's Rosebud Reservation. Clyde Dollar, Rosebud's resident historian was called in to give the picture historical perspective and accuracy. All of the actors, except Harris and Gascon, were required to learn and then talk only the Sioux language in the film. The sets and clothes were designed and made by the Rosebud Sioux. The background music is authentic Sioux, and was co-ordinated by one Lloyd One Star, who is also a member of the Reservation. In every respect Silverstein achieved his objective of "telling it like it was."

For the Sioux-Shoshone battle finale Silverstein employed the talents of one of the screen's greatest action directors, Yakima Canutt. Famed for his celebrated chariot race in "Ben Hur", it was Canutt's responsibility to carefully coordinate the battle scene which included a rampage of 300 wild horses, and involved 600 actors and extras. This 15 minute sequence was completed without mishap or injury to any of the actors, extras, and the million dollar insured Richard Harris.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

As Memorial Day approaches, the words of William E. Gladstone come to mind. He was the brilliant British political figure, 4 times Prime Minister who died in 1898.. ."Show me the manner in which a nation cares for its dead, and I will measure with mathematical exactness the tender mercies of its people, their respect for the laws of the land and their loyalty to high ideals".

His words have special significance on our American scene. While Memorial Day is observed and all our dead are honored in every town and village, special attention is always centered on Arlington National Cemetery, our nation's Memorial shrine. Arlington National Cemetery occupies what was once the family estate of Mrs. Robert E. Lee...Roert E. Lee, as you know, was the Commanding General of the CONFEDERATE armies. This chosen location is proof positive of American tender mercies with loyalty to high ideals.

In next week's thought you will read about the tomb of America's Unknown Soldier. It will be interesting. Don't miss it. . .

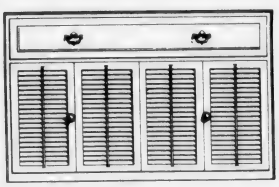
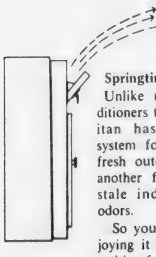
STRAIGHT FROM THE Reader's Digest



Put fresh ideas in your window.



ROOM AIR CONDITIONERS look so much alike it's hard to know what's really new.

One is different.

To start with, the Cosmopolitan by Carrier doesn't look like an air conditioner. Even after you turn it on.

It has a handsomely louvered front which conceals all controls. And a drawer-like top that automatically flips open just enough to send cool air upward and out in an arc of comfort.

Air circulated this way cools rooms without drafts or hot spots.

Springtime freshness

Unlike most air conditioners the Cosmopolitan has a separate system for bringing in fresh outdoor air, and another for exhausting stale indoor air and odors.

So you can start enjoying it now—without waiting for hot weather.

Only one with a tiny heater

Another unique feature of the Cosmopolitan is the way the sensitive thermostat is protected from outdoor temperatures by a 10-watt electric heating element.

Once you set the comfort level where you want it, there's no way changes outside your window can upset your cool.

Savings now

The Cosmopolitan is among 32 Carrier models designed for every type window, every size room.

And now's the time to buy.

Now's when you get the best selection, the fastest installation.

But insist on a demonstration.

Until you see it in action, you might think the only thing different about Carrier's Cosmopolitan is its good looks.

10,000 Feet And 10,000 Helping Hands

There were more tired feet in Quincy this week than in an Army boot camp, but it was worth every blister, corn or ache.

An estimated 5,000 persons used their 10,000 feet to extend a helping financial hand to the needy and hungry.

Ranging in age from 3 to 71, they set out on a grinding 25-mile Walk For Development Sunday. Many of them made it. Many didn't.

But, earning anywhere from a penny to $1-plus per mile, they assured more money for more needy than last year's initial walk.

The walkers, before starting out from Veterans Memorial Stadium, heard Mayor James R. McIntyre tell them:

"You deserve a lot of credit for walking for a wonderful cause, for those who need help not only in the world but right here in Quincy."

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon drew applause when he promised that because of last year's absences following the Walk, "No school for you tomorrow!" [Monday was a legal holiday]

Also spurring the group on were Fred DuFresne, a walk organizer; Mary Sweetland of the Universalist-Unitarian Association who spoke of the project for Toga, Africa; Dave Ezickson of Quincy's Project Headstart; and Rev. James Kimmell, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, where a child development center is planned.

"We can't tell just how much the Walk will realize right now," Joyce Randall, one of the Walk's directors told the Quincy Sun. "We will know by June 13 when all the proceeds should be turned in to the South Shore National Bank.

At least two members of the clergy completed the 25-mile hike, Rev. Kimmell who started with the 8 a.m. group and Rev. Frank Fairbairn who completed his walk from 1 to 7 p.m., then returned to Sacred Heart Church to celebrate a mass, according to Miss Randall.

Officials joining the march along with Dr. Creedon, who last year completed the 30-mile Walk, were City Councillors Walter Hannon and J. Vincent Smyth, School Committeemen Paul C. Kelly and his neighbor, Charles T. Sweeny [in combat boots and carrying a knapsack]; James F. McCormick; City Purchasing Agent George Riley; and Bernard Moore of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Russell O'Connell, CAP Director, and John Murphy, guidance counselor at North Quincy High School, were also among those at the finish line.

Money from the walk will be divided into three parts: 42.5% for an agricultural project in Togo, Africa; 42.5% for a nutritional project in South West Quincy; and 15% for projects of the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation.

'D-Day' English Flag In Memorial Day Exercises

An English flag, obtained through an appeal in the Quincy Sun, had its place of honor in Quincy's Memorial Day exercises Monday.

The flag, which flew over Essex County, England on "D-Day" in 1944, was loaned by Mrs. Arthur Coakley of 6 St. Germain St., Germantown.

Mayor James R. McIntyre appealed for an English flag in a story printed in last week's Quincy Sun.

It was to have been carried in Quincy's Memorial Day parade in which 24 youngsters from Leigh-on-Sea, Essex, England were invited to participate.

The youngsters are staying with families in the Cranch School area on a 15-day visit.

The parade was postponed until this Saturday because of inclement weather.

But the flag made its appearance at the exercises held at Quincy High School.

It was proudly carried by Ross Fraser, 11-year-old Sea Scout who is staying with the family of Mrs. William Taylor of Dixwell Ave.

It made him feel quite at home. Ross lives in Essex County.

Sun Reporter Borrows Socks, Gives Her 'Sole' For Walk

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT
Quincy Sun Staff Reporter

Last year I was on the peanut butter sandwich and water bucket squad at Broad Meadows Junior High School during the "Hunger March."

This year I was out where the "action" was -- in the Walk for Development.

It was a family enterprise -- sort of. My husband, Dick, and youngest son, Quincy Sun newsboy Stephen W. slogged along with me. Our four financially solvent children sponsored us for 10-cents a mile; the two insolvent teenagers loaned us their wool socks. [The latter is recommended].

It was an unforgettable experience! We surged out of Memorial Stadium at 8 a.m. Sunday in a wave of youngsters that reached from curb to curb on Standish Ave. as far as we could see.

We walked, and we walked, in the sun and the wind -- for a family total of 42.8 miles! [We reached Atherton Hough - 14.6 miles from the start!] With 12 sponsors each, we walked for a family total of $4.25 per mile -- A $62.05 total for The Walk for Development. The Sun sponsored me for $1 per mile. [plus a story].

We met our family crisis at Merrymount School, but the promise of a double-decker ice cream cone with jimmies lured the reluctant member of the trio on.

It was a great day, and a great cause, and a great bunch of young people -- and a couple of grandparents felt just great to be able to join them!

Quincy Memorial Day Parade Re-scheduled For Saturday

Quincy's Memorial Day parade has been rescheduled for Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

Most of the musical units originally scheduled for Monday's parade, cancelled because of inclement weather, will take part on Saturday, according to Anthony Famiglietti, parade coordinator.

Ceremonies were held at Quincy High School on Monday, and there will be brief ceremonies at Mount Wollaston Cemetery on Saturday.

The parade will start from the Mayor Ross parking area, proceed along Hancock St., Codding St., and Sea St., to the cemetery.

Age No Barrier For Walk

Age was no barrier in Quincy's 25-mile Walk for Development on Sunday with participants ranging from six to 71 years.

Youngest known to complete the grind was Joanna Poole, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Poole of 125 Winthrop Ave., Wollaston. She was one of seven Poole children walking.

Also among the youngest was Quincy Sun newsboy Michael Alcott, nine-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Alcott of 57 Essex St., Squantum. Michael, sponsored for $1.87 a mile, will turn in $46.19 toward this year's goal to help feed the hungry.

Believed to be the oldest to complete the tour was Edward Donahue, 71, living at 1000 Southern Artery, retired diesel engineer, sponsored at 20 cents a mile.

Take Your Wife To Dinner At Swingle's Quarry?

How would you like to take your wife or best girl out to dinner–at Swingle's Quarry?

You'll have the opportunity, if plans of Specialty Restaurant Corp. go through.

David C. Tallichet, Jr., president, and Hallan J. Smith, Boston realtor, have informed the city they would like to build a restaurant either spanning Swingle's Quarry or in the quarry area.

The corporation, needless to say, specializes in placing restaurants in unique spots. It has a chain of nine in California.

The Swingle's Quarry area was taken by the city by eminent domain as a possible future site for rubbish disposal.

Mayor James R. McIntyre who now plans to move the refuse disposal to the Pike's Peak area, said he is willing to discuss the restaurant possibility.

The Swingle's Quarry area was a location site for the movie "The Cardinal". The quarry was the last granite producer in the city.

Five Blue Spruces Planted At Woodward School For Girls

Five blue spruce at Woodward School for Girls, planted Tuesday by Prof. James V. Babcock of Eastern Nazarene College, complete the beautification program there.

Previously girls and some of their parents worked Saturday and Monday during the weekend holiday to set out some 400 plants, including 100 geraniums, contributed by Eastern Nazarene College as its project. Miss Diana Schaefer, a ninth grade student, was in charge of student volunteers.

Woodward School was one of three private schools chosen, in addition to Quincy Public Schools, to benefit by ENC's horticultural goal of beautifying Quincy. A seminar was conducted at the college to provide information necessary for the plantings.

Quincy Meets B. C. High In Opener

When Quincy's baseball team runner-up in the Greater Boston League for the second straight year, opens its quest for Eastern Mass. Tourney honors against Boston College High, Boston City League champion, Coach Bob Basiliere will be depending on the Presidents' outstanding defense to pull them through.

The teams will play at the B. C. High field in Dorchester either Friday or Saturday afternoon. The game was originally scheduled for Saturday but, with Quincy's senior prom Friday night, Basiliere was trying to change it to Friday. At press time officials of both schools were still talking and no decision had been made.

"Our pitching and defense carried us through this year," Basiliere said. "We again had a weak hitting team with only one .300 hitter, Kevin Ryan. The number two batter hit something like .260 and the averages went down from there. But the defense was outstanding all year long and the pitching came through beautifully."

At the start of the season Bob didn't know exactly what to expect after having lost last year's three top pitchers, Steve McDevitt, Paul Duff and Bobby Pettinelli.

"I knew we had some boys with good arms but none had ever pitched varsity ball," Basiliere said. "Rich Brown did pitch a few innings in relief last year but Paul Whelton pitched for the first time this spring and Jimmy Walker pitched junior high ball last year.

Whelton was one of the year's finds and had a 5-0 record, while Walker, sophomore southpaw, had an 0-2 record but had eight saves as he saw action in nearly every game. Brown also hurled excellent ball and had a 5-2 record, pitching excellent complete games his last two times out, a 3-2 win over Malden which clinched a tourney berth, and the 3-2 loss to Somerville.

Basiliere brought up a couple of pitchers from Art Mosher's successful junior varsity team but it will be Brown, Whelton and Walker who carry the Presidents' hopes in the tournament.

Although Ryan was the only .300 hitter and put Quincy in the tourney with his game-winning hit against Malden, several other players have come up with big hits.

Among them are Cliff Mattson, Billy Maver, John Stevens, Pete Lucier and Bruce Carlson.

Defensively the starting infield of first baseman Maver, second baseman Rich DiCristofaro, shortstop Lucier and third baseman Ryan turned in brilliant performances. Some of their plays were really electrifying.

And the outfield of Russ MacDonald in left, Carlson in center and Stevens in right also came up with some tremendous defensive plays which saved several games.

Mattson turned in consistently fine games behind the bat for the Presidents.

The reserves also did their part when called upon to spell starters.

Quincy finished up with a 4-3 win over Chelsea to give it a final 10-4 league record and 11-4 overall. Somerville wound up 12-2.

Whelton picked up his fifth straight win and Walker his eighth save as the Presidents hopped off to a 4-1 lead, then held off the Red Devils.

As was the case in most games, Quincy was outhit, this time by an 8-4 margin.

Mattson had two of the hits and MacDonald and Maver the others.

Meanwhile, Charlie Bunker's North Quincy team finished up a mediocre season with a bang as it belted Everett, 15-2. The Raiders finished 6-8 in the GBL and 10-9 overall.

"It wasn't the best season ever but I wanted that final win to finish over .500," Bunker said.

"I was disappointed we didn't do better but I was pleased with the development of several young players and the showings of several jayvees I brought up for the last few games. We lose some very good players but a lot of fine looking sophomores make the future bright. Jack Bowen did another outstanding job with the jayvees and some of his players are going to help us."

North fell behind, 2-0, in the first inning but that was all for the Crimson Tide as the Raiders scored five in the third, three in the fourth, two in the sixth, one in the seventh and four in the eighth.

North pounded out 20 hits, four by Tim Flynn, three by Tony Alibrandi and two each by Ed Monte, Steve Tomasetti and Jim Driscoll. Tomasetti had a triple, Flynn two doubles and Monte and Driscoll a double apiece.

Scott Manson, finishing up a fine year, held Everett to four hits, struck out nine and walked only one.

All-Stars Hope To Rebound Sunday

The Germantown Junior Soccer League all-stars suffered their first defeat Sunday when they were nipped in overtime, 2-1, by the Medford Juniors at Tufts Park in Medford.

Coach Peter Gallagher's team now is 2-1 and Sunday will play Winchester at Quincy High field at the rear of Veterans Memorial Stadium at 12:45.

The Germantown youngsters defeated Winchester, newly-crowned League champion, in an earlier game at Winchester.

Germantown jumped into the lead early as John Conroy pushed a pass from Ken Donovan past the sprawled Medford goalkeeper. The lead lasted throughout the first half but Medford, disorganized in the first half, came roaring back to tie the count, 1-1.

Both teams battled furiously for the winning goal but the score remained 1-1 at the end of regulation time.

Both clubs had many good scoring chances but the rival goalkeepers were outstanding. With a minute left in the overtime session Germantown's Joe Long took a penalty shot and sent a high, hard drive to the right side of the goal but Medford's keeper, Pat Lusk, made the game's most spectacular save, barely batting the ball away.

With less than 30 seconds remaining, Medford scored on a penalty shot to win it.

Germantown's center forward, Donovan, was named the game's outstanding player. "His playmaking was spectacular and he left the older and bigger Medford players speechless time and again with his brilliant passing and footwork," Gallagher said.

Also drawing praise were Conroy, Paul Ferris and Mike Renzi. It was the first time that fullbacks Ferris and Renzi had been put under real pressure and they performed admirably.

Also starting for Germantown were Joe McEacheran in goal, Frank Shoemaker, Stephen Silva, Tom Connolly, Floyd Thomas, Mike Rooney and Pat Moriarty. Also seeing action were Long, Jim Quigley, Jeff Short, Tom Park, Robert Pringle and Robert Dacey.

Girls Eye Undefeated Season

Coach Mary Pratt's Quincy girls' softball team will be favored to end an undefeated season today when it meets North Quincy at Faxon Field.

Quincy bombed North, 20-4, in its second game of the year and has rolled along unbeaten.

Last week the lady Presidents and their ace pitcher, Regina Pestelli, romped to their sixth straight wins, 26-3, over Weymouth.

Regina struck out nine as she remained unbeaten and the batting attack was led by Karen Fruzzetti and Sandra Sachetti.

Mrs. Morrissey Gross Winner

Mrs. Dennis Morrissey scored low gross in the recent "Selected Holes" competition at Furnace Brook Golf Club.

Mrs. Fred Lutfy had low net, with Mrs. Adolph Aimola and Mrs. Felix O'Connor tied for second net.

Affsa Leads State Qualifiers

North Trackmen Sport GBL Crown

Bob Gentry's North Quincy track team is the Greater Boston League champion with a 7-0 record and the Raiders' brilliant Paul Affsa led local qualifiers for Saturday's state class meet at White Stadium.

North defeated cross-town rival Quincy, also unbeaten in the league going into the final meet, by the surprising score of 76-46, last week before a large crowd at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Two days later at White Stadium Affsa ran an outstanding 1:58 half mile and qualified in both this event and the long jump for Saturday's class meet. In fact, he led the qualifiers in each event. His winning jump was 20 feet, 11 inches.

North's other Class B qualifiers were John Panarelli in the javelin, Lee Davis also in the javelin, Kevin Henry in the two-mile, Bill McCall in the high hurdles, and the relay team.

Quincy had only two qualifiers in Class A, Joe Goguen in the long jump and Bobby Ciano in the mile.

The top five Saturday will qualify for the state championship meet on Saturday, June 6, also at White Stadium, matching the best of the east and west.

The final score of the North-Quincy meet which decided the league title was a surprise but as losing coach Tom Hall said, "the meet was a lot closer than the score indicates." Most of the events were close.

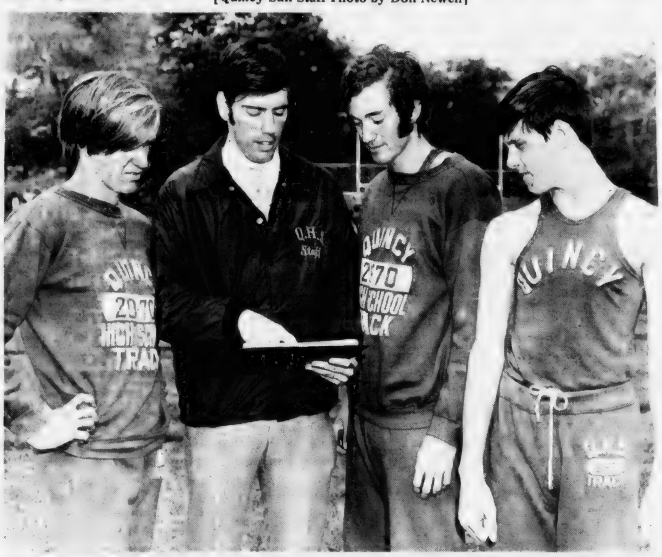
North won 11 of the 14 events including its 14th successive relay win covering winter and spring track.

Affsa, one of the greatest trackmen in North's history who holds several school records, won the long jump with a fine leap of 21-3¼, the 220 in 23.2 and anchored the winning relay team.

Davis was another double winner for North, taking the discus and low hurdles and running the first leg on the relay.

Other Raider winners were Rich Sanderson, 100; Bob Hale, 440; Chris Kennedy, half mile; Panarelli, tied with Quincy's Steve Shapiro in the shot as both finished unbeaten; Dave Mahoney, high jump; Bill McCall, high hurdles, and Henry, two-mile.

Joining Davis and Affsa on the relay team were McCall and Sanderson.



Quincy's only winners were undefeated Ciano in the mile, Rich Menchi with his best effort in the javelin, and Shapiro with his share of the shot put.

"This is a wonderful thing for the boys," said a happy Gentry after he and volunteer assistant Jack Laverty, a former Raider star, were drenched with cola and thrown in the shower. "When Sanderson won the 100, I felt it turned the tide for us. After that everyone seemed to move a little faster. Actually, it was Kennedy's win in the half mile that clinched the victory."

Sanderson handed Quincy's Larry Finneran his only loss of the season and made Rich happy he didn't quit track.

"I wasn't sure I could stay with track because I've had trouble with my ankles," he said. "I had to tape both ankles before every basketball game last winter and I wasn't sure if they could hold up to a lot of running this spring. But they have and I don't have to tape them anymore, either.

So, the finest season in the city's track history came to an end.

First Carroll Bradley Award Goes To Son

The first annual Carroll Bradley Award, named in honor of the retiring Eastern Nazarene College basketball and baseball coach and which will be awarded each year to the outstanding athlete at ENC, has been won by Carroll's son, Ron, who had fantastic basketball and baseball seasons.

The award, instituted last week at an assembly at the school will go to the player named and a plaque, which will be inscribed with his name, will be kept in the school's trophy case.

It couldn't have been too difficult to pick the first winner of the award.

Ron, a 19-year old sophomore, averaged 30.8 points a game, 10 rebounds and 10 assists in basketball and was named to the NAIA District 32 all-star team and received NAIA All-American mention.

In baseball this spring he was the starting catcher with a .340 batting average, and the club's third pitcher. As a pitcher he had a 2-0 record and an earned run average of 1.60.

Charles M. Johnston Leaving Local 90 For New Career

CHARLES M. JOHNSTON

Charles M. Johnston, executive secretary of Local 90 at General Dynamics Shipyard since 1960 and chairman of its four-member grievance committee, will become labor relations representative for Stone and Webster June 15.

Johnston, a 20-year employee at the shipyard, represents 848 clerical, technical lab, and quality control workers. A shop steward for 14 years, he became a negotiator in 1963.

A Quincy resident for most of his life, Johnston attended St. John's School and graduated from Sacred Heart High School in Weymouth. He now lives in Weymouth with his wife.

In his new position, Johnston will represent management of Stone and Webster in their relationship with unions -- "doing the same thing", as he is now, but on the other side of the table.

He expects to move to Oswego, N.Y. where the company has a four to five-year project constructing a nuclear power plant for Niagara-Mohawk.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett To Seek Re-election

JOSEPH E. BRETT

Rep. Joseph E. Brett announces his candidacy for re-election from the Third Norfolk District, comprising Wards 4, 5 and 6 of Quincy [West Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy].

Brett has served as representative for the past 12 years, and as a member of the Quincy City Council prior to that.

He has served on committees and special commissions dealing with education, mental health, social welfare, natural resources, transportation, and as chairman of the Committee on Urban Affairs.

"I consider myself a 'full-time legislator,'" Brett states. "I average between 65 and 80 hours a week in performing legislative duties and related activities. Despite that, I am under no illusion that I have been able to please all of the people all of the time, but I can honestly say I have always tried to do my best to represent my constituency fairly and intelligently in the best interests of all the people."

When the thousands of issues on which he votes each year are considered, Brett says that he feels his "batting average" is not too bad.

Care for Your Car

Your spring and summer trips will be smoother and safer if your car is in prime condition. This section will help you bring your car into A-1 shape.

Travel Safely—Care for Your Car

Conscientious Maintenance Can Assure Motorist Vacation Trip Without Breakdown

"Use it up, wear it out;
Make it do, or do without."

This bit of doggerel was popular in a more simple, less affluent yesterday. The trick was to make things last as long as possible, whether it was an all-day sucker or a suit of clothing.

It is ironic that today, when the philosophy seems to be "Use it up quickly and get another one," some products are actually built to endure longer.

Take the modern car, for example.

There is no question that today's automobile is built to last.

Tires, for example, can actually give service ten times longer than they did years ago.

Paints are more durable, bodies are better prepared to withstand deterioration.

Engines are better built to cope with punishment that was undreamed of only 20 years ago.

In fact, every component has a lab-tested durability going for it.

The secret of taking advantage of built-in strength lies in a conscientious program of maintenance. By practicing such a program, you stand to save in several important ways.

First, you preserve your car's vital components from premature wear. A timely squirt of lubricant here, a quart of oil there often can prolong engine and chassis life, avoiding lengthy and expensive sessions in the service bay.

Periodic service also saves you money as you go. Tune-ups save gasoline mileage and cut short chances of engine damage and road service calls. Proper wheel alignment and balancing add miles to tire life.

Frequent washing and waxing stop body and paint deterioration. And when you do trade in the car, the money you spent in maintenance also will be returned, at least in part, by a higher trade-in value.

Even if good car care weren't economically wise, you'd still benefit measurably from its practice — especially at this time of year. Nothing can ruin a spring and summer holiday trip like a breakdown which at best can cost you time and money and at worst could lead to a serious accident.

Somehow the most scenic road you can travel becomes a drab, miserable stretch of highway when your car has quit running on it.

Champion Spark Plug Company urges you to stop by your favorite service outlet who will make your car run better and last longer. And don't be surprised if more frequent stops for necessary maintenance lead to more frequent stops to your bank — to add to your savings, not take from them.

This section is devoted to advice on how to keep your car running safer, longer and more enjoyably. Read it and reap.

MORE THAN MAPS — This happy family picked up more than road maps when they made a pre-vacation visit to their favorite service outlet. They had their car checked from bumper to bumper and from tread to top. Now, all they have to do is enjoy their spring or summer holiday trip, assuming dad and his three navigators follow the map accurately.

Windshield Wipers, Washer Solution, Check Them Often

Eight out of ten cars have unsafe windshield wipers, according to a recent survey by a major oil company.

Why would such an important item as wiper blades be so neglected on such a high percentage of cars? It's like a hole in the roof. People don't want to bother when it's raining — and when it stops raining there's no need to worry.

Wiper blades go dead in six months or less due to exposure to sun, wind and oily road film.

When they go dead and start streaking the windshield, they should be replaced.

Night driving is particularly dangerous when oncoming headlights are magnified in the smear caused by streaking wipers.

When replacing the wiper blade, it's a good idea to have the wiper arm pressure tested. If the tension is too weak, the arms can't do an adequate job.

While you're at it, be sure to have your windshield washer solution checked, and refilled if necessary. You don't want to be out of washer solution just when you need it most.

Keep Watch on Tires in the Name of Safety

Most Mileage Is Clocked In Summer

Late summer presents a special threat for drivers that can be more treacherous than ice.

After a dry spell, a light rain or drizzle creates a thin, greasy film on smooth road surfaces. It is slick, and it is dangerous, because drivers are not concerned about skidding at this time of the year.

Bald tires increase the danger. More miles are driven during the summer than at any other time of the year and without realizing it, tires may wear beyond the safe point. When there is less than 2/32" of tread remaining, according to tire experts, your tires are unsafe.

Under dangerous driving conditions, reduced speed and extra caution are obvious accident prevention measures. However, a double measure of safety is to keep your tires in good condition.

Rotate Your Tires

You can substantially increase tire life by having them rotated about twice a year. By putting tires in different positions on the car (left front to left rear, left rear to right front, and so on around the car — according to instructions for your make and model), your tires, including the spare, eventually will have taken their turns in all positions, thereby equalizing wear.

This semi-annual procedure also provides a good opportunity for your automotive serviceman to look for cuts, bruises or other damage.

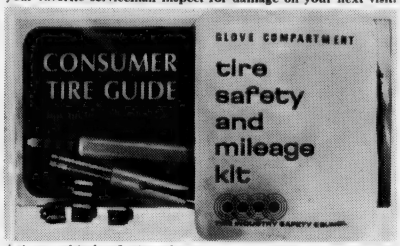
Another part of semi-annual tire care should be a check of wheel balance and alignment. Both have a serious bearing on tire wear and will affect your car's handling ability and driving comfort.

Once a month, have the air in the tires checked. An underinflated tire will wear rapidly at the outer edges; overinflation causes wear at the center.

One final tire care fact especially important during the summer: excessive heat is a tire's worst enemy. It results from a flexing of the tire body. The faster you drive, and the more load you carry, the more your tires will flex.

Get Sizzling Hot

Tires can get sizzling hot at high speed on a summer day. When they hit 250 degrees (considered their critical temperature), wear is rapid and you may be in danger of complete tire failure.



Your tires are the only contact between you and the road. Should they fail, you are in danger. Also, they represent a substantial portion of the total value of your car. So, both in safety and in economy, proper tire care is like money in the bank.

PCV — PLEASE CHECK

When the positive crankcase ventilation valve on your car's engine gets stuck, it's like plugging up a boiling tea kettle — something's got to give. Pressure builds up in the crankcase forcing oil and unwanted fumes through bearings and seals. The PCV valve should be checked periodically, replaced yearly.

Her trip may be shorter than she's planned from the look of her tires. Some tire damage is not as obvious as this, so it pays to have your favorite serviceman inspect for damage on your next visit.

A tire care kit that fits in a glove compartment is being made available by the Rubber Manufacturers Association. The kit contains an air pressure gauge, a tread depth gauge, a set of four tire valve caps and a 16-page guide on proper tire care. A three-dollar value, it is available for $1.00 to readers of this section. To obtain one, send $1.00 to Tire Safety, Department CC, Box 726, New York, N. Y., 10010. The kit is not available in Canada.

Use Caution When You Remove Radiator Cap

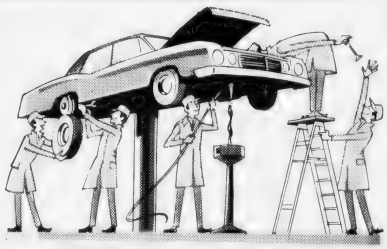
The simple act of removing the cap from an overheated car radiator can lead to painful, sometimes disfiguring, scalds and burns.

Cooling systems in modern autos are often under such tremendous pressure that the sudden de-pressurization which occurs when the safety radiator cap is removed can cause a cloud of scalding steam to erupt into the face of the person removing the cap.

If your car's engine overheats, steam or smoke emerges from under the hood, or you detect a smell of burning rubber, stop driving as soon as safely possible. Then turn off the ignition. Don't release the radiator cap until all evidence of overheating subsides! You may have to wait several minutes for it to cool.

You should also protect your hand by wearing a glove or applying a heavy padding of rags between your hand and the radiator cap.

If the cap has a pressure release device (such as a lever, a button, or a turn knob), activate it to allow any excess steam to dissipate itself.



Turn the cap in a counter-clockwise direction until you feel the seal release. When the hissing sound subsides, the cap can be removed safely.

If it is necessary to add water to the radiator, do so with the engine running! Add water very slowly so it can warm up in the radiator before passing into the engine block. If water is added too quickly, the abrupt change in temperature could crack the engine block.

Following an overheating experience, your car's cooling system should be thoroughly inspected by an experienced mechanic. Overheating can seriously damage metal parts.

Chance of Mishap Is Estimated By Safety Council

What are a driver's chances of having an accident in his lifetime? According to the National Safety Council, it depends partly on the distance he drives.

A person who drives 12,000 miles a year has one chance in three of having some kind of an accident. There is one chance in four that damage will be limited to property, one in 40 that there will be at least one injury, and one in 1,300 for a fatality.

One who travels 8,000 miles a year stands one chance in five for any accident, one chance in six for a property damage accident, one in 85 for an injury accident, and one in 2,000 for a fatal one.

A driver who goes 4,000 miles a year has one chance in 10 for any accident, one in 11 that only property will be damaged, one in 110 that there will be personal injuries, and one in 4,000 that it will result in death.

A driver must keep his car — and himself — in the best possible traveling condition to improve those odds, the Council says.

MOSTLY FOR PLEASURE

If you're going on a long trip this year, you're almost assuredly going by car. About 86 percent of all travel over 100 miles is done by automobile, mostly for visits, pleasure or outdoor recreation.

BUILT-IN QUALITY

The average age of a motor car in this country is 5.6 years. The average truck is 7.6 years old. It's a sign that built-in quality along with good maintenance helps any car run longer.

HOT NEWS ON BRAKES

In an average day's driving — and stopping — your car's brakes build up enough energy to heat your home. Can your brakes stand up to this kind of torture? Have them checked frequently.

HighwayDrivingRequires Same Car Care as Racing

Mechanical Efficiency Of Vehicle is Vital To Both

By FRED AGABASHIAN, Champion Spark Plug Co. Highway Safety Team

Agabashian

Is highway driving in any way the same as race track driving? In my experiences I've found many similarities.

For example, there isn't a race driver in the world who would go out on a track knowing that his car is not 100% mechanically sound. Shouldn't the average motorist also have this confidence in his own car?

Once you know the vehicle is perfect, you can concentrate on driving skills, without worrying about whether the brakes are going to grab, or whether the tires are safe, or whether the steering components are going to give out at a crucial time.

When your car is in excellent condition, you have confidence in it, and your driving ability reflects this confidence.

Escape Route Plan

Another similarity I find between highway driving and race driving is what I call "the escape route plan." Planning ahead while driving helps keep me alert and helps keep my mind on my driving. In my own mind I've been on the shoulders of expressways and in ditches all over the country. In fact, I've always "driven" the grass infield of the Indianapolis Speedway with every circuit, and several times, having an escape route like this has helped me and saved my car.

Driver attitude also plays an important role, whether on the highway, or on the race track. The racing driver with an immature attitude, one who loses his temper, one who "gets even" with other drivers or one who shows off, soon finds himself out of the racing business — in one way or another.

Similarly, immaturity catches up with the motorist on the street. They are the ones who leave a stretch of rubber at traffic lights, who pass on curves and hills, and weave in and out of traffic, and ones who have unnecessary—and distracting—doodads hanging around the rear window and mirrors.

Word of Caution

I'm not saying that an expert driver on the highway can take the wheel of a race car and come out with a good showing. But he is the kind of driver who has the qualifications and prerequisites that are necessary for further training which could make him a professional driver.

Remanufactured Engines Powering One Car in Nine

"Mister, your engine is shot!"

After hearing these discouraging words from your favorite mechanic, chances are your first impulse is to call the nearest scrap yard.

But there's another possible answer. And that's having a remanufactured engine installed.

If your car's body and interior are in poor condition, perhaps the junkyard is the proper resting place for the vehicle. But assuming your car is sound other than the engine, you'll save by installing a remanufactured mill.

According to Sears, one out of every nine vehicles in the nation is operating with remanufactured engines.

A remanufactured engine differs from an overhauled one by the fact that the camshaft and crankshaft in the former is remade. More than 250 new parts are replaced in the remanufacturing process.

In addition it is customary to install new spark plugs, a new or rebuilt carburetor, new fuel pump, fresh hoses and belts as well as new filters in the remanufacturing process.

To Avert Highway Crash Stop Danger of Stalling

By DON FERMOYLE, Auto Writer
(Reprinted from Cleveland Press)

It was dark on Interstate-280 when the car pulled out of a side-road, crossed the southbound lanes and then suddenly stalled in front of us.

Tires shrieked against asphalt when those of us nearest the disabled car hit the brakes.

Fortunately, all of us managed to stop in time. An alert truck driver, farther behind, halted his rig and turned on his warning flashers. Occupants of the stalled car pushed their vehicle off the busy highway, the major link between the Ohio Turnpike and the Detroit-Toledo Expressway.

Luckily, too, the pavement was dry. I wouldn't like to be in the same situation again when the pavement is slick with snow or ice. Even with studded snow tires, it is unlikely that all of the cars on that 60-mph highway could have avoided hitting the disabled auto on a slippery surface.

The near-accident pointed out often neglected "safety features" on most cars — the ignition and carburetion systems.

The most frequent cause of stalling, as this car did, is the failure of the carburetor to provide a proper mixture of gasoline and air, or the breakdown in some link in the ignition system such as the alternator, points, plugs or condensor.

Both systems, of course, are checked out and defective parts are replaced during an engine tune-up.

Clean plugs, points and choke will provide quicker starts in cold weather. More important, an engine is much more likely to keep running once it has been started if its ignition and carburetion systems are well tuned.

Challenge to Sense of Humor

Not very often have the scrawls on walls been used in a serious attempt to sell products or ideas. However, grafitti is very much a part of today's scene and, as such, is an important communications medium.

So, with this view in mind, an international graffiti contest was launched by the Car Care Council.

The topic, naturally, is car care.

The Council is priming the pump with lines like "A worn out muffler can give you a bad trip," "Stamp out smut — Change your Air Filter."

Prizes, by some standards, may leave much to be desired. Nevertheless, they should appeal to graffiti fans who delight in being recognized for their ingenuity with words.

First prize (of which there will be 50) is 1) a certificate (suitable for framing) with blue ribbon and 2) the glory of having your graffiti splashed on bumpers, billboards and service station windows throughout the country.

Second prize (there will be 5,000 of these) is the same as the first prize, but with a red ribbon.

Do you want to see your immortal words on auto bumpers from coast to coast? Then just send your favorite Car Care graffiti slogan to the Car Care Council. You may win an award for your efforts, too!

Honorable mentions will receive the same as the first prize winner, except that the ribbon will be white.

If graffiti's your bag, rush your car care one-liners to C/C/C, Box 2432, Detroit, Michigan, 48226. And enclose a self-addressed, stamped business size envelope (for your certificate, should you be a winner).

Canadian readers should send entries to C/C/C, P.O. Box 910, Windsor, Ontario.

All entries, like they say in the big time contests, become the sole property of the Car Care Council and must not be previously copyrighted. Enter as many as you like, but don't expect more than one certificate per entrant. Paper doesn't come cheap.

"Lube Job"

Chances are you're also getting "anti-breakdown" insurance with every one, when service station makes

— These Checks —

When you get that pre-vacation lubrication at your favorite service outlet, you're likely getting more than a freshly-greased chassis. Chances are you're also taking out an anti-breakdown insurance policy.

According to Chek-Chart Corporation, more service outlets are conducting safety inspections every time the car is on the hoist for a lubrication. The importance of such inspection is increasing since extended lubrication intervals recommended by manufacturers mean that cars are on the hoist less frequently.

Chek-Chart recommends the following components be inspected during a lubrication and any necessary defects be corrected:

- ☐ Brake system
- ☐ Steering and suspension
- ☐ Shock absorbers
- ☐ Tires and wheels
- ☐ Exhaust system
- ☐ Fuel system
- ☐ Cooling system
- ☐ Drive line units
- ☐ Threaded fasteners
- ☐ Seat belts
- ☐ Electrical system
- ☐ Lights and horn
- ☐ Locks and latches
- ☐ Visibility items such as glass, wipers, washers, mirrors and defrosters

In inspecting these systems, a trained mechanic will check for various fluid leaks or low levels of lubricants. Particularly sensitive areas are brake fluid reservoirs, master cylinder leakage, power steering fluids, shock absorber and drive line lubricants.

If you spot any leakage on your driveway or garage floor, bring it to the attention of your mechanic.

PCV — PLEASE CHECK

When the positive crankcase ventilation valve on your car's engine gets stuck, it's like plugging up a boiling tea kettle — something's got to give. Pressure builds up in the crankcase forcing oil and unwanted fumes through bearings and seals. The PCV valve should be checked periodically, replaced yearly.

Car Care Calendar

No one ever planned a car breakdown. The annoying inconvenience a breakdown produces makes them as welcome as an overdrawn notice from the bank.

Conversely, few people ever plan a maintenance schedule to insure against breakdowns. However, the wise car owner will schedule his car's servicing needs on a routine basis to avoid a sudden and sometimes expensive loss of transportation.

Here's a list of necessary services, listed according to when they should be performed. Items preceded by an asterisk (*) are based on normal wear or service cycle.

MONTHLY — check radiator level, fan belt, transmission oil, tires, battery, windshield washer fluid, lights.

EVERY TWO MONTHS— in addition to the above, change engine oil, test anti-air pollution system.

EVERY FOUR MONTHS Change oil filter, clean air filter.

EVERY SIX MONTHS — Have an engine check, *lubricate the chassis, test battery, check wiper blades, brake system, wheel alignment, wheel balance, rotate tires.

EVERY TWELVE MONTHS — *Flush cooling system, *install new anti-freeze, *repack front wheel bearings, *replace anti-air pollution elements, major engine tune-up.

EVERY 24 MONTHS — *Replace fan belt, *radiator hoses, *radiator cap, *thermostat, *wiper arms, *exhaust system, *universal joints, *shock absorbers, *major brake service.

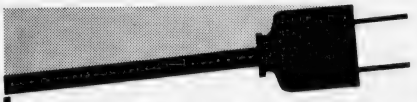
EVERY 30 MONTHS — *Replace battery and cables, *adjust transmission linkage, *replace tires.

• • •



By having all these services performed and by taking normal care of the appearance of your car, you'll do more than have dependable transportation at all times. You'll be driving a car as good as new when that final car payment is made. And that will help you from getting those overdrawn notices from the bank.

KEEP YOUR COOL

When your car loses its cool, you're heading for trouble — and it may be expensive. Avoid trouble by making sure your car's fanbelt, radiator and hoses are in good condition, and that coolant is always at the proper level.

NOT DIRT CHEAP

A dirty air cleaner on your car's engine can cost you up to thirty-two dollars a year in wasted gasoline — to say nothing of extra engine wear from added grime. Let your engine breathe easy — check the carburetor air cleaner often and replace when recommended.

ADVICE TO WOMEN who DRIVE...

from De-De ... a woman who does

Dear De De:

I'm a 20-year-old housewife trying to make ends meet on a small income. It seems like everything we make goes for house and car payments. We've just about got our present car paid for and I look forward to the day when we aren't saddled with the $75 a month payments. But my husband says we should get a new car. Ours still runs pretty good although it does need some minor work. How can I talk my husband into keeping this car so we can have some extra money for things we desperately need? — MRS. K. N. L., Lawton, Okla.

DEAR MRS. K. N. L.—How would a $55 a month raise impress your husband? That's the equivalent amount of extra money you could realize from keeping your car. You now make $75 a month in car payments. Yet automotive service experts estimate that for $20 a month put aside for maintenance, you can keep your car in show room condition indefinitely.

You say your present car is in pretty good shape. You also mentioned you recently bought a new set of tires, new battery and had your brakes relined. So that $20 a month should take care of all routine maintenance including tune-ups, replacements of worn parts like exhaust systems and eventually major expenses like tires.

I'm enclosing a copy of Cookie Jar which will tell you when maintenance should be done. When hubby's income justifies a new car, keep on with the Cookie Jar plan and pocket the savings for the extra time you can keep it, too.

DEAR DE DE:

My boy friend, Eddie, is a cool guy but my parents won't let me go out in a car with him. It's not that Eddie isn't a gentleman. It's that his car makes a lot of noise when it pulls away from the house. The car isn't a hot rod but it sounds like one. Eddie is a good driver. So don't you think my parents are being unfair? — Lonesome Liz, Manhattan, Kansas.

DEAR LONESOME LIZ: If Eddie's car is a normal one and sounds like a hot rod, your parents may be giving you and Eddie a life sentence instead of the death penalty. That hot rod sound may come from a defective exhaust system. The car could be filling with deadly carbon monoxide which comes from the exhaust. Tell Eddie to have the exhaust checked at his favorite service outlet. Your boy friend sounds like a live one. Keep him that way.

DEAR DE DE:

My fiance wants to take me on a trip over the Alcan Highway. I hear there aren't too many service accommodations. How far can we go? — JUST WONDERING, Toronto, Ontario.

DEAR JUST WONDERING: It depends on your self control.

Make Safe Skid Recovery With These Moves

Henk de Vries cites the following procedures to get the wheel rolling again:

Cut engine power but not so violently as to worsen the skid. The technique is the same for a rear wheel skid where the rear of the car tends to swing frontwards or the four wheel skid where all wheels are sliding.

In a car with manual transmission lift your foot off the gas and declutch (depress the clutch pedal). With an automatic transmission, all you need to do is take your foot of the gas and the torque converter will slow you down.

In a front wheel skid, usually induced by cornering too fast, the technique is different. With an automatic transmission, gear down and with manual shift, do not declutch.

Then, in all skid conditions, countersteer out of the skid by turning the front wheels in the same direction the rest of the car is skidding. Immediately turn the wheel around in the opposite direction or you risk a dangerous second skid.

If you had tried to get out of a skid in the time it took you to read the above paragraphs, it would have been too late to help. That's why the skid school is so important to its students.

HOT NEWS ON BRAKES

In an average day's driving — and stopping — your car's brakes build up enough energy to heat your home. Can your brakes stand up to this kind of torture? Have them checked frequently.

The Wellcraft Airslot
The first major change in hull design since the Cathedral Hull

The smoothest, dryest ride on water.

Dick Cole designed the Cathedral hull back in 1958, and everyone thought it was the smoothest-riding, dryest, all-weather hull on the water.

It was. But it wasn't perfect.

So Cole went to work on it. Improved it. And after years of research and designing, he hit paydirt. The Wellcraft Airslot Hull. A major change in hull design.

The principle of the Airslot.

The basic Cathedral hull is composed of a V-shaped central hull and two smaller side hulls, called sponsons. In the conventional Cathedral, these sponsons are mere extensions of the side of the boat. They give outrigger type balance, but little else--and they rely solely on the main hull to cut through the water.

In the Wellcraft Airslot, each sponson is a true V, so you have three "independent" hulls that enable the boat to run through the water in any direction with equal stability.

Interstate System Seen as Traffic Life-Saver

Two Thirds of Network Complete, Will Eventually Link 50 Percent Of America's Cities

By F. C. TURNER
Federal Highway Administrator

With over two-thirds of the Interstate Highway System already open to traffic, the day is close when the 42,500-mile network of controlled-access roads is finished and its benefits can be enjoyed to the fullest.

At the end of fiscal year 1969, 28,219 miles were in use, construction was taking place on another 5,259 miles, and preliminary engineering or right-of-way acquisition was under way on an additional 6,956 miles. Mileage opened totaled 67 percent, while some form of work was under way or completed on 40,434 miles — about 95 percent of the 42,500 miles.

Some $37.2 billion has been put to work on the system since the accelerated program began in 1956. Work completed cost $26.57 billion and work under way or authorized as of June 30, 1969, totaled $10.63 billion. The Federal share of the cost is 90 percent, financed by the Highway Trust Fund which is supported entirely by Federal road user taxes.

Of the many user benefits stemming from the Interstate System, probably the most welcome and the most important is the saving of lives. For each five miles of the system opened to traffic, a life is saved during each year thereafter. Because it is designed and built with primary interest for safety, the system is expected to save at least 8,300 lives annually once it is finished. Interstate travel is more than twice as safe as on conventional roads replaced by the new IS routes.

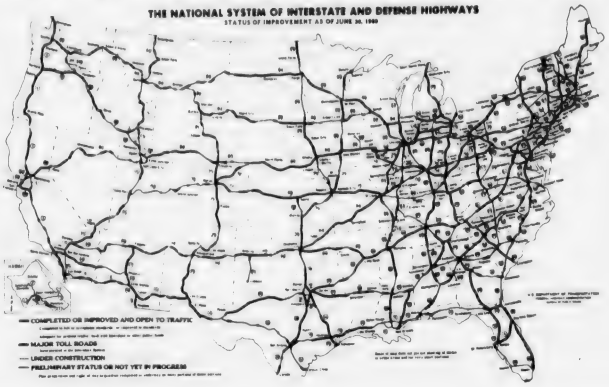
Although it constitutes only a bit more than 1 percent of the country's 3.7 million miles of roads and streets, the system will carry at least 20 percent of all the nation's traffic, and will link together more than 90 percent of America's cities with populations of 50,000 or more.

It has been estimated that when the system is finished, user benefits will total about $11.5 billion a year due to lower operating time, accident, and strain-of-driving costs.

The system is providing a new mobility for the movement of people and goods.

Business and vacation travel takes less times than formerly.

More recreational opportunities are accessible.



Driving is more comfortable.

Trucking operations are more efficient and deliveries are faster.

Farm products are shipped more quickly and with less loss from spoilage.

But of most benefit, it is truly a life saver.

In 1968, an estimate submitted to Congress by the Federal Highway Administration fixed the cost of the then-41,000-mile system at $56.5 billion, of which the the Federal share was $50.6 billion. But that same year, Congress increased the mileage from 41,000 to 42,500 to fill missing critical links between major cities. The cost of the system necessarily will rise, and a new estimate will be submitted to Congress in 1970.

Some 1,103 seniors from Quincy, North Quincy and Quincy Vocational-Technical High Schools will receive their diplomas at combined commencement exercises June 10.

The Class of 1970 – one of the largest in the city's history –comprises 473 from North Quincy and 630 from Quincy and Quincy Vocational-Technical High School.

The ceremonies are scheduled to start at 6 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium, with Quincy High School as host and Principal Lloyd M. Creighton, program chairman.

In the event of rain, the exercises will be shifted to Ridge Arena in Braintree.

"Listen!" will be the theme of the keynote speakers, all students from the graduating classes. Beth Gabel and David Finger will represent North Quincy High School: Carla Errichiello and David Goroff, Quincy High School.

The theme itself evolved from the subjects of essays written by members of the senior class at each school and selected by judges as best representing the need for today's graduates to be heard.

14 Parents To Get 'Thank-You' For School Cleanup

Fourteen South Quincy parents will receive a big "Thank You" from the city of Quincy for their all-out clean-up of the vandalized Adams School.

Described as perhaps the worst incident of school vandalism in Quincy School history, damage was estimated at $30,800.

The school was entered during the weekend of May 16 and 17 by vandals who broke water pipes flooding the cellar, smashed school windows, and destroyed records, books and scattered catalogue cards from the media center.

Initial cleanup of the building was begun by the maintenance and custodial force who worked over the weekend to replace broken panes of glass.

Monday, while classes were in session, the parents moved in, rolled up their sleeves and tackled the job.

"This was a very fine civic gesture on the part of these parents," Mayor James R. McIntyre commented. "They are to be commended for getting the school back in shape and for saving the city thousands of dollars by volunteering their

Construction To Start On 'Last' MBTA Bridge

Construction will start soon on the School St. Bridge, the last of seven bridges being built in the city for the MBTA Quincy rapid transit extension.

Mayor James R. McIntyre said last night he has signed an agreement with the MBTA and the state to share one-third each the estimated $450,000 cost.

"The next step will be necessary land takings involving a few homes," the Mayor said. "Actual construction should start very soon."

McIntyre said a month-long strike of cement-mix truck drivers would have no immediate effect on construction of the School St. Bridge.

The strike, however, has caused another major slowdown in construction of the Quincy rapid transit line.

McIntyre declined to predict when trains would start running on the Quincy line. But other sources now feel that the line will not be in operation until the end of the year or perhaps not until early 1971.

Present target date for the first cars is September. It originally was Christmas, 1969.

McIntyre noted that Quincy taxpayers have been spared "some several million dollars" so far in construction of the line.

He said legislation filed by him established the one-third cost share by the city, state and MBTA.

"We could have been hit with the whole price tag," he said.

The new, wider bridges not only give the rapid trains the proper clearance, but will greatly improve vehicular traffic in the areas, the Mayor noted.

Latest bridge completed was the Atlantic Bridge which was opened two weeks ago.

The Mayor said he would like to have the Atlantic bridge named after a Quincy serviceman who gave his life for his country. He said he will ask the Quincy Veterans Council to nominate a Quincy hero for the honor.

Also completed are the Beale St. and Dimmock St. Bridges.

Still under construction are the West Squantum, Adams and Granite St. Bridges.

Central Junior Students In City Hall Spotlight Monday

On Monday at 7 p.m. Central Junior High School's Student Committee on Reviewing Environment [SCORE] will give a public presentation of their efforts, as guests of Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, Jr., Chairman of Quincy's special Environmental Control Committee.

The City Council Chamber presentation, under the direction of Vincent Moscardelli, assistant principal, will include photographs, slide pictures, and tape recordings.

The program is planned to bring to the attention of municipal officials the problems Quincy has, and what the city will face in the future with respect to sewerage disposal at Moon Island, dumping problems, air pollution and other types of pollution.

"These students have done a fantastic job," Marshall commented. "They have put a lot of time into it. It is a very encouraging thing to see the interest that they have projected, and they are really

'Generation Gap Caused By Not Willing To Understand'

Editor: Quincy Sun,

I recently read the article concerning the subject about Dr. Knox and the comments made by Patricia A. Ridlen of 91 Rock Island Road, Quincy, and I would like this opportunity to voice my opinion about Miss Ridlen's comments.

I am 21 years old and I am interested in The Strive for Peace. In my opinion, it's not people like Dr. Knox who are causing a generation gap it's people who aren't willing to understand one another.

My generation is trying to go forward to make a better world in which to live, but it's these hard-headed people who believe that the old ways are the best ways to get anything done. I definitely do not believe in violence of any kind to get an issue across to people, but there have been times when my generation had to perform an act of violence in order to be heard, but they had a cause. What cause did the guardsmen have at Kent State?

Granted, there are some people who are willing to listen, to meet us half way, to try and understand, but the majority of them just won't take the time. I'm not saying that my generation is right in everything they do. That would be ridiculous. Everyone has their faults, but we are trying in the only way we know how to find peace for all man kind, for haven't we also built, fought, paid, died, loved, and worked to have a country such as this?

The situations of the world were handed down to you, the older generation, just as it is being handed down to us and you tried in your own way to solve it's problems then, as we are trying to solve it's problems now.

concerned. The amazing thing is, they are working to try to correct the problems, and to talk with anyone who will listen to them about it."

"These kids really know what is going on," Marshall continued, "And somebody will have to come up with some answers. Many times the general public can see more than what someone in an elected or departmental position can see because of their work load. If they feel that through legislation, state or on a city level, these things can be corrected, I will help them."

STATE OF THE STATE

by Governor Francis W. Sargent

A MONTHLY REPORT TO THE PEOPLE OF THE COMMONWEALTH

For thousands of young men and women, this month is, by tradition, a time for taking stock. They are leaving classrooms to take their place in adult society. Yet I know of no other time when this leavetaking is more of a departure from tradition.

Dramatic events on our campuses in recent months point to change. What is obvious now is that we have entered upon a new era, for the young and the not so young.

The commencement address for the Class of 1970 is appropriate for both student and parent. Increasingly the distance between the student and parent is narrowed. And this is good.

The so-called "generation gap" is a thing of the past. What we are faced with is a "unity gap."

The students ask not for surrender but for understanding. We must provide that understanding and allow it an orderly expression. Often we have misunderstood the pleas of this new generation.

To understand the Class of 1970 requires an equal understanding of a changing world. And such a grasp has escaped many a parent occupied, as they must be, with winning a daily wage.

I have said that we are confronted by a "unity gap." This new unity is one in which both the parent and the student must recognize new roles in a changing world. This changing world requires mutual respect by and for both parties. Without this respect there can be no real unity.

Today the young seek a better life in a better world. This is a legitimate concern to a generation taught to question the quality of life. They have explored the sciences and they know what is possible and just how much better this world can be. Better educated, they seek meaningful roles in a world at peace with itself.

The Class of 1970 seeks to be understood. They cannot and should not tolerate being ignored, but they must also understand that their dissent must be reasonable.

Blessed with the freshness of new insights into old problems, the young spur us on to shaping the ideals we must share in common.

The Class of 1970 wants a role to play equal to the challenge confronting society. And this desire is one we must welcome. We must make it possible for their participation to be full. . . .

I have said that ours is a changing world. No strata of society carries a heavier burden than today's parents. They must be bridge builders between the new and old order. The parent finds himself in need of even more understanding than the young. And in this need for understanding the parent shares with the young a need for dialogue and mutual respect.

"To understand the Class of 1970 requires an equal understanding of a changing world . . ."

Recent disruptions on college campuses indicate how great is the gap between generations. Parents must sympathize with the anguish of the young. These young people see a world riddled with social and moral values in need of reappraisal.

This new generation sees our country in need of new goals that will make it possible for all to enjoy the quality of life that America has stood for since its founding. Like young people everywhere and in all times they are impatient.

We must understand this impatience. We must make it possible for both young and old to play active roles in reshaping our social and moral values. To this end state government can be one such outlet. My Administration has worked toward a fulfillment of this goal. I shall continue to work for its realization.

Pike's Peak Gets 'Go Ahead' As New Refuse Disposal Site

The Pike's Peak area, latest project proposed as a long-term rubbish disposal area for Quincy as disclosed by the Quincy Sun two weeks ago received initial "go-ahead" from the City Council Monday.

Mayor James R. McIntyre proposed the non-residential, multi-acre area in West Quincy as a solution for Quincy's rubbish disposal problem "for the next decade or longer."

Sanitary land-fill was favored by the Mayor for the several hundred acre ravine located off Willard St. near the Blue Hills reservation.

The council voted a $42,000 qualifying fee for a $850,000 road, an extension of the road at Cashman's Quarry, the present dump site, to Pike's Peak.

A second proposal calls for $200,000 to extend a water line from Cashman's to Pike's Peak.

Also contemplated is a $500,000 reservoir or water tank near Pike's Peak to be used in case of fire, and as drinking water once the area is developed.

All three measures were referred to the finance committee for public advertising.

Mayor McIntyre also requested that 68 acres of land be taken for the road and land fill area. This also will be advertised.

Also necessary is a zoning change for 300 acres now zoned Residence A and B to Industrial B. This was referred to Councillor George B. McDonald's rubbish disposal committee.

To expedite action, Councilor McDonald scheduled a meeting of his committee for this week.

Because Cashman's Quarry will be filled much sooner than expected, prompt action is necessary to have the new Pike's Peak area in operation when Cashman's Quarry is closed.

Contemplation Of Peace

By
Jeanie DiBona
24 Baxter St., Quincy

What would it be like if the world were a peaceful place in which to live?

It would be like a gentle breeze that felt as if it came from the breath of an angel.

This breeze would move the clouds over an ocean of clear blue water which was made by tears that will never be shed again.

It would be a calm sunny day in which the sun's rays beamed off of everyones face to reflect the feeling of contentment in each others eyes.

The spring flowers, that would die in the fall, would keep their life during the winter that would cover them like a blanket of white angel hair.

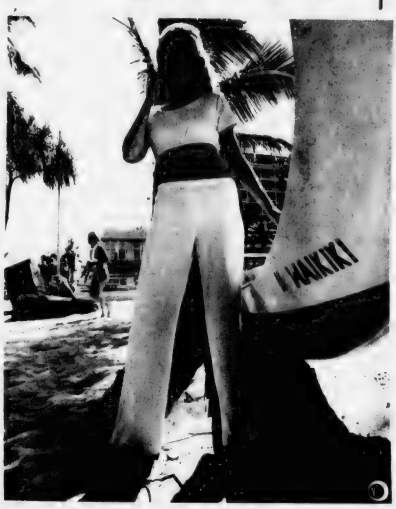
Children would laugh, and run, and jump in fields of green grass and not have to worry about this grass being destroyed by bombs or gunfire.

A place where man could live being what he is and not what people want him to be.

A place where the word "SORRY" meant not forgiving the bad things, but for not realizing that peace could have been born much sooner!

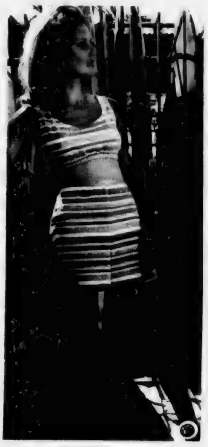
Beach-Bound? Take Along A Terry

It's that time of year when sandy white beaches and the soothing sound of the surf are no longer idle winter dreams but delightful summer realities.



If you plan to be a summer '70 siren, rest assured. While you were dreaming of a whole summer of sun days, sportswear designers were working to make those dreams come true in style. What they've come up with is enough to make any career girl leave her typewriter and head for the beach.

This year you can leave your beach towel at home, unless you want to sit on it. Summer's most smashing sportswear looks are decked out in carefree cotton terry—a fabric known for its ability to soak up moisture as well as fashion.



The newest terries shape up in bold stripes and luscious solids for pull-on flare-leg pants, scooter skirts, short shorts, breezy midriffs, and classic tank tops. In lighter weights and soft, fine textures, they have a new-found style and zip that make getting dry after a swim a luxurious experience.

Designers see the new cotton terry fashions as part of the whole new approach to soft casual clothes for every hour of the day. Some predict they'll be worn away from the beach for twilight and evening hours as well as day.

So be advised: if you want to vacation in style, take along a terry.

STYLISH SANDPIPER—Cotton terry shapes a brief midriff top and long flare-leg pants for the fashionable beachcomber. Ideal for luxurious lounging on the sand after a swim, the outfit comes in white, navy, yellow, blue, red, or driftwood. It's by White Stag.

THE NEWEST—Pairing up with a scooped midriff top are "girl shorts"—versatile pull-ons that are shorts in front and a skirt in back. In multi-colored stripes of cotton terry, both are by White Stag.

SEASIDE STRIPES—Bright multi-color stripes give added zing to the classic tank top and short shorts in carefree cotton terry. Styled by White Stag, the outfit lets milady soak up the sun in high fashion.

It's In To Be Thin

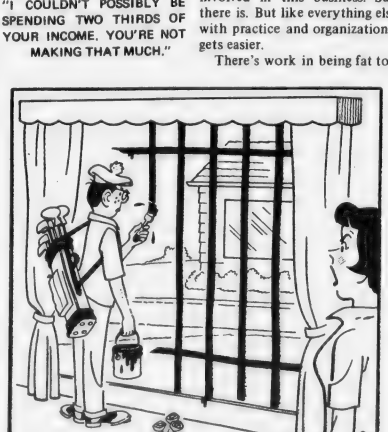
Director, The Diet Workshop

All right--you've made the decision to diet. About now I can hear you loud and clear crying out--There's work involved in this business. Sure there is. But like everything else, with practice and organization it gets easier.

There's work in being fat too. Tracking down the "outsize" clothes, trying to find a comfortable perch in a sports car, fitting three across in an airplane, easing up to the refreshments set on a bridge table...



Yes, it's work to be fat and what do you get for that kind of work. Instant nothing. What you get for the kind of work involved in dieting will be obvious by the time you've lost ten pounds, not to mention the ball you can have after you've reached your goal.

If you'd like a copy of our diet, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun. I'll be glad to send you one.

An English preacher and the five 1970 Jennings Scholars will be featured Sunday at the United First Parish Church Children's Day Service.

The program at the 10:45 a.m. worship service in the historic meetinghouse will mark the end of the parish school year.

Assisting Dr. Bradford E. Gale, minister, will be Rev. John Mather, one of the three ministers of the "yoked" Unitarian parishes of Dudley, Cosley and Oldberry of the west Midlands, Worcestershire, England.

Taking the place of the morning sermon will be the reading of essays by the five 1970 Jennings Scholars of the parish school, describing their religious roots since 1,500 B.C. The scholars include Evelyn Marie Curtis of Hanover, Denise Renee Zipp of Weymouth, Neil Haller Flavin of Milton, Sandra Lee Edwards and Clifford Crane Edwards of Quincy.

Special awards given the scholars, who have done extra work in their parish school studies, are made possible by a special fund set up years ago by the Jennings family of Wollaston.

Other awards will be presented and the Faxon Memorial plants will be distributed to all children of the school.

Mrs. Gale Harrison, organist-director, will lead the Youth Choir in music for the service.

A Fellowship Hour in the parish hall will follow the program, with an exhibit of art and handcrafts made by parish children in connection with their religious studies.

Mrs. Pauline Ulan is director of the parish school, and Mrs. Nell Slawson is chairman of the parish religious education committee.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

Sentimentalist or not, if you ever saw or see the traditional service at the shrine of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery on Memorial Day, you would have or see moist eyes, quivering lips, a tightening of the throat in reverent silence.

The story behind the story of the Unknown Soldier is drama without equal on any stage. It starts first with New York Congressman Hamilton Fish introducing a House Joint Resolution to have an unidentified, killed in action American Soldier returned from France for reinterment at Arlington. The drama continues with Admiral Dewey's famous Flagship "Olympia" commissioned to return the body to America with Marine Corp escort. In story book manner, the drama relates the care with which anonymity was made certain .. how the selection was made .. how an ordinary American, a Chicago orphan, as a Sergeant in France was chosen and ordered to walk into a room and place a bouquet of roses on one of four unidentified caskets .. how Sergeant Younker placed the bouquet and thus made a selection which he later described as God's choice.

The tomb of the Unknown Soldier is more than a symbol of sentiment. It is an American voice which gives thanks to the glory of God that we as Americans, can and do respect the honor and memory of our departed ones, soldiers and civilians alike. . .

Dr. Leslie Parrott New ENC President

Dr. Leslie Parrott, 48, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene in Portland, Ore., will be the next president of Eastern Nazarene College

Dr. Parrott, elected Monday by a two-thirds vote of the college's trustees, will succeed Dr. Edward S. Mann, president of the college for 22 years.

Dr. Mann resigned recently to become executive secretary of the department of education of the Church of the Nazarene in Kansas City, Mo., headquarters. Dr. Mann also served as a member of the Quincy School Committee for a number of years.

Dr. Parrott has held his present pastorate for seven years. In addition, he has taught psychology at George Fox College, Ore., and church growth and human understanding at Western Evangelical Seminary since 1964. He has received degrees from Olivet Nazarene College, Ill., Willamette University, Ore., and Michigan State University, and has written four books.

He is married and has three children, Richard, 17; Roger, 16; and Leslie, 9.

Bellotti In Governor's Race, Cites Need For Leadership

Former Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti who narrowly missed winning the governorship six years ago, tossed his hat into the ring this week for a second try.

The Quincy Democrat, in a formal announcement Tuesday, said he can provide the "strong and committed leadership" needed by Massachusetts in this "time of social revolution."

Bellotti, who served two years as lieutenant governor, made a strong but unsuccessful bid for governor in 1964 and for attorney general in 1966, formally announced his candidacy for governor during a press conference in the foyer of the Sheraton-Plaza Hotel, Boston.

He said he would take his candidacy to both the Democratic state convention this month and to the people in the Democratic primary.

He urged a secret ballot at the convention.

He called the Republican leadership "weak and image-conscious" and said "Massachusetts cries out for strong leadership."

Bellotti, a practicing Quincy attorney, who lives at 120 Hillside Ave., Wollaston, declared:

"This is a time of unbelievable change–a time of social revolution: and the need is for a strong and committed leadership. I can provide this leadership.

"It is my intention to submit my candidacy to the delegates at the Democratic State Convention, which hopefully, will be our last.

"It is also my intention to submit my candidacy to the people of my state in the Democratic Primary, because I believe that this is the Democratic Party, this is where people cannot be threatened or promised, this is where people can vote freely and a candidate's ideas and personal appeal can be tested.

"I add this challenge. If the other candidates truly want anything that even remotely resembles a free and open convention, then I ask them to join me in calling for a secret ballot.

"Good government does not come from the brutal exercise of political power, but from the uncoerced will of the people."

A 1948 graduate of Boston College, Watson received masters' degrees in Arts and Science from Boston College and Simmons College. Before coming to Quincy, he was assistant director and later director of libraries of the Framingham Public Library.

He had charge of the Boston College main library night service from 1960-61, and was a library assistant at Boston Public Library during 1959-60. Previously he had been engaged in radio and television editorial news work from 1949-58. He has held office in many related professional associations.

On The Screen
By
Vincent Puleo

Going back a few years, the first ACADEMY AWARDS were handed out in 1927. The top winners were WINGS, for best picture of the year; EMIL JENNINGS, for best actor, and JANET GAYNOR for best actress... In its' initial year, the Academy gave its award to actors on the individual's yearly output, instead of for a single performance. Jennings won for his performances in "THE LAST COMMAND," and "THE WAY OF ALL FLESH." Miss GAYNOR topped him by one film, as she was awarded for her performances in "SEVENTH HEAVEN," "STREET ANGEL" and "SUNRISE"...Does anyone remember that far back?...

Model MAUD ADAMS makes her motion picture debut in the soon to be released, "The Christian Licorice Store". She is the latest in the seemingly endless wave of mannequins to light up the silver screen. As a rule most magazine cover goddesses don't make good actresses. If MAUD has the talent of models - turned - screen stars, LAUREN BACALL and ALI McGRAW, she should do alright for herself. The film is due for release this summer, and co-stars BEAU BRIDGES... In case you're wondering about the unique picture title, "The Christian Licorice Store", it comes from a TIM BUCKLEY song... CORINNA TSOPEI, now appearing in "A Man Called Horse", pronounces her last name "So-Pay"... She, by the way, is a 1964 Miss Greece and Miss Universe, and for the past several years, European and American fashion model...

Richard Crenna, one of the stars of "Marooned", got his initial break in show business some 15 years ago in the television series "Our Miss Brooks". The long running series starred EVE ARDEN... Super Star STEVE McQUEEN'S first picture was a minor role in the Paul Newman hit, "Somebody Up There Likes Me". The film was based on the life of former middleweight champion Rocky Graziano, and McQUEEN played a young tough [and quite impressive at that]... The reason for McQUEEN'S phenomenal success is due in part to his 1952-1959 manager-agent, Hillard Elins... Elkins is a super star in his own right having produced the highly successful, "Oh, Calcutta!" and "Alice's Restaurant"... Another of his more successful alumni is ROBERT CULP of "I Spy" fame... Which only goes to prove the old show business adage, "You're only as good as your agent"...

FELLINI's "Satyricon" is one of the worst motion pictures to ever reach the screen. It is so atrociously awful even the nude scenes [which it has more than its' share of] put one to a sound, if not restful sleep... Somehow, JOHN WAYNE and best actor of the year don't sound right together. Oh, his performance in "True Grit" was the best of his long career, but not quite as moving or enthralling as RICHARD BURTON's "Anne of a Thousand Days"... Maybe sometime in this decade the multi-nominated BURTON will walk home with the 10-karat gold plated "Oscar"... GREGORY PECK made somewhat of a comeback in "Marooned". For the past several years his pictures have not packed box-office punch. "Marooned", one of the surprises of the season, has placed PECK back into the forefront of leading actors... Another star who received a nicely placed career push is KIRK DOUGLAS with his "The Arrangement".. Too bad MARLON BRANDO passed up the lead in this film. His career is in dire need of an artistic overhaul. The last film he made ran in second rate movie houses in New York. Maybe his next outing will prove more successful... This corner certainly hopes so... The once Oscared and four time nominated BRANDO, was once the best in the business... The 50's were his, the 60's were not - as for the 70's???

GEORGE KENNEDY gives a boldly gripping performance in "Zigzag". It is his best role since his 1967 "Cool Hand Luke"... "The Sicilian Clan" is a first rate suspense chiller, highlighted by the performances of Alain Delon and Jean Gabin. They and the exciting script make for entertaining viewing... After a month's absence, HAIR, the rock, musical-bonanza, is back in Boston playing before sellout houses at the Wilbur. After much nonsensical legal haggling by Dist. Atty. GARRETT H. BYRNE, the Supreme Court handed down a 4-4 ruling to let the play be shown intact. Mr. Byrne wanted an under 30-second nude scene eliminated as "obscene"... It is encouraging to know that the higher courts are better enlightened than the lower... If GARRETT BYRNE is that hung up on pressing obscenity charges against somebody, all he has to do is stroll through the COMBAT ZONE some early a.m.... Go sick 'em GARRETT baby!

ELLIOT GOULD is fast coming into his own as one of the biggest actor-stars of the year. He has two more soon-to-be released films on schedule, "Getting Straight", and "Move". In the former GOULD stars as a hippy graduate student, and in the latter he plays a professional dog-walker... His more recent film, "M-A-S-H", was the Cannes Film Festival's PALME D' OR GRAND PRIZE WINNER, and showcased GOULD as a genuinely bright and refreshingly talented actor... DON RICKLES is now making a film in Yugoslavia called "The Warriors". Also in the cast is an actor named CLINT EASTWOOD... "Bloody Mama" pulls all the stops in its effort to achieve blood curdling realism. SHELLEY WINTERS stars in this "family" motion picture about a mother and her children who shoot up the countryside in Bonnie and Clye style. One of the better performances in the film is turned in by DON STROUD, an actor with tremendous potential... Somehow seeing HENRY FONDA doing a television commercial doesn't seem right... Best foreign film of the year, "Z", is still doing great business at the Exeter Theatre. For those of you who have as yet to see this masterpiece, it is worth the viewing time. How it relates to our contemporary American Society is almost frightening...

21 Volunteers Spruce Up Squantum Project Area

Thirteen youngsters from the Myles Standish School and eight adult volunteers spent a total of 126 man hours on a recent Saturday cleaning up debris from an area behind the U. S. Navy Housing Project at Squantum.

The land was made available to the Quincy School Department by the General Services Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Quincy Civil Defense is also using a small portion of it for training, and for storage of Fallout Shelter Supplies which would normally be stored in schools if space were available.

The all-out effort was made following a request from the Office of Surplus Property Utilization that debris be removed from the area as it constitutes a safety hazard.

On the clean-up detail were students:

Leon DeWitt of 30 Yorktown St., William Infinger of 34 Yorktown St., Auggie Burke of 4 Lexington St., Timothy Anderson of 73 Saratoga St., Donald Graham of 52 Saratoga St., Brian Meadow and Leslie Meadow of 15 Saratoga St., Bayani Mantoya of 14 Saratoga St., Michael Sampson of 20 Saratoga St., Debby Saylor of 27 Saratoga St., Kenneth MacIsaac of 36 Bay State Road, John Paul Quick of 59 Saratoga St., and Kenneth McGissek of Bay State Road.

Civil Defense Director Edward H. Roberts, Deputy Director Thomas Lyons, Frank J. Roberts, Robert Wengefeld and Walter Wengefeld Civil Defense Volunteers; John Vantossi of the Quincy Highway Department and Dominic Vantossi of 75 Taffrail Road, were adult workers.

The next week under the direction of Alfred Raymondi, Superintendent, the Quincy Highway Department used its heavy equipment to remove larger items too heavy to be handled by manpower.

"We hope that others will now take notice and help us keep this area free of debris," Director Roberts says.

Burke, McIntyre In McCormack Tribute

Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre and Congressman James A. Burke this week had words of praise for House Speaker John W. McCormack who has decided not to seek reelection.

McIntyre called his retirement "one of the most significant political losses to Massachusetts in our entire history."

"In my estimation that which has been accomplished in Massachusetts on the federal level for a long period of time has been responsible in no small measure because of the tremendous efforts which you have evidenced in your performance as Majority Leader and Speaker of the House of Representatives," McIntyre wrote in a personal letter to McCormack.

"Speaker McCormack . . . will go down in history as its greatest speaker," Burke telegraphed. "His long record of accomplishments in the fields of civil rights, housing, education and health are unexcelled. Massachusetts will always be grateful for his services."

Five To Compete Saturday

Quincy, North Trackmen In State Meet

North Quincy will have three trackmen and Quincy two in Saturday's annual state championship meet at White Stadium.

This meet, pitting the best in Eastern Mass. against the best in Western Mass., is held in one division and the best trackmen in the state will be competing.

North will be paced by Paul Affsa, the Raiders' outstanding competitor, who will be in the long jump and 880. After winning both events the previous week in the class trials, he finished second in each in Class B last week in the state class meet at White Stadium.

John Panarelli won the javelin and Lee Davis placed fourth in this event.

A fine human interest story put Davis into the championship meet and if a Good Sportsmanship Award were given it should have gone to Kim Kaplan of Doherty Memorial, Worcester.

The judges ruled Kaplan had finished fourth and Davis sixth, thus eliminating the North star from Saturday's title meet.

When Davis, who claimed he finished fourth, went to get his medal, he was told he finished sixth and was out of the running, despite his insistence he was fourth.

North's coaches questioned each of the judges involved and they repeated that Kaplan was fourth and Davis sixth.

Davis and his coaches went to see Kaplan and his coach but before they even had a chance to question them, the Doherty star admitted Davis had finished fourth and he was sixth.

"It was a fine thing for the boy to admit this, as it is tough to see someone lose a medal and a place in the championship meet after he had been ruled a winner," North Coach Bob Gentry said. "He is a credit to his team and his school."

In Class A Quincy qualified 100 percent of its entries. Only Bobby Ciano in the mile and Joe Goguen in the long jump had qualified for last week's class meet and both came through again and will be in Saturday's state meet.

Ciano, a brilliant sophomore, placed third in the mile and Goguen was fifth in the long jump.

ENC Closes Season With Winning Slate

The Eastern Nazarene College baseball team finished the season with a winning record.

The Crusaders split a double-header with King's College [Briar Cliff Manor, N.Y.] to end the season with a 9-8-1 record. The last two games of the season against Southeastern Massachusetts University and Husson College [Bangor, Me.] were cancelled. The SMU game was cancelled because of rain and the Husson game was called off when The Warriors were selected to play in the District 32 NAIA playoffs.

Doug Sorenson, a freshman shortstop from Russell, Pa., was the leading hitter for ENC with a .366 average which included four double, three triples and one homerun.

Ron Bradley, a, sophomore catcher-pitcher from North Quincy, had the second-best batting average with a .304 average. Bradley also had a 2-0 record on the mound and an earned run average of 1.50.

The top pitcher for the Crusaders was John Whitman, a sophomore right-hander from Greece, N.Y. Whitman had a 4-3 record, with three heart-breaking losses, and an earned run average of 1.31.

This will be the final ENC baseball game coached by Carroll Bradley. Brad, who started the baseball program in 1959, has resigned and will take a teaching position in California next year.

Bradley will be succeeded by Jim Smith, who has coached basketball and baseball at Carman High School in Flint, Michigan. Smith, who has been coaching high school basketball and baseball in Michigan for the past ten years, was a basketball and baseball star at Olivet Nazarene College.

Weak Defense Leads To Presidents' Downfall

Quincy's defense, which carried the Presidents' baseball team to a fine 10-4 season and second place in the Greater Boston League, let them down last Saturday and, as a result, Bob Basiliere's team was eliminated from the Eastern Mass. Tourney by Boston College High, 6-4, at South Boston.

Quincy committed three errors and each one accounted for a B. C. High run.

Meanwhile, the Eaglets treated starting pitcher Rick Brown, who had a fine season, roughly in the first inning and junior right-hander Mark Whelton, the find of the year for the Presidents, took over in that first inning. Jimmy Walker, sophomore lefty who had eight saves this year, finished up for the Presidents.

"Errors really hurt," Basiliere said. "Things we did well during the season we did wrong today. And, with a weak hitting team like our's, it is tough to fall four runs behind right at the start."

A walk, a sacrifice on which Brown erred, a double and triple sent Brown to the showers and Whelton's wild pitch brought in the fourth run of the opening inning.

B. C. High added a run in the third, and, after being held hitless for four innings, Quincy exploded for three runs in the fifth.

Pete Lucier walked, Bill Maver singled and both scored on Bruce Carlson's hit to right center. Whelton doubled Carlson home but was thrown out at third trying to make it a triple.

The winning run scored in the sixth and the Presidents added a consolation marker in the seventh. With Lucier on third and Carlson on first, a double steal was ordered. Lucier scored and Carlson reached second safely.

"We hadn't played in 10 days and I think the layoff hurt us," Basiliere ,commented. "I had tried to have the game played Friday because our prom was Friday night but they refused. I don't know if the prom hurt us or not.

"We had a real good season and I give the boys loads of credit for what they did, I thought we would do well but not this well. We had a young club and a lot of the kids will be back. Art Mosher's junior varsity had a real fine season [7-4] and a lot of his boys will help us. I'd like to think we will be back in the tourney next year."

Night Recreation Programs Set At Shea Skating Rink

Quincy Recreation Director, William F. Ryan, announces the opening of the Shea Skating Rink in West Quincy for night recreation programs.

In an effort to get more intensive use of the M.D.C. Facility during non-skating months, the Quincy Recreation Department will open the rink on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights from 6:00-10:00 P.M. for junior and senior high youths.

Following a meeting with City Councilor Albert R. Barilaro, the Park-Recreation Board voted to launch this program utilizing funds from the Pilot Project in Recreation. This project runs on a grant from the State Division of Youth Services to be used in four areas of the city.

Barry Welch, Director of the Pilot Project, said a comprehensive program utilizing both the indoor and outdoor facilities is planned. Some activities scheduled are: arts and crafts, checkers, tennis, volleyball, basketball, indoor hockey, softball and other games.

Germantown All-Stars Edge Winchester, 3-1

The Germantown Junior Soccer League All-Stars edged Winchester, 3-1, Saturday at Quincy High Field to make their record 3-1.

The game was a tremendous test for both teams and only the excellent play of fullbacks Mike Renzi and Steve Sylva saved the Germantown team in the first half.

In the second half the hard-running, explosive Germantown attack began to take a toll on the visitors but the tall Winchester goalkeeper was able to turn back all threats.

Finally, with two minutes left Ken Donovan picked up a loose ball in front of the Winchester goal and kicked the ball into the net just out of the goalie's reach.

In a game between the rival B teams, Germantown also won, 2-0, on Scott Staughn's two goals. Like the A game, this was one of the hardest-fought games of the season.

Walter Dacey, Robert Pringle and Robert Dacey played outstanding games at halfback. Joe McEachern had gained his first shutout for the A team and Stephen Melzard got his first for the B team.

Ken Donovan and Scott Staughn were selected the game stars.

Quincy High Girls Close Perfect Softball Season

Mary Pratt's Quincy High girls' softball team wound up a perfect season Monday with a 14-5 win over Marshfield for a final 8-0 record.

Regina Pestelli, who pitched every one of the games, held Marshfield to six hits but faced her toughest competition of the season from the Marshfield lasses who had won five games in a row.

The teams traded the lead until the sixth inning when Quincy exploded for seven hits and eight runs to run away with the win.

Lydia Thomas and Miss Pestelli led the batting attack with three hits apiece, with Pat Thomas and Karen Fruzzetti continuing to hit the long ball. Each came up with a long double.

Defensively Karen Fruzzetti made the play of the year at shortstop when she went far to her right to spear a low line drive in the fourth inning.

In their previous game the Quincy girls had walloped arch rival North Quincy for the second time, 15-1.

It was only 2-1 after three innings but Miss Pratt's club erupted for six runs in the fourth.

Until that inning Miss Pestelli and North's Sheila Varney were hooked up in a fine pitching duel.

Regina collected three hits and Pat Thomas had a home run.

The Quincy girls will have many returnees next season including Karen Fruzzetti, Doreen Goguen, Gail Carella, Nancy Cappadona, Elaine MacDonald, Pat Doyle, Debbie Hobson, Debbie Hensley, Marcia Ingeneri, Hedy Schemann, Sheena Giggey, Lois MacLean and Linda Thomas.

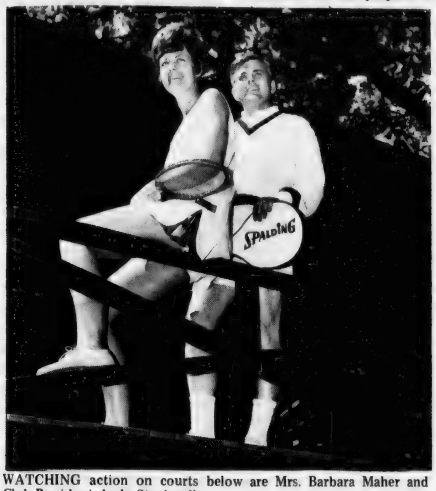
Quincy Tennis Club In 57th Season

The Quincy Tennis Club has opened its 57th consecutive season at its picturesque courts on Glendale Rd.

When Major Walter Clopton Wingfield invented lawn tennis in England in 1873, little did he know that the fledgling young American community - Quincy, Mass. would be one of the first to organize a tennis club.

In 1887, on June 17th with Perry Lawton, it's president, two courts were built between Bigelow and Elm Streets in Quincy.

On Aug. 2, 1900, the courts were moved to Woodward Ave. and Greenleaf St., on the land owned by Dr. N. S. Hunting. In 1913, the Quincy Tennis Club was incorporated. The charter states the object of the club is as follows:



"This corporation is constituted for the purpose of promoting the game of lawn tennis and for encouraging athletic exercise of any and all kinds, tending to better the physical and social welfare of its members, and for the maintenance of such grounds, rooms, facilities and associations as will best serve such purposes."

The Quincy Tennis Club relocated to its present position on Glendale Rd. The beautiful setting of five red clay courts nestled in the area between the Neighborhood Club, the beautiful homes on Presidents' Lane, Adams St. and Glendale Rd., serves to make one harken back to the beginnings of tennis in this country and to its heritage established in the early 1900's.

Gaily bedecked men, women and youngsters in their traditional white garb can be seen cavorting around the elm tree shaded courts every day of the summer season.

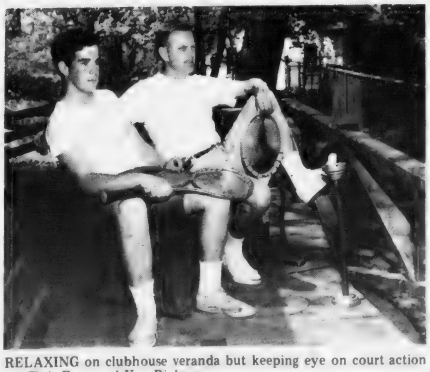
The social and physical aspects flourish as much today as when the club began in 1887 in Quincy. Tennis is definitely on the rise in the world today and more and more people are turning to it as a means to make their leisure hours as enjoyable as possible.

Memberships are open for this season and application forms can be received from the manager at the club, Bill Dempsey or other members such as Mrs. Shirley Laing, Kenneth Rickson, Mrs. Barbara Maher, Herb Chaddock, or its present president Andy Stockwell.

WATCHING action on courts below are Mrs. Barbara Maher and Club President Andy Stockwell.

TWO OF TOP standout members of Quincy Tennis Club, Dr. Philip Maloney, ranked No. 2 in doubles in New England, and Bill Fielding, ranked 31st in singles, chat before workout.

PRETTY PAIR enjoying the sun before stepping onto court are Miss Betty MacLeod and Mrs. Jane Heggie.



DISPLAYING fine form are Jessie Copman and Lackey Elfot.

Giachetti Piling Up Honors

Honors continue to be heaped upon North Quincy's Rich Giachetti.

The former North Quincy star who recently received the Pop Houston Award as Tufts University's outstanding athlete for the second year in a row, last week was named one of the Greater Boston Baseball League's Most Valuable Players. Rich shares the honor with Mike Whitney of Boston College.

Giachetti was named to the league all-star team as a pitcher. He had a 3-2 record, a fine 1.60 earned run and struck out 44 including a school record of 14 in one game.

He also batted .419 to lead the league.

Also named to the all-star team was Pete Varney, another former North star who set several batting records at Harvard and made the star club for the second year in a row, this time as a first baseman. He also caught and played the outfield for the Crimson. He was one of three players named to the team for two years in a row.

Lawrence Pharmacy, Van Oriola Teams Lead St. John's

The standings:

AMERICAN DIVISION

Rangers Seek Third Win Sunday

The hard fighting Quincy Rangers came from behind to tie the Weymouth Warriors, 3-3, Sunday and next Sunday will seek their third Commonwealth League win when they play unbeaten St. John's in a 2:30 game at Quincy High Field behind Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Al Lavoie gave Quincy an early lead with a penalty shot but Weymouth, which earlier had defeated the Rangers, 5-2, roared back to take a 2-1 lead.

Lavoie sent a perfect pass to Roque Acosta who smashed the ball past the helpless Weymouth goalkeeper but Weymouth again took the lead a short time later.

The tying goal was another penalty shot, a blistering shot by Walter Duque on which the goalkeeper never had a chance.

The hero for Quincy was goalie Dave D'Olympio, who made many superb saves. Russ Barry's skillful midfield play also played a prominent part in the tie. He returned to the lineup after a five-week layoff due to an appendectomy.

"The Rangers' passing and teamwork have improved tremendously and I think we should do much better over the second half of the second," Manager Peter Gallagher said.

Fick Paces S.S. Golfers

Wayne Fick of North Quincy paced South Shore schoolboy golfers in last week's qualifying round for the 36-hole state stroke play final Monday at Saddle Hill in Hopkinton.

Fick posted a 76 to share medalist honors at Easton Country Club with Paul Harrington of Abington.

Also qualifying for the final was Mike Zakrezewski of North Quincy.

Fick, who plays out of Furnace Brook with a five handicap, had one birdie, making a deuce on the 15th hole, a 165-yard par three. He chipped in from the fringe.

Wayne, who plays in the top spot for the strong North Quincy team, was making his first appearance in the tourney. Last year as a sophomore he let a senior play in his place. Only three players from each team are permitted to compete.

'Committing Themselves To A Better America'

Hail Graduates' Work, Dissent

Quincy's Class of 1970 was hailed last night for committing itself "to working for a better America" and for its dissent that "reflects the questions adults are asking themselves."

The tributes came from School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon and Mayor James R. McIntyre at combined commencement exercises for 1,103 seniors from Quincy, North Quincy and Quincy Vocational-Technical Schools at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Touching on the Vietnam War and other major problems, Mayor McIntyre declared: "I think the dissent of youth reflects the questions we adults are asking ourselves."

He called on the graduates, however, to "tune in" rather than "drop out" of the system which gave them "the educational benefits of knowledge and this freedom to exercise that knowledge in dissent and question."

Dr. Creedon said that from personal knowledge and observation of their accomplishments, he would exclude the Class of 1970 from a "lost generation" classification.

Quincy High School was host for the traditional cap and gown ceremonies with a large attendance of parents, friends and relatives looking proudly on. The Class's theme was "LISTEN".

The graduates took home with them more than 200 scholarships and other awards of distinction.

Stating that he was "turning the tables" on the class, Mayor McIntyre presented what he called a list of "unnegotiable demands" to them:

●--"That you tune in" rather than "drop out" of the system which gave you the educational benefits of knowledge and this freedom to exercise that

Police Get Mayor's 'Full Support' To Keep Streets Safe

Full support for Quincy Police in performance of their duty was pledged by Mayor James R. McIntyre, at the annual Quincy Police Department memorial exercises Sunday at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

"I commend you, men of the Quincy Police Department, for the manner in which you have conducted yourselves in the daily battle in which you are engaged to preserve our society from those who would destroy it," Mayor McIntyre said, as keynote speaker.

"I charge you to continue your devoted service with even more vigilance because of this turbulent era of nation existence. When, whether by lack of respect for authority or for some other reason, any individuals or groups of individuals violate the law either in the commission of specific crimes or engaging in riotous strife which infringes upon, impairs or destroys the life and property of our citizens, I direct you as Mayor to act swiftly and promptly to arrest and bring such offenders before the courts to answer their responsibilities.

"Your performance of duty will be fully supported by me as Mayor. Let this be known that Quincy people will walk safely on their own streets, - and that individuals, or groups of individuals, causing impairment of that right will be dealt with strictly and fairly."

Officer William O'Donnell, president of the Quincy Police Relief Association, was chairman for the services, which followed a parade of City officials, police and fire department personnel.

Fun And Buys July 16-18 At Quincy 'Sidewalk Bazaar'

The downtown and Quincy Center areas will have an old-fashioned "Shopperstown Sidewalk Bazaar" July 16, 17, and 18.

Remo DeNicola of South Shore Television, and Appliance promotions committee chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Merchants Division sponsored event has named Burton Cook of Tags Sleep and Lounge Shop chairman of this special summer promotion.

"We would like this to be more than just a merchants sales promotion," Cook says. "We want it to be a friendly community-type event that many groups and organizations can participate in. This could be a good opportunity for clubs or groups with special projects or programs that they need to raise funds for."

While many retail stores will have sidewalk counters and racks with sale merchandise, other sidewalk space in front of offices, banks and other non-sale type stores will be reserved by the Promotions Committee for clubs and organizations, and other community displays, Cook said.

These would include church groups, civic associations, cultural groups, Scout groups, and any other area club or organization interested in participating either on sidewalk space or window displays.

Possible ways groups or organizations can participate are through bazaars or sales of food, clothing or other merchandise, displays or exhibits of arts, crafts or other accomplishments, demonstrations of arts or crafts

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf Pediatrician

[Dr. Charles Djerf has returned from Honduras where he volunteered a month's service at a CARE sponsored hospital in Santa Rosa DeCopans. Here, in the first of a series of articles, he reports on his experiences.]

Don't Drink The Water

My experiences on the trip to Honduras may require several articles, so if you will bear with me - accounts of, and reference to, varying aspects may be worthy of your participation.

Let's start with geography - The country is about the size of Pennsylvania and is in Central America. It touches Guatamala, El Salvador, Nicaragua, a small piece in the West on the Pacific and on the East the Carribean. It is not a richly endowed agricultural nation and has a moderate supply, not excessive, of bananas, coffee, tobacco and mahogany. The climate is semi-tropical with lowland humidity, partial desert-like western areas, and much of it is hilly and mountainous.

The City of Santa Rosa de Copan is the major City of the State of Copan. It borders in Guatamala and is cooler and higher than San Pedro Sula - 90 miles east which is a thriving industrial center. The major product of this area is tobacco - excellent in grade according to my informants - tobacco buyers from Tampa, Florida. They predict that the economy of the area may be greatly boosted by the planting of 3,000 to 4,000 more acres of tobacco because they feel that Connecticut will gradually lose this product due to pollution by industry and a growing urbanization.

One of the interesting features of Copan is the Ancient Mayan Culture, which existed here and has had archeological excavations begun in the early 30's - largely by Harvard College. A trip to these ruins will probably be worth a description on its own.

Spending three weeks in a part of a nation does not make one an authority nor a chronicler, but it does give one a view of, and the right to compare with our own area:-

The weather in Santa Rosa is practically ideal - warm up to 90 in May - cool at night - this city is about 3,500 feet above sea level, nestled in a valley surrounded by hills and distant mountain ranges. It has a local population of about 9,000, primarily people of Spanish origin with some Indian mixture and a few of negroid features. The City itself has a Central Square or Plaza bordered by a Catholic Cathedral, a movie theatre - reminiscent in its primitive character of our old Music Hall [formerly where Remicks new addition exists] - A local constabulary with a prison, the Post Office, Municipal buildings, and banks. The Plaza Center is a raised area with beautiful trees, much like the Banyan of Hawaii and a Gazebo for a Band-Stand. The whole City extends for about six blocks in orderly parallel streets from the square. There are no macadamized streets here, a few cobble-stoned - irregular and rough and the rest are dirt roads, furrowed and pitted - dirty as heck.

The houses are close to the sidewalks which are several feet above the street. The windows are usually barred and barricaded by shutters at night. Every morning my alarm clock was a series of very Proximal roosters, crowing and answering each other from all points. When did you last hear a rooster? - don't forget this is 4:30 to 5:00 A.M. A rocket would hiss in its' flight - explode and shower its' flare at 5:00 A.M. - every morning - with no one to give me an explanation of its significance.

Then some kids playing either the "Stars and Stripes" or the Colonel Bogey March [at least two strains of each - with the rat-a-tat of drums]. Very often a religious parade would pass my window with intoning and cadence - at 6:00 A.M. Did I mind it - not much, you see I'm an early riser but not usually with such solemnity.

May is supposed to be a rainy month - just a few showers - but boy, does it rain - like buckets - with thunder and lightning. Next day the roads are as dusty as ever. Very little provision is made, as in Bermuda, for the storage of rain water.

To return to a description of the area - visualize, if you can, three Great Blue Hills, one upon another, coming like a pyramid - very steep - to a narrow crest, enough to permit a man to walk upon. Scrubby trees or burned fields - dusty, rocky, and denuded by seasoned fires [burned to permit replanting of corn or beans] - Burned with no respect for the trees. Visualize at the foot of these hills, a small stream or brook and then other hills rising helter and skelter and you have thousands of these hills traversed by by roads but paths - ages old - No jeep or tractors can function up these hills - but the lonely dirt farmer here called a "Compesino" grubs from these difficult hills and existence - for what you can call it - living on Frijoles [a corn cake] and beans.

Water, says Bill Rossi, is god's most precious gift to man - the cheapest and most abundant - Yes, in New England but not in Copan. Every farmer and the hill folk lug the water from the valley to their abodes high in the hills sometimes 1/2 to two miles away - up hill on their heads, gracefully borne by women or girls in any convenient jug or urn, daily.

The City of Santa Rosa, remember, has 9,000 people. It has a public water supply which it can afford for two hours in the morning - 6:00 to 8:00 A.M. with public faucets here and there, and for one hour at night. Is the water potable - NO! These wonderful, rugged people can drink it but I was advised not to dare. Why? The waters are contaminated with bacteria and larvae - one can boil water for safety or buy distilled water as I did. Vegetables, such as tomatoes, celery, lettuce, radishes and potatoes are soaked in chlorox solution before being peeled or cooked by Gringos [that's you and I].

Honduras, according to a recent AMA study is among the nations most severely hit by dysentery and infection from parasites and water has a lot to do with this.

When you drink your next glass of water, sip and suckle each drop and be thankful that it is the best, most abundant and precious natural resource you have and commiserate with the people of Honduras who survive despite adversity and never gripe!

I have the thought the BEING is a relative condition, and that observing at the periphery gives a better insight than thinking one is somebody or thing.

Post Office To Discontinue Savings Stamps

The Boston Postal District will discontinue the sale of U. S. Savings Stamps after June 30, reminds Officer-in-Charge, George K. Walker, which includes Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy.

The Treasury Department had announced in February that it was ending the sale of these stamps by the end of the fiscal year.

Walker urged students and others to complete their unfilled stamp albums prior to June 30 and exchange them for U. S. Savings bonds.

"There is no better way for young people to save," he said, "than buying and holding U. S. Savings Bonds."

The stamps can also be redeemed for cash at any post office.

The stamps -- ranging in value from 10 cents to $5 -- were part of the Postal Savings program prior to 1942 when they "joined" the War Bond drive.

In addition to selling stamps directly to customers, post offices have also supplied schools and other groups sponsoring savings programs for the past 28 years.

'Sincere Thanks'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The fifth annual Nursing Home Week celebration, May 10-17, has come and gone with a great deal of success and much of it was due to the tremendous coverage given by the local news media.

We want to take this opportunity of extending our sincere thanks to your newspaper for its excellent community spirit and leadership in publicizing the stories about the visitation program on Mother's Day and the other events.

As you know, there are thousands of lonely people in Nursing Homes who have outlived their relatives and friends. Volunteers are doing a wonderful job in making them feel they are not forgotten. We thank them, too.

In this health program field, we realize only too well our dependence on the communication field to publicize our missions and objectives to interested publics.

So, we thank you for encouraging interest in Nursing Home Week, and additional support for better health care during the year.

Morris Sibulkin Jr., President
Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes

Flag Day, Quincy

2,500 Youngsters To March For Old Glory Monday

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

There will be stars and stripes by the thousands in Quincy on Monday.

Occasion will be the annual Koch Club Flag Day parade with some 2,500 boys and girls each carrying an American flag.

Appropriate theme this year is "Quincy Youth on Parade in a Salute to Old Glory".

"We are expecting between 2,500 and 3,000 boys and girls to march," Richard J. Koch, executive director, says. "It should be one of the most colorful Flag Day parades ever seen in the city."

In addition to the 1,500 Koch Club boys' baseball and girls' softball leagues, all in new hats, jerseys and uniforms, Quincy Little League units, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will be provided with flags to carry in the parade, and to take home afterward.

The parade will form at 6 p.m. at Quincy Vocational Technical High School parking area, and step off at 6:30 p.m. Nine drum and bugle corps will provide music, with all veteran, civic, and fraternal organizations invited to take part. Marchers will proceed along Coddington, Washington, Hancock Sts. and Southern Artery to Veterans Memorial Stadium.

At 7:15 p.m. there will be a Flag Raising Ceremony, followed by a brief program.

Six scholarship awards totaling $500, will be presented by Anthony T. Delmonico, director of the Koch Club Broadmeadows District, and Miss Ruth E. Scanlan of the Quincy School Committee, former Koch Club softball player and recipient of a Koch Club award.

The $100 scholarships will go to Miss Priscilla Lee of 201 Taffrail Rd. Thomas R. Feeney of 201 Taffrail Rd, both of Quincy High School; Miss Carolyn Cronin of 22 Windsor Rd and Robert Lee of 67 West Elm Ave., North Quincy High School; with $50 awards going to Joseph Brennan of 176 Farrington St. and Miss Linda Kislewski of 26 Gladstone St., Quincy Vocational Technical School graduates.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, members of the Quincy City Council and other officials have been invited to participate.

Flags are again being provided by Asst. City Clerk, Thomas R. Burke, Atty. Thomas M. Byrnes, Joseph L. Donovan, Philip Garcia, Richard M. Morrissey, Police Lt. Paul Nestor, Thomas Nestor, school attendance officer; and Louis Simons.

Black's Creek Sprucing Up

Sprucing up of the Black's Creek area from Beechwood Knoll along Fenno St. to Quincy Shore Blvd., is planned for Saturday by the Quincy Conservation Commission as a community project.

Equipped with rakes, shovels and other implements, members of the Wollaston Park Association, Beechwood Knoll Association, Wollaston Boy Scout troops, SCORE students from Central Junior High School and other interested groups and individuals are being invited to "come on down" and join in a four-hour clean-up from 8 a.m. to noon.

Bernard C. Moore of the Conservation Commission, in charge of the project, said:

"As this is the first area the Conservation Commission has under its jurisdiction, we are hoping through community efforts to clean up this area. We hope to obtain other areas and we hope to make them all more beautiful. Beautification, or anti-litter, is one of the aspects of conservation."

Department of Public Works trucks will haul away the accumulated debris. The Commission hopes eventually to clear away all the litter and trash which has clogged brooks running into the area, to aid in easing flooding conditions.

Summer Learning Centers To Serve Seven Schools

For the fifth year, Title I Summer Learning Centers will serve seven Quincy schools. Snug Harbor, Daniel Webster, Great Hill, John Hancock, St. John's, St. Joseph's and St. Mary's.

Peter Murray, director of Project DARE, will supervise a summer program called "A Cooperative Teaching Team Approach to the Problem of Learning Language Disabilities."

Centers established at Snug Harbor, Daniel Webster and John Hancock Schools will provide a program for approximately 100 children in the present kindergarten and first grade of the seven target schools.

Teachers and specialists will cooperate in attempting to discover potential learning problems for individual children and to provide remedies. The program will continue from July 6 to July 31 from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Problems of reading, language and mathematics by students in grades 1-6 of the seven schools will be concentrated upon in a second summer program directed by Leo McKillop, assistant principal of Quincy Point Junior High School.

Pupils will be bussed from their local schools to Beechwood Knoll School. This project will operate from July 6 to Aug. 14 from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Physical education, recreation and cultural experiences will be secondary goals for this group.

Funds for the summer program come from the U. S. Office of Education under the Elementary and Secondary Education Acts. Stewart S. Sargent, Quincy Coordinator of Federal Funds, has worked in cooperation with the Massachusetts Department of Education in securing funds for the program.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Cars And The Flower Girl

Q. What is the proper order for the cars to leave the church for the reception and what is the correct seating arrangement?

A. Each car has a special driver. The bride and groom have a chauffeur driven limousine. Following in car No. 2 is the maid of honor and best man. Their car need not necessarily be a limousine as long as it is driven by someone else. This follows true for the rest of the cars too. In order, they are:

Car No. 3 and 4 etc. Bridesmaids and ushers.

Car No. 5 bride's parents

Car No. 6 bridegroom's parents.

Incidentally, the brides' father takes care of this arrangement. He also arranges transportation from his home to the church for the bride, her attendants and his wife. He, of course, rides with the bride. If there are any out of town guests staying at his home or at a motel it is up to dad to make sure they have transportation for the day.

Q. Where in the processional and the receiving line does the flower girl stand?

A. The flower girl walks directly in front of the bride following the honor attendant. If she stands with the bridal party during the wedding it is on the left of the honor attendant who cues her. She may sit in the front pew on the left or when she reaches her mother may step out of line and sit with her.

Usually she does not stand in the receiving line. Sometimes the older flower girl wants to stand in line. If this is the case then she would stand between the bridegroom and honor attendant. Before the receiving line forms be sure to give her permission to leave the line when she wants to.

Brides, when it comes time to select the flower girls' gown be sure, if she is to be dressed as the bridesmaids, the style does not make her look like a little old lady. Some styles that are stunning on the older girls make the little one look ridiculous. If this should be the case, have her gown made in your color scheme but in a little girl style.

Memorial Day

I always saw Memorial Day as a special day; For soldiers, women nurses, sailors and even to some children. The soldiers are as brave as ever, but even a soldier fears he might get killed. But something forces them to go on. What is it? Proudness and braveness. Is it proudness of the country that they fight for. Just maybe its braveness.

Even though they are afraid sometimes, their afraidness, awareness, bravery and proudness makes them heroes.

The soldiers, airforce and marines are so very brave that our country's still here and our flag's still wave. But don't forget waves, nurses or other people who help the sick and wounded. They take chances too. Even though they don't fight they win medals too.

Mr. Duck And The Three Pigs

Mr. Duck owned Attlersville General Store. His friends were the three pigs, who sat lazily in the store all day playing checkers and gabbing. The youngest pig was rambunctious, and he lied many times too.

His biggest prank was when he placed a trap in the cash register. Mr. Duck opened it; he stood stationary with surprise! Fireworks went off with a resounding boom. The young pig ran to his brothers and told them that a fire had started. They didn't believe him because of his previous falsehoods. Mr. Duck escaped but the fire ruined his store.

Moral: "A liar will not be believed even when he speaks the truth".

Winter is everywhere in the U. S. The snow turns the land white. Sometimes there is ice on the pond. On the pond there might be thin ice. Some children like to skate. Some children are very cold. It blows a lot because its cold. A lot of children sled on the snow.

Spring Poem

Spring is a time for me and you

Spring is a time for animals, too.

Spring is time for April showers.

Scuffy And The Policeman

One day there was a dog named Scuffy. His owners name was Tom. Tom heard that there was a wild dog on the loose and the police were trying to get the dog. One day Tom took Scuffy for a walk. Scuffy started to bark and a policeman thought Scuffy was wild. He took Scuffy and Tom to the police station. Tom told the officer Scuffy was not wild but the officer did not believe him. Tom showed the officer Scuffy's tricks. And finally the officer let Tom and Scuffy go.

A Spring Poem

I am so happy that Spring is around.

Because you are not just laying down.

You know how to count like 1, 2, and 3.

So maybe you can climb a tree

Is there something you want me to here?

Oh! It's just that Spring is here!

Some Springs are rainy,
Some are drainy.
But Spring Is! Here!

Turkey Trouble

One day around Thanksgiving time, five turkeys were sitting on a branch. They all thought they were very fine looking and very superior, except one. The others didn't worry about anyone but themselves.

Soon they were strutting on the ground where hunters shot them one by one. That is, all but the last one who decided that he wasn't so superior. So he lived for many years to come and told his story to his grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Fable

One day, a rather handsome zebra stood talking to himself. "Curse these skinny legs. Why can't they be as elegant as my fluffy tail?"

The following day a calamity befell the zebra. A ruthless lioness started chasing the zebra when at the climax of the chase the zebra's fluffy tail was caught in some thorns. However, his quick, strong legs pulled him out of the thicket and his tail was left behind. The following day, he was more humble and never criticized his legs again.

The Twins

Once upon a time there was an old house that was like a feezzer inside, it was so cold. Since it was so cold, two snowflakes could live in it and that's what did live in it, two snowflakes. They were twins too. Now that may sound silly, but that's what they thought. Then one day as they were playing they saw one line that was different. So they were not really the same. So that's our story of the snowflakes.

The Dog And The Cat

There was this dog named Charlie who lived next door to a cat named Puffy. Puffy was kind of lazy because all she wanted to do was to lick her silky tail and to preen her beautiful white coat. She wouldn't chase mice.

Charlie was rather ugly but most amiable. He chased cats all day and when Charlie came home he pounced on his master's lap and licked him all over.

Puffy's master was quite angry now because the house was full of mice and Puffy didn't do anything about it. He gave Puffy one last chance to catch the mice but she was too lazy so Puffy's master shoved her outside and told her never to come back.

The Thoughtless Turtle

One humid day a turtle was walking along a barren hillside when he saw a shiny rock. He said out loud in a joyous voice, "It must be gold, I'm rich!"

First of all, he went to the bank and made his claim. Now he charged a mansion, a yacht, a sports car and last, but not least, he quit his job.

Then he asked J. J. Hemple, a scientist to come and analyze the rock he had found. After putting the rock through three chemical experiments, J. J. Hemple found out that it was worthless ore. This turtle now owed all these things and didn't have a red cent with which to pay his bills.

Fable

One hot summer morning Mr. Bear decided to go hunting. He went to his usual hunting area which was next to a serene pond. Soon a huge fish swam right next to Mr. Bear. Mr. Bear was just about to catch the fish when he spied two fish that were at the extremity of the pond. Mr. Bear assumed that he could secure the fish so he advanced toward them. The Men From Jupiter

One day in 1992 three men were going to Jupiter in about five hours. All the people were looking at the rocket ship. Now about two hours the rocket will take off. Still all the people were watching. About a half a hour the rocket will take off. Now we will do the count down. Ten, nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two, one the rocket ship had taken of. After a long time, three days had gone by. No sign of Jupiter. Then the man looked out of there window and they saw Jupiter! Then they started to tell people on T.V. They looked out there window and they were landing on Jupiter! They had landed on Jupiter. The first man came out. The second man came out. The third man came out. They looked all around. Then the second man saw someone. They did not know who it was. They did not let him see them. He had a ray gun. Then the first man went in back of him. Then he hit him real good. Then they saw a flying saucer. It was going to earth. They went to their rocket and followed the flying saucer. The flying saucer came down on earth. The rocket came down on earth. The Jupiter man came out. The earth man came down. Then the earth men killed all the Jupiter men.

Little Daughter

By
Margaret DeAngelo
29 Deldorf St.
Quincy

As I see her skipping daily through life,
This I ask of you, Time.
Take what you must as older she grows
But leave her these gifts of mine.

You may take the shine from her soft brown curls
And the bloom from her cheeks so fair,
But leave in her heart the 'make believe'-
That my love has planted there.

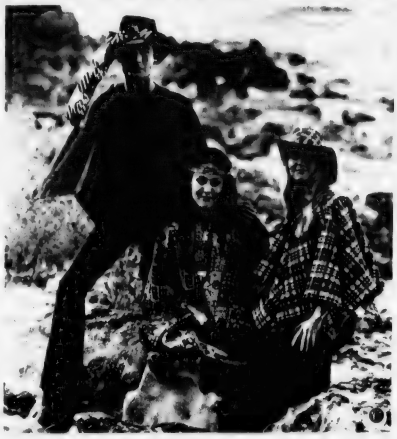
Take the mischief she has in her eyes
But leave the laughter, gay,
And though you must bring some heartache too,
Let her smile them all away.

You may put in her mind some thoughts, good and bad,
And try her again and again;
But please leave with her the faith in God
And trust in her fellow man.

And Time, no matter how long the years,
If you leave her these gifts from me-
She can open the door to a beautiful life,
For among them she'll find the key.

The New Spring

By
Jeanie DiBona
24 Baxter St., Quincy



Each year a new spring is born. With it comes love, happiness, and contentment and all things that makes life worth living.

You gaze at the sun while it dances through the leaves of the trees and it makes you wonder how God made such a beautiful world in which the little things mean much more to you than any other big problems other people might think most important to them.

It is said that no man is an island, but as your thoughts continue to wander through the canyons of your mind, you begin to think that every man is and can be an island for to be a strong individual is but a small task and the small things are the most important of all.

Newest Fashion: The Fad

PONCHO PUT-ONS—Latest fad fashion for the young generation is the poncho, interpreted here in Cone's cotton navy denim and multi-colored "ooga" prints. Styled by Betmar, they are teamed with a variety of hats from the floppy-brimmed to the Aussie styles.

Bleach-outs, tie dyes, ponchos, and fringe—fads or fancies? They're fads and that's what makes them fashion with the young generation.

What's happening right now in fad fashions is a trend toward the casual, the rugged, and the costume.

Bleach-out cotton denims, a look that originated when kids poured liquid bleach on their blue jeans, are showing up all over the country. Fabric houses have authentically duplicated the bleached effect and the soft brushed hand that gives the fabric its worn look.

The costume look takes many turns. Fringes appear on everything from stoles and capes to pants and vests. One latest twist is the printed poncho, teamed to a hat and duffle bag, and worn over cotton denim jeans or skirts.

Body jewelry paired to mini skirts, western vests worn with jeans, scarves tied around the waist in abundance, jeans cut off to look ragged . . . all are making the scene. They may look like fads, but they're really new fashions.

BLEACH-OUTS — Note to teens: save your Mom's liquid bleach. Fabric makers like Cone Mills are making cotton denim bleach-outs with that soft, worn look. Fringe-trimmed vests, jeans, and mini skirts like these from Anvil Brand are typical of the new bleach-out "fad" fashions.

It's In To Be Thin

Director, The Diet Workshop

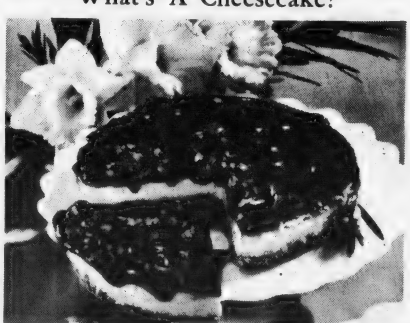
If At First You Don't Succeed, Quit!!!

This is the message every unsuccessful dieter receives somewhere along the weigh...It's also a message which has to be ignored.

If you are trying to diet, remember you're not perfect--there may be some unforseen slippery spots which may slide you back a bit, but with your next mouthful you HAVE to be back on your diet otherwise you are ALWAYS going to be fat.

I don't always go along with the old saws, but the original version I quite go along with, and I urge those of you who are looking for success to remember that "if at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

The choice is yours, and so is your figure. If you exercise control regarding the first, you will have much pride in the second.



If you have questions regarding dieting, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

What's A Cheesecake?

The question was cheesecake. "What's a cheesecake?" was the question asked thousands of women in three major cities.

The answers indicated that when it comes to cheesecake, there are "traditionalists" and there are the "moderns." The traditionalists prefer a thick, rich variety. Younger women and their families prefer a lighter, fluffier cream base with a fruit topping.

To please the younger group, the Kitchens of Sara Lee perfected a new processing technique which for the first time preserves the fresh fruit flavor of specially grown strawberries throughout preparation and storage. The new fruit-topped variety was added to the company's line of blueberry, pineapple and cherry cheesecakes. (And for the traditionalists, there's still the original cream cheese cake.)

Teenage Bands Volunteer For Youth Center Dance

Two teenage dance bands have volunteered their talents for a June 20 dance to help the Sgt. Lawrence T. Grenham Building Fund at Houghs Neck.

Learning through the Quincy Sun of the plight of youngsters faced with the loss of their youth center, the two groups each approached Leo Kelly, building fund chairman, with the offer to provide music for a dance.

"East" and "Ball" agreed to combine their efforts for an evening of continuous music, teenage type, in a "youth helping youth" program at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall., All proceeds will go to the Grenham Youth Center Building Fund.

Members of "East" are Bill Lynch, Bob Connolly and Bob Mahn, all of West Quincy, John Kelly of South Quincy; and Russ Pompeo of Germantown. "Ball" is a Houghs Neck group including Frank Iacovino, Steve Murphy, Ricky Murphy, Dave Haletky and Pete Craig, reinforced by John Brodenelli of West Quincy.

McIntyre: 'Tune In Rather Than Drop Out Of System'

The text of Mayor McIntyre's remarks follow:

"A man much more learned and wiser than you or I has said: 'Our youth now love luxury, they have bad manners, contempt for authority; they show disrespect for elders.'

"This wise man was Socrates, speaking things of years ago about a generation younger than he.

"And today I have the pleasure of saying a few words to the graduating members of a generation younger than I.

"May I simply offer my most sincere congratulations for an educational job well done, and express my confidence that I will continue to congratulate you on a job well done in the years to come.

"It is most appropriate that we parents and friends come together tonight, in Quincy, to laud this fine group of men and women. Our city has given brave young men and women in all walks of life, including two presidents. The first, John Adams, was a leader in the American Revolution with such young men as Alexander Hamilton, who joined the fight at 19, and Thomas Jefferson who wrote the Declaration of Independence at 32.

"The second, John Quincy Adams, was a model of a man who gave all his effort, his fortune, his life, to work WITHIN the system for political and social change.

"You Quincy students reflect the accomplishments and ideals of these two men. We parents, administrators, teachers and friends can recall when the aim of sons and daughters was to grow into a society of elders.

"But you, inexperienced and untouched by the depressions, dictators, tyrany, world wars and times when communism meant Stalin's death camps and Hungary, bring to us an unrelenting questioning of traditional values and policies of the elders.

"You see the inconsistencies between rhetoric and reality.

"You see poverty in Appalachia and here in Quincy, and the very wealthy paying no taxes at all.

"You see, hunger and malnutrition in all areas of our nation, and government subsidies to farmers who do not grow crops.

"And you young men and women sitting before me question a war which siphons funds from education, medicine, transportation, space exploration, all areas of American society, to support a struggle which seems to be widening, not ending.

"You question the rationale behind this misuse of our young high school and college graduates. As a father I welcome this questioning. And I think the dissent of youth reflects the questions we adults are asking ourselves.

"I am not sure we can supply all the answers immediately to these questions, but I do think if we work with youth, and youth works within the system, and listen to each other, the answers will come.

"I am going to close by turning the tables on you and become a commencement speaker presenting a list of unnegotiable demands to you graduating students.

These are:

●--That you "tune in" rather than "drop out" of the system which gave you the educational benefits of knowledge and the freedom to exercise that knowledge in dissent and question;

●--That you use the power of your vote by voting in every election, and by requiring honesty and responsiveness from your elected officials;

●--That you fulfill such responsibilities as may be asked of you as a citizen, whether by service in the armed forces or by paying taxes, before you, in turn, ask to exercise your rights as a citizen; and

●--Finally, that as often as you lament the wrongs of our country, our state and our City, you applaud and encourage the efforts of those who work so diligently for the good of our nation, state and City.

If you accept these demands, I guarantee my future, your future, and that of our children will be too full of exciting possibilities to ever fall prey to the dismal lament of Tennyson:

'Ah what shall I be at 50
Should nature keep me alive,
If I find the world so bitter
When I am 25?'

"Again, my congratulations to you all and my sincere best wishes for the future.

'All Girl' Quincy Officers First In School's History

Setting a precedent at Quincy High School [and perhaps striking a blow for the Women's Liberation movement] are this year's four senior class officers in the graduating class.

All are girls.

Christine Wahlberg is president; Diane Sabatini, vice president; Mary Kimmett, secretary; and Sandra DeVincentis, treasurer.

This is the first time a girl has been class president – as well as a "first" for all top offices.

"Chris did an outstanding job, as well as all the other girls that worked with her," Class advisor Peter J. Chrisom testifies. "They had an activities committee composed of both boys and girls who worked with them. There were no problems -- we had a variety show, dance, class day, all the regular things."

All are college-bound.

"None are planning to run for any higher political office," Chrisom comments, "but they are all interested in helping and working with their peers."

Dr. Creedon cited the number of scholarship awards and the fact that approximately 500 graduates--close to half the class--will go on to college or other further schooling.

"Are they a lost generation?" he asked. "Are they a band of revolutionaries? Are they bent on rejecting all authority? Have they no sense of direction, no personal code of values?"

And, he answered his own questions:

"I am prepared to exclude the graduating class of 1970".

He cited as reasons seniors who:

Served as volunteers in hospitals and nursing homes, worked with the mentally and physically handicapped, the blind, those who participated in the Walk For Development, anti-smoking, anti-drugs, anti-pollution campaigns, clothing drives for Vietnamese children, those who have excelled in the classrooms and on the athletic fields and in music and the other arts--and those who participated in peace rallies.

"The theme of last year's graduating class was Identification and Commitment, and obviously the Class of 1970 listened to that challenge," he said.

"By listening to what has been going on around them, by nurturing their individual and collective talents, the vast majority of these graduating seniors have become involved in a myriad of activities; they have committed themselves to working for a better America, and that becomes apparent once we pause long enough to look and listen to what they have done."

Student speakers on the theme, "Listen!", were Beth Gabel and David Fingers of North Quincy High School; Carla Errichiello and David Goroff of Quincy High School.

Christine Wahlberg, president of Quincy High School's graduating class, gave the welcome. Mayor McIntyre was introduced by Michael Martin, North Quincy High School's senior president.

Laurence H. Babin, director-principal of Quincy Vocational Technical School, introduced the platform guests. Scholarship awards were announced by James F. McCormick, Sr., vice chairman of the Quincy School Committee.

Dr. Creedon presented the graduates. Lloyd M. Creighton, principal of Quincy High School, was program chairman.

Devotions were led by Rev. Frank J. Bauer of Wollaston Lutheran Church and Rev. Edward F. Flaherty of St. Ann's Church.

Dr. Creedon: 'They Have Committed Themselves To A Better America'

The text of Dr. Creedon's address follows:

"It would be proper for me on this commencement evening to say a few words of encouragement to our graduating seniors and assure them and their parents that the Quincy Public Schools have adequately prepared them to face the rigors and challenges of the future. However, I am going to forego that as I believe our student spokesmen will address themselves to that subject.

"It might be that it would be proper for me to attempt to reflect on some of the many critical issues facing our nation and our youth today and offer our graduating seniors words of counsel, but I am going to resist that for still a third alternative.

"In the few moments that I have to greet you, I would like to call to mind the theme of this graduating class of 1970: LISTEN. I would ask you to LISTEN with me while I all too inadequately attempt to identify for you, for us, for me, just who are these more than 1,100 young citizens of Quincy assembled here this evening to receive their high school diplomas. Are they a lost generation? Are they a band of revolutionaries? Are they bent on rejecting all authority? Have they no sense of direction, no personal code of values?

"If by chance any mother, any father, or any relative or friend in this stadium this evening does harbor such thoughts about today's young people, in all probability you do so after excluding from such a category your own son, your own daughter, your own loved one. I am prepared to exclude the graduating class of 1970. I do so not only on the strength of knowing personally many of the young men and women assembled here before us, but also in appreciation of what these graduating seniors have done this past school year as students and scholars, as athletes and competitors, as musicians and artists, as scientists and conservationists, as participants in the civic life of our community, and as a generation with a social conscience.

"Well over 100 members of this graduating class have received scholarship awards to practically as many different universities and colleges. Close to one-half, or 500 graduating seniors, will go on to further schooling, ranging from short apprentice or vocational courses to four-year baccalaureate programs.

"Hundreds of these graduating seniors have served as volunteer workers in hospitals, in camps and institutions for the physically and mentally handicapped, in Project Headstart, and in nursing homes. Several students have donated many hours to reading to the blind, or tutoring junior high and elementary school students.

"The recent Walk for Development in which over 4,000 Quincy young people walked 25 miles for a charitable cause was organized by high school seniors.

"Anti-smoking campaigns, drug abuse programs, and anti-pollution drives were organized and carried out by scores of young men and women assembled here.

During the past year our graduating musicians and vocalists performed in over 125 music programs, ranging from football games, parades, and concerts to bringing a little of the Christmas spirit to senior citizens confined to nursing homes.

"Seniors organized a clothing drive for Vietnamese children, and one group adopted a little girl from Peru.

"The Future Homemakers Club hosted in Quincy the State Convention of their organization. Seniors from the Vocational-Technical School visited elementary schools in order to acquaint young children with the educational opportunities offered at the Vocational-Technical School, while the French Club produced a film in French that is being sent to a high school in France.

"On the athletic field our graduating seniors have distinguished themselves in several sports. Quincy High completed its football season as Greater Boston League co-champs, while North Quincy High's basketball team entered the Tech Tourney. Quincy High hockey and baseball teams entered tournament play, while North Quincy High's outdoor track team went undefeated. Quincy High's soccer team won its league championship, and both the golf and tennis teams from North played in post season tournaments.

"Seniors gifted as artists participated in the South Shore Plaza Arts Festival in addition to conducting an Art Fair at Quincy High. At North Quincy High a Science Fair culminated months of work in research by scores of seniors interested in the natural and physical sciences. Seniors at the Vocational-Technical School distinguished themselves and their school while participating in state-wide competition in the culinary arts.

"During the course of the year members of this graduating class took part in an unprecedented effort to come to know and understand local and state government. On 10 separate occasions small groups of seniors met with Mayor McIntyre for informal dialogue sessions. In addition, many visited City Hall, the State House, and, indeed, 250 traveled to the United Nation Headquarters in New York.

"Deeply conscious of the critical situation in Southeast Asia, scores of our seniors helped organize and participated in two peace rallies protesting our nation's involvement in Vietnam and Cambodia.

"The theme of last year's graduating class was Identification and Commitment, and obviously the Class of 1970 listened to that challenge. By listening to what has been going on around them, by nurturing their individual and collective talents, the vast majority of these graduating seniors have become involved in a myriad of activities; they have committed themselves to working for a better America, and that becomes apparent once we pause long enough to look at and listen to what they have done.

"To each member of the graduating class of 1970 may I say: Congratulations! To each parent in the audience may I say: Thank you. Thank you for the opportunity to teach, to learn, to live, and to LISTEN with yours sons and daughters."

Volpe Named MVP

Pitcher-outfielder Dick Volpe of Quincy Junior College's baseball team was named the Most Valuable Player in the Mass. Junior College Conference and received a trophy at the recent annual league banquet.

Volpe, a graduate of Abp. Williams, had a 3-0 record, a .378 batting average and a 10-game hitting streak.

Volpe and three teammates were selected on the conference all-star team. Also named to the first team were pitcher Carl Lindgren, former Quincy High star, second baseman Brian Duran and centerfielder Gary Timlin.

Selected on the second team were shortstop Jim Broderick, ex-North Quincy star, and catcher Bill Osborne, another former Quincy player.

Dave Burke's QJC team, in only its second year of baseball, finished in second place in its division with a 7-3 record, then dropped a 2-1 squeaker to Wentworth Institute in the semifinals of the playoffs.

Roger Conboy Sets Javelin Mark At Northeastern U.

One of the outstanding freshmen trackmen this spring at Northeastern University was Roger Conboy of North Quincy, who last year set the state schoolboy javelin record with a toss of 194 feet, three inches.

Roger is one of several fine freshmen who are being depended upon by varsity coach Irv Cohen next season.

"In a meet against University of Rhode Island freshman, Roger broke our school record by throwing the javelin 198 feet, 6 inches," Cohen said. "The old record was 195-10.

"He was virtually the entire weight team for the freshmen this year. He throws the shot put, discus, hammer and javelin. The only reason he doesn't hold the records in shot, discus and hammer is because we've had men like Carl Warren, Andy Kenney and Bill Corsetti who set the previous marks.

"All three are Penn Relay and National champions in their events and it is pretty touch to beat records held by men of that calibre when you are only a freshman. But, I feel if Roger works hard he can break these records before he graduates."

Affsa In New England Title Meet Saturday

North Quincy's Paul Affsa, one of the finest trackmen in Raider history, will be the only competitor from the city to seek honors in Saturday's New England schoolboy championships at Andover High.

Affsa, who had won both the long jump and 880 in the Class B qualifying meet three weeks ago and placed second in both in the Class Meet, finished fourth in last week's state championship meet at White Stadium. The first four in each event qualified for this week's N. E. meet.

Failing to qualify for the New Englands were John Panarelli and Lee Davis of North, Bobby Ciano and Joe Goguen of Quincy.

Central Trackmen Win

Central's track team won last week's pentagonal meet with 53 5/6 points.

Runnerup was Sterling with 42 1/6, followed by North with 35, Broad Meadows with 30 and Point with 25 5/6.

The ninth grade broad jump was won by Dolbeare of North with a leap of 18 feet, one-half inch. Riggs of Sterling won the eighth grade jump with 16 feet, 7 inches, and Wiedemann of Broad Meadows was the seventh grade winner with a jump of 15 feet, 4 inches.

Shotput winners were LaPointe of Central, ninth grade, 43 feet, 4½ inches; Derbes of Sterling, eighth grade, 41 feet, 5½ inches, and Islib of Broad Meadows, seventh grade, 34 feet, 3 inches.

Dolbeare of North won the ninth grade 100-yard dash in 10.4 seconds, MacFarlane of Point won the eighth grade 75-yard dash in nine seconds, and F. Schifone of Central won the seventh grade 50-yard dash in 6.5 seconds.

Hawes of Sterling won the eighth grade one-lap run in 47.2 seconds.

McCormick of North won the ninth grade half-mile run in 2 minutes, 18 seconds.

Point won the eighth and ninth grade high jumps and Central was the seventh grade winner.

The ninth grade relay was won by Central [Burke, Boc, Reynolds and Ashmanskas]. Eighth grade winner was Sterling [Riggs, Ramponi, Hawes and Steinkraus], and seventh grade winner was Central [Schifone, Timmens, Ciano and Reale].

QJC's Paul Beston Takes Hoop Honors

Not only did Quincy Junior College place four players on the Mass. Junior College Conference all-star baseball team, but Paul Beston took most of the basketball honors at the recent conference banquet.

Beston, former Quincy High star who averaged 30.8 points a game in overall competition and 29.6 points a game in the league, was named to the all-star squad, selected as the league's most valuable player and also won the high scorer award.

Charlie Edgar of Quincy, former Adp. Williams athlete, was also named to the conference's all-star hoop team. He averaged 15 points a game.

General Dynamics Romps, 9-1,

The General Dynamics soccer team romped over Glengarry of Boston, 9-1, Sunday to keep its slim Commonwealth League title hopes alive, while the young Quincy Rangers found St. John's of Boston, unbeaten league leader, too strong and bowed, 8-2.

Sunday GD will meet the new Needham team at Needham while the Rangers visit the Norfolk Shamrocks.

The powerful General Dynamics team played an excellent control game and proved far superior to the Glengarry booters.

Vin Bertrand, former Quincy High star, and Carlos Ferro scored the Rangers' goals while Jim McGuire, Jr., another ex-Quincy standout, played an excellent game.

"St. John's which looks like the best team in the league, won the game with physical conditioning, endurance and shooting ability," said Ranger manager Peter Gallagher.

Varney Drafted For Fifth Time

North Quincy's Pete Varney may have set some kind of a record last week when he was drafted by a major league baseball team for the fifth time.

The former North Quincy High star who set several batting records at Harvard this spring, was drafted by the San Francisco Giants but there is little chance of signing him for at least another year.

Pete formerly was drafted twice by the Houston Astros and once each by the Kansas City [now Oakland] Athletics and Washington Senators. He refused all offers because he wanted to continue to play football and finish his college education at Harvard. He passed up some sizeable bonuses.

He has been named co-captain of the 1971 Harvard baseball team and will be one of the Crimson's key football players next fall. The Giants, like the other teams, will find themselves unable to do business with the North Quincy star until after he graduates.

Marple Leads Classic Bowlers

In the Massachusetts Classic League bowling competition at Boston Bowl, Holiday Magic Cosmetics clinched first place by defeating Phillips Candy House. Top team prize is $6,000.

Ralph Marple of Quincy, with 689, topped all scorers with games of 236, 223 and 230, pacing last place Rotary Liquor's 8-0 shut-out of First National Bank of Natick. He turned the trick despite the fact he recently had stitches removed from two fingers on his bowling hand, caused when his automobile overturned as he avoided a head-on collision with a car which had jumped a dividing strip.

Quincy's Vin DeSantis, bowling his fourth 600 series as a substitute, led Sea 'n' Surf Restaurant's 8-0 win over A.A.A. Recording.

On The Screen

By

Vincent Puleo

The evolution of film has in its' own distinct way coincided and kept pace with the rapid-fire changes of the previous decade. Since the early 60's, the American film scene has evolved from an irrelevant entertainment media to a rarely unique "art from." The undermined walls of archaic conservatism have crumbled before the outcrys of emancipated liberalism. The stodginess of age has been supplanted by the refreshing spring of vibrant youth. If the youth movement has had a decisive affect in any one field of endeavor, it would most certainly have to be the motion picture industry.

Both the viewer and those who control the industry have to do with the channeling of direction that film has taken. Those who see pictures today are a breed of individual unlike those of the 30's, 40's, and early 50's. The endless chain of persons today queing for tickets outside movie houses are a predominantly youth oriented, under 30 audience. The traditional film viewer, the broad, middle class, middle-aged audience, has been dropping out of the theaters year by year, and instead has taken deep-seated root before the television set.

It has been estimated that more than 70 percent of the present revenue now flowing into box office coffers comes from those individuals between the ages of 16 and 29. As a direct consequence of this youth impetus film has geared itself to adhere more closely to the taste and inclinations of the majority of film viewer. Such motion picture productions as last year's Best Picture of the Year, "MIDNIGHT COWBOY", and the more recent "M-A-S-H", are each typical of an art form that is most urgently and pursuasively in tune to todays' young mods.

The current trend was by no means an overnight occurrence. If anything it began in the late 40's and climaxed in the mid-50's. Directly responsible for this shift in audience viewership was the post-war motion picture industry. The movie moguls who controlled Hollywood at that time were aged lions from another era. and as such lacked the motivation and imagination to make films that would satisfy the public of the late 40's. They no longer possessed that creative bite so necessary in producing a worthwhile film And for the most part they were turning out melodramatic trite which the public would no longer buy. The disenchanted viewer of the late 40's wanted something more substantial. An entertainment gap was created. The void was filled by the new media called television.

The burgeoning popularity of this mass media was indirectly responsible for the traditional film goer to shun motion pictures, and instead to sit before the small tube for his nights' entertainment. Artistically speaking, television in the early 50's was in its' "Golden Age" and took firm hold of the public. As a consequence film revenue receipts dipped sharply.

Hollywood was in a quandry. In order to combat the new media and regain viewership, the motion picture industry was forced to uplift the quality and scope of film. With the decline in control of the industry by the movie moguls, the shift in power swung to the "youngbloods" who had the strength and vitality to foster and create change in the industry.

The rejuvenating effects of this change of leadership began to be felt in the late 50's with the advent of the "message motion picture." Film was beginning to evolve at this time into an exceptional art form. And with this evolution audience viewership likewise went along. People began to flock to motion pictures again. But starting with the early 60's the majority of ticket purchasers swung from the middle-aged to the under thirties.

Today the youth impetus is being felt in every phase of film art. Actors, directors, writers and producers have more artistic freedom than ever before. Scripts are alive, fresh and timely as your morning newspaper. Complicated and controversial subjects are being written for the screen by writers who are accepting the challenge of the era in which they live. Sex, racism, politics, social injustices and war are being handled from every angle and viewpoint. Talent in acting has finally superseded meaningless sex symbols. No longer are good looks predominately supersedient over raw basic acting skills.

Progressive, farsighted film innovators such as Stanley Kubrich, Arthur Penn, and John Cassavettes, have been instrumental in taking the rough edges out of film development by introducing technolgical and mechanical refinements not conceived of years prior.

The seriousness of film art is best typified by the fact that fifty-one colleges now have formal film departments that grant degrees. A minimum of 168 other colleges today offer at least one course in film. And the number of institutes of higher learning developing film departments is growing yearly. As quickly as film has sprouted on the University, so has it blossomed in new motion picture companies presently being formed.

Independent motion picture production companies have been established at an innumerable pace. and they have taken the lead away from the giant monolithic Hollywood studios. Major companies can no longer pour unlimited millions into movies, and afford the financial beatings they have been taking the past few years. The inexpensive, low budget "message film" now being produced by these independent companies. are the vogue. Last years' big hit, "EASY RIDER", was made for less thant $500,000. This film may gross as much as $50 million in combined foreign and domestic sales.

With the advances of the 60's, the 70's show promise of a possible "Golden Era" in film. As an art it has progressed to the point where it can have a lasting social impact on the viewing public in particular, and society in general. If one word best typifies the new era in film it would have to be the word FREEDOM. And with this freedom a problem has developed. Historians, critics. and the public are at present wary as to where all the changes in the motion picture industry will lead us. It is difficult for one to speculate where this new freedom will take us in the present decade.

'Thank You' For Articles On Visiting English Children

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Thank you for the publicity the Quincy Sun gave the children from West Leigh School in England. The children, both English and American, were delighted to see their names in print. Ross Fraser was almost beside himself when he saw his picture on the front page. The articles the children brought back to England will be treasured for a long time to come.

Thank you very much for sending one of your busy photographers to Merrymount School on the twenty-eighth of May.

It surprised me mostly to find it in the front page of the Quincy Sun. I knew it was going to be in the Quincy Sun but not the front page of it.

Well thank you very much. It was nice writing to you and I think my picture came out very nice. Thank you again.

Sincerely yours,

Sunbeams

Mayor James McIntyre's crystal ball was in sharp focus for the Democratic state convention.

Three weeks before the opening gavel was banged at Amherst, McIntyre publicly predicted Senate President Maurice Donahue would win the gubernatorial nomination on the first ballot.

McIntyre, a close personal friend, was Donahue's floor manager at the convention.

During the convention, when it was beginning to look like a swing to Kevin White, McIntyre on TV stood his ground--and stayed with his first ballot prediction.

MC INTYRE also "delivered" a key bloc of 32 delegates from his senatorial First Norfolk District of Quincy, Braintree and Randolph.

Incidentally, the Quincy Sun's crystal ball was in pretty good shape, too. In its May 21 issue, The Sun predicted Donahue had 18 of Quincy's 21 delegates as well as Braintree's and Randolph's. The Sun was just one delegate off. Donahue woundup with 19 instead of 18 Quincy delegates.

TURNABOUT: Ward 2 Councillor-Rep. Clifford Marshall didn't get to the convention. He stayed home baby-sitting with his four sons, 16 months to seven years old, while his wife, Louise, went to Amherst.

She, of course, is Democratic state committeewoman from this area. You no doubt saw her on TV. She was assistant monitor to Atty. Richard W. Barry for the gubernatorial delegate report and monitor for lieutenant governor.

SPEAKING of McIntyre, he has just received a letter from Astronaut James A. Lovell, Jr., thanking him for making him an honorary citizen of the "greatest city in the world".

"This is an honor of which I am proud and I am indeed grateful to you and all the citizens of Quincy for this salute to my efforts as space voyager." Lovell wrote.

Lovell also said he appreciated the Mayor's invitation to visit Quincy "and I hope that I shall be able to do that at some time in the future."

* * *

AND, speaking of Rep. Marshall, he reports the new Martenson St. senior citizens housing facility will have two flags of honor. One a state flag that has flown over the State House, already obtained by him. And the other a U. S. flag that has flown over the nation's Capitol. The latter is being sent by Congressman James A. Burke at Marshall's request.

The new 156 units at the Martensen St. project are expected to be open in July.

AS THE REPUBLICANS get ready for their convention, another local name is being mentioned prominently: Walter J. Hannon.

The Ward 5 city councillor and state representative is considered potential lieutenant governor timber. Some think he might have a possible shot at it this time if the No. 2 spot on the ticket gets hung-up at the convention. But he looks like a strong possibility four years from now.

IT WASN'T REPORTED at the time, but the Quincy Walk For Development was enriched $6.25, thanks to the feet of Ward 6 Councillor Vincent Smyth and the pocket of Mayor McIntyre. The Mayor sponsore Smyth in the walk at 25 cents per mile. Smyth finished the 25 and promptly sent a bill to the Mayor for $6.25. [The latter paid with a smile.]

* * *

NICE to hear that Percy N. Lane, long-time Quincy City Council clerk of committees, local newsman, and everybody's friend, is back home after a long stay at a Braintree nursing home.

* * *

SMILE DEPT: A lot of parents have trouble these days notes Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist. He tells about the mother anteater talking to her baby anteater: "What do you mean you don't like ants!"

HAPPINESS–Some of the members of Miss Mary Kenney's kindergarten classes at Wollaston School share her pleasure as she opens wedding gifts from them. 84 Kindergarten Pupils Guests At Teacher's Wedding

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Sunday there will be a wedding at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount, with the largest guest list of six-year old's the church has ever had.

Miss Mary Kenney has invited the 84 children in her two kindergarten classes at Wollaston School to share the most important day of her life with her.

"I am very honored and thrilled that they are coming," Miss Kenney commented. "They have been a part of my life for the past year with my fiance away, and I'm going to miss them. I hope I have been as much a part of their lives as they have been of mine."

That afternoon Miss Mary Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Kenney of 11 Shellton Rd., Adams Shore, will marry Lt. John Ashe Sullivan, U. S. Marine Corps, recently returned from Vietnam. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan of 1 Brockton Ave., Germantown, whom she met when they were students at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

It will be a wedding of nearly "total involvement" for both families. In a new Catholic wedding ceremony, both Mr. and Mrs. Kenney will escort their daughter to the altar where she will be given in marriage. The Rev. Edward P. Geary of St. Joseph's parish, Lynn, former assistant at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, will return to officiate.

Frank Kenney, the bride's brother who is with the National Guard at Fort Gordon, Ga., has obtained a leave for the day to serve as best man for Lt. Sullivan.

Michael Kenney and Philip Kenney, brothers of the bride who will be among the ushers, will double as altar boys. Both are Quincy High School students. Peter Kenney, another brother and also an usher, will read the Epistle at the ceremony.

Sisters Miss Patricia Kenney, will be maid of honor, and Judy Kenney, age 11, will be junior bridesmaid.

Others in the wedding party will be Miss Joan Sullivan, the bridegroom's sister, and her fiance, Thomas Kennedy; Miss Katherine Leszczynski, the fiance of Peter Kenney; Brian Ashe, Jr., Lt. Sullivan's 11-year old godson who will be a junior usher; Miss Emily Correnti, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cyr.

After the wedding there will be a reception at the Officer's Club at South Weymouth Naval Air Station, and a wedding trip. After that Lt. Sullivan, who has just returned from a year in Vietnam, and his bride will live at Cherry Point, N.C., while he completes his tour of duty.

Lt. Sullivan is a graduate of Boston College High School and Boston College. Miss Kenney attended Northeastern University and graduated from Boston State College.

Sunday should be a day for everyone to remember - especially for Miss Kenney and those 84 kindergarten pupils. She hopes they all come!

You Can Help To Keep 'Fourth' Alive In N. Q.

Tonight, a group of North Quincy Associates will don clown outfits and knock on doors throughout the area.

They will be asking financial help to revive and keep alive a July 4th tradition that goes back to the turn of the century – a celebration at Welcome Young playground.

Records have been lost, but old-timers recall that in the early 1940's, a local mailman named Dutch Erickson became interested in making the local youngsters happy on the holiday. He had a dream to involve each and every youngster in some sort of event, and he lived long enough to see this project become part of everyone's busy summer schedule at North Quincy.

Later some interested men picked up the ball and kept it rolling, but the past few years have found the ball rolling to a virtual halt. Last year there was no celebration at all.

This year through the help of local officials, Councillors Walter J. Hannon and J. Vincent Smyth, and residents and the generosity of local businessmen, a committee has been established to plan not only for a 1970 celebration, but to see that the annual program does not die.

"If you have no small children, then maybe you could throw something in the bucket and just say, 'Thanks for the Memory,'" says Mrs. Richard Reinhardt, chairman for tonight's house-to-house campaign.

Personal contributions may also be sent to Mrs. Reinhardt, with checks made out to North Quincy Associates, at 128 Sagamore St., North Quincy, Mass. 02171

12 Firefighters Sworn In

Twelve new firefighters were sworn in Tuesday, nine to complete implementation of the 42-hour work week, and three to fill existing vacancies.

The 12, who took their oath from City Clerk John M. Gillis are:

Richard J. Dicesare of 95 Roberts St., Daniel Ryan of 35 Darrow St., Edward R. Delgizzi of Braintree, Donald C. Morey, Jr., of 55 Crosby St., Anthony P. Rinella of 99 Taffrail Rd., and Charles R. Behenna of 87 Nighingale Ave.

The 12 will begin their duties June 20.

A total of 38 new men have been appointed to implement the new 42-hour work week.

English Pupils Quincy Stay

'A Wonderful Experience'

Thanks for a "wonderful experience staying with the people of Quincy" has been received by Mayor James R. McIntyre from Frank Keevil, headmaster of West Leigh Junior Mixed School at Leigh on Sea, England.

Some 24 students and five adults visited Quincy at the invitation of Miss Mary Lou Murdock's third and fourth grade class at the Cranch School and were guests for 15 days of Quincy families.

"We were very impressed with the kindness and hospitality shown to us," Headmaster Keevil wrote, "and in particular, for the opportunities you gave our children to have memorable experiences.

"Everyone will remember the visit to the City Hall, and we shall all cherish our certificates of honorary citizenship. We have established a link with Quincy which we hope will flourish as the years pass."

Need Help Around Your Home?

HOP Has Ready Manpower

HOP, a new summer employment program to help South Shore youth and area homeowners, is now underway at the Quincy office of the State Division of Employment Security.

The Homeowner's Program [HOP], is essentially a telephone service that matches a wide variety of household and related work needs of homeowners with youths seeking full or part-time vacation work.

It is the first service of its kind on the South Shore.

"We already have on file over 500 requests and the number grows daily, says Kenneth W. Vining, Chairman of the South Suburban Comprehensive Manpower Planning System Committee.

Job service for homeowners include lawn mowing, gardening, painting, baby-sitting, mother's helpers, washing windows, etc.

Officials point out that HOP is an excellent means by which South Shore boys and girls can put their vacation time to good use doing something constructive, while also earning money for their own personal or educational needs.

HOP has the approval and support of agencies concerned with employment problems of the area, including the Mass. State Employment Service; South Shore Community Service Center; Department of Public Welfare; Quincy Police Department; Quincy School Department; Mayor's Office; South Shore Community Action Council; Mass. Rehabilitation Commission; Mass. Division of Apprentice Training; United Community Services South Area Planning Division; Quincy Housing Authority; Quincy Community Action Organization; Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training; Quincy Council for the Aging; South Shore Mental Health Center.

SUNBURN DANGER

According to the National Safety Council, a sunburn - a bad one, that is - is just like the burn you get from a hot iron, but more serious because it covers a large area.

The danger of sunburn is usually greatest between the hours of 10 and 2 o'clock. If you sun then, be extra careful or you'll pay the price.

Don't count on an umbrella to protect you from burning at the beach. Sand and water are superb reflectors of the sun's rays. And light rays, not heat rays cause sunburn.

Protect yourself. Always use a lotion, not a potion, when you venture out to tan. Authorities on the subject advise the use of sunburn products containing, among other things, menthyl salicylates which admit the sun's tanning rays while blocking out the harmful burning rays. And it won't hurt to double your dose for proper protection.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

A Rectory Wedding

Q. We are being married in the rectory of our church. What is the usual procedure?

A. These marriages are performed in the clergyman's study or living room. A few guests may be invited but most often it is only the parents and witnesses who are present. There are circumstances when there is just the bride and groom. In this instance some member in the clergyman's household could act as witness.

The bride is informally dressed in a suit or street dress and hat, the groom in a business suit. The bride wears a corsage or may carry a prayer book but does not carry a bouquet. Neither does she send flowers to decorate the rectory. She does not carry her pocketbook or wear gloves. She does not make an entrance as she would in a formal home wedding.

The bride stands to the groom's left in front of the clergyman for the ceremony. Afterward they receive the congratulations of the minister, then kiss, if they wish. Before he leaves the new husband remembers to leave an envelope for the minister containing a fee.

Q. Our son was recently married with only the immediate families present. Announcements were sent to all our friends and relatives the same day. I am very surprised and hurt at the small number of gifts they have received. Doesn't a formal announcement require a gift the same as an invitation?

A. Strictly speaking - No. However, close friends and relatives usually do send gifts because either the bridal couple or their parents are very special people to them. These are the best kind of gifts to receive because they come from the heart.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

On Father's Day, dad is 'supposed' to have his slippers brought to him; to have his pipe or cigars handed to him; to have the right to select TV programs of his choice on his special day when he is 'King' . . .Most dads are realistic though and understand even if these 'Kingship' advantages don't happen.

Lets face it. There are all sorts of fathers, just like all sorts of women and children. Some dads are considerate, some inconsiderate. Some are affectionate, some indifferent. Some are contented, some discontented. Some are happy, some unhappy. Some are ambitious, some are not. Some are companions to their families, some are aloof.

In all these contrasts, one thing stands out. Blood relationship is one thing. A friendly relationship is another thing. And a blood relationship without a friendly relationship is tragedy. For all of you who read this, we sincerely hope Father's Day is a triumphant day - a friendly day for all fathers and families - everywhere. . .

Come . Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Your Housekeeping ... Fun Or Failure'

The wife had initiated the counseling. The husband had welcomed the opportunity. "He drinks"...she said with a finality that almost dared the counselor to discover any other cause for their marital conflict..."He goes to the club night after night...I'm tired of a part-time husband...He leaves his paycheck on Friday night and thinks he's done his duty for the week." Isn't it interesting how we're always so sure of what another person is thinking...or feeling?

After she had finished, the young husband...30 and neatly dressed...spoke up..."If you want to know why I drink, Doctor, I'll tell you. My home is like a pig-pen...my kids are neglected...dirty clothes are piled up in the bathroom...beds unmade all day...dishes piled on the counter. I have to hunt for socks morning after morning...and many times I've had to iron a shirt before I could dress to go to work. I know I spend too much time in the Club...but what would you do, Doctor, if you had to come home to such a place? I'm ashamed to bring a friend home."

I swiveled my chair toward the wife. Grudgingly she admitted that "I'm not the best housekeeper...but it isn't that bad. It just gets a little messy at times...you know how it is with children...they leave messes." [That's it...blame somebody else...children can't fight back...not when they're small...but just wait...they will. These were my thoughts as she talked.]

You good housekeepers just wouldn't believe the number of times a week I hear this sort of complaint. You men who have a wife who keeps a clean house are justified in feeling appreciation and pride. Faulty housekeeping is a painful burden for a lot of men. It's a major source of marital conflict.

The women's liberation movement notwithstanding, I believe it is the woman's place to do the housekeeping...whatever else she wishes to do with her time is a wife's perogative...but if her husband is out earning the living the least he has a right to expect is a clean house when he comes home. A man can tolerate a lot of inadequacies, but unless he's a slob himself he can't be very happy in a dirty house. Femininity and tidiness go together.

Why are some women such poor housekeepers? The principal cause is childhood conditioning. Some girls grew up in a "dirty" house. If their mothers were poor housekeepers how's a girl to learn good housekeeping? Parents' ways are indelibly imprinted on little minds. If a girl has lived with counters piled up...laundry and ironing neglected...bathrooms dirty...toys littering the floors...this becomes her standard. Sloppy housekeeping can breed sloppy housekeeping from generation to generation.

At the opposite extreme...girls often are not taught to share the responsibility of housekeeping...not even to care for their own rooms..."Mother will do it." Mother may insist on doing it because she "wants it done right." So the girl enters her own home without that built-in feeling of fun in keeping a nice home. The childhood conditioning seems to live in us right into adult life...unless we as adults are willing to unlearn many of our childhood ways.

The telephone is the bane of many a housekeeper. Did you ever try repeatedly to call home and get a continual busy signal, Men? Some women spend hours each day on the telephone visiting with friends and relatives while their housework goes undone...even toll and long-distance calls. It's costly in two ways...the phone bill and the marriage.

Let me make a few suggestions. Train the children to care for their clothes and toys. You can't possibly pick up after all members of the family. You too, Mr. Husband...hang up your clothes ...don't leave the paper on the floor...don't be untidy yourself in your home.

Some wives schedule themselves starting with breakfast for the whole family...not cafeteria or different breakfasts for each...one meal at the same time...everybody up...washed...dressed and at the table. It's a great way for the family to start the day. After breakfast she follows her list...Clean the kitchen...Make the beds [no reason why children shouldn't make their own beds...the boys will at college [if you train them now]...the girls will then know how in their own homes. Vacuum...dust...tidy...place flowers or knick-knacks in the rooms...wash clothes one day...iron the next...plan meals...make a shopping list...make needed phone calls. In the afternoon go shopping with a carefully prepared list. Upon their return from school spend some time with the children...and doing whatever you want to do. Vary your schedule to fit your family needs.

Only the neurotic man expects an immaculate house...only the slob will accept a dirty one.

A husband's words of appreciation and praise for a job well done will pay big dividends. And if you still insist on going to the club and drinking instead of enjoying the clean...well-organized home which your wife keeps...you might conclude that your problem lies within yourself.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles H. Wickens

On Father's Day, dad is 'supposed' to have his slippers brought to him; to have his pipe or cigars handed to him; to have the right to select TV programs of his choice on his special day when he is 'King' . . .Most dads are realistic though and understand even if these 'Kingship' advantages don't happen.

Lets face it. There are all sorts of fathers, just like all sorts of women and children. Some dads are considerate, some inconsiderate. Some are affectionate, some indifferent. Some are contented, some discontented. Some are happy, some unhappy. Some are ambitious, some are not. Some are companions to their families, some are aloof.

In all these contrasts, one thing stands out. Blood relationship is one thing. A friendly relationship is another thing. And a blood relationship without a friendly relationship is tragedy. For all of you who read this, we sincerely hope Father's Day is a triumphant day - a friendly day for all fathers and families - everywhere. . .

Everybody's Business Is Nobody's Business

Long, long ago there once lived an amiable family of rabbits. There was Mother Rabbit, Father Rabbit and Peter Rabbit.

Well, one day Peter Rabbit had a secret. They kept begging him to tell them, but he didn't. All the little rabbits left to go home after playing together. However, one little rabbit returned. It was Charlie.

Peter said, "Charlie, if you promise not to tell my secret I guess I'll let you in on it."

Charlie replied, "O.K. I promise". So Peter told him the secret.

The next day it was all over the neighborhood. Peter was frustrated with Charlie. He said, "I'll never tell anyone any of my secrets again. Especially to Charlie!!"

The moral of this story is, "Everybody's business is nobody's business.

A Modern Fable

A little cook named Mr. Bear,
Received some help from Herman Hare,
They cooked a hot cake for a very young miss,
The recipe they followed read like this:
"Add some butter and turn it twice,
A cake you'll have that's really nice.
They forgot the butter and turned it once,
If you had seen the cake you'd have said, "No lunch."

Moral:

And don't forget to add the butter."

The Mystery Of The Squirrel's Badge

The squirrel made his bed for the winter. He sat on his bed and he relaxed for a while. He took off his badge and put it on his night table, but the drawer was opened and the badge fell in and he did not know it. Then he went to sleep. He slept for many days.

The first day of spring came. He could not find his badge. It was about 12:00 and he did not stop for lunch. He thought it was a mystery. The squirrels made a lot of racket because the badge was gone. Then he found out that he made a big mistake. The badge fell in the drawer.

Special Delivery

One day as Mrs. Hen was sitting in her house reading, along came Mr. Duck, the mailcarrier, saying, "Special delivery for Mrs. Hen".

After thanking Mr. Duck and reading the letter, Mrs. Hen ran next door and told her neighbor, Mr. Rooster, that she was to inherit some money. He advised her not to squander it but she did not deem it necessary to heed his advice.

Early the next morning Mrs. Hen went out and "bought up a storm". She invited everyone in the neighborhood to come to her gourmet dinner and it turned out that everyone did. The following day another special delivery letter arrived for Mrs. Hen saying that an error had been made and that she was not the true heiress to the fortune.

Mrs. Hen went and related the story to Mr. Rooster who replied, "You should always look before you leap".

The Barn Slide

Once upon a time there lived on a farm a horse, a cat, a dog, a cow, and a lamb. Their names were Wish Wash, the horse, Purrdy, the cat, Shaggy, the dog, Cowlick, the cow, and Flaxy, the lamb. One day Purrdy said to Flaxy, "I dare you to jump off the barn roof."

So Flaxy said, "I will, but if I don't get hurt you have to pay me 5 yards of grass."

Purrdy said, "Yes, it's a deal."

So all the animals rushed over to the barn. They were anxious to see who would win the bet. Flaxy climbed up to the roof very, very, slowly. He was sort of scared. Wish-Wash shouted, "Hurry up." Then all the animals yelled, "Yay hurry up."

Flaxy scrambled up. Then he closed his eyes and jumped! All the animals watched anxiously. Shaggy and Cowlick helped Flaxy up from the ground. Shaggy asked, "Are you hurt?"

"No" said Flaxy, "It was fun. I didn't get hurt a bit."

Then Cowlick said, "You won the bet and you also invented a slide that we can use for all four seasons.

Purrdy scowled as he handed over the note that said the 5 yards was Flaxy's. He wanted to win the bet and be a hero. He never used the slide because it brought back bad memories.

Mrs. Squirrel And The Acorns

Once there was a Mrs. Squirrel who lived in a capacious, hollow oak tree. Winter was coming and the squirrel was collecting a gross amount of acorns.

Mr. Mouse was helping her collect them so that she would pay him with some cheese. While Mrs. Squirrel was storing the acorns, the mailman, Mr. Duck, came. As Mrs. Squirrel was trying to read her mail, the door bell rang. Opening it, she dropped her acorns all over the nice, clean floor. Her mail was hither and yon. When she peered out of the door, no one was there.

She grumbled, "All for nothing," and she went back to go to sleep.

Once a long time ago a little red car was pondering under a tree, about what he wanted to be when he grew up. Abruptly his mother's voice startled him. He ran to her and said, "Mother, I want to be a taxi".

"Nonsense", she said shaking him. "You're going to go to school and become a limousine", she retorted, walking away.

Tremoring, he muttered, as he departed, "I will show you!" He skipped school and went around looking for a job. To his surprise he just got kicked, pushed, and laughed at and didn't get one customer. One hot summer day in the country of Holland, a mass of bright colored tulips was growing.

A worker bee was buzzing by, and one tulip inquired, "Why don't you try my nectar, for I'm such an elegant flower. These tulips are just simply nothing when they stand next to me".

So the bee replied, "Splendid - I shall". He returned to the queen bee and said, "I found this amiable flower with a sweet aroma, and I have brought you a sample of its nectar".

One day along came a tiny mouse. He wasn't about to hurt anybody but when the lion took one look at him he ran as if his life depended on it. The mouse did not know what was happening so he scurried along unmindful of everyone.

When the cat came for supper, the lion was hidden from view. Finally, he came out from seclusion. The cat asked why he had disappeared and the lion replied, "I am frightened of mice."

The Tortoise And The Hedgehog

Once upon a time, or maybe twice, there lived a tortoise and a hedgehog. The tortoise was a very solitary fellow, while the hedgehog was rather gregarious. There, along the green Amazon, also lived a tiger. This beast was rather stupid and rambunctious. He would have loved to devour the tortoise and hedgehog, but they had planned to outwit him with their two heads. Just before they started to cook it, Mr. and Mrs. Rabbit dropped in and asked if they could join them but the Wolf said, "You must have something to add to the lunch first."

So they did. They brought some carrots and in minutes the pot started to bubble over. The animals did everything to try and stop the bubbling except to stop the heat. But before you knew it there was a GIANT KABOOM!

Time Of Leaving

By
Jeanie DiBona
24 Baxter St., Quincy

I sit here staring out the window while my life passes before me like chapters in a book.

The good times, the bad times, happy times, sad times, they're all a part of my life now as they are everyone elses, but when I was with you I knew only the happy times and good times for my life was filled with wonderful things. YOU.

I've tried to prepare myself for your leaving, at one time I thought I had succeeded, but I know now I haven't.

I cannot see myself not loving you; I can't see you not loving me.

But you will go, and I will still be loving you from January to December for the rest of my life.

I will not stand in your way.

All I ask of you is that you remember the sweetness of our love.

And I will go through life
knowing that I once was loved.

For I will never be loved again as
I have been loved by you.

And I will never love again the way I loved you.

Winding Lanes

By
Margaret DeAngelo

The dusty, winding lanes I know-
Lead up into the hills.
Lined with swaying, leafy trees
And yellow daffodils.

And from the woodlands comes the sound
Of Nature's happy song.
I turn my ear and try to catch,
To whom each sound belongs.

An up above, the Summer sky
Is blue and clear and fair.
I stop to wonder if it is
As lovely everywhere.

Summer Peasantry To Sew Yourself

This is the summer when fashionable girls are doing their best to look like peasants.

And sewing-minded fashionables can create their own "poor" looks at peasant prices.

Pattern styles take note of the trend with an abundant offering of dirndl skirts, shawls, and country-boy pants outfits.

Ideal fabric for stitching up these new styles is cotton duck. Decked out in new patch-work prints in blue jean colors, cotton duck makes your sewing projects both prettier and easier. A firm-bodied fabric long noted for washability, it stays put under the needle and cuts with a clean crisp edge.

In handling patchwork prints, sewing experts say to follow the rules for cutting and matching plaids. Make sure that notches of corresponding pattern pieces are placed on the same patchwork shape.

If you're planning to make pants, select your pattern size by your hip measurements. You'll have a better fit if you do.

Follow these tips and you can look prettily "poor" and smart this summer in your own sewing creations.

COUNTRY-BOY JEANS—A sew-it-yourself fashion that costs less than $7 to make is this pants outfit of "denim blue" cotton duck. Red, white, and blue cotton braid and tassels trim the cropped top. Trim, fabric, and Simplicity Pattern 8794 are all at Singer stores where fabrics are sold.

PEASANT LOOK — Cotton duck in a lively patchwork print interprets summer's peasant look. The dirndl skirt is topped by a full-sleeved blouse of white cotton broadcloth. The outfit costs less than $12 to make. Fabrics and Simplicity Pattern 8699 available at Singer stores.

It's In To Be Thin

Director, The Diet Workshop

FEAST OR FAMINE...

This bespeaks the gamut that the perpetual dieter usually runs–from one extreme to the other–one hundred per cent faithful to either pattern.

I think there is a great deal to be said for moderation in dieting–with moderation there is no element of the frantic–there is no anxiety and there is no excess. It's perfectly logical to see that extreme behavior causes anxiety–anxiety results in tension and compulsive eaters have one well known behavior habit which gets called into play to relieve the tension–it is called eating.

A word of advice to those who would diet–be calm, be cool, and you'll collect the reward you're looking for each week at the scale. In the meantime, for a treat you can have any time, why not try the recipe listed below made with strawberry flavoring–it is rewarding too!

Looks Like Topsy-Turvy Season

Quincy In 7-2 Romp Over Morrisette

Zone 6 of the American Legion baseball program has just started but already it looks like a topsy-turvey season.

Morrisette, seeking its sixth zone title in eight years, opened with an 11-5 win at Franklin on Sunday while Quincy dropped a 7-3 decision to Millis at Adams Field.

Then, the following night at Adams, Quincy turned around and romped over Morrisette, 7-2.

Tonight at 6 o'clock Quincy plays at Braintree. Sunday Walpole plays Morrisette at Adams Field at 2 p.m. Tuesday Quincy hosts Weymouth at Adams and Morrisette plays at Milton and next Thursday Morrisette is at Canton and Quincy at Milton.

Last night Morrisette played a non-league game at Abington, coached by Morrisette's coach of the last seven years, Connie Carlozzi.

Monday, Norm Walsh, who starred for B. C. High this year, pitched a fine game for Quincy as he held Morrisette to three hits and struck out eight. Paul Whelton started for Morrisette but gave way in the fifth inning to Jimmy Walker. Each struck out two.

Quincy scored single runs in the first, third and fourth, two in the fifth and two in the seventh, while Walsh yielded both Morrisette runs in the sixth.

Ed Monti and Bob Pastor had two hits apiece for Quincy while Dan O'Malley, Jim Broderick and Dave Drew collected one each. Pete Lucier, Steve Sullivan and John Alberti had the only Morrisette hits.

"This was a big win for us," said Quincy Coach Doug Fleming. "I have a lot of 16-year old players who lack experience but a win like this will give them a lot of confidence. Walsh did a fine job and he should be one of the best pitchers in our league. I started one of our 16-year olders, Bobby Brill, against Millis and he had trouble with his control but he will come along and help us."

"This looks like an interesting season and there should be a lot of fine competition," said Morrisette's new coach, Ray Cattaneo. "Quincy looked good tonight, they hit well and that boy Walsh pitched a great game."

Sunday Bobby Pettinelli started on the mound for Morrisette at Franklin and despite wildness [nine walks] he kept Franklin pretty well under control. When Kevin Hill homered in the ninth Cattaneo replaced him with Walker who struck out two of the three men he faced.

Morrisette scored three times in the third, then scored two runs in each of the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth.

Morrisette had 12 hits including a triple and two singles by Lucier, two hits by Bruce Carlson and one each by Connie Driscoll, Kevin Ryan, Sullivan, John Stevens, Tom Burke, Dave Nelson and Pettinelli.

Quincy hopped away to a 3-0 lead in the second inning against Millis but was stopped the rest of the way while Millis collected seven of its 14 hits in the third and fourth innings to score five runs.

Brill had rough going in his first Legion start and Scott Manson, a big surprise for North Quincy this spring, relieved him and looked good.

Singles by O'Malley and Pastor and two errors gave Quincy its three runs in the second.

Mike McNally had two hits, Broderick, O'Malley and Pastor one each for Quincy.

Quincy, Fleming Look For Winning Season

Doug Fleming is starting his third year as coach of the Quincy Legion baseball team and he is still looking for a winning record.

In his first year Fleming's club was 7-10 and last year was 7-9 [one rained out game was not replayed] but finished up strong with wins in its final three games.

"We should have done much better last year but our hitting just didn't click," Fleming said. "We received some of the best pitching in Zone 6 from Garry McGrath, Frank Costa and Craig Bogosian but they were victimized by a lack of hitting. McGrath lost two 1-0 games and a 2-1 game among his heartbreaking losses. He was drafted by the Seattle Pilots [now Milwaukee Brewers] and is pitching well for their Clinton, Iowa team."

Fleming has six returnees from last year's club, Jim Broderick, an outstanding shortstop from North Quincy who played this spring for Quincy Junior College; Ed Monti, former North Quincy outfielder; Joe Marini from North, Bob Pastor, a fine catcher from North who played this year at Bentley College; Norm Walsh from B. C. High and Mike McNally from Quincy High. Walsh is a fine pitcher who faced Quincy High in the state tourney, McNally and Marini infielders.

From North Quincy High Fleming has infielders Dan O'Malley, Jack Flaherty, Tim Flynn and Bob Langley, pitchers Dave Murphy, Scott Manson and Buddy Crowell and infielder Steve Cannon.

Outfielder Dave Drew, pitchers Bob Driscoll and Bob Brill and catcher Ed Panasci played at Quincy High.

"Walsh is a fine pitcher and Brill has looked good," Fleming said. "Manson was one of the big surprises of the year for North Quincy High and Murphy looked good for North. Driscoll and Crowell are also good prospects and our pitching should be strong again.

"If our batting improves, we could surprise a lot of people. I have a lot of 16-year olders and, although I'm not looking beyond this season, we should do very well in the next few seasons with so many fine young ball players."

Morrisette Seeks Sixth Title With New Coach

Morrisette Legion baseball team is seeking its sixth Zone 6 championship in eight years and is doing it with a new coach.

Ray Cattaneo, a former Morrisette player himself who played his high school ball at B. C. High and spent five years in the Braves minor league system, has taken over the reins following seven successful seasons for Connie Carlozzi.

Carlozzi, who this year is coaching Abington Legion [his 15th year as a Legion coach] and also coached Abp. Williams High this spring, led Morrisette to the zone title five times in his seven years as coach. Two years ago the team went all the way to the state finals before bowing to West Springfield. Last year Morrisette was ousted in the first round by Somerville.

Cattaneo has several members of this year's Quincy High team which finished second in the Greater Boston League but has only four returnees from last season's Legion club.

The veterans are infielders Kevin Ryan and Pete Lucier, standouts for Quincy High; Bobby Pettinelli, who hurled well last year and played this year at Northeastern University, and Steve Sullivan, a strong southpaw pitcher who also plays first base and the outfield.

The new coach appears to be strong in pitching with Mark Whelton and Jimmy Walker, the big surprises for Quincy High this year; Pettinelli and Sullivan. Whelton, who had seen no previous high school action, was brilliant as a starter for the high school and Walker, a sophomore lefty, excelled in relief and had eight saves for the Presidents.

Other Quincy High players on the squad are Bruce Carlson, a fine outfielder; Connie Driscoll, Bob Malvesti, Dominic D'Olimpio, John Stevens, a regular outfielder for the Presidents, and Russ MacDonald, a starting infielder.

From North Quincy High Cattaneo has Dave Nelson, John Alberti and Tom Burke, all starters for this season's Raiders.

Leonard Pepe player for Abp. Williams and Joe Marani and Anthony Knasas played at B. C. High.

"We have a young club but most of the boys played regularly in high school and gained a lot of experience," Cattaneo said. "I'm looking forward to coaching them and I think we should do well in a strong league."

There are two new teams this year and the clubs have been divided into three divisions, Zones 6, 6A and 6B.

Ron Martin To Conduct August Soccer Clinic

Ron Martin, Quincy High soccer coach, will conduct the South Shore Soccer Clinic in August at the Southern Artery Soccer Field.

There will be three sessions, Aug. 3 to 8, Aug. 10-15 and Aug. 17-22. The fee includes insurance, game shirt and a noon beverage.

Martin, who will be assisted by Peter Gallagher, manager of the Quincy Rangers team of the Commonwealth Soccer League, stresses that there is no age limit of applicants.

"The purpose of this school is to promote interest in the game of soccer among the youth of the South Shore," Martin explained. "Any revenue derived will be donated to purchase equipment for the Quincy Public Schools soccer program.

"At present this is the only day camp of its type in the area providing training in the skills of the game."

The daily schedule will be as follows: 9 a.m. to 9:10, warmup games; 9:10 to 9:30, ball circuit; 9:30-10, ball control; 10 to 10:30, shooting; 10:30-11, interception, tackling; 11-12, lunch, rest and individual instruction [voluntary].

Noon to 12:40, dribbling and feinting; 12:40-1:10, heading; 1:10-1:45, principles of the game; 1:45-2:30, game; 2:30-3, voluntary individual instruction.

ENC Basketball Prospects Bright For Next Season

Eastern Nazarene College has just begun recruiting athletes and it has come up with some outstanding basketball hopefuls for next year.

One of the top prospects is Don Eads, 6-2, 200-pound guard who will team with the brilliant Ron Bradley of North Quincy in the back court.

Eads, who played at Mt. Vernon Nazarene Junior College in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, averaged 31 points a game last year and made several junior college All-American teams. He is also an outstanding baseball player.

Another fine prospect is Jeff Davidson, 6-5, 220-pound center who is transferring from Detroit College of the Bible. He has a reputation of being a great rebounder.

Others enrolling in the fall are Bill Whitman, 6-0 guard, and Clarence Jackson, 6-4 forward, both from Hilton Area High school.

Whitman, a fine playmaker who led Hilton Area to the Greater Rochester League title, averaged 16 points a game and hit on 60 percent of his shots. Jackson was the league's top rebounder.

Varney May Be No. 1 Catcher

North Quincy's Pete Varney, who set many batting records at Harvard this spring and was named to the NCAA District 1 all-star team, is playing this summer for the Bob Woolf Club in the Boston Park League.

Varney, the club's number one catcher, may be the best catcher in New England and last week was drafted for the fifth time, this time by the San Francisco Giants.

In his freshman and sophomore years he played out of position for Harvard. This spring he played the outfield and first base while catching occasionally, but next year he shapes up as the Crimson's number one receiver.

The former North Quincy ace batted .375 this spring and led the all-stars with 10 home runs and 37 runs batted in.

"Pete is one of the key players on our team," said Woolf Club Manager Gerry McCarthy. "He is fantastic in the clutch and if he doesn't hit our team goes into a slump. He bats cleanup."

Quincy Rangers Crush Shamrocks

The young Quincy Rangers unleashed their most powerful attack of the year Sunday to top Norfolk Shamrocks, 6-3, for their third Commonwealth League victory.

Meanwhile, General Dynamics saw its title chances just about ended when it lost to the new Needham team, 4-1, to make its record 6-3.

St. John's of Boston, with an 8-0 record, is a decided favorite to win the first league championship.

Sunday the two Quincy teams clash at 11 a.m. at Quincy High field and next Thursday the Rangers meet Needham at 6:30, also at the Quincy field.

Two father-son combinations teamed up for the Rangers for the first time to help engineer the win. Carlos Ferro Sr., played center halfback and Carlos, Jr. played right inside. The elder Ferro was outstanding, his playmaking ability and sharp passes setting up three goals. The younger Ferro scored twice and came close several other times.

Coach Jim McGuire, Sr., made his first appearance on the field in several years and played an excellent game at fullback while Jim, Jr. was again a standout at left halfback.

Al Lavoie, the Rangers' high scorer, netted two goals, one on a beautiful pass from Ferro, Sr. Roque Acosta and Nick Candeloro had one goal each. Mike DelGreco was outstanding in Quincy's goal.

Germantown Soccer All-Stars In 0-0 Tie With Medford

The Germantown Junior Soccer League all-stars gained partial revenge for their only loss, a 2-1 overtime squeaker, by playing Medford to a scoreless tie Sunday. Medford is rated the most potent junior team in the Boston area.

Each team had many opportunities to score but shots constantly bounced off the posts and crossbar. Once a Germantown shot rolled back and forth across the Medford goal area but no one was able to finish it off.

Joe McEachearn was outstanding in the Germantown goal with 19 saves, many of them spectacular. Paul Ferris, outstanding fullback, played a fine game as did Joe Long, Frank Shoemaker and John Conroy.

Germantown's starting lineup included McEachearn, Ferris, Mike Renzi, Tom Connolly, Long, Shoemaker, Pat Moriarty, Floyd Thomas, Ken Donovan, Conroy and Scott Stoughn. Reserves were Bob Pringle, Bob Dacey, Stephen Sylva, Stephen Melzard, Stephen Sylva and Jim Quigley.

Prior to the game Renzi won a penalty kicking contest, scoring on four of his five shots, while Thomas and Long scored three times each and Melzard, Pringle, Quigley and Stroughn twice each. Renzi was presented a trophy.

Conroy and Donovan were selected as the season's most valuable players. The awards are based on playing ability, contribution to team and sportsmanship.

Conroy, the high scorer, played left wing and was the most dependable player all season. Donovan, the small sparkplug center forward, played a key role in Germantown's success with his playmaking, speed and dodging ability.

Receiving honorable mention for their efforts were Long, Ferris and McEachearn. Conroy and Donovan received trophies yesterday.

Kiwanis, Houghs Neck Lead Junior Baseball

Kiwanis leads the Quincy Junior Baseball League's Service Division with a 10-3 record, while Houghs Neck has a slim lead over Local 444 in the Business Division. Houghs Neck is 10-1 and Local 9-1.

Steve McKinnon pitched a no-hitter for Local 444 in his last outing against Houghs Neck Legion. In his last three games he has allowed only one hit, that by Dave Perdios of Kiwanis. He struck out 38 and walked only six.

Kiwanis defeated VFW, 10-8, with Shawn Dwyer getting the win and Dave Perdios excelling in relief. Big hitters were John Earl with a two-run homer and Neil Dwyer with two for three.

Director-producer ROGER CORMAN has to be the most prolific filmmaker currently on the scene today. During the past 15 years he has produced a record 110 low-budget motion pictures; and of this total he has directed over 50... CORMAN'S key to success is the rapidity in which he can turn out a film, and the little amount of capital with which he requires to complete a project...

In 1959 he produced two low-budget motion pictures in only seven days. "BUCKET OF BLOOD" was completed in its' entirety in five days, and "THE LITTLE SHOP OF HORRORS" was filmed in only two. Both films, though far from being creative masterpieces, none the less showed a net profit for the studios... His latest endeavor, "BLOODY MAMA", was shot on location in the mountainous Ozark region of Arkansas in only four weeks. Allotted a cool $1 million for this picture, CORMAN did it for a "lot less"... The SHELLEY WINTERS starred "BLOODY MAMA" promises to be another CORMAN success as it is doing well at the theaters turnstiles around the country...

Actress YVETTE MIMIEUX was tapped to replace the late INGER STEVENS for ABC's to be fall premiered "THE MOST DEADLY GAME". For YVETTE this could just be the shot in the arm her career needs... In the early 60's she was being hailed by critics and publicists alike as a future star. Her moving performance as a wayward girl in OTTO PREMINGER'S "THE CARDINAL" was her biggest film success. However, after that picture her career never spiraled upward the way insiders anticipated it would... If "THE MOST DEADLY GAME" proves a ratings-wise attraction, she more than likely will pick up where she left off some years back...

As great a performance as GEORGE C. SCOTT gives in "PATTON", he couldn't have performed as well without the able support of veteran actor KARL MALDEN... MALDEN'S Omar Bradley compliments SCOTT'S Patton perfectly. Both should be up for Academy Award nominations next spring... ERNEST BORGNINE is the latest to be mentioned for the feature role in the soon to be filmed "THE GODFATHER". If selected, BORGNINE would more than likely do a creditable job, although this corner feels JEAN GABIN is more tailor-made for the role... Especially after the impressive performance he gave in "THE SICILIAN CLAN"... "SUPPOSE THEY GAVE A WAR AND NOBODY CAME" is not so much an anti-war flic, as it is a horribly boring movie. The script is nonsensical, the acting melodramatically trite, and the title is in no way connected with the film... The only stabilizing force throughout is the performance of TONY CURTIS; but even he, grey hairs and all, can not salvage the tedious boredom...

Great English actress DAME JUDITH ANDERSON, is a classic example in persistency paying off... She was plain Frances Anderson, nicknamed Fanny, when she arrived in Hollywood in the early 20's to become a movie star. Fanny's only experience had been in minor roles on the stage in her native Australia, and she arrived in California with the greatest of aspirations, but with the most meager of credentials: a letter of introduction to impressario director CECIL B. DeMILLE... Those were the glamour days of Hollywood and she was advised by DeMILLE to leave Hollywood because she was not beautiful enough. She left, only to become one of the most magnificent stage actresses of the 20th century... Later on DeMILLE finally realized the error of his judgment, and signed her for a lead role in his "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS"...

NEIL SIMON wrote his first screenplay for the screen for the soon to be BOSTON released, "THE OUT-OF-TOWNERS"... The film stars JACK LEMMON and SANDY DENNIS and is about a Midwestern couple who are thrust into every day occurrences of New York city living-complete with strikes, violence, verbal abuse and other delights of big-city living... ARTHUR HILL of "POPI" and "THE AMERICANIZATION OF EMILY" fame directs...

SPIRO T. AGNEW is still breathing hell and fire at the news and television media. Evidently the vice-president didn't heed his boss's advice when the latter announced, "Cool the Rhetoric". AGNEW, more than likely, has yet to peak in his FUNK and WAGNER'S for the meaning of the word rhetoric... As a summer replacement for ABBIE HOFFMAN and JERRY RUBIN, the television talk shows have decided to go along with the team of ATTORNEY GENERAL and MRS. MARTHA MITCHELL [which shouldn't prove much of a "radical" change]... MYRA BRECKINRIDGE and THE CHRISTINE JORGENSON STORY motion pictures are each due for Boston release sometime in the summer. The two films, though dealing with the same topic, transsexualism, are as far apart in approach as day and night. Where the former treats it satirically, the latter tells it like it is, in all of its' no-holds-barred, stark reality... Both films should have the customers queuing at the box-office...

Rep. Joseph E. Brett and Councillor Walter J. Hannon were among those attending.

Seek $100,000 To Battle Drugs On Local Front

A campaign to raise at least $100,000 for Survival, Inc.–a planned professional center and program to help Quincy youngsters on drugs--is expected to be launched within two weeks.

Dr. Charles Djerf, noted pediatrician, civic leader and former school committeeman who heads the project, says the program is "a must".

"The drug situation in Quincy, like every city, is getting worse. And it is going to get even worse as Vietnam War veterans come home. Half of them are on drugs now."

Dr. Djerf is president of Survival, Inc., a non-profit group of doctors, police, school and mental health officials concerned with the drugs situation here.

Their planned program to meet the crisis includes:

--A "Walk In" center where those in need of help may receive group therapy.

--Establishment of a treatment center.

--Purchase of a home to provide living quarters for up to 30 addicts seeking rehabilitation.

--Creation of an information "Hot Line" through which persons in need of help may telephone at any hour of the day or night to receive assistance.

Plans are to use Quincy City Hospital Facilities as an immediate treatment center. Location of Survival Inc.'s treatment center has not yet been pinpointed. Nor has the residence for those under treatment. The "Walk In" Center, will be located in Dr. Djerf's former office at 44 Faxon Ave.

Dr. Djerf cited the alarming rise in serious drug cases in Quincy.

"Last year there were five known 'mainliners' in Quincy," he noted. "There were 200 known ones during the first four months of this year."

A 'mainliner' is a user who injects heroin into a vein, he explained. "Known" means he [or she] has been either caught, arrested or involved in dope handling.

"Most of the kids are between 16 and 22 years of age," he said.

"These kids spend from $50 to $400 a day on drugs," he estimated. "It means they often have to commit a crime to get the money."

Referring to Vietnam servicemen on drugs, Dr. Djerf declared:

"The Army tries to tell you there isn't any of it. But half of them are on drugs. And they're coming home loaded with it."

Dr. Djerf predicts the drugs problem will one day be cured.

"Eventually," he said, "it will be self-destructive. Everything that is evil, is self-destructive. Common sense will eventually destroy this, too. It will burn itself out. But in the meantime, a lot of people are going to be burned. They need help. This is a must."

The City Council recently appropriated $25,000 to get the program financially on its way.

"At least $100,000 is needed to carry out the program," Dr. Djerf said. "We might eventually need as much as $200,000."

Odyssey House, he noted, wanted a quarter million dollars to establish a center here.

"We couldn't get a quarter of a million," Dr. Djerf said. "But I am pretty sure we can raise at least $100,000–possibly more."

As soon as Survival, Inc. receives an official designation as a charitable or non-profit corporation, the fund-raising campaign will be launched. The necessary corporation papers have been filed with the state and Internal Revenue Service.

It is hoped approval will come within two weeks.

Meanwhile, plans for the drive are being formulated with Louis S. Cassani and Joseph Whiteman as co-chairmen.

They are organizing fund-raising teams.

A luncheon meeting is being planned for business and professional men interested in helping the project.

Help Make Time Fly For Hospital Patients

Want to help make the time fly for patients at Quincy City Hospital?

A call for games, cards, checkers, chess – and especially children's amusements – has been made by Miss Emma Hassan, director of Volunteer Services at the hospital.

This is part of a new recreational program for patients, helpful to all, Miss Hassan says, and "desperately needed" by the children.

Persons interested in helping provide recreational items may call Miss Hassan or her assistants at the hospital, or may drop their contributions off at the Volunteer office.

Communist Rules For Revolution Alive

Mrs. Margery Grenon of 280 Granite St., Quincy, thinks readers of the Quincy Sun will be interested in the following letter.

The letter, she says, was written by S. Douglas Winslow of Progress St., Hopedale, and appeared in another newspaper.

It is entitled: "Communist Rules For Revolution Alive" and follows: [In May 1919 at Dusseldorf, Germany, the Allied Forces obtained a copy of some of the rules. Nearly 51 yrs later, the REDS are still following them.]

After reading this list, stop after each item and think about the present day situation where we live, and around our nation. To quote from the rules:

A. Corrupt the young; get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial; destroy their ruggedness.

B. Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:

1.Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.

2.Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3.Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule, and disgrace.

4.Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.

5.By encouraging government extravagance, destroy it's credit, produce feat of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6.Incite unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

7.By specious argument, cause the breakdown of the moral virtues; honesty, sobriety, self restraint, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.

C. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

That is quite a list isn't it? Stop and think, how many of these rules do you recognize as being commonplace in our nation today?

I don't see how any thinking person can truthfully say that the Communists do not have any part in the chaos that is upsetting our nation.

Or is it just one big coincidence?

'The Law Of Readiness'

Back in my college days I remember the emphasis one psychology professor laid upon the Law of Readiness. What the law means is that as a person matures...becomes "ready"...he learns...that he will resist growth until he is "ready". We are finding that we are "ready" to learn things very much earlier than we first thought. Readiness differs for each person...and this applies all the way from toilet training to adult maladjustments.

We learn various defenses against moving on in our learning and personality growth. One defense is to withdraw. Husbands do this...so do wives. When pressed for an answer by a wife..."Why can't we vacation in New Hampshire this summer?...this husband simply ignored her...went out the door giving no answer at all. An irrational defense...but very often used. Some project blame..."You're always wanting to go...it's just go...go...go...you're never satisfied." Notice the excessive words ALWAYS and NEVER. Not often applicable. A rational answer might be..."Honey...it depends on the budget...can we swing it? A strong ego enables a person to face reality...a weak ego backs off.

Why do we make excuses and project blame in irrational ways? Perhaps because we are not "ready" to move on in the expansion of our personalities...unable to face reality.

I see this daily in the marriage partner who backs off from counseling. Most marriage problems involve two people...a man and a woman. So often one is "ready" for help while the other isn't "ready". A man called recently for an appointment..."Well, Doctor"...he said..."I'm 'ready' to talk about my marriage." His wife had been counseling for several weeks. That man is now on the road to a higher level of relationship. Another man writes..."I'm 'ready' but my wife isn't." See how the Law of Readiness applies?And until a person is "ready" to stop smoking...stop drinking...be responsible...to learn to relate...you waste your time trying to force him/her.

How can you get a partner to get "ready"? Not a simple question...sometime I request the partner in counseling to hand a note to the hesitating partner..."I have visited with your wife and would like to visit with you...if this appointment is not convenient please call me and we'll find a time at our mutual convenience." If a man is "ready" he will likely respond. If he isn't he probably will not. He remains untherapeutic until he is "ready".

Often some traumatic event speeds up a person's readiness...sickness ...accident...loss of job...the threat of separation if we do not get on the same wave length. Even these may not be the thing which will trigger some persons to do something about their mixed up lives...if they are not "ready".

Of course what doesn't work one time may another...simply because there has been development...growth...maturation...in the interim. A common statement we hear is..."We tried counseling two years ago but IT did no good." This doesn't necessarily mean that the counselor was incompetent...things may have changed in two years...there may be more readiness on both parts now. Now we're "ready" to listen to each other...now we're "ready" to stop doing the things which bug each other...now we're "ready" to grow to a higher level of life.

Are you "ready"?

Lost Wedding Ring Turns Up As Father's Day Gift

David W. Faulkner, former Quincy YMCA councillor, received an unusual Father's Day gift on Sunday – his wedding ring lost in June, 1969 in the sand at Camp Burgess.

A troop of Taunton Girl Scouts during a "treasure hunt" at Camp Burgess came upon the wedding ring engraved "B.Q. to D.W.F." Realizing this was no ordinary "treasure," the ring was sent to Mrs. Stella Price, camp secretary, at the Quincy YMCA.

A good amateur detective, Mrs. Price questioned David Keefe of Houghs Neck, a camp helper. By coincidence, he was a close friend of Faulkner, Knew of his loss, and notified his mother, Mrs. Walter Faulkner of 13 Hawthorne St.

Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner went to their son's new home in East Falmouth for a joint Father's Day celebration and the christening of their second grandson, Jonathan Whitney, they brought the gift-wrapped wedding ring as a surprise.

Houghs Neck Memorial Day Parade, Ceremonies Sunday

Department Adjutant John P. Swift will speak Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the 26th annual Houghs Neck Memorial Day Exercises sponsored by the Houghs Neck Legion Post. Swift is a past department commander of the American Legion.

A feature of the program will be the presentation of life memberships in the Houghs Neck Post to four World War I veterans. They are Neil MacInnis, Sr., George Murphy, Daniel Lyons and John E. Morris. Commander Paul McKeon, chairman of the day, will officiate.

Also featured will be a talk by Eric Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Johnson of 137 Sea Ave., who represented the Houghs Neck Legion Post at last year's Boys State program at Amherst.

Exercises will follow a parade which will form at 1:30 p.m. at The Willows, to start at 2 p.m. All Quincy veterans organizations have been invited to take part, along with Houghs Neck Boy and Girl Scout groups. Music will be by the Milton American Legion Band. Also invited is the Bellingham Band and all-girl Drill Team. Gold Star Mothers, women veterans, and World War I veterans will ride in cars.

The parade will follow its usual route along Sea St. to Darrow St., across Macy St. to Sea St. to the foot of Great Hill, returning by Sea St. to the granite memorial at the corner of Manet Ave. opposite the Houghs Neck Fire Station where exercises will be held.

Special guests will be the clergy, leading devotions; Mayor James R. McIntyre, Department Commander-elect Leo Barry, and Department vice commander-elect Robert Leo Eng.

Assisting Commander McKeon will be Post-Commander-Elect Ernest Fitzgibbon as chief marshall; past commander Ernest T. Deveau, assistant chief marshall; Stanley Bovill, adjutant; past commander Thomas Hurlebaus, chaplain. World War I veteran John E. Morris, oldest member of the Post, will serve again as officer of the day and will place a wreath at the memorial, as he has for many years.

The Memorial Day committee includes also past commanders John McNally and Paul Shaw, Willard Timcoe and Mrs. Elinor Forsythe.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

Knowledge of artificial respiration is a MUST during vacation season. When it's needed, there can be no delay in its application - the result could easily be the difference between life and death. Here's how. . .

Place the victim on his back with chin up and head tilted back. This will create a straight passage from the mouth to the lungs. Open your mouth wide and place it directly over the victim's mouth. At the same time pinch his nose closed and blow into the mouth. When you see the victim's chest rise, stop inflation, raise your mouth and let him exhale. Your breathing cycle should be about 12 times a minute.

With infant and small child victims, place your mouth over both the nose and mouth. Babies require only small breaths of air because of their small lung capacity. Repeat breaths 20 - 30 times a minute.

Here Comes The Bride

By Mabelle

Questions By Groom's Family

Questions most often asked by the grooms' family:

Q. What should my husband wear at our son's wedding?

A. The groom's father wears the same type suit as the bride's father and the other men in the bridal party wear. This, of course, is decided by what type wedding it is.

Q. We have received a formal invitation to our son's wedding. This seems ridiculous to us. Does it mean we have to send a formal acceptance?

A. The reason an invitation is sent to the groom's parents is that they are guests and also it is a courtesy extended to them. Also, mothers being the sentimental people they are, might want to keep it for their "memory book." No it is not necessary to send a formal reply. In cases where they would be unable to be present a personal note should be sent explaining the reason or a telephone call made to the bride and her parents. Distance is the main reason the grooms parents are unable to attend. If they are from another country then of course it would be more practical to write.

Q. After the young couple make their intentions known to their parents which parents make the first gesture toward friendship?

A. This is up to the groom's family. They invite the bride's family to their home to become better acquainted. If the distance is too great the groom's mother writes to both the bride and her mother, telling them how happy they are over the engagement, welcoming the bride into the family, and inviting her to spend a few days with them. This is done before the engagement is formally announced. If the engagement is announced at a party the groom's family is included.

Q. My son is being married in a distant city and our friends here are asking me for suggestions on wedding gifts. What can I tell them when I don't know exactly what they need or have received?

A. Why not ask the bride's permission to register her gift preferences with the local stores in your city? I am sure your friends would welcome this service. It is so difficult to purchase a wedding gift and particularly so if you don't know the brides likes and dislikes.

Poet's Corner

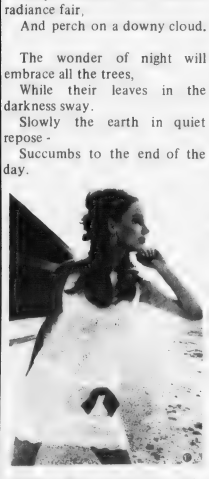
What Is The Answer?

By PATRICIA RIDLEN

Rage and riot everywhere
No matter where we look
Is it true as written once
In that Greatest Book
That we ourselves will be destroyed
By fire, flood and wicked wars?

Hear, Oh God, our humble prayer
From those obeying your laws,
One man here doing his best
To make a better world.

And there is no one who speaks of Peace
Yet keeping our flag unfurled.
But what of the Knights from Camelot?
Oh Death, too soon were you their fate.
And shall another's voice be heard
Above the searing sounds of hate?
How will we learn? How can we act
If all we ever turn to hear
Are echoes of our mirrored thoughts
Resounding always in our ears?



Ending Of Day

By
Margaret DeAngelo

The sun has set behind the hills;
The pendulous leaves are sighing;
The blue of the dusk has enveloped the light,
As the daytime is slowly dying.

Soon in the sky a multitude of stars
Will encircle the moon like a shroud,
They'll twinkle and shine in radiance fair,
And perch on a downy cloud.

The wonder of night will embrace all the trees,
While their leaves in the darkness sway.
Slowly the earth in quiet repose -
Succumbs to the end of the day.

Week of June 26 - July 3

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19]- Self restraint and good sense needed to curb extravagance. Mistakes made this week could give comfort to your opponent.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20]- Entertaining at home this week could be rather dull - better to go elsewhere for a swinging time with friends.

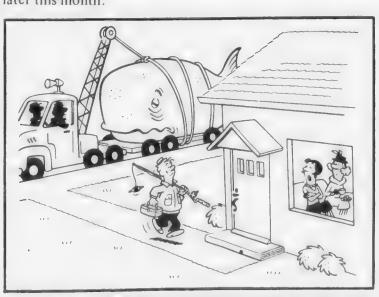
GEMINI [May 21-June 21]- Difficult to keep in a cheerful frame of mind as circumstances may force changes of plans toward end of this week.

CANCER [June 22-July 22]- Try to avoid arguments that can easily get started as you have a few sarcastic comments you've been saving until now.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22]- Compliments coming your way may have a hidden meaning but accept them graciously. Lay groundwork now for future action.

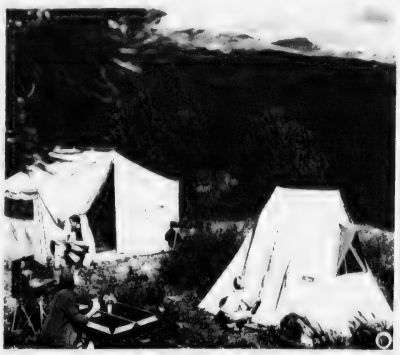
VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]- This is not the week for signing legal papers especially if friends are involved. Loss of temper and money result.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]- You are inclined to talk too much about matters concerning your career or reputation. Not the time to "let your hair down".



SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nove. 21]- Looking for a new start in career matters? Consult with people in educational field, they can help you to decide.

SAGITARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]- Caution in all affairs dealing with the law is advised. Don't count too much on your friends over the holiday weekend.



CAPRICORN [Dec. 21-Jan. 19]- Even the holiday weekend coming up won't be much fun since outside circumstances are piling up against you. Try to remain calm.

"HERE HE COMES WITH ANOTHER ONE OF HIS FISH STORIES."

TENTING TONIGHT—Good tenting and good camping go together. The grown-ups find the model at left perfectly suited to their needs. Made of cotton canvas, it's simple to pack and easy to erect. Big picture windows provide four-way ventilation. The compact tent at right gives the youngsters their own special home away from home. Folding stoves and picnic table add further pleasure to the outdoor life. Equipment by Coleman.

Live It Up

Go Modern— Go Camping

Camping isn't the rough-and-ready sport it used to be.

Today's improvements in camping equipment have made outdoor vacationing comfortable and inviting. Moreover, basic camping gear is versatile, durable, and doesn't cost a fortune to buy.

Just remember: the secret is to keep it simple—it's hard to relax with a lot of gadgets.

To get the utmost enjoyment from the sound of rushing mountain streams or the taste of freshly-picked huckleberries, get squared away first on basic equipment and those extras you really need.

Besides the family car, a tent is the "must" item. If you haven't paid attention to tents lately, you're in for some surprises. The old stand-by types that took two men and a boy to put up are gone. So are the drab, windowless, stuffy tents that offered little more than plain shelter.

Now tents offer new window and door designs, easier handling, and greater protection from sun, rain, and insects. They can be pitched in a matter of minutes and come in all sorts of colors—chestnut, green, sun gold, silver blue, and red.

Nearly all tents are made of cotton fabrics, generally known as canvas. Cotton canvas is favored because it permits air to circulate freely throughout the tent. This insures comfort and prevents moisture from forming and dripping down inside.

Cotton canvas also withstands lashing winds and rain, and actually gains 25 percent in strength when wet. Special finishes give it even greater resistance to the elements.

Besides a car and a tent, you'll need cooking and sleeping equipment. Then you can add such accessories as knapsacks, portable refrigerator, folding bathtub, binoculars, etc.

Take only what you need and you'll have a grand time as a modern pioneer-camping family.

Inflation, inflation everywhere...

Inflation not only is abounding in our economy, it is rife in our figures as well. Whereas it is most difficult to know those factors which control our economy, we do know how to control our girth. And it's not so hard to do when you follow a realistic eating program. It does require some self discipline and will power, but then hardly anything worth achieving comes easily.

To make your lot a more pleasant one, why not try some of the good-eating recipes which are listed below each of my columns. And I'll leave you with a message that may help too...just as inflated bodies deflate your spirits, so do trim bodies make you feel trim and lively.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Quincy Family Find Thailand 'Much Like Home'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

"Americans make an American community for themselves wherever they are," says Mr. C. Douglas Black, who should be an authority.

Mrs. Black and her husband, Major Black and their four children are home in Quincy [temporarily] after three years in Bangkok, Thailand, more than 10,000 miles away.

"Even though the Americans are spread out all over Bangkok, there are activities created to keep them occupied. It was normal life much like home."

Calvin, 13, joined one of the many Boy Scout troops; he spent some time in a Boy Scout "clearing" [The U. S. equivalent of a Boy Scout camp]on the River Quai. He completed seventh grade at the International School, largest International School in the world with 3,000 students, all American children of businessmen, embassy and military in Thailand.

Helen-Beth, 15, went out for sports at school--she received her letters in track and soccer. This year she will be a high school junior.

Douglas, 11, completed fifth grade. He received his brown belt in Tae-Kivondo, a Thai type of karate. And both older boys played Little League baseball!

Kenneth, 7, was the only one in the family to learn the language. He became a fluent Thai linguist through attendance at a native "nursery" and grade school.

"The kids were in a good school and they were happy and glad to study in the school," Mrs. Black adds. "We had good living conditions, different from here with many inconveniences, but when you're there, it doesn't seem that inconvenient. If you found ants in the food, you just killed them and kept eating."

Their Bangkok home was in a four-house compound, a big yard with four buildings, each with its individual yard.

"Heat is the biggest difference," comments Mrs. Black. "Weather is so hot that everything moves more slowly. It would take one-half day to shop. We had 'traffic problems' -- transporation is by taxies, private cars and busses. Most of the cars are German or Japanese, but a lot of them are American cars. We took our car there and sold it just before we returned. 'Up country' there are three-wheeled vehicles with bicycles on the front, but they are being motorized. They try to keep them off the main streets."

"Physically, Thailand is very different, so many years behind this part of the world. There are some big and modern buildings, comfortable houses, some in market areas alongside 10 or 12 shacks. The roads were good but not good enough for walking. We hardly walked at all."

Mrs. Black worked as a Red Cross volunteer in the Fifth Field House, a military hospital for all American Government dependents. When her husband was at home, they played bridge with friends.

Once a month the Blacks would entertain, on call, servicemen who were having their rest and recreation ["R and R"] period in Bangkok. Mrs. Black recalled particularly one group of men, uncomfortable because they had not been in a house for so long -- they were living in a foxhole.

Both Major Black and his wife, the former Barbara McMullin, were born in Quincy and lived here until 13 years ago. Their families lived just a block apart at Adams Shore. They attended N. S. Hunting School and graduated from Quincy High School, Douglas in 1951 and Barbara in 1952.

Immediately after his 1957 graduation from Northeastern University w[illegible] he was an ROTC member. Douglas enlisted in the regular Army and has served with the Corps of Engineers ever since.

Their air and motorized travel has taken them from Fort Hood, Texas to Germany for 30 months with their three oldest children; then to Iowa State College where Major Black received his Master's Degree in Civil Engineering and his license in sanitary engineering.

From there, they went to Fort Belvoir, Va. Major Black's first tour of duty in Vietnam followed, while Mrs. Black remained in Quincy with the children. Then it was back to Fort Hood for 20 months before a two-year assignment in Bangkok. Major Black's second year in Vietnam followed, with his wife and children remaining in Thailand.

Major Black received several new awards during his three years in Southeast Asia. His first Army Commendation Medal, the Oak Leaf, was awarded at Fort Hood for his work there. In Thailand, he was awarded an Army commendation, a first oak leaf cluster, a Joint Services Commendation medal for his entire tour at the close of his Vietnam Duty; a second Bronze Star for his Oakleaf Cluster, and from the Vietnamese Government, the Vietnamese Honor Medal.

His next assignment will be in the office of the Army Chief of Engineers in the Forrestal Building at Washington, D.C.

Major and Mrs. Black are children of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Black of 10 Homer Road and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McMullin of 52 Gannett Road. A grandfather, Kenneth D. Wiltshire, lives at 10 Homer Rd.

FIRST "STATESIDE" BIRTHDAYS in three years--Cutting into a cake made by Quincy Voc-Tech bakers are Douglas Black, 11; Kenneth Black, 7; and Calvin, 13 with Helen-Beth Black, 15-year old sister looking on. The children of Major and Mrs. Calvin Douglas Black, USA, returned recently with their parents from Bangkok, Thailand, Major Black's home while on duty there and in Saigon. 'Nursing At Critical Crossroad' Dr. Creedon Tells Graduates

"Nursing and nursing education is at a critical crossroad," Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon on Tuesday told the graduating class of 1970 at Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing.

Dr. Creedon discussed the report of the National Commission for the Study of Nursing and Nursing Education, two and a half years in the making, and its four major points: Relevancy, Individualization, Technology and Staff Development.

Comparing a nursing career to that of a teacher, he pointed out that 75% of the time of both is involved in "irrelevant" activities. He urged that the graduates "begin NOW to do what you can to implement the NOW current, the NOW relevant findings of the National Commission for the Study of Nursing and Nursing Education."

"The calling of nurses and teachers is to eliminate suffering, be it physical or intellectual," he said.

Receiving special awards were:

–Wilfredo Nieves and Joan Zakrewski, the Constance R. Lundy Award for outstanding bedside nursing, presented by Miss Lundy, assistant hospital director.

–Mildred O'Hare, the Faculty Award for excellence in nursing, presented by Mrs. Avilda Schulze, assistant director of the School of Nursing.

–Denise Meyer, the Dr. and Mrs. Harry Braverman Award for outstanding student in obstetric nursing, presented by Mrs. Frances LaMontagne, director of the School of Nursing.

–Mary Shea, the Rose Grossman Award for proficient nursing student, presented by Nissie Grossman II.

--Myrtle Bennett, the Alumnae Scholarship Award for further study in nursing, presented by Miss Judith Sullivan, president of the Alumnae Association.

--Maureen Young, the Josephine Braveman Award for kindliness and bedside manner towards patients.

Miss Bennett, in addition, received recognition as an outstanding member of the graduating class for achieving an "A" average for three years in both academic studies and clinical experience.

George Tull, chairman of the Hospital Board of Managers, presided.

Taking part in the ceremonies were Dr. Milton Brougham, Mayor James R. McIntyre, Harlan L. Paine, Jr., Quincy City Hospital director; Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue, Rev. Charles McEachern of First Baptist Church of Wollaston and Rev. Frederick Driscoll of St. John's Church.

Dr. Creedon declared:

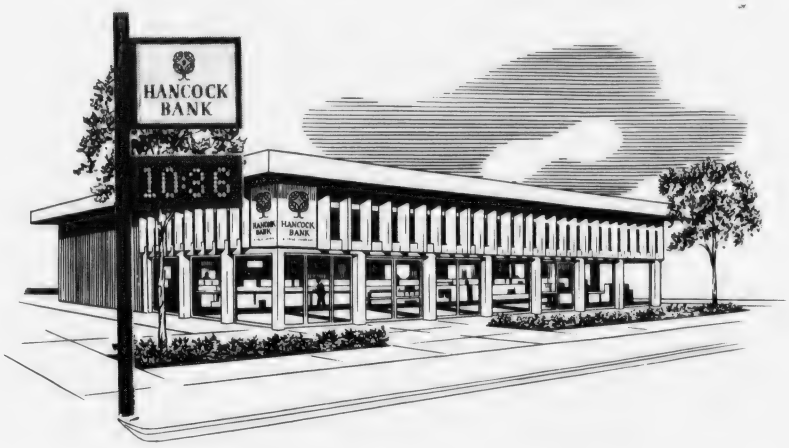
"Individualization ... is the key that unlocks not only the door of relevant health care, but also publicaton."

Continuing his comparison, Dr. Creedon referred to the May, 1970 edition of the American Journal of Nursing listing the seven "rights" a nurse must keep in mind when administering to a patient: The right patient, the right medication, the right route of administration, the right dosage, the right technique, the right time and the right approach.

"These seven rights lead to a concern for the individual whether he be a patient in Quincy City Hospital or a student in the Quincy Public Schools," he asserted.

Individualism gains new emphasis in education through its seven rights: the right student, the right need, the right teacher, the right program of studies, the right learning materials, the right learning rate and style, and the right learning environment.

"The medical and nursing professions are by far in the lead when it comes to the proper utilization of staff," Dr. Creedon commented. "In fact, public educators have much to learn in this regard from those of you in health care."



"The career pattern of nurse's aide, practical nurse, staff nurse, clinical nurse and physician's assistant offers a model for educators to consider as we attempt to define the role of the teacher a little more definitely than "that which needs to be done."

Dr. Creedon quoted statistics showing that within five years 18 of the graduates, or approximately 40%, will no longer be practicing. The statistics for teachers are much the same, he said, with the reason obvious: "You are women and another career will call you. Therefore if you are to make a contribution to nursing and nursing education, the time is NOW and not after you gain a few years of experience."

He urged graduates, " . . .begin NOW to do what you can to implement the NOW current, the NOW relevant findings of the National Commission for the Study of Nursing and Nursing Education."

Helpful Hints For Harried Housewives

As a service to those of you who are helpless, hopeless, hapless and harried, I will endeavor to give you the benefit of my experiences as a dues paying member of H.H.H.H. Club.

I shall not attempt to invade Dr. Spock's domain, but will concentrate on the over five crowd.

My first word of advice: Try to find a year round camp that will take children when they reach their fifth birthday. Or better yet, try to find a year round camp that will take you. Or see if the school year cannot be for 12 months with no vacations and the school day runs from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

If you cannot work out any of the above arrangements, then you must come to the conclusion that for better or worse [usually worse] you are going to have the kids around a great deal of the time, and what is worse [or better, depending on your children] you will have all their friends around. You will have to live with this for many years unless you build a barbed wire fence surrounding your property or put signs all over your yard, "Do not step on the grass - BEWARE OF SNAKE." - and have such a lovely yard that you honestly can't stand kids in it and are willing to sit outside all year guarding it.

O.K., You say you don't want to get that drastic, and things can't be that bad. Face it! You are going to have kids around all the time. Take a course in "LEARNING TO LIKE KIDS". This isn't as easy as it sounds, some kids are darned unlikable. But it is possible through self-hypnosis to "learn to like kids".

Now you have reached the first plateau - you like kids [even your own]. You just don't like all that energy they have. I have a solution - whenever the shouts, screams, hollering, yelling, etc. that I do, cannot be heard over theirs, I say "O.K., I'm going to give one dime to the person that can lay down on the ground and pretend they're asleep the longest." You cannot imagine the greed of little children. Some of them even really fall asleep. It has been possible to keep 11 children between the ages of four and nine absolutely quiet for 12 minutes. I think that should be written up in the medical journals.

Another problem you may run into is fighting. If more than one child is in your yard, there will be a fight. If you are very lucky two children may get along for a short period of time; but three - Never! Any more children just add to the arguments.

I have solved this problem - well, that's not exactly true. I have learned how to live with the arguments and fights etc. that occur. My solution - "DO NOT LOOK OUT THE WINDOW AT ANY TIME." If you must have the window open, turn the radio, record player or TV on so loud that it drowns out the sounds of children arguing.

But the first and foremost rule, as I have stated is "do not look out the window", because if you do, you will always see something going on that you feel you should go out and stop, referee, argue about, scream about or faint about. As I always say "What I can't see doesn't bother me." If things get too bad in your yard, neighbors will always call the police.

Then comes another thing - tattling. If your child or any other child has reached the age of two, they are going to tattle. When I was young and foolish, I would run to the door every time the bell rang or a knuckle knocked. I would usually find my child or a neighbor's child with a tale of woe. I would immediately go out, drag the offending child into the house [if mine] send him home, if not [often I wished it could have been the other way around]

I would sometimes answer the door 27 times a day - during the summer this figure doubles. But with age comes wisdom. [less stupidity, anyway]. One beautiful day I read an Edict to the assembled children in the yard. "You may come and tattle only if the following conditions exist: 1. You have broken an arm, leg or the house. 2. You require a tourniquet to stop the bleeding". Otherwise, go home and tell your mother, and if it's my kids who wish to tattle, they can go home and tell your mother, too. After that, instead of having 27 kids ringing my bell, I only had two or three mothers telling me to "Knock off the stupid edict."

At times nothing seems to work. Again I have a solution, I say to myself very calmly "you are a mature, intelligent person, you certainly are not going to let a group of little children get the best of you." I then walk to my door, open it softly, smile lovingly at the assorted kiddies and scream "OUT, OUT, EVERYBODY OUT!"

EPILOGUE [It looks good in books anyway]

We are always reading in the papers about young people in trouble and how awful this younger generation is etc. It's true of some. But there are many more young people who never get their names in the paper because being a good kid isn't newsworthy. If I may take advantage of the Editor's good nature, I would like to give the names of kids that have been in my house and yard frequently over the past 10 years. These are average kids. Not ALWAYS good, but never really bad:

Michael Guerniere, Mark, Sharon, Ross, Brian and Linda Halwix, Jackie Jacobs, Kathy Keating, Jeff Little, Billy and Eddie O'Neil, Ricky, Stevie, Susie and Joanne Pacetti, Robbie, Michael Glenn and Lynn Anne Perry, Brian Picard, Ricky Reynolds, Johnny, Jimmy and Pattie Ridlen, Johnny, Jimmy, Laura and Cathy Riley, Annette, Donna, Diane and Lynn Shea, Kristina and Nancy Tangney. They're a jolly good group!

If I left any child out, it was because you were so good, I never knew you were there.

'Era Of Crown Prince Over' Says Spaulding In Visit Here

Josiah A. [Si] Spaulding speaking at a Ward 4 cookout in Quincy said, "I have been running hard for the past six months, and I fully intend to run even harder for the next five."

"The era of the crown prince is over, and the time has come for progressive imaginative government," the Republican candidate for U. S. Senate declared. The cookout was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bowering, 65 Gridley St., West Quincy.

"We have a better party, a better organization, and most importantly, a better reason to be in this race," Spaulding emphasized. "I Don't want to be the crown prince, I don't want to build a dynasty. I simply want the chance to do the work of the state, to do my part for the state of Massachusetts and the nation."

The Manchester attorney told his audience that he had been campaigning tirelessly, "all over the state for six months in search of support. I've been getting that support," he said, "getting it from solid groups of Republicans in every part of the state, as well as from Democrats and Independents. I want that support to stick with me all the way because it means that we can beat Ted Kennedy, and get on to the work of the state and the nation."

The former Marine Corps pilot said that, "We need leadership in these troubled times, not a legacy; determination not despair."

Spaulding went on to say, "I am the only GOP candidate who can beat Ted Kennedy, and with your help I will beat him."

Afternoon Children's Program At Library

During the week of June 29 the Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library will hold its children's programs in the afternoon instead of the morning.

This is to avoid interruption of children's swimming lessons. Future weeks will be planned according to the tide table.

Scheduled for Mondays are a story hour for pre-school, kindergarten and first grade children; "A New You" for fifth grade and up on Tuesdays; Summer Sounds featuring voice and instruments for third grade and older on Wednesdays.

Thursdays there will be a "Read-Aloud" program for second and third graders; Friday, "Borrowers' Day" for all grades. "America - Your Land and Mine" is the theme for summer reading. A map of the United States will be colored in after each book is read and reported on.

Mrs. Blanche Eckert, children's librarian, and Miss Linda Clayworth, junior assistant, are directing the program.

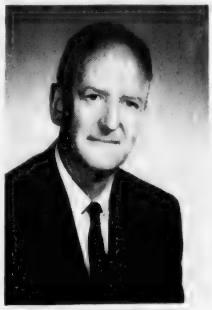
Youth Council Rock Concert Sunday

An outdoor rock concert on Sunday from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium is the first fund-raising project of the year-old Quincy Youth Council.



The nine-member group, comprised of elected representatives from Quincy's junior and senior high schools, hope to start the ball rolling for a centrally located Youth Center, "started by youth and for youth," says Judi McCall, spokesman for the concert committee.

The Youth Council has sent questionnaires to the schools to see what students wanted in a youth center. They hope to have a center building "exactly what they want it to be." Later on, they want to apply for a federal grant to provide funds.

Sunday's concert will feature Bud Ballou of radio Station WMEX as master of ceremonies. Contributing their efforts will be the rock bands "Minus One," "Ball" and "Parallel".

The Concert committee appointed by the Youth Council is comprised of council members and their friends, and includes Judi McCall, Cathy Cavanagh, Tim Folger, Amy Matthews, Amy Hahn, Rita Stracco and Roberta Greenberg, among others.

Vincent Smyth Candidate For State Representative

J. VINCENT SMYTH

City Councillor J Vincent Smyth today announced his candidacy for state representative in the Third Norfolk District comprising Quincy Wards 4, 5 and 6.

Smyth, now in his third term as Ward 6 City Councillor, will seek a Democratic nomination in the September primary.

He served as City Council president in 1968 and 1969 and presently is chairman of the council's powerful Finance Committee.

A resident of 184 Landsdowne St., North Quincy, Smyth is married, and the father of seven. He served with the Army in the South Pacific during World War II and was awarded the Silver Star and Purple Heart.

In his formal announcement, Smyth declared:

"After due consideration and serious reflection, I wish to formally announce my candidacy for the office of State Representative from the 3rd Norfolk District in Quincy, representing Wards 4, 5, and 6 [West Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy].

"I, like you, am seriously concerned with the growing and complex anxieties of the social, economic, and environmental problems that permeate our society today on the local, state, and national levels. I pledge continued vigorous leadership, integrity, and full-time availability.

"As past president of the Quincy City Council and presently a member of this governing body for the past five years, it has been my elected privilege to have served my city and ward to the best of my ability at all times."

Pretty Volunteer Seeks 'Car Full Of Used Clothing'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

A 22-year old VISTA [Voluntary in Service to America] volunteer from Quincy, Pauline Colton, hopes to drive back next week to her assignment in "Over-the-Rhine" in Cincinnati, Ohio, with a car full of used clothing.

Pauline is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Colton of 79 Lenox St., a 1965 Quincy High graduate and a 1969 graduate of University of Massachusetts at Boston.

Pauline was a student teacher in Quincy schools, and before joining VISTA in January, she subst tuted at Quincy High, Central Junior and Wollaston Schools.

"I am working in the inner city of Cincinnati in a section called Over-the-Rhine," she says. "Most of the people in this area live below the poverty level. Their housing is substandard, families of eight living in three room flats with just enough money to pay for rent, utilities and the bare food necessities. There is very little money left over for other essentials, like clothing. There are a few free clothing centers but not nearly enough to make a dent in the problem."

Pauline would particularly appreciate donations of children's clothing ". . . so that some of the little girls around here won't have to wear their brothers' shirts for dresses, or boys won't have to wear pants two sizes too big or children of all ages can wear a decent pair of shoes. Not only do the children need clothing but so do their parents."

Pauline and another girl volunteer have rented their own apartment in the same neighborhood where they work. They furnished it from secondhand shops -- they are paid just enough money to survive in the manner that their neighbors survive.

"It is pretty rough," Pauline wrote home, "But kind of fun!"

The level of living is much lower than in Boston, she writes. In Boston, there is a Welfare system that protects its families a little better and they get more money than in Cincinnati. "Welfare" in the midwest means the barest necessities.

Hoping for help, Pauline wrote to John B. Powers, president of the Houghs Neck Community Council, and to Mrs. Richard Brooks, prefect of Our Lady's Sodality at Most Blessed Sacrament Church.

Maybe there are others who would like to contribute, too. Used clothing for Pauline and her VISTA project may be left at the Houghs Neck Fire Station.

At 86, Pop Asks: How Old Is Old?

Roland K. [Pop] Josselyn of 64 Mears Ave., Houghs Neck, who will soon turn 86, has a question.

How old is old?

"When a new infant has its first birthday, we all say, 'It's a year old'."

"If we wear a pair of shoes a few months, we say that they are "old", or if we have a dress or suit and the style changes, they are "old" clothes.

"So it is with us humans. If we know of someone who is a bit cranky, or pessimistic, we label him as an "old" grouch. We used to call anyone who was long in years as "old", but now they are "Senior Citizens," or elderly persons, which I think is a much better expression.

On June 29 "Pop" will be a young 86. He is hale and hearty and works about every day as a carpenter. He still climbs ladders, adds on or takes away parts of buildings, and has many customers who depend on him to "fix it".

"Does 86 mean that I am 'old'", asks Pop. "I hope that all that have lived many years will still be called "Senior Citizens" not old men and women.

The question is: "How old is old?"

$86,923 Grant To Restore N.Q. Fire Alarm

A $86,923.56 federal grant for restoration of the municipal fire alarm system in the North Quincy Improvement Project Area has been approved, announces Mayor James R. McIntyre.

At the request of the Mayor, Fire Chief Edward Barry and Superintendent of Fire Alarm John Schmock conducted a survey of fire alarm system equipment in the 157-block North Quincy area during November, 1968.

With the cooperation of Project Director George Fleming, a request for federal funds was submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development to replace obsolete fire alarm boxes, install new fire alarm boxes and replace obsolete open wire lines with the latest high strength aerial cable.

Preliminary work will start on the project in a matter of weeks, Schmock says. It is estimated that the entire project will be completed by the Quincy Fire Alarm Division within a two-year period.

"We will fit this into the regular fire alarm work on a normal schedule so that it will not interfere with other maintenance work," Schmock says. Four men and a superintendent will be involved in the project.

Houghs Neck' 'Miss Teenage July 4

A "Miss Teenage Houghs Neck Contest" for girls 13 to 17 years will again be a feature of the Houghs Neck Community Council's July 4th celebration at LaBrecque Field.

A trophy cup and long-stemmed roses will go to the winner, who will share with others in a variety of other prizes donated by Quincy merchants. All entrants are eligible for a grand prize.

Judging is scheduled for 6 p.m. at the field. Applications should be completed, if possible, by June 30 and left at Pages Pharmacy, or with Mrs. Elaine Bergstrom or Mrs. Carole Gardner, chairmen. Applications may also be made on the day of the contest.
